Britain Told Appeasing of Reds Futile

Surrendering Added
Isles Won't Prevent
Fighting, U.S. Says

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told Britain that it is out of the question to surrender any Nationalist-held coastal islands to the Chinese Communists merely in the hope of inducing the Reds to stop fighting.

Britain officially has advised the United States of its view that all the coastal islands—including the Quemoy and Matsus—belong to Red China, although the Reds should not fight to get them.

Some U. S. officials fear this notification was the beginning of British pressure to get the United States to induce Nationalist China to turn more and more of the islands over to the Reds.

U. S. policy does not, in fact, rule out the possibility some day of a settlement which would let the coastal islands go to the Communists in return for a firm Communist agreement recognizing a non-Communist status for Formosa. But any such deal now appears to be a long way in the future and officials said that, so long as the Peiping government continues to assert its intention to capture Formosa, the United States considers Quemoy, the Matsus and perhaps other offshore islands to be strategically important for Formosa's defense.

Some days ago, Premier Chou En-lai of Red China was reported in dispatches from London to have let it be known that while he would not negotiate a formal cease-fire, he would accept one if the Chinese Nationalists would get out of all the coastal islands.

U. S. officials said privately that under this proposal the free world would be "appeasing" Chou while he retained without check his announced designs on Formosa.

Differences between London and Washington over the Quemoy-Matsu island line become potentially more significant now that evacuation of the Tachen, Kailashan Airways ski-plane landings to the north has been completed. A new period in the Formosa crisis, concentrated on the diplomatic efforts for peace, is opening up and agreement between the United States and Britain—the maintenance of a co-operative if not solid front on major Formosa questions—will prove more important than in the recent past.

Bearing on the development of the new diplomatic phase were the following developments Saturday:

1. Russia disclosed a proposal

Warm and Sunny, but Skiing Good

Sunny skies were predicted for today and Monday as a weak storm which threatened sprinkles for the Long Beach area "washed out" en route south, according to the Weather Bureau. Saturday's high of 74 was expected to nudge up another notch to 75 today, with slightly cooler temperatures for Monday. Mountain areas reported excellent skiing conditions, with little or no wind, clear skies, plentiful snow and open roads to all resort sections.

L.A.C. SAYS:

Why So Much Talk?

A great uneasiness grips the world as the Russians carry on their bombastic threats against the United States. But the very nature of the threats causes one to wonder why all the talk.

Some of the threats are that Russia will now go into real war-like preparation. Another is that Russia is far ahead of us in atom and hydrogen bombs. Again, if this is true, why all the talk? Certainly Russia is not in as good shape to conquer the world as she was immediately following World War II.

At the time of the Berlin airlift it was conceded that we could not stop a march to the English Channel should Russia move. Europe was completely demobilized. This country had almost completely demobilized the greatest military force ever assembled. But Russia did not de-

March AF Base Bomber Bursts in Canada Wilds

THE PAS, Manitoba (AP) — A pressing the search for the two U. S. Air Force stratojet bomber from March AF Base, Riverside, Calif., blew up and crashed in the snowy wilderness of Northern Saskatchewan Saturday. A Saskatchewan Airways ski-plane later picked up one of two survivors who had been spotted at the scene. There were four crewmen aboard.

Tan McLeod, Saskatchewan Airways manager, said in Prince Albert that the ski-plane also had picked up a Royal Canadian Air Force rescue man who had been parachuted at the scene near Big Sandy Lake, 120 miles northeast of Prince Albert.

He said a brief radio message also indicated the plane had gone back to pick up the other known survivor and another rescue man.

The second known survivor had been located in the bush and a parachute-rescue team was with him, an RCAF spokesman at Winnipeg said. Survival equipment had been dropped by parachute and the Saskatchewan government airways plane was expected to circle the area during the night in an attempt to locate flares or lights that might lead to other crew members of the big American bomber.

An RCAF spokesman said the men were located in the vicinity of the plane's wreckage, 435 miles northwest of Winnipeg, and more than 15 planes are TORRANCE — Little Elaine Lipstein, Central America. Although Lipstein gained an unusual claim to fame Saturday, when she became probably the only 15-month-old girl in Southern California to be bitten by an ocelot.

The tot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lipstein, of 2711 W. 178th St., wandered next door to the garage of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giacinto, where a two-year-old female ocelot, named Jeopardy, was tethered.

Mrs. Lipstein said she heard her daughter scream and she dashed into the garage to find the 15-pound animal had bitten through the child's clothing and had left a fang mark on the right shoulder.

Elaine was taken to Park Emergency Hospital where an attending physician described the wound as superficial.

Both Mrs. Lipstein and Mrs. Giacinto said the animal probably bit the child when the youngster fondled it.

"Jeopardy, like most ocelots, is very friendly," said Mrs. Giacinto. "I believe she bit the child's clothing when the youngster started to draw away."

The Giacintos have another ocelot besides Jeopardy. He is Jan, 10 months old, who was in the house at the time of the incident involving little Elaine.

Academy Picks
5 Best Pictures

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Judy Garland, Grace Kelly, Jane Wyman, Audrey Hepburn and Dorothy Dandridge were nominated Saturday night for the annual "Oscar" award as "Best Actress of 1954."

The workers of movieland also named their five choices for best actor, best motion picture and "best" of everything else that goes into making screen plays.

Nominated for the "Best Actor" award, to be handed out with the other "Oscars" by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences March 30, were:

Marlon Brando, the tough dockworker of "On the Waterfront"; Bing Crosby, the has-been singer who loses himself in alcohol in "The Country Girl"; Humphrey Bogart, the tyrannical "Captain Queeg" of "The Caine Mutiny"; Dan O'Herlihy, who played the title role in "Robinson Crusoe," and James Mason, the alcoholic actor who commits suicide in "A Star is Born."

Miss Wyman played the doctor's wife in "Magnificent Obsession," the 1954 version of the best-seller of the 1930s. Miss Kelly attempted to save Crosby in "The Country Girl." Miss Garland was the unknown girl who rose to stardom in "A Star is Born," and Miss Hepburn was the chauffeur's daughter in love with her father's employer in "Sabrina."

Miss Dandridge, the first Negro nominated for a "Best Actress" award, played the cigarette girl in "Carmen Jones."

The five best movies were: "Caine Mutiny," from the best-seller and stage play about a mutiny aboard a U. S. destroyer escort vessel.

"On the Waterfront," the tough story of labor racketeering on the docks.

"Country Girl," from Clifford Odets' story of the alcoholic singer who is a has-been.

"Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," a backwoods musical.

"Three Coins in the Fountain,"

IWO JIMA A NEAR-DISASTER

'The Marines Just Didn't Quit,' L.B. Man Recalls

By DON BRACKENBURY

Ten years ago Saturday, 20,000 U.S. Marines fought their way ashore on Iwo Jima. It had been briefed as a fairly simple operation.

It turned out to be the bloodiest D-Day in U.S. military history and the Marine Corps' bitterest battle.

It took 29 days and nine hours of fighting, and cost 5,563 American dead and 17,343 wounded.

For 72 consecutive days, the 5-mile-long volcanic island had been pounded from the sea and air with virtually everything in the U. S. arsenal.

Then for three more days and nights, ships and planes hammered specific defense outposts.

During the night of Feb. 18-19, 800 ships gathered offshore.

"All the way from our staging area, the 4th Marine Division, fresh from the invasion of Saipan, had been talking about how nothing could be tougher than that."

The Marines began climbing into the amtracks, armored vehicles which can travel on water or land, about 7 a.m. As each was filled, it moved out to the assembly area.

At 8:30 a.m., they formed lines and started toward the beach.

Iwo Jima is shaped like a pork chop. Mt. Suribachi, highest point on the island, is at the thin end. The beach where the landing was made lay almost at the base of Suribachi and ran about a thousand yards along one side of Iwo.

"The island was completely hidden in a huge pall of smoke and dust. You couldn't even

Third Party Proposed by GOP Gov. Lee

McCarthy, Malone
Also Rap President
at Chicago Banquet

(Compiled from AP and UP)

Attacks on the Eisenhower administration by a Republican governor and two GOP United States senators at a Lincoln Day rally in Chicago Saturday gave a broad hint of the possibility of forming a third party of conservatives and the most serious split among Republicans since 1912.

This view was confirmed by the governor—J. Bracken Lee of Utah—who had charged earlier at an overflow banquet of the Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club that the nation has gone "farther to the left" under Eisenhower than in any two-year period in history.

In a subsequent interview, Lee said his remarks could be interpreted correctly as a last-resort proposal for the formation of a third party.

He said "Americans who believe in this constitutional American government should do everything in their power in their own parties to obtain the nomination of people" to represent such form of government.

"Failing in this in both parties," the governor continued, "I say we should immediately call a third major political convention composed of people who believe in government by law and not by men, and pick a full slate."

"American people are entitled to a choice and they certainly haven't been given that opportunity recently."

Under the same towering roof of Chicago's Morrison Hotel in the crowded Loop, the regular Illinois GOP organization held Labor Secretary James Mitchell

Bandit Trio Robs Market, Takes $1,650

The third major holdup in the Long Beach area in the past 32 hours was recorded Saturday night when three bandits robbed Market Square, 1160 South St., of $1,650.

The haul brought the total taken at gunpoint in the three crimes to $4,600.

Police said three men, one of whom covered cashier Marietta Clark, 27, and assistant manager Clarence R. Bryant, 39, with a .38 revolver, staged the robbery. They escaped in a car parked outside the store.

While one bandit threatened the cashier and assistant manager, another took the money from an open register while the third stood guard in the middle of the store.

Police said the men probably were the same three who took $2,200 in a robbery of a liquor store at 16127 Lakewood Blvd. Friday night.

The other major holdup was that of Hiram's Market in Lakewood Center, Friday afternoon. A lone robber stole $750 there at gunpoint.

That Good Old Cutchentubby, He's a Patriot

James Cutchentubby Smith, 39, of 2803 Dollar St., Lakewood, is no man to shirk his duty.

When his suspicions were excited in a Torrance bar Saturday night, he went straight to the police.

"There's a Communist in that place," he told Officer Archie Jackson, on desk duty at the Torrance police station.

"And how do you know he's a Communist?" asked Jackson.

"Because he can't constitute the recitation of the United States," Smith replied triumphantly.

Jackson ushered Smith into a cell. He said the informer was under the influence of patriotism or something.

Release 20 Balloons in Ritual Here

By BERT RESNIK

Twenty "Freedom Balloons" are en route east today on a helium-inflated aerial jaunt from Long Beach.

The balloons, similar to those used in the Crusade for Freedom to carry messages over the Iron Curtain, were released in ceremonies at City Hall, Saturday afternoon, sponsored by the Long Beach Aerie of Eagles.

It was the second annual ceremony commemorating Freedom Week. The balloons released last year traveled east as far as 800 miles.

At Saturday's ceremony, Mayor George Vermillion spoke on the appropriateness of releasing the freedom messages within the balloons on Lincoln's Birthday.

Raymond A. Bracha, Long Beach area Crusade for Freedom chairman, described the operations of Radio Free Europe, which maintains 29 radio transmitters broadcasting behind the Iron Curtain 20 hours each day.

Col. Ted Davis, a Comanche Indian, assured the audience that "my people" would assist in the event the Communists attacked the United States, a possibility which he did not foresee in the near future.

He also belittled talk of people coming from foreign planets.

"There are no people living on foreign planets, because if there were, your government would already have loaned them money," he said.

Other speakers included Elton Ellis, secretary for the Eagles, and A. L. Murphy, president for the group.

Sharon Ballough sang "America, the Beautiful" accompanied by the Wilson High School Band.

Several other civic groups participated in the event and Earl C. Ege acted as master of ceremonies. The balloons were released by local Air Force personnel and Miss Ballough.

Funeral Held in Idaho for Ex-Reporter

Laurence Greene, a former New York newspaperman, author and soldier, died Saturday after visiting friends in Long Beach, was buried quietly in Pocatello, Idaho, Saturday.

Greene was registered at a downtown Long Beach hotel when he disappeared last month. About that time, an unidentified man was found unconscious in Los Angeles and taken to a hospital, where he died of a cerebral hemorrhage. Later, the body was identified as that of Greene.

For several years, Greene was copy desk chief and later news editor of the Washington Herald, and had worked as a reporter and rewrite man to the Baltimore Sun, New York Post, New York Daily News, Los Angeles Herald-Express and Los Angeles Daily News.

He was the author of several books, including the best-selling "America Goes to Russia," a history of the U. S. in press clippings; "The Flibuster," a biography of the adventurer William Walker, who was president of Nicaragua for two years; "The Era of Wonderful Nonsense," a story of the 1920s; "Raid," which told about Harper's Ferry and John Brown's raid; and "O'Mara," a novel.

In addition, Greene was a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, Coronet, Nation's Business, Esquire and other periodicals.

Last fall, Greene went to Idaho, where he married a second time. His first wife, Kay Greene, lived in Washington, D.C. The writer is survived by his wife, Olive Leoney Greene, program manager of an Idaho radio station, and a brother, Gregory Greene, Tulsa, Okla., newsman.

I, P-T Lensman's Picture Second by Popular Vote

Sundquist's picture, titled "Our Mommy's Dead!", of two grief-stricken little boys who had just seen their father fatally shoot their mother, previously was awarded honorable mention in the spot news classification in the AP California-Nevada photo contest.

Prize-winning shots in that contest were displayed last week in the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, and delegates to conventions of both CNPA and California-Nevada Associated Press as well as the public were invited to vote for their choice.

Sen. Humphrey Calls for Less 'Secrecy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Saturday that congressional committees do too much of their work behind closed doors.

He made public a letter to the Senate Rules Committee urging it to conduct a hearing "aimed at curtailing secret executive sessions of Senate committees." The letter said the transaction of public business behind closed doors when not necessary is an obstacle to the press in its efforts to keep the public properly informed.

'THAT WAS A NIGHTMARE'

Iwo Jima, Ten Years Ago, a Near-Disaster

see it until you got about 50 feet from shore."

Bossert was in an amtrack with about 25 Marines. They were in the first line of boats and were scheduled to hit Yellow Beach 2, about in the center of the landing area.

The first 15 minutes looked as if it were going to be easy. The first wave had virtually no opposition.

"As we hit the beach, I dashed out first and turned around. The water was black with amtracks."

But after that first 15 minutes, the situation worsened rapidly. The Japanese, beaten down into their caves and bunkers by the bombardment, began to fire back. The guns, mortars and rifles started slowly, but soon reached full fury.

"The cliffs circled the beach, making a perfect amphitheater. It was like Hollywood Bowl. And the Japanese had the box seats."

From Mt. Suribachi and from the ridge down the center of the island, the Japanese troops poured an almost solid stream of steel at the tiny American beachhead.

Suribachi, later the scene of the historic flag-raising, is solid volcanic ash. Deep into its core, the Japanese had drilled caves and bunkers, had mounted steel gun emplacements. Five-inch guns looked right down American throats.

"That was a nightmare—Suribachi."

The beach wasn't sand. It was volcanic ash—a pile of millions of pieces slightly smaller than BB shot. It was like quicksand. When the amtracks hit it, they stuck.

They were supposed to unload their troops and go back for more. Other landing craft were rushed into service to haul men and guns ashore. The Japanese fire intensified.

In an hour, the Marine position was desperate. In the next four hours, Iwo Jima almost turned into a disaster. To move at all from a sheltering shell crater meant almost certain death.

By nightfall, the Americans held about 150 feet of beach.

"We didn't hold enough of that island to stick in your eye. That was the longest night of my life."

The Japanese like to fight at night. The Marines normally dig in and shoot anything that moves. To keep down Japanese activity, battleships kept lobbing huge flares over the island.

They would drop the flares behind the Japanese position so that any man standing up would be silhouetted.

The Japanese didn't counter-attack. No one can say for sure why they didn't. It was a major error. A vigorous counterattack could have wiped out almost half of all U. S. combat Marines. The 3rd Battalion of the 25th Regiment had landed 1,000 men. By nightfall only 150 were left. The entire 25th had lost 35 percent of its manpower.

"The wounded were cooking—the cooks were fighting. From our boat of 25 men, only me and a Marine sergeant lived."

With the dawn of the second day, the Marines began moving in more men and equipment. Steel mats were thrown onto the volcanic ash so that tanks could move inland.

Still moving into the teeth of terrific fire, the Marines moved forward. A few feet in one section, 25 yards in another, nowhere at all in a third.

Iwo Jima was conquered by the sheer courage of the Marines. "The Marines just didn't quit. They're the greatest fighters in the world."

Traffic Hurts 3 in Bellflower

Traffic accidents in the Bellflower area Saturday resulted in injuries to three persons, the California Highway Patrol reported.

John Whittaker, 63, and his wife, Annie, 65, of 2012 Cade St., were injured in an auto collision at Ramona St. and Lakewood Blvd., Bellflower. They received first aid for cuts and bruises at St. Helen's Hospital, and Mrs. Whittaker was transferred to Los Angeles General Hospital for treatment of internal injuries.

Herbert F. Gardner, a pediatrician of 19399 Regentview St., Bellflower, was injured when crossing the street at Foster Rd. and Faust St. He was treated at St. Helen's and transferred to General Hospital for treatment of a broken right shoulder.

Long Beach will welcome Rear Adm. Charles C. Hartman Thursday on his first visit here since he assumed command of the 11th Naval District with headquarters in San Diego.

A civic luncheon will be given in his honor at Lafayette Hotel under auspices of the City Armed Forces Commission. About 50 guests will attend, including city officials, representatives of civic organizations and ranking Navy officers in the area. B. P. O'Hare, president of the commission, will preside.

Hartman, 11th Naval Dist. Chief, Due Here Thursday

Adm. Hartman is scheduled to arrive at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station at 8 a. m., and go from there to Seal Beach Naval Ammunition and Net Depot.

At the Naval Base here he will call on Rear Adm. R. N. Smoot (USN), commander mine force, Pacific Fleet, senior officer afloat. After luncheon he will call on Capt. J. L. Melgaard (USN), base commander.

Adm. Hartman assumed duty as commandant of the district on Jan. 31.

Around the World for Almost 0! Hitchhiker on Next to Last Lap

By GEORGE ERES

You name a means of transportation and ex-GI Otto Zaff, 33, of New York City who is on the next to last lap of an around the world hitchhiking tour will probably be able to say, "I've traveled that way."

Zaff was studying for his doctorate in languages under the GI bill in Heidelberg, Germany, when he took off on his 55,000-mile trip.

He started out in September 1953 with $100 and arrived in Long Beach last week on his way to Mexico City with $19.

On his hitchhiking tour, he figures he's been through 25 countries traveling by auto, truck, camel, ex-cart, donkey, motorcycle, tractor, airplane. "Transportation has not cost me one cent," he says.

His voyage from the Far East to San Pedro was as a "non-working working passenger" aboard the Ivaran Lines Igadi which arrived at San Pedro Jan. 28.

"I was supposed to work my passage across the Pacific, but as it turned out all I did was tell the captain about my experiences and gain back a lot of weight I'd lost in places where I ate less regularly."

Zaff produced a mimeographed story of his trip, which noted that hitchhiking is not always easy, especially in Yugoslavia, Turkey, the Arab countries, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India and especially Iran.

"Cutting across Iran and Kerman desert was really a grueling task," reads his notes, "but one ride of 1,500 miles on a five-day and five-night truck with a wild opium-smoking driver got me to the Pakistan border."

In Singapore, he caught a ride in a single-engine plane bound for Djakarta, Indonesia, ran into a storm and for a time wished he'd never left home. "I became quite airsick."

Zaff's technique for getting rides is to plant himself at the side of the road, sitting on his walking stick chair, an American flag flying from his bag-gage. "I travel light," he said.

"People are usually baffled to see a foreigner sitting on his walking stick seat, flagging down cars. To overcome the language barriers—I speak only French, German and English—I prepared translations of these questions and statements: 'I am an American student hitchhiking my way around the world. Can I get a lift with you? How many miles are you going? To what town are you going?'"

Zaff presumably is saving his best stories for the magazine article he hopes to write and sell when he gets back to New York.

But, he confesses that he was never in trouble in his entire trip; never was thrown in jail as a vagrant; was the guest of Indian royalty and generally found that you meet a lot of people on a hurry up trip like this but you don't get very close to any of them.

Conscience Hurts, Bandit Surrenders

Declaring "my conscience hurt," Billy Gene Collier, 27, surrendered to police Saturday and confessed five recent holdups in this area.

Collier said he got $884 in a robbery of the People's Bank, 4140 Norse Way, Jan. 3, and a total of $413 in holdups of Lakewood Theater, 4101 E. Carson St., Oct. 9; Ralph A. Clayton, 717 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., Dec. 13; Doug's Liquor Store, 11625 Long Beach Blvd., Lynwood, Dec. 15, and Lakewood Theater, Dec. 18.

Collier said he had "blown" the money on a trip to Oregon. He had been reported to police on Jan. 1, as missing, by his sister, Elberta Harvey, 6908 Baccaro St., with whom he lived.

Hot Rod 'Inspectors'

Slug Obliging Pair

Police had a first-class investigating job on their hands today after hearing conflicting stories from four young men engaged in a brawl early Saturday in the 300 block of E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

They booked Larry B. Hunter, 18, of 219-A Corona Ave., and William D. Sanders, 20, of 2234 Blanchard Ave., Anaheim, for investigation of battery and were looking for four of their friends for a similar bawling.

Victims in the affray, Charles R. Averill, 22, of 4512 Josie St., and Donald W. Morse, 3721 E. 8th St., told police they obligingly pulled to the curb to let the two suspects view the engine of their auto when requested to do so.

Soon another car pulled up, four men jumped out, and, after a few words, proceeded to pummel them, they reported.

The two men in jail claimed the altercation was merely a continuance of a drag race and refused to name their four friends.

Morse and Averill, who suffered cuts and bruises on their heads and faces, said they had not been in a drag race.

He Ran When He ### Should Have Stayed

Paul B. Phillips, of 1136 Teahapapi Ave., will be arraigned Monday in Compton Municipal Court on charges of engaging in a speed contest and evading arrest—all because he ran when he should have stood still.

California Hwy. Patrolmen Brent Gray and Richard Lovell said they started to talk to a large group of hot rodders assembled at Santa Fe Ave. and Del Amo Blvd.

Phillips jumped in his car and tried to escape at speeds up to 100 miles an hour, but was hauled down at Coolidge St. and Long Beach Blvd. A 16-year-old youth, who also took off fast, stopped a few blocks away and was turned over to juvenile authorities.

"We goofed," two 16-year-old boys told police, Saturday, when they were arrested for stealing $147 from a barber shop at 4460 California Pl. Thursday night.

Police said they acted on a tip from an informant in arresting the boys and that they found $137 of the stolen money in the home of one of the suspects. The boys were booked for investigation of burglary by juvenile officers.

2 Armstrong

Executives on

Visit to L.B.

Two top executives of the Armstrong Rubber Co. toured the Long Beach area Saturday and had nothing but nice words to say about business conditions here.

The two men, P. L. Giblin, vice president in charge of sales, and Leo Sklarz, advertising manager, are in the area preparing for a meeting Wednesday in Los Angeles with 150 distributors.

Long Beach is the first town in Southern California where we introduced our tires and we have based our entire operation in this area on the results here," Giblin said.

"We have been in Long Beach six years with our distributor, Charles Suddeth of the Suddeth Tire Co., and his business has shown the biggest gain in Southern California. Business conditions are good here," Giblin asserted.

The Armstrong Co. has plants in Des Moines, Iowa; Natchez, Miss., and West Haven, Conn. It is the fifth largest tire manufacturing company.

The company is currently featuring the new Armstrong Miracle tubeless tire and new Armstrong Miracle S-D truck tire.

Survivors Tell Horror of Hotel Fire Killing 25

CHICAGO (AP)—Still shaking from his ordeal, a 40-year-old maintenance man Saturday described "the worst night" of his life in a skid row hotel fire that claimed at least 25 lives.

"It was ghastly. I still can't believe it happened," said Tony Dykes, night maintenance man at the Barton Hotel on West Madison Street, a few block west of Chicago's Loop.

Dykes told how he raced through narrow corridors of the five-story hotel arousing occupants in their 438 cubicle sleeping rooms. Authorities credited Dykes with helping save the lives of some 220 roomers who escaped the flames.

"I was in the hotel office about 2 a.m. when I heard a shout of 'fire,'" Dykes told newsmen. "I ran to the rear of the first floor where there was a lot of screaming."

BURNING ALL OVER

"Joe Armato, who lived in Room 137, came running out of his room. He was all in flames and screaming horribly. He was burning all over."

Dykes said the hotel's night clerk, C. W. Harvey, 48, tried to help Armato as Dykes raced back to his office to summon firemen.

"When I tried to get back again I couldn't make it because of fire and smoke," he said. "I ran up to the second floor and woke up all of the roomers there with shouts of fire, fire."

"While I was on the second or third floor the firemen arrived and ordered me out of the building. All the lights had gone out but I managed to get out somehow."

"Since I got out," Dykes added, "I see all I've done is look at burned corpses to try and identify them."

MOSTLY DERELICTS

Most of the victims were derelicts or transients. Starting at 2 a.m. the blaze caught most of the hotel's 245 roomers asleep in their tiny rooms separated by corrugated iron walls and covered with mesh chicken wire.

Some survivors jumped three stories onto concrete and were injured. One man, caught in the nude in -1 degree cold, slid two stories down a rope used to lower garbage to the alley. Others ran into the street without shoes or socks or were carried down ladders by firemen.

Hotel officials said Armato, one of the fire dead, habitually drank alcohol and may have been applying the substance while smoking.

Night clerk C. W. Harvey said he groped his way in the dark to an alarm box but got no response, then dialed the fire department by telephone.

INJURED IN LEAP

Several men on the third floor made their way to a window. Arthur Anderson, 60, leaped first and injured his back in landing. "I crawled out of the way so the others wouldn't fall on top of me," he said.

On the second floor, Robert Staff, 54, a former welterweight prize fighter, was sleeping on a cot. The smoke and fire awakened him. Staff, who was sleeping nude, groped blindly for his clothing but couldn't find any. He ran to the rear of the hallway, knocked out a window pane and slid down a garbage disposal rope. Firemen covered him with blankets.

Charles Taylor, 62, who has only one leg, was lying awake on his cot on the first floor, when he heard the crackle of flames.

GRABS CLOTHING

"I yelled 'fire,' grabbed my crutches, and my pants and shirt," he said. "I got out into the hall and put on my pants and shirt there. Other men began running past me, but nobody knocked me down. Then I went down a hallway and down the steps."

Another survivor, Arthur M. Malcolm, 60, said his hair caught fire when he ran through the third floor hallway. He finally leaped from a window.

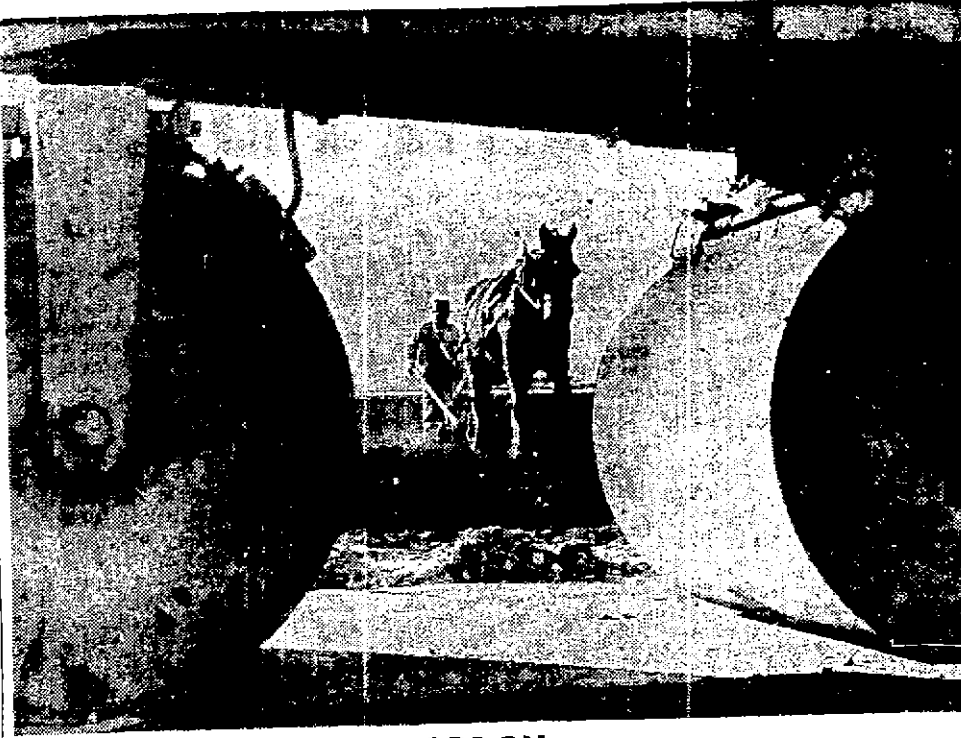

Firemen found some bodies propped against window sills where the victims were overcome when they tried to escape. One victim was found lying across a toilet where he appeared to have tried to douse his burning clothing with water.

The injured were given emergency treatment at the Salvation Army's famed Harbor Light mission, next door to the hotel. Then they were removed to the Cook County Hospital.

CORONER "HORRIFIED"

Coroner Walter McCarron said he was "horrified to learn of the cramped conditions in the hotel."

Chief Fire Marshal John H. Berkorn estimated damage at $75,000.

Cars Hit Two Toddlers; Both Seriously Injured

Two automobiles and two small toddlers met Saturday in Long Beach with sad results for the boys, police reported.

Joseph Fern, 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Fern, 3124 Conquistador Ave., was treated at Community Hospital for a fractured skull and collarbone after he was struck in the driveway of the Fern home.

The driver of the automobile which struck the tot, Robert J. Mumby, 32, of Compton, said he was backing out slowly and waving goodbye to the boy's parents when the accident occurred.

Harold Eddy Jr., 3, a visitor here from Spring Valley, suffered a brain concussion and bruises when he darted out into the street and into the side of an auto driven by Charles R. Evans, 35, salesman from Monterey Park.

The accident occurred on Barry Dr. near Millmark Ave. The

Cold Blasts Wide Area, Floridians Hug Stoves

CHICAGO (AP)—The worst cold wave of the winter hung over much of the nation Saturday, sending temperatures below freezing in the Southland, and forecasters said another big blow was on the way.

The third surge of cold air from Canada hit the western plains Friday night, pushing temperatures to as low as 28 below in North Dakota. It headed toward Dixie, but forecasters said it would moderate considerably by the time it got there.

Fires killed at least 36 persons and sent more than 300 others into the bitter cold. The worst was a hotel fire in Chicago which killed 25 and drove 250 outside in the sub-zero cold.

At Milwaukee, fires in an apartment house and a rooming house routed 50 persons. Ten children were led from a burning house in Indianapolis.

At Auburndale, Fla., three Jamaican citrus workers were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a mess hall.

SNOW IN INDIANA

Winter held a firm grip on the entire nation east of the Continental Divide. Chicagoans prepared for their third night of below-zero temperatures. A local snow storm left an accumulation of 10 inches in South Bend, Ind.

Late Saturday the freezing line extended from the North Carolina coast southwestward through central Alabama and Mississippi then northwest to the Oklahoma panhandle, across the Rockies and around

6,000 Troops to Raid Isle in Exercise

San Clemente Island will be the scene of combined Army-Navy exercises in amphibious warfare training beginning Mar. 6, it was announced Saturday.

The 6,000-man 38th Regimental Combat Team will start leaving Fort Lewis, Wash., on that date aboard Navy vessels. At San Clemente Island, a live demonstration of naval firepower and Army artillery will be staged to show troops the actual covering fire available in an assault landing.

From the island the troops will be transported to the beaches near Hunter Liggett Military Reservation where they will storm ashore and make a simulated attack on an "aggressor" guided missile launching and storage depot located underground.

The combat team will push inland over a newly built 30-mile military road, locate the dump and "destroy" it, then withdraw to the ships.

Your Heart's in Your Hands

By DR. WILLIAM A. BRAMS

NEW YORK—If you've had, or are due for—a heart attack, the chances are better than good that you're one or more of the following:

A man over 45 who works in a busy office. Hurried and over-worked. Inclined to be too ambitious. A victim of constant worry. Restless, unhappy at home. A hearty eater, 10 or more pounds too heavy, who tends to be fond of stimulants.

Heart specialists have learned to expect this type of person when they are called to see a patient with coronary thrombosis. But millions of men fit the picture, and only a small fraction of them ever develop heart trouble.

What determines which one? Why do some people get it while others who lead a similar life have hearts that are sound?

EXACTLY HOW does it happen? And how can you keep yourself well, once the attack is over?

First, let's recall your attack. Though yours may have differed in details, the story commonly runs like this: You are 50 years old and work in an office. For weeks you'd been feeling tired, and had noticed a passing sensation of pressure inside your chest. In the last few days it had happened oftener, but you drove yourself on.

That day everything seemed to go wrong. After a hectic morning, you stopped for lunch. You ate your usual big meal, gulped with the usual haste, and talked the usual shop talk.

YOU WENT BACK upstairs in a hurry, for hurry is one of your habits. Then, as you reached the top, you were suddenly overwhelmed by a crushing pain in your chest, as if you were caught in a vise which was tightly squeezing your ribs.

You had to fight for breath. You felt so nauseated that you went to the bathroom to vomit. Sweat rolled down your face and great weakness came over you. By now you were sore afraid and sure you were going to die.

With your last strength, you staggered out of the washroom and slumped on the floor outside. Someone summoned a doctor.

You remember he told you not to move and injected some stuff in your arm. It was morphine. Soon it began to take effect: the pain eased and you grew drowsy. An hour and a half later you awoke in a bed at the hospital.

NOW YOU ARE more comfortable in body for the agonizing pain is gone, but you're still scared. Through your mind race a hundred questions, and the one you want answered first is, "Just what happened to me?"

Your doctor tells you the answer. He says you have just had a heart attack. Coronary thrombosis.

As you lie there feeling depressed, you ask yourself still another question: Why did it happen to ME?

That is a hard one to answer. Perhaps the best we can do is to look again at the victims to learn more about who they are.

The usual victims are men. We do not know whether it is the kind of life that men lead, or whether there's something in sex itself that makes the difference. The fact remains: for every woman who dies of coronary thrombosis, four men are taken.

They are usually "older" people, from 45 to 70. This is because, in part, we survive the many infections with the help of the wonder drugs, only to be attacked later in life by diseases of wear and tear.

We do not know enough about causes to blame any occupations, though people in high-powered jobs do seem especially prone. It is often said, for instance, that a factor which helps to cause heart trouble is hard physical work. In fact, farm laborers are not particularly subject to coronary thrombosis, while bartenders, whose work is lighter, seem to have more than their share.

Especially puzzling is the fact that Negroes, who have plenty of hard work and worry, are not as subject to it as whites.

ONE FACT seems to be clear: it is much more likely to strike if you tend to be overweight. Extra flesh is a curse, putting unrelieved strain on your body, which makes it prey to disease.

Does coronary thrombosis run in families? Again, we have no precise information, but we do notice, that, time after time, our patients tell us of others in their families with the same trouble. Whether this is due to hereditary influences or to conditions of environment or to other factors is impossible to say.

At any rate, now that you've had your own attack, you'll be glad to know that the outlook is good. Of every 10 persons who have one, eight or nine get better and live to a ripe old age.

We will see how they usually do it in the four installments to follow.

Where Do Tax Revenues Go? Answers Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—A startling picture of the federal government soon will be displayed to the taxpayers by the Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization.

The commission, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, will send its first report to Congress on Monday. It will deal with the far-flung civil service. This and other reports to come will reflect the most comprehensive study ever made of where the tax money goes.

There will be about 20 reports by the time the 12-member bipartisan group, set up by Congress in 1933, closes shop, May 31.

Some will highlight the most controversial issues of the day such as public versus private power, and government spending and lending policies.

Unlike the 1947 Hoover Commission, which concerned itself only with the internal government structure, the present commission has authority to dig deeper and question whether the government has any business in some fields at all.

Advocates of the study believe it could save millions of dollars if some functions were abolished and efficiency and economy were imposed on others.

The 1947 commission, even within its limited sphere, submitted recommendations estimated to save $3,000,000,000 if completely adopted. About 75 per cent were accepted.

In search of ways to save money and make the government more efficient, the commission sent task forces digging into virtually every governmental activity.

Book Bonfire Called Off by Scout Chiefs

PORTSMOUTH, R. I. (AP)—A scheduled Lincoln Day burning of horror and lewd comic books by Portsmouth Boy Scouts was called off "to avoid misunderstanding."

J. Harold Williams, Scout executive of Narragansett Council, said the bonfire was canceled "because we want to avoid any misunderstanding of the event. It has already been misinterpreted in the New York press."

"It was one of those things that could easily be misunderstood but all it amounted to was the collecting of obscene comics voluntarily," Williams said.

"No one was attempting to pick out or censor anything," he added.

Experts Can Only Guess About Russ

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

A momentous week of shakeups in the Soviet government demonstrated that two Kremlin ghosts have refused to stay buried. The wraiths probably have many a Soviet government and party functionary quaking in his boots.

The ghosts are those of Joseph Stalin and Andrei Zhdanov, who might have been Stalin's successor. Zhdanov died in 1948 and up-and-coming Georgi Malenkov methodically proceeded to put Zhdanov men into the shadows.

GANG COMING BACK

Now, as the Soviet regime veers once again back to Stalinism, the future begins to look dark for those who prospered under Malenkov's premiership. The Zhdanov gang is coming back, apparently with the blessings of Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev.

But something new has been added to the picture. The career men of the Soviet army seem to have risen in prestige and influence, if not in actual power, and will have to be reckoned with in future upheavals.

In assessing the happenings of a historic week in which the Supreme Soviet, a rubber-stamp parliament, automatically approved decisions reached weeks before, the suspicion arises that Western observers are placing too much emphasis on the hope of Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the new defense minister, and the career generals. The struggle at the top still is a political struggle and a party one, and does not seem to have been resolved.

ANOTHER PURGE?

Is another bloody purge in the offing? Do the events of last week in the great Kremlin palace augur good or evil for world peace? Westerners can only make educated guesses from the facts at hand.

Of some things they can be fairly sure:

First, the show is far from over. The events of the week constituted just one more act on which the curtain has fallen.

Second, last week's convulsion differed from the previous post-Stalin upheaval. Malenkov lost the premiership, but this time, losing a top job did not mean a bullet in the back of the neck, as it had for the internal affairs minister, Police Boss L. P. Beria, a year before.

POLITICAL GENERAL

Third, a political general, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, is the new premier, and a career general, Marshal Zhukov, is the defense minister, nominally head of all Soviet armed forces.

But Bulganin, never an army man in fact, did not doff his marshal's uniform, demonstrating clearly that he represented the authority of the ruling Communist party presidium in the army.

Fourth, Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, emerged as the leading figure in the hierarchy, where the "collective leadership" which succeeded Stalin was beginning to fall apart. One man was emerging above the others, as it had to be in a dictatorship.

Fifth, along with the shakeups in the various ministries, the Soviet Supreme Court has been revised, apparently to get rid of those justices connected with the mysterious "Leningrad case," on the basis of which a former security minister and others were executed a short time ago. These would be the justices connected with a purge of the followers of Zhdanov—thus the elimination of Malenkov's people from the court. This could mean a new purge in the offing.

MOLOTOV REMAINS

Sixth, no matter what was happening, Stolid V. M. Molotov retained his position as foreign minister, representing the continuation of Soviet external policy through the long series of convulsions. How powerful might Molotov be? It seemed he was not so powerful as to place himself in immediate danger, yet powerful enough never to be wholly ruled out of the picture.

Foreign policy conducted by Molotov has shifted according to the Kremlin winds and now, tossing peaceful and alluring words aside, has become openly bellicose to the point of being dangerous to peace.

It is this fact which makes it important for the West to consider the why and wherefore of the appointment of Zhukov, Russia's top soldier, to direct the Soviet armed forces. Is he a man of power or a pawn?

The appointment seemed logical. It pointed up the new emphasis on the military as Moscow's excuse for rating guns ahead of butter once again. It underscored Soviet pressure on Germany, because of all Russians, the Germans most fear the marshal who inflicted crushing blows upon them with relentless fury. It spotlights, also, the Soviet threat to mobilize all the European Communist nations into a single Soviet-commanded alliance, a bristling coalition facing West.

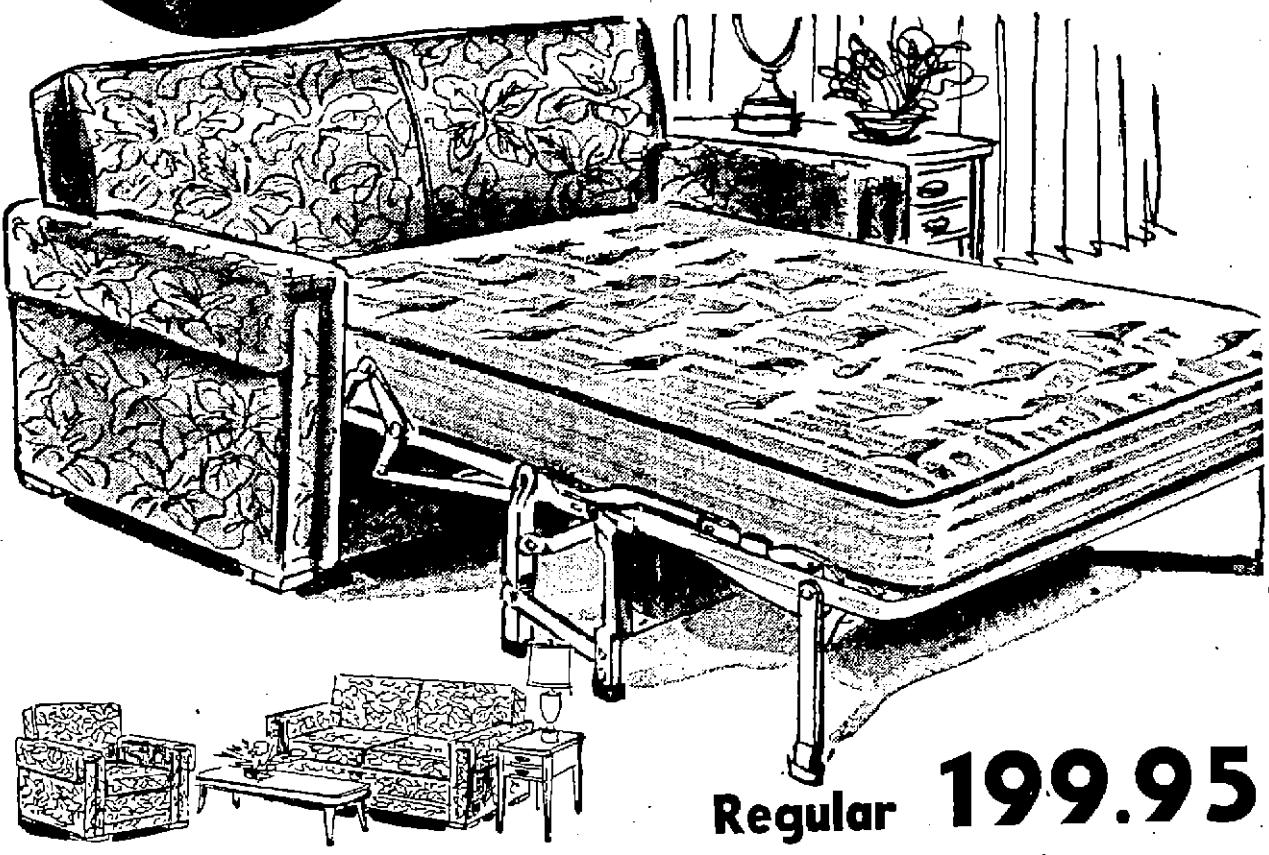

Thus, as one result of the shakeup, the West can expect increased pressure on Germany and western Europe to defeat the purposes of the North Atlantic Alliance. But there probably was much more than that behind the shakeup, because internal affairs come first in the U.S.S.R.

Urge Sharing of Peaceful Atomics Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate-House subcommittee recommended Saturday that the United States begin broad-scale sharing of peacetime atomic know-how and materials without waiting for the United Nations to set up its "atoms" for-peace-agency.

A five-member, all-Republican subcommittee of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee said the sharing should be accomplished through direct, bilateral agreements with as many friendly countries as possible.

Fitting action to the subcommittee's words, the Atomic Energy Commission announced it had agreed to sell 10 tons of heavy water to India for use in a nuclear research reactor to be built near Bombay. Heavy water, a source of deuterium for H-bombs, is also one of the most efficient materials for moderating atomic reactions under controlled conditions in a reactor.

Helping India meet its need for heavy water was one of the five-member atomic subcommittee. It also recommended prompt U.S. actions to aid peacetime development of atomic energy in Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Formosa, Thailand, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey, Greece, and Spain. These, with India, were the countries it visited.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-O), said it learned in India that Russia's loudly advertised offers to help Asian nations develop peacetime uses of atomic energy were hollow promises.

It reported that the response "everywhere" to the announced intention of the U.S. to aid foreign atomic development is "far more overwhelming than we had heretofore appreciated."

Douglas Granted Visa for Summer Visit to Russia

NEW YORK (AP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, once suspected by the Russians of "spying" on them because he climbed a mountain in the Middle East, has been granted a visa to visit Russia next summer, it was reported Saturday.

The report, according to a New York attorney just back from Russia, came from no less an authority than the new Soviet No. 1 man, Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The attorney, Marshall MacDuffie, returned Friday night from a visit to Moscow during which he interviewed Khrushchev Feb. 1, shortly before the shakeup in which Premier Georgi Malenkov resigned and Khrushchev emerged as the strong man in the Soviet regime.

Atom-Blast 'Respect, Not Fear,' Is Aim

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nine thousand Army troops will go into action during the forthcoming atomic tests on the Nevada proving grounds with the purpose of learning to "respect but not to fear" an A-blast.

Brig. Gen. Fred W. Sladen Jr., commanding general of Camp Desert Rock, north of Las Vegas, said Saturday that great care will be taken to shield troops from dangerous blast pressure and radiation.

Troops will be protected by trenches from the initial effects of the explosion. Following the blast, monitoring teams with radiological measuring devices will precede the troops to establish safe limits for the advance of all personnel, Sladen said.

"Mental preparedness is half the battle in learning to respect but not to fear the effects of an atomic explosion," the general said.

Preliminary orientations will be conducted to instruct personnel as to safety precautions, the manner in which a test is conducted and the nature of an atomic explosion.

Actual time of the first test is expected to be announced this afternoon in a briefing at the joint office of test information headquarters in Las Vegas.

The initial detonation most likely will be before dawn Wednesday, although it could come earlier or later in the week depending upon weather conditions and preparations in the test area.

Only military, AEC and Public Health Service personnel — plus four members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee will be permitted to enter the proving grounds for the first blast.

Restrictions will be relaxed in mid-April, when the effect of atomic violence on a typical residential community will be tested. Civil Defense officials, local government leaders and newsmen then will be allowed to view the detonation from comparatively close range.

Several typical residences have been constructed on the proving ground for the April climax of the series, code-named "Operation Tenpot."

"They will be under the bomb when it goes off, along with test arrays of utility installations, canned food, automobiles, shelters, electric equipment and liquid, natural, and manufactured-gas containers.

The Atomic Energy Commission, for the 1955 series, has stepped up its educational program in the area, hoping to convince people that they will not be harmed by the flash, the shock wave or the radioactive fallout.

McCoy Will Direct Journalism at USC

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John H. McCoy has been named director of the School of Journalism of the University of Southern California, the university announced Saturday.

McCoy, a graduate and former teacher at USC, has been a college instructor for 22 years. He has worked on newspapers in nearby Santa Ana and Orange, was director of Santa Ana College in 1942-47 and assistant to the president of Occidental College in 1947-49.

Wife-Secretary of Aldous Huxley Dies at L.A. Home

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Aldous Huxley, 55, wife and war refugee from Belgium, died Saturday at their home in England in 1919. In addition to her husband, she had three children. Mrs. Huxley was a noted novelist and essayist. Mrs. Huxley read aloud to him each day because of his failing eyesight.

U.S. Generals Abroad Back Ike Reserve Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Alvin K. C. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, said Saturday the United States military reserve system "is one of the weakest in the entire North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

He said it would take several months to get U. S. National Guard and reserve units into action after an attack—an unacceptable situation in a jet-atomic age.

Gruenther's statement was issued by the Defense Department along with two others by over-seas commanders supporting President Eisenhower's proposal to build a 5,000,000-man U. S. reserve.

Gen. John E. Hull, Far East commander, said an inadequate

Dr. Urey Raps A-Spies' Conviction

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel prize-winning scientist, said Saturday night that Morton Sobell, convicted of espionage, was "not properly tried," and that the Rosenbergs never were proven guilty.

Urey, a pioneer in development of the atom bomb, also criticized the government's use of "professional" informers and cited the statements of Harvey Matusow that he gave false testimony as an ex-Communist.

Urey spoke at a testimonial dinner in his honor held under the auspices of the Chicago Sobell Committee.

Sobell is serving a 30-year term in Alcatraz federal prison. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were executed for their part in the same stolen atomic secrets conspiracy.

Urey said he is convinced that Sobell and the Rosenbergs were not proved guilty, and that the alleged conspiracy could have taken place without their being involved.

He said Sobell was convicted on the word of an admitted perjurer who hoped for leniency.

"If proper trials cannot be secured for unpopular people—and it is evident from the publicity of this trial that all those charged with crimes were unpopular—then it will become impossible to secure justice for other somewhat less unpopular people and so on until no justice is possible at all," Urey said.

California Crude Oil Production Increased

LOS ANGELES —The American Petroleum Institute reported Saturday California's crude oil production during December increased 1,456 barrels to a total of 27,744,585 barrels.

The institute also said 141 new oil wells, four gas wells and three service wells were completed during December.

Ike Appoints Negro to D.C. Utilities Post

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—President Eisenhower Saturday named a Negro attorney who successfully defended one of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's "Red" targets to an important post in the District of Columbia.

The appointment of George E. C. Hayes to the District Public Utilities Commission was announced at the President's plantation retreat where Mr. Eisenhower had nothing but the sniffles to show for a quail hunt.

The President contracted a slight cold Friday when he set out from Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey's 600-acre estate only to run into wintry blasts that tumbled the temperature to 22 degrees before dawn Saturday. Because of his cold and the continuing raw weather, Eisenhower decided to stay indoors.

In addition to announcing the appointment of Hayes, the temporary White House also disclosed that Eisenhower has sent a "well done" message to American forces that covered the Chinese Nationalist withdrawal from the Tachen Islands.

"Yours was a difficult and delicate assignment," Eisenhower said in his message to Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations; Adm. Felix B. Stumpf, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet; Adm. Alfred M. Pride, commander of the Seventh Fleet and "the officers and men who have assisted in, and protected, the evacuation of the Tachen Islands."

"On behalf of a grateful American people, well done."

Hayes, 60-year-old general counsel of Howard University in the capital, represented Annie Lee Moss in a 11-months fight for clearance after Sen. McCarthy hurled Communist charges against her.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said the presidential party plans to leave the Humphrey plantation at 2 p.m., today and will take off from Spence airfield near Moultrie at 3 p.m.

Arrival at Washington Airport was expected to be shortly after 5 p.m.

Nixon Gets Guatemala's View on Aid

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrived Saturday prepared to hear how the United States can help the anti-Communist government of President Carlos Castillo Armas.

The visit, part of Nixon's four-week tour of Central America and the Caribbean, coincided with reports that the United States is considering a new $9,000,000 aid program for Guatemala.

Castillo Armas is known to face serious problems in getting his economic development plan started. His experts have estimated they will need $270,000,000 for the job, but so far they have offered no practical plans for spending the money.

United States officials attribute most of Castillo Armas' difficulties to the fact that he took over a virtually bankrupt treasury when he led the movement that threw off the Communist-dominated government of President Arbenz eight months ago.

U. S. officials regard Nixon's visit to Guatemala as one of the most important stops of his tour.

Air Force Academy's Water Said Ample

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—Congressional delegates at an Air Force Assn. meeting here were assured Saturday there is adequate water available for both the Air Academy and Colorado Springs.

Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, academy superintendent, said there is "absolutely no foundation" to reports the Air Force installation would not have a sufficient water supply.

WHAT CONGRESS DID

WASHINGTON (AP)—The status of major legislation at the end of the week:

FOREIGN AFFAIRS—The President has signed a resolution underscoring his authority to commit U.S. forces to the defense of the Formosa area. The Senate has ratified a mutual assistance treaty with Formosa.

MILITARY—The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to extend the draft law four years.

MILITARY—The House and Senate passed and sent to the White House a bill continuing eligibility of veterans for GI educational benefits, if they were in service before Feb. 1.

RECIPROCAL TRADE—The House Ways and Means Committee has approved a bill to continue the reciprocal trade agreements program three additional years. The House votes on the bill this week. There has been no Senate action.

SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION—Legislation to provide federal aid for school construction is pending in the Senate and House Education and Labor Committees.

STATEHOOD—The House Interior Committee is considering bills to admit Alaska and Hawaii to statehood.

PAY RAISES—The House votes this week on a bill to raise the pay of congressmen and federal judges. The House Civil Service Committee has started hearings on bills to raise the pay of postal and civil service employees. The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a bill raising congressional and judicial salaries 50 per cent.

POSTAL RATES—Legislation to increase postal rates, including a one-cent boost in letter-mailing costs, is pending in the House Post Office Committee.

TAXES—The House Ways and Means Committee is expected soon to recommend continuance of wartime excise and corporate tax rates due to expire in April.

WAGES—A bill to boost the minimum wage from 75 cents to 90 cents or more is pending in the House Labor Committee.

FARM PRICES—The House Agriculture Committee has started hearings on a bill to restore farm price props to 90 per cent of parity.

Government Aids in Pushing Sale of Canned Beans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department is coordinating an unusual type of promotional campaign designed to encourage the American housewife to buy up a surplus of canned corn and snap beans.

Officials in the Agricultural Marketing Service have compiled a mass of recipes which make the two vegetables sound almost exotic.

The drive begins officially March 17. For the following two weeks, canned corn and snap beans probably will be on prominent display in most of the grocery stores in the country.

The drive is necessary, the marketing service said, because a record-breaking supply of the canned vegetables has accumulated on warehouse shelves.

The surplus is the result of a large carryover from last year's high-level production.

GOP Convention Site Chosen This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee will meet here Wednesday and Thursday to choose a date and site for the 1956 GOP presidential nominating convention.

The Democrats have tentatively decided to open their convention in Chicago Aug. 13, about a month later than usual, to short-cut the election campaign. The Republicans will choose from among Chicago, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

$17,000,000 'Fun Fair' Slated to Open July 15

With opening date set for July 15, construction is going full speed ahead on Disneyland, multi-million dollar wonder of the entertainment world at Anaheim in Orange County. The total investment is expected to approximate $17 million.

Grading and bulldozing are completed. Excavation of the various waterways in Disneyland is finished. Construction has started on several buildings, with the exterior of one major building now complete, excepting the facades.

At the Burbank studio of Walt Disney, artisans are busy constructing many of the exhibits, wagons, railroad trains and coaches, Fantasyland rides, etc. Some of these projects are already completed and certain equipment, including stage-coaches, Conestoga wagons, horse-drawn streetcars, soon will be moved to Disneyland.

Selected primarily for climate and accessibility, 160 acres were bought in May, 1954. Of the total site, 60 acres will be used for the recreation area proper, the remainder for parking. Parking lot capacity will be 10,000 cars.

Described as a "fabulous playground—something of a fair, a city from the Arabian Nights, a metropolis of the future, a showplace of magic and living facts, but above all a place for people to find happiness and knowledge," is a 20-year dream of Walt Disney.

"The visitor to Disneyland," says Walt, "will enter a world of yesterday, tomorrow and fantasy."

The 60-acre park area will be enclosed by an embankment around which will chuff a scale old-fashioned steam locomotive weighing 15 tons and pulling six coaches accommodating 300 passengers.

The railroad station will also be the entrance to Disneyland. It will face Civic Center, Main St. and the Plaza—the crossroads of Disneyland leading to the four major entertainment realms of Tomorrowland.

DISNEY'S WORLD TAKES SHAPE

2,616 Names on Petition to Recall Butler

COMPTON — Petitions to recall City Attorney James G. Butler were on file Saturday with City Clerk Mrs. Clyde Harlan.

Of the 2,616 names submitted, approximately 2,150 must be qualified before a special election can be called by the City Council.

Mrs. Harlan based this figure on an estimate that at present there are 18,000 registered voters in Compton.

The move to recall Butler was initiated by all five members of the Compton City Council, including Mayor Frank Bussing.

At present Compton has two city attorneys as the city council has retained another city attorney to function in Butler's place.

The council charged, "Butler's advice was self-serving, inconsistent and often in direct divergence with the opinions of accepted authorities on municipal law."

Councilman Delwin M. Clawson, general chairman of the Committee to Recall Butler, expressed confidence that the recall will pass by an overwhelming vote.

Selected primarily for climate and accessibility, 160 acres were bought in May, 1954. Of the total site, 60 acres will be used for the recreation area proper, the remainder for parking. Parking lot capacity will be 10,000 cars.

Described as a "fabulous playground—something of a fair, a city from the Arabian Nights, a metropolis of the future, a showplace of magic and living facts, but above all a place for people to find happiness and knowledge," is a 20-year dream of Walt Disney.

"The visitor to Disneyland," says Walt, "will enter a world of yesterday, tomorrow and fantasy."

The 60-acre park area will be enclosed by an embankment around which will chuff a scale old-fashioned steam locomotive weighing 15 tons and pulling six coaches accommodating 300 passengers.

The railroad station will also be the entrance to Disneyland. It will face Civic Center, Main St. and the Plaza—the crossroads of Disneyland leading to the four major entertainment realms of Tomorrowland.

Three Long Beach Youths Named to U. S. Academies

Three Long Beach youths Saturday were announced as appointments by Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) to the U. S. Military and Naval Academies.

In addition Hosmer named 13 alternates to the West Point, Annapolis and Naval Academies.

Alternates to the West Point, Annapolis and Naval Academies.

Appointed to West Point by Hosmer were Edward Joseph Plozi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Plozi, 1995 St. Louis Ave. Young John L. Wood Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Wood, 3212 Oregon Ave. Poly High School; Jon Tanigawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Tanigawa, 999 Newburgh, N. Y.

Named midshipmen at Annapolis were Richard L. Engel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy P. Engel, 4532 Coldbrook Ave., Lakewood, Wilson High School; Bernard C. Elders, 4822 Gondar Ave. Both attended Wilson High School. Elders also attended Long Beach City College.

Engel said Saturday he was assured of appointment to the Air Academy by Sen. William Knowland and had not yet decided which appointment interested him the most.

West Point alternates include Joseph C. Gill Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Gill, 2419 Golden Ave., St. Anthony's High School; Kenneth Hiroshi Hisamoto, son of Mrs. Hikoichi Hisamoto, 2207 W. Williams Ave., Poly High School; Richard S. Stapleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Stapleton, 5417 Blackthorne Ave., Wilson High School; Gary Lee Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cooper, 6841 Lamarimba Ave., Poly High School; James T. Houston II, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Houston.

Admiral Will Direct Red Cross Drive Unit

Rear-Admiral Roland Nesbit Smoot, who commands the Mine Force of the Pacific Fleet, has been appointed by Virgil B. Gillespie, chairman of fund raising for the 1955 Long Beach Red Cross campaign, to the chairmanship of the military division.

Division quota is $13,150.

A graduate of Annapolis in 1923, the admiral has had duties that include service in destroyers, submarines, battleships and post graduate duty ashore in engineering and instruction at the U. S. Naval Academy.

He participated in amphibious landings at Guadalcanal and Leyte Gulf, was a member of the combat team for the night battle at Surigao, was in Lingayen, Iwo Jima, Guadalcanal and finally with Admiral Halsey for the landings and occupation in Japan.

During the war he was also in command of the Anti-Submarine Warfare School in San Diego, and following the war he has been with the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington, D. C., and in command of a new cruiser which he placed in commission.

He holds the Navy Cross with gold star, the Legion of Merit with gold star, the Bronze Star with two gold stars and the Navy Unit Commendation, in addition to the usual combat ribbons. He is noted as a specialist in personnel management.

I have logged it for the benefit of others who might like a drive like that. And I'd welcome suggestions of other nearby routes that give the motorist a taste of the countryside. It's good for the soul to get away from the ever widening city area now and then.

WHEN THE time came in municipal court the other day to turn the procedure over to the district attorney, Judge Charley Smith said to Deputy D. A. Dick Maher:

"O. K. Lucky, take over."

That wouldn't have been so mystifying to others in the courtroom if they'd known about a little gin rummy game in which Judge Smith and the prosecutor had engaged after the bar association meeting the evening before.

Trade Show Set by Hairdressers

Officials of the Long Beach Hairdressers Guild announced Saturday that their 12th annual beauty and trade show will be held at the Wilton Hotel Sunday and Monday, Feb. 27 and 28.

The event will be featured by hair styling contests for both men and women operators with seven trophies, plus a $200 cash award, at stake.

Five special periods also will be set aside for demonstrations by exhibitors and a number of the foremost hair stylists have been invited to appear with their models as guest artists.

Members of the Long Beach Guild serve as official hairdressers for contestants in the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant.

Completed as far north as Springfield of Clark. The city currently is resurfacing a link between Clark and Lakewood Blvd. Completion of this project awaits a bridge over Palo Verde Channel for which the county has advertised for bids.

The Bellflower-to-Spring section of the project will be completed by approximately $85,000 and capacity is 27,000 cars daily.

Two sections of Willow St. were joined recently at Bellflower. The Bellflower-to-San Vicente Ave. section cost approximately $125,000 and the project extending westward from Bellflower to Clark Ave. was completed for approximately $55,000, including a culvert over the drainage ditch on the west side.

Eden to Far East

LONDON (U.P.)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will leave Feb. 19 for the Southeast Asia defense conference in Bangkok, Thailand, and a diplomatic tour of far eastern and middle eastern capitals, it was announced Saturday.

Net Depot Backs Heart Campaign

Military and civilian employees of the Naval ammunition and net depot at Seal Beach contributed $840 to the Heart Fund campaign, it was disclosed by W. G. Wilson, fund chairman, at a luncheon Saturday of volunteer workers in the Victor Hugo restaurant.

Capt. Thomas J. Flynn, commanding officer, turned over the check for the funds which had been collected by a committee headed by Dorothy Siegal and C. B. Searle.

Social Security Manager Speaks

James G. Bertherton, district manager for the Social Security Administration, will address the Masonic Club at its luncheon meeting Thursday noon in the Wilton Hotel.

George Toll, head of the California Employment Service office here, will be chairman, and Dr. Reynolds B. Thompson will preside.

San Pedro Lad Wins Essay Contest Prize

He received the award from Supervisor Burton W. Chace at the shipyard's dance in Municipal Auditorium. The dance celebrated the yard's 12 anniversary Friday.

Cash prizes of $50 went to the winners and $25 to the second place essays at each of eight participating high schools.

These were, with the first prize listed first: Goss and Patricia Ann Aubrey, San Pedro High; Barbara Smith and Lawrence Well, Wilson High; Diane Horne and Judith Atwood, St. Anthony's Girls; Ronald Rodarte and William Mageean, St. Anthony's Boys; Virginia Clark and David Baker, Jordan High; Jon Cooper and Jerry Amburn, Polytechnic; Earline Sloan and Rosaria DiLeva, Mary Star of the Sea, San Pedro; and Frank Ingan and Steve Banks, Banning High, Wilmington.

Subject of all essays was "Geographical and Historical Aspects of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard."

Goss traced the development of the vast shipyard from the one-time mud flats of Terminal Island and called it a "modern miracle."

Thousands of civilian and military personnel from the Naval Shipyard and their guests attended the dance. Virginia Thompson, Miss Naval Shipyard, presided as dance queen.

The local shipyard was activated in February, 1943, and reached a wartime peak of 16,000 employees. It currently has about 6,700 civilian employees.

The yard originally cost $90,000,000, but its present replacement value is estimated at $150,000,000. The annual payroll at present is approximately $30,000,000.

USS St. Paul Celebrates on Thursday

The mayor of St. Paul, Minn., will be honored guest here Thursday as the heavy cruiser St. Paul celebrates the 10th anniversary of its commissioning.

Old timers among the crew will relieve the ship's officers for the day, and the celebration will conclude with a ship's ball at Lakewood Country Club.

Chief Petty Officer James Gardner, veteran of 28 years Navy service, eight of them aboard the St. Paul, will relieve Capt. Claude V. Ricketts as commanding officer of the cruiser in a ceremony aboard at 10 a. m.

Mayor Joseph Dillon of St. Paul will attend all shipboard ceremonies and also the evening dance. Mayor George Vermillion of Long Beach has been invited to participate.

Families of crew members will be guests at a luncheon, at which Mayor Dillon will cut birthday cake in the shape of a cruiser.

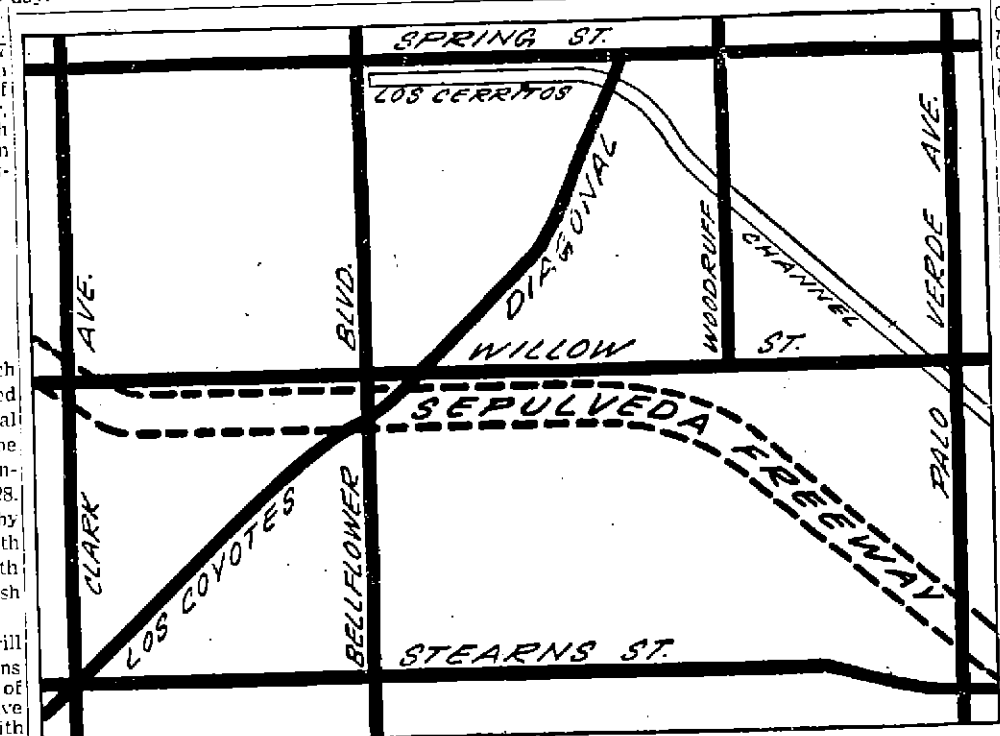

From 1 until 4 p. m., the public will be taken on guided tours of the St. Paul, which will be in Berths 12 and 13, alongside Pier B, in the Port of Long Beach.

The dance at 8 p. m. is for crew members and their invited guests.

The St. Paul has been commissioned longer than any other cruiser now in active service with the U. S. Navy. She was built by Bethlehem Steel Co. at its Quincy, Mass., yards.

She was launched in September, 1944, and christened by the wife of the then mayor of St. Paul. The cruiser was commissioned Feb. 17, 1945, and has been based in Long Beach ever since.

The St. Paul is the flagship of Rear Adm. David M. Tyree, commander of Cruiser Division 1. During her latest tour of duty in the Far East, last fall, she served as flagship for Rear Adm. Alfred M. Pride, commander of the U. S. 7th Fleet.

WHERE HIGHWAYS HUDDLE
With a total capacity of 82,000 cars a day, Bellflower, Willow and Los Coyotes Diagonal roadways join in a new traffic hub in Los Altos area. Projected Sepulveda Freeway will boost total capacity to 232,000 cars.

Roadways to Carry 82,000 Cars Form Traffic Hub in Los Altos

Highways with a rated capacity of 82,000 cars a day have formed a new traffic hub in the Los Altos area.

Within a decade completion of the Sepulveda Freeway is expected to bring total capacity of thoroughfares radiating from the intersection to 232,000 cars.

These figures, which are approximate, were reported Saturday by Robert Dier, Long Beach municipal traffic engineer.

Sepulveda Freeway will overpass the traffic hub, but its ramps will tie in with the intersection of three heavily traveled roadways—Bellflower Blvd., Willow St. and Los Coyotes Diagonal.

The Diagonal was recently completed as far north as Springfield of Clark. The city currently is resurfacing a link between Clark and Lakewood Blvd. Completion of this project awaits a bridge over Palo Verde Channel for which the county has advertised for bids.

The Bellflower, Diagonal and Willow traffic loads will be increased during the next several months by construction to widen Spring St. between Lakewood and the San Gabriel Flood Control, a three-mile project budgeted for more than $300,000.

The Bellflower to Palo Verde section will be completed first. The section between Bellflower and Lakewood must await building of a new bridge over Heather Ditch, east of Clark Ave., a project which is on the county's list.

"We hope to have Spring St. improved from Lakewood to the river by next fall," Jess Gilker, son, city engineer, said Saturday.

Case of the Sneaky Artichoke Pondered

By WAYNE HARBERT

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Should workmen's compensation be denied for a worker hurt or killed in a fight he started? Should railroads be required to wire all cabooses with electricity? And should highway tunnels be equipped with aerials so car radio programs won't be blacked out?

Shouldn't an artichoke with insect damage that can't be seen without parting its petals be considered a good artichoke?

Those are some of the odd deliberations legislators will be making when they come back to the Capitol Feb. 28 for their bill-passing session lasting into June. Yes, if they pass all the little bills and the big ones too (which they won't, of course).

Using a toy pistol in a holdup would be just as bad as using a real one.

You couldn't buy, sell or trade an automobile on Sunday and foreign rabbit carcasses would be denied entry into the state.

You could buy soda pop but not tobacco in a barber shop.

You could be fined $500 for throwing a rock at a boat and sent to jail for 10 years for blacking out a railroad signal.

Pasteurized cheese spreads could be packaged in cubes or rectangles and you could come home from across the state line with as much as a gallon of tax-free whiskey.

County supervisors or city councilmen would have to keep the known graves of all former soldiers, sailors and Marines free from weeds and rubbish.

Vehicle license plates would have "The Golden State" spelled out on them and parking meters would be banned "except in the business districts."

All vehicles first registered after Dec. 31, 1960 would have to be equipped with a device—not yet invented—to take smog out of exhaust discharges.

And minors couldn't be tattooed. State employees would get an extra day's vacation for each hot-season month worked in a desert and any dealer turning back the speedometer of a used car would have to report it to the state.

If all the 4,742 bills were to be passed you'd have laws providing that:

Diseased bees can be kept in the state for experiments on curing them.

Compressed air used in underwater breathing devices can be obtained only from authorized sources.

Calif., not Cal., is the state's official abbreviation.

Swimming pools must be fenced against children under 10.

Anyone abandoned by a parent before he is 18 shall not be required to support the parent later.

And—the Legislature may be photographed or televised "except where such action would affect its dignity."

Groups Invited to Dental Week

"Fewer Sweets Mean Better Teeth" is the slogan of Dental Health Week which will be observed March 7-11 by the Council on Dental Health of the Third District of the Los Angeles County Dental Society.

Dr. John O. Whitaker of San Pedro, chairman of the annual educational event, Saturday invited community groups, youth organizations, schools and civic bodies to participate in Dental Health Week activities.

Speakers, films and literature are available on request, according to Dr. Virgil Ridgeway, local chairman.

Facts you should know about the new FLUIDLESS CONTACT LENSES

TRY THIS MINUTE QUIZ!

- Q. What are contact lenses?
A. Contact lenses are small plastic discs which replace the old type of spectacles. While in use, contact lenses are invisible.
- Q. Can I see as well with contact lenses?
A. Yes. You will see as well if not better with contact lenses. In many cases, contact lenses offer better vision and more comfort than ordinary eye glasses. Many who lack normal vision, even with ordinary spectacles, may have their sight improved sufficiently to enable them to meet requirements for certain positions and secure driving licenses.
- Q. I wear extremely thick glasses. Will this prohibit contact lenses for me?
A. No. The discs are virtually the same for any strength of correction.
- Q. Can contact lenses injure my eyes?
A. No. There is no record of injury to an eye caused by wearing contact lenses. On the contrary, being unobtrusive, they are known to have prevented serious eye injuries.
- Q. Would it take me long to get fitted with contact lenses?
A. No. In fact, few fitting periods should be ready for steady use of the lenses.
- Q. Are the lenses hard to keep clean?
A. No. Contact lenses will not collect steam, sweat, sea spray, dust, dirt or grease. The natural function of the eyelids keeps them clean.
- Q. Would I have any discomfort while wearing the lenses?
A. There is no discomfort while wearing contact lenses as they rest on the part of the eye that is insensitive. (The center of the lens arches over the sensitive colored part of the eye.)
- Q. My thick glasses give a "pin-point appearance" to my eyes and make them look distorted. Would contact lenses help?
A. Yes, definitely. These lenses are a boon to wearers of extreme corrections. Your eyes would appear the same as if no glasses were worn. Remember, contacts are invisible.
- Q. Would I need to have the contact lenses changed often?
A. Once contact lenses are properly fitted, it is seldom if ever that they need to be replaced.

Donald D. Obert, Long Beach Director of Parks, will be the featured speaker Wednesday at the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce Breakfast Forum in Wilton Hotel. His topic will be "City Glamour Through Parks."

Prior to his appointment to the city park post, Obert served as city forester in Fort Worth, Tex., for 15 years.

He holds a Landscape Architecture Degree from the University of Illinois and was associated with the landscape architectural firm of Hare and Hare.

Obert is expected to outline city planning in connection with a glamorization program of Long Beach featuring development of park areas.

Joe Enarson, chamber forum chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Oilmen Plan $200,000 Club

Ricart's Cafe Leases Annex to New Group

Plans to erect a building to house the Long Beach Petroleum Club were announced Saturday by J. L. Evans, club president.

This building, described as the nation's finest of its kind, will be constructed adjoining Ricart's Restaurant at 4363 Atlantic Ave.

It will have 7,500 square feet of floor space and will cost in excess of $200,000, Evans said. Facilities will include three banquet rooms with a combined seating capacity of 275, a lounge, game room, dining room, complete kitchen and bar. Construction will start about Feb. 20 and will be completed in June.

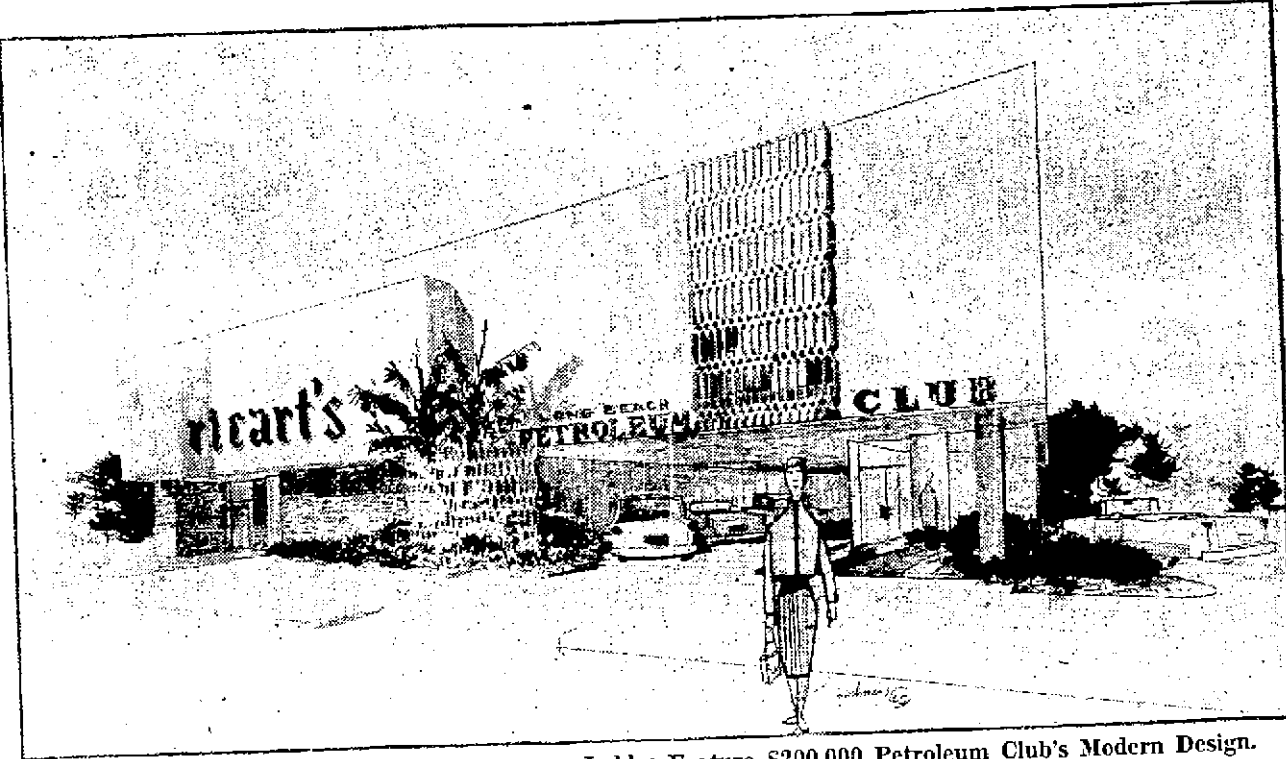

All club facilities will be on the second floor, with the parking area on the ground floor. Members and guests will enter through a glass-enclosed lobby at street level.

The project is being under-taken by the club in co-operation with Art Morgan, owner of Ricart's. Morgan will construct and furnish the building and provide restaurant services on a lease basis.

The Petroleum Club, organized last May, currently has 350 members and plans call for increasing membership to approximately 400.

Membership reads like a "Who's Who" of the oil industry in this area.

J. L. Evans, president, is division manager of the National Supply Co. of Torrance. Free-Ed Albers, Long Beach Oil Development Co., and James T. Satchell, attorney, assistant treasurers.

Directors of the organization include R. L. Jackson of the Texas Co.; P. E. Lehr, Shell Oil Co.; Donald S. Lehr, Monterey Co.; L. R. Funk, Southwest Exploration Co.; and H. G. Carruthers, General Petroleum Corp.

Other club officers are D. A. Boone, attorney and oil operator; Chester F. Yunker, oil club more than a year ago. It has since been incorporated and its objectives are these:

1. Enabling members to act as a unit in assuming and fulfilling the oil industry's responsibilities in civic affairs.
2. Formation of plans to aid, educate and acquaint the younger men in the oil industry.
3. Provide a central meeting place for wives of oil men to hold social and civic events.

Evans said tentative plans call for inviting recognized leaders in other businesses and professions to join as members.

Designed by Architect Kenneth S. Wing, the petroleum building will be of stucco construction and modern exterior design.

The lower lobby will be floored with varicolored Italian mosaics in a pattern of diamonds. A stairway to the lounge will rise above a garden of tropical planting.

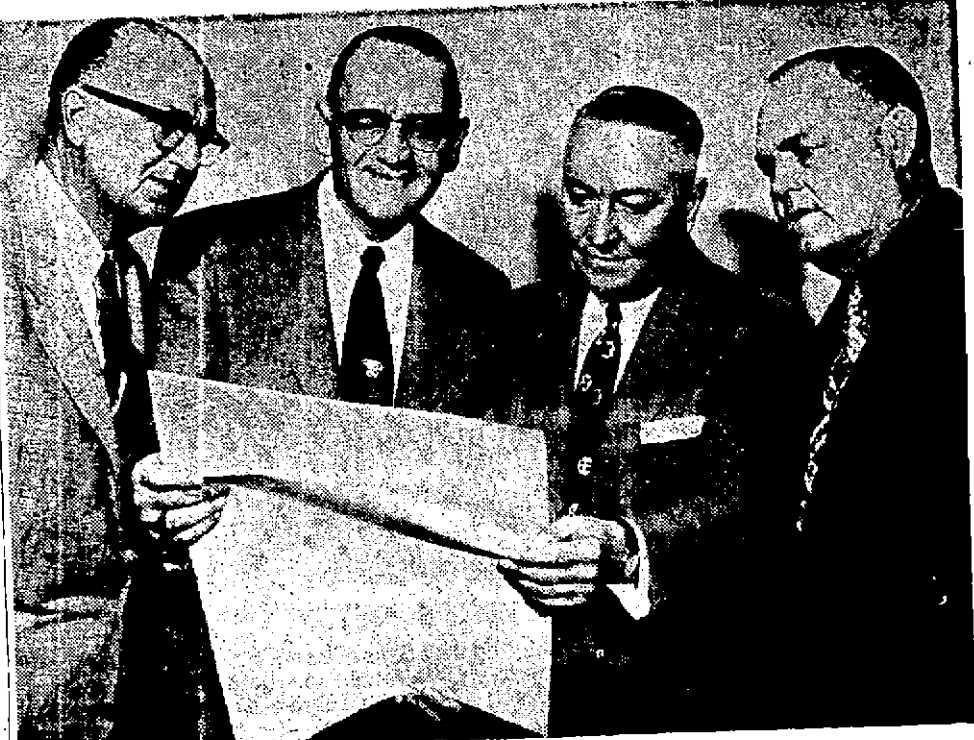

The lounge, carpeted in deep brown and black, will feature draperies of natural linen which pull across full ceiling height. Screens of woven cane. Accent walls of bristol blue will complete a scheme of browns with black, blue and pale red orange.

The game room, which will seat 40 people around specially designed tables, will have a beamed ceiling of white painted wood from which will hang fixtures of antique brass. Cork floors will set off walls of painted brick and pickled pine.

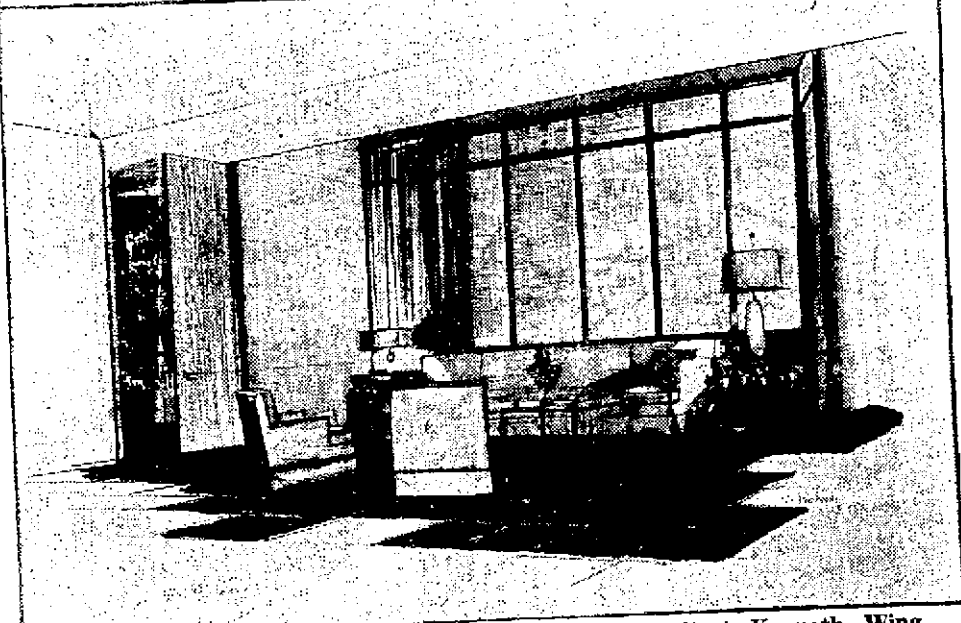

An early saloon style, long mahogany bar will be another feature of the building. The room will be lighted by three crystal and brass "gas" lamps. On one wall will be a prairie mural showing the oil industry in its infancy. For this room a color scheme of white, wheat color, mahogany and blue is used.

The three large banquet rooms can be made into one by sliding aside wall sections. Tweed carpeting will be used and a basic scheme of charcoal, pale grey and fused oak will tie these banquet rooms into one unit.

Morgan, who acquired sole ownership of Ricart's last month, "five years ahead of today's architectural trend." Total seat-

Industrial Mediator Sees Benefits in AFL-CIO Pact

From the Washington Bureau
Of The Independent Press-Telegram

WASHINGTON — Cyrus S. Ching, former director of the Federal Mediation Service, predicted Saturday that business as well as labor will benefit from the merger of the AFL and CIO.

Ching said the unification should go a long way toward ending the bitter inter-union competition which has been one of management's biggest problems since the CIO came into being 20 years ago.

"There will still be competition among unions of course, but not the kind that has caused many work stoppages that could have been avoided," the tall, pipe-smoking labor trouble shooter said in an interview with the Independent Press-Telegram Washington Bureau.

Ching retired as mediation chief in 1952. He had held the post since it was created by the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947. As a Republican and one-time vice president of United States Rubber Co. serving in a Democratic administration, he won considerable confidence and respect from both sides of the labor-management bargaining tables over which he presided.

Now a private industrial relations consultant, he has watched with keen interest the AFL-CIO progress toward the merger so long discussed and now about to become a reality.

Ching said a particularly healthy sign for American

'Congress' Name
Sought in Combine

WASHINGTON—CIO leaders are fighting to get AFL chiefs to agree to call the new, unified labor movement "The American Congress of Labor."

As the older and larger of the two groups, the AFL wants to retain the name, "American Federation of Labor." But the CIO is determined to keep at least part of its old identity as the "Congress of Industrial Organizations."

business is the machinery for ending jurisdictional disputes the new, joint federation is trying to perfect.

But he had this warning for the union chiefs who will wield the unprecedented power residing in a monolithic, 15,000,000-man federated labor movement: and the labor chiefs are expected to be careful to keep it.

"This new combination places on them a great responsibility to the public and their members. If the power which comes from a group of this kind is used wisely it can be beneficial to the nation. But if it is used unwisely, it could bring about great damage to our country."

Ching declined to speculate precisely on the kind of harm that might result. Other veteran observers of the labor movement, however, say the union leaders will have to tread very softly because their activities will be watched more closely than ever by the public.

These observers think the union chiefs will be cautious beyond reproach in handling big labor's affairs. For the leaders are wise and realistic men, and they recognize that the first signs of abuse of their new power will invite loud public demand for more restrictive state and national labor laws.

Already there is increasing talk among businessmen of trying to rewrite the anti-trust laws so as to make them applicable to unions. Their present exemption is one of the unions' most important legal advantages.

Yugo-Pole Trade Pact

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia and Poland Saturday signed their first trade agreement since 1948 when Marshal Tito's government was ousted from the Russian-led Cominform. The pact calls for a one-year exchange of goods amounting to 15 million dollars each way.

Gesture of Faith in Downtown L.B.

THE GROWTH of suburbia as a prominent feature of American life was inevitable. But this development does not necessarily mean that the old, established business centers must shrivel and die on the vine.

Long Beach is seeing a demonstration of faith in the belief that both outlying and downtown business areas can thrive amid the changes wrought by population and economic expansion.

One of America's most progressive department store chains, an organization known for good business judgment, recently announced plans for establishing a new three-story enterprise in downtown Long Beach at a cost of more than $3,500,000.

It is the J. C. Penney Co., which also has launched construction of a $2½ million store in an outlying part of the city, Los Altos.

In announcing the downtown project a representative of the investors stated simply:

"The investors I represent voice the firm belief that downtown Long Beach today offers the best of sites for an investment."

Downtown Long Beach is, in the last analysis, the hub of community life. It is the site of municipal offices and the nearest large shopping center for many thousands of citizens.

With imaginative civic and business planning and promotion there is every reason to believe it can maintain its economic importance and continue to thrive along with other areas.

The prospect, as we say, is endorsed by such realistic testimonials as the J. C. Penney project, the largest downtown construction program since 1938.

That organization, like others with aggressive merchandising policies, are confident. They know the customers are here.

The big problem of the future is to provide adequate parking facilities for them. Parking is the one main advantage which the business centers of suburban areas now enjoy.

Tidelands Oil Definitely Not an Unmixed Blessing

DISSENTING Senators and Congressmen who have bewailed the alleged "giveaway" of the tidelands by the last Congress may not be fully aware that by that act the Federal Government escaped from a whole flock of controversial problems that it would have proved a large headache for those same lawmakers.

California's legislators are beginning to get the first pang of that headache. An imposing array of proposed bills, dealing in one way or another with tidelands oil development, have been tossed in the hopper at Sacramento. There is disagreement as to how the tidelands oil drilling should be carried on, if at all, and how the royalties should be divided. It is becoming painfully clear that while the state has been assured of untold oil riches by the Congressional act, it is certainly not an unmixed blessing.

A fair example of the troubles that lie ahead for state officials was presented at a meeting of the Orange County Coast Association held at Newport Beach Friday. Recently, the association got word that the State Lands Commission might authorize artificial islands off Huntington Beach, and tidelands oil drilling, and Friday's meeting was devoted largely to planning ways to prevent any such action.

ISLANDS OPPOSED
The Orange Coast people feel that offshore drilling structures would impair the beauty of their shoreline and destroy or seriously damage recreational values. Some of the speakers had some unpleasant things to say about the State Lands Commission. The group voted solidly to present strong opposition arguments to the offshore structures, and no doubt those living along other sections of the coast will feel the same way.

Yet even as the discussion seemed to veer toward the idea of tidelands drilling from on-shore drill sites, one speaker pointed out that those could be mighty untidy, too. This strongly implies the probability that the State Lands Commission will be faced with a "damned if you do and damned if you don't" situation as this controversy develops along sections of the coast.

Keeping the people happy along the area of oil exploitation is just one of many tidelands oil development problems confronting the state. For instance, there's that matter of subsidence, that is not a little one, either. And if oil withdrawal causes subsidence (a much argued question) it could come regardless of whether drilling is done from the shore or from islands. There's going to be a real tug of war in the Legislature. At present 70 per cent goes to beaches and parks and 30 per cent to the general fund. Several other formulas have been proposed. One that is getting a lot of attention was offered by Sen. Randolph Collier, Siskiyou County, who would give each county a basic grant of $50,000 with the balance to be split up among the 58 counties, one-third for area and one-third for population. Local boards would pick the projects to benefit. Beach and park enthusiasts are ready to fight for tidelands funds, and there's also a proposal to give a major share of the tidelands money to the "area of origin" along the coast. We'll be hearing a lot about all of this.

None of these questions, by the way, is directly related to the Long Beach tidelands, which by virtue of a state grant are owned by the city. Most of the submerged land strip along the coast is owned by the state, and these legislative proposals generally deal with state tidelands development and state tidelands. (There is a proposal to give Long Beach's tidelands funds to the state, but that's another story.)

Long Beach's own experience with its tidelands oil situation, however, gives a general idea of the problems confronting the state in the broader development. How to exploit the offshore oil riches without destroying other values, how to deal with subsidence, how to use the funds for the greatest good—these are old problems to Long Beach people. Now the state as a whole is getting a dose of the same medicine.

Let Go Your Tears

You need not fear the smallest tear. It is not wrong to cry. Indeed it can be harmful if you keep your vision dry. If you hold down emotion when your heart is all pent up. You multiply the bitterness. That lies within your cup. You put yourself in prison at the time you need release. And all your problems and your pains. Are certain to increase. There is no shame in weeping, friend. No matter what your age. In private contemplation or. Upon the public stage. It will be better for your heart. To get it off your chest. So let your tearful river flow. Until it comes to rest.

If It Were Left Up to Ike and Zhukov, There Could Be an Era of World Peace

WASHINGTON — If it were left to just two men—President Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov, the new Defense Minister in Moscow—there probably could be an era of peace and understanding in the world.

For there is an intensely human aspect to the friendship which developed in wartime between the Commander-in-Chief of the American and Allied forces in Europe and the Commander-in-Chief of the Soviet forces. Long before President Eisenhower became intimate friends of his meetings in Berlin in 1945 with Marshal Zhukov. From the statements made this week in Moscow to newspapermen by the new cabinet minister who will be in charge of all defense for Soviet Russia, it is evident that the friendship has not been forgotten by the Soviet leader.

Lawrence, however, became intimate friends of his meetings in Berlin in 1945 with Marshal Zhukov. From the statements made this week in Moscow to newspapermen by the new cabinet minister who will be in charge of all defense for Soviet Russia, it is evident that the friendship has not been forgotten by the Soviet leader.

Marsh Zhukov is a military hero in Soviet Russia and, if he alone were to decide on future policy, there would be much less to fear even though he has a military background. For contrary to a rather curious impression that seems to have been fostered in pacifist quarters—where the word "militarism" is loosely used to describe a phobia to start fighting—the truth is military men usually do not want war and lean over backward to avoid it. Generals who have the responsibility of ordering young men to face death are often the last people to urge the use of war as an instrument of national policy.

CAN THEY MEET?
If Marshal Zhukov could speak his own thoughts freely, he probably would say the same things that President Eisenhower has been saying against war. Actually, since Mr. Eisenhower has been in the White House, he has proved the very antithesis of the concept of a military man which has been so widely held. But could these two men—Zhukov and Eisenhower—get together and talk things over? This concrete question was raised at the President's press conference this week, and he answered guardedly that he would have to take up such a proposal with his advisers. Meanwhile, Marshal Zhukov in Moscow in an interview earlier this week referred specifically to the two times he had been invited by Gen. Eisenhower to visit America and expressed the hope that his dream of coming here might some day be realized. He said that he didn't think relations at the moment made it "suitable" for him to come at this time, but he hoped relations would improve.

What does all this mean? Plainly the rise of Marshal Zhukov is a significant development. Today, of course, he is an officeholder backed by the Communist party. He has to stick closely to their doctrine. If he came to the United States as an envoy of the present Communist regime, he would not get the same kind of reception as he might get if he were the elected representative of the Soviet people as a result of a free election.

BILL VAUGHAN

Senator Soaper Says--

An expert says that to succeed in the poultry business you have to think like a chicken, which explains to the fellow at the next desk why his brother-in-law has been such a success handling potatoes, egg plant and Swiss chard.

The federal budget is a tremendous book, but probably won't be a best-seller until it is jazzed up with a cover picture of a taxpayer in a deep V-neck barrel.

Who is the big hero in the uranium-rich west these days? The two Geiger-counter man?

With everybody on the left thinking he's too far to the right and everybody on the right thinking he's too far to the left, the President would seem to be steering a pretty good course as long as he doesn't hit a safety island.

Hightower and Tallchief are big names in ballet and not, as you'd suppose, basketball.

Appointee Harlan in Two-Way Bind

WASHINGTON — Through no fault of his, John Marshall Harlan, Ike's new appointee to the Supreme Court, has got himself into an unpleasant two-way bind.

First he has southern senators holding up his appointment because of the school segregation issue.

Second he has some northern senators dubiously about him because of ex-Gov. Tom Dewey and the merger of the Chase National Bank and the Bank of Manhattan.

Opposition on the first count is quite simple. The second is more complicated. Harlan's grandfather, also named John M. Harlan, served on the Supreme Court shortly after the Civil War and although from Kentucky and a former slave owner, he was a vigorous dissenter when the court majority upheld segregation.

Therefore, it's considered certain he will express himself with the same vigor as his grandfather when the school issue comes before the Supreme Court again to decide upon the manner in which southern states should carry out the court's original non-segregation edict.

That is why certain senators are discreetly and quietly maneuvering to delay Harlan's confirmation. If his confirmation can be postponed long enough, the court may get no chance to pass upon the execution of its edict this year. For the court has said that it would wait to rule until after Harlan takes his seat.

DEWEY DEAL?
Meanwhile, a new and wholly different reason for scrutinizing Harlan's qualifications has arisen. For it has now become known that it was Tom Dewey who sold Ike on appointing Harlan to U. S. Court of Appeals and later to the Supreme Court. And having arranged for Harlan's exit from the law firm of Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby and Palmer, Dewey then stepped into the firm of Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby and Palmer.

In other words, the adroit Governor of New York persuaded Ike to appoint a distinguished member of a distinguished New York law firm first to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and six months later to the Supreme Court; then he, Dewey, stepped into the vacancy thus created.

This in itself would be criticized chiefly by anti-Dewey Republicans if it were not for a further recent factor.

BANK ATTORNEY
The biggest bank merger in the history of the United States, between the giant Chase National and Manhattan, indirectly involves the law firm of Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby, and Palmer from which Harlan is stepping out to make room for Tom Dewey.

For the Root law firm is the attorney for the Bank of Manhattan, and obviously gave advice on arranging the merger. So senators want to know whether Harlan participated in giving that advice.

Furthermore, new law partner Dewey is the intimate personal friend of Winthrop Aldrich, former head of the Chase Bank; also the intimate friend of John J. McCloy, present head of the Chase Bank. When Dewey planned not to run for Governor of New York in 1950, it was Winthrop Aldrich who held a meeting of top bankers and Republicans to persuade him to change his mind. Dewey did change his mind, thereby getting himself into a lot of trouble trying to get Lt. Gov. Joe Hanley out of the race for governor.

Now it happens that the Chase Bank and the Bank of Manhattan have been trying to merge for some time. They tried it in 1951 and could not get the approval of the appropriate authorities.

Today, however, approval of the merger seems to be in the cards.

That's where the senators who pass on Harlan's confirmation come in. Some of them want to know why the merger was impossible in 1951 but is possible in 1955. Especially they want to know whether Gov. Dewey who now replaces Harlan in the law firm, did a little whispering to New York State banking authorities to secure tentative advance approval of the merger.

Child Care

TO THE EDITOR:

As legislative chairman for the Association for Nursery Education of the Long Beach area, I have been asked to express the appreciation of our membership for the re-print article concerning child care which appeared on the editorial page of your newspaper last Sunday.

Our association, with members from cooperative nurseries, pre-school groups, City College Child Development Center, private nurseries, and Child Care Centers, is very much concerned over the status of Child Care. We feel the Child Care program is providing a valuable and necessary service for young children and should be continued. Articles such as the one mentioned above, help the public to understand what the Child Care program means to every citizen.

We are very pleased that our two local assemblymen co-authored, with Mr. Geddes, the bill we are supporting, AB 980, which contains the State Department of Education recommendations concerning Child Care.

We look forward hopefully to other such articles in order that the public may be completely informed on this issue. BARBARA A. SHIRLEY, Legislative Chairman, Association for Nursery Education, Long Beach Area, 517 Grand Ave.

Knowland Right

TO THE EDITOR:

The articles written by Leon Dennen should awaken the general public to the tragic diplomatic blunders of the past decade.

As a diplomat FDR was, throughout all his negotiations with England and Russia, a total failure. He allowed Russia to become an ally for the defeat of Japan, a task which, to all intents and purposes, at the time of Yalta, was accomplished. His entire appeasement attitude toward anything Russian, ably abetted by his successor, Harry Truman, has been the prime cause of our present diplomatic troubles.

It is high time the people of the United States realize that Sen. William K. Knowland in his statements regarding Red China is absolutely correct. A boycott of Red China and a blockade of their coast would starve them to death in less than a year. Russia, with all its so-called might, could not possibly furnish enough food and essential material through established transportation lines to assist in any way. The military leaders of this country know that. A blockade of the China coast would place Russia in a position of either "putting up or shutting up." That they would not do, they are having enough trouble in their own country.

Unless a tough voice and a strong hand is in evidence by the present administration World War III is in the offing. LESTER L. MARSHALL, 1708 Camino De La Costa, Redondo Beach

Teachers

TO THE EDITOR:

In this materialistic age we are inclined to measure success and failure in terms of dollars and cents. One unfortunate result of this habit is that, because of their comparatively low salaries, many professions are shunned and don't receive their due recognition. Teaching is one of these professions.

Education is by far the most important single factor in a democracy's existence. In a world filled with hate, fear, and uncertainty we, the free peoples, must lead the way along the narrow and at times indistinguishable path to peace. The teachers of America have trained, are now training and will be training the children that must find this path to peace.

The teacher's task is a momentous one.

The shortage of teachers is real; and although salaries have increased slightly, the social status of the teacher in his community leaves much to be desired. Let us give the teacher a social position worthy of a person attempting to accomplish a vital mission. Since this is a materialistic age, we must face the problem realistically. Only if the teaching field is made more attractive can we hope to meet the increasing demands for qualified teachers. CARL WELLARD, 1252 E. Third St.

Marriage

TO THE EDITOR:

Everyone who goes to high school ought to be required to take a course about marriage and homemaking.

Those who married later would be better prepared, and those who stayed single would understand other people better.

Some parents have not done well at their own marriage and can not teach their children. When a man or woman wants to be a teacher, preacher or lawyer they spend a lot of time and money trying to learn. But when they marry and rear children they often are not well prepared and leave it largely to guess work.

They should know ahead of time what it is all about. The making of a home is the most important thing in the world and there is as much reason to be prepared for it as anything else. MERVIN T. LYANS, 937 Magnolia Ave.

Auto Insurance

TO THE EDITOR:

In regards to the article, "Flaw in the Law," which you published Feb. 6, 1955:

I happen to be one driver who does not carry insurance and I don't happen to be the irresponsible kind you write about, either. I simply can't see paying the insurance company's outrageous insurance rates because of someone else's recklessness and irresponsibility.

The day such a law is passed 90 per cent of the drivers of this state will be forced to spend money for their driving privilege against their wishes. This is a cheap scheme on the part of the insurance companies to soften up the public to an eventual submission to such a law from Sacramento, and I, for one, will fight any attempt at such driver registration to the last. Drivers like myself are all profit and no loss to insurance companies, and they know it. That is why they would like to see a law passed whereby we would be forced by state law to buy insurance at their rates.

Auto insurance rates should be based on the individual's past record, ability to drive, knowledge of traffic laws and physical ability to handle an auto in today's traffic, and not on number of accidents versus car registrations in a certain area as is now the common practice, simply because accidents are caused by individuals, not by area statistics. DAVID J. BRICK, 2391 Park Ave.

Free Country

TO THE EDITOR:

All this criticism of our public officials and others has got the best of me.

Anyone who thinks a police officer has a snap job should try it. My personal congratulations to all police officers of Long Beach and California. As for the coffee break custom, what's so wrong with that? To the critics, I say quit being petty and fuddy-duddy. Life's too short for that.

Red Leaders in Deadly Power Struggle

TO THE question: "What about Russia?" I turn for my answer to several foreign correspondents who have worked in Moscow and whose judgment I respect.

William H. Stoneman and William McGuffin of the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service believe that the Soviet Union's affairs are in a far more difficult state than outsiders had even imagined.

Stoneman thinks the Malenkov's dismissal means that Russia has reverted to the system that was in force during Stalin's heyday and under which the secretary of the Communist party—now Nikita Khrushchev—is the real boss of Soviet affairs.

William L. Ryan of the Associated Press takes the view that the Communist party has entered into a deal with leaders of the Soviet army. Ryan predicts a gradual evolution from the monolithic dictatorship under the Communist party to a sort of hybrid military dictatorship on which conservative army leaders will exert a great influence.

Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times agrees with Ryan and says that the selection of Marshall Nikolai Bulganin as Soviet premier was a compromise between the party forces of Khrushchev and the army group headed by Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

All see the removal of Malenkov as signaling a desperate struggle for power. The fate of the losers is liquidation, Russian style.

Following the elimination by Malenkov of Lavrenty Beria, deputy premier and minister of internal affairs, the secret police lost its place in the top hierarchy. That left three power groups, the government bureaucracy controlled by Malenkov, the Communist party directed by Khrushchev and the army, headed by Marshal Zhukov. With Malenkov gone, two power groups remain, the party and the army.

Like the song, "Ten Little bottles," it is only a matter of time until "one little bottle" remains.

The surviving power group, it seems to me, may well be the army, and for these reasons:

1. Since the death of Beria, the dread secret police can no longer challenge the army's authority.

2. The army possesses the only remaining weapons of power.

What does this mean for us and the peace of the world? At the outset, lots of tough talk and boasts of superiority in weapons.

Foreign Minister Molotov's

recent belligerent speech indicated the immediate course. His truculent and insulting remarks were not, however, the words of a man confident of his nation's strength.

It would appear, therefore, that despite the big talk and arm waving, Russia will need time to unravel its tangled skein of intrigue.

Khrushchev's leaders of the army group tend to be more conservative and cautious than their counterparts in the Communist party. It would be a fallacy, however, to assume that the wartime friendship between Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov carries any special significance.

Still, the chances are good that until such time as the great power struggle is resolved, Russia will not risk war.

No Women Allowed

A FEW days ago the men's organization, the National Press Club, elected a Negro reporter, Louis Lautier, to membership. During the bitter pre-election argument some columnists condemned discrimination.

No man wrote that all women reporters are barred from covering the National Press Club's noted speakers. In contrast, the Women's National Press Club permits all working reporters of both sexes and all races to cover club events.

One of the strangest situations condoned by press liberals is that women members of the White House Correspondents Association are prohibited from attending the annual dinner in honor of the President of the United States.

This year the White House correspondents' dinner for President Eisenhower will be given on March 5 at the Hotel Statler—and again women members will be barred.

There is some talk that women reporters may be granted full citizenship and allowed to attend the dinner next year—always manana.

With straight faces, men reporters give some absurd reasons for discriminating against women writers.

1. Women are not allowed to hold important church offices. (For their information the National Presbyterian Church in Washington has just elected two women elders.)

2. If women reporters attended the dinner the wives of the men writers would insist on coming, too. Each White House correspondent is allowed one guest. Why should wives be discriminated against?

$500 Prize Essay

(Editor's Note: The following essay by Jim Goss of San Pedro High School won the $500 grand prize in the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employees Assn. Essay Contest.)

By JIM GOSS
San Pedro High School

Modern miracles, taking place about us every day, are becoming so common that we often fail to appreciate their significance.

Founding and development of Long Beach Shipyard from mud flats of Cabrillo's time, more than 400 years ago, to its present position, easily belongs in this category.

Transformation to the present modern naval facility is the fulfillment of a need apparent since World War I.

Geographically, such a base is hundreds of miles closer to fleet activities than any western yard and provides a reconstruction base, which because of the mild climate, could function on a 24-hour per day basis.

Long before the war clouds of World War II had their beginning, Long Beach, then a slumbering, seaside resort, awakened to the needs of the fleet. Its personnel, which already had taken available accommodations in other areas, began an invasion of the community.

Assignment of additional units to the Pacific in 1933 increased these needs many times.

Discovery of oil and expansion needs of the harbor, caused the city to look toward the vast, unimproved tides on Terminal Island.

The Navy accepted an offer for a section of the area, first for use as an athletic field, and later for full development of the great wartime operating base.

In 1940 funds were allotted for the start of construction. Since that time, more than $25 billion have been expended in the development.

Value of this great establishment to the fleet never can be overshadowed. But its value to the city and surrounding communities is equally well known.

Long Beach Naval Shipyard provides employment for about 6,700 civilians. The annual payroll of $30,000,000 plus additional millions added by payrolls of transient vessels and local purchase of vast supplies has created a new economic standard.

To insure reserve personnel, well grounded in fundamentals of shipyard operations, an apprenticeship training program was founded. This not only provides personnel for shipyard needs, but also serves other and allied industries.

Contributions to community development by employees of Long Beach Naval Shipyard are legend. Leaders of the community, church and school are continually being drawn from among these workers.

Long Beach Naval Shipyard personnel are proud of their record. They are proud of the nation's highest tributes earned during World War II. They are proud of the community in which they live.

The community and Southern California are just as proud of Long Beach Naval Shipyard personnel.

Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, could be viewed the Southern California coastline today, doubtless would declare a miracle had happened.

Adm. Hugh Rodman, who headed the fleet to the west coast some 35 years ago, also could acclaim such a miracle. But neither of these esteemed gentlemen could be move amazed than would be the Navy Department officials who reluctantly paid the city of Long Beach one dollar for surface rights to the shipyard some 15 years ago.

Land, Fantasyland, Frontierland and Adventureland.

Tomorrowland, a venture into the future, will be identified by a tall, stationary, pylon-like space rocket.

Jet-propelled monorail coaches will whiz visitors over buildings of advanced architectural design; young drivers will pilot miniature racing cars around a freeway of the future; streamlined speedboats will be guided by adults or children around a circular water run. At the Space Terminal of the future, the adventurous-minded may board a passenger rocket and fly around the "moon."

Fantasyland, described by Walt Disney as "the world of imagination, hopes and dreams," will have as its entrance a shimmering, pastel-colored castle with towers and parapets 70 feet high. A melodious King Arthur carrousel will whirl in the courtyard.

Visitors may take the Peter Pan Fly-Thru on which they will soar in a pirate galleon to Never Land, habitat of mermaids, buccaners, Indians and Lost Boys. Or they may enjoy the Snow White and Seven Dwarfs Ride-Thru, the Alice in Wonderland Walk-Thru or the Mr. Toad Drive-Thru.

Frontierland will bring back America's historical past with a log fort, leather-stockinged frontiersmen and Indians of many tribes; a shooting gallery supplying buffalo guns to be fired at wild animal targets and stores, blackboards, wagons and stages.

Paul Bunyan's "longest little some" will face a river dockin detailed replica, will threaten where passengers may board at the vessel at every river bend. As 105-foot paddlewheeler for a cruise on the rivers of America. The excursion boat will pass replicas of colorful river towns—New Orleans, Natchez, Mobile—and such buildings of historical fame as Mount Vernon and West Point.

Adventureland will have as its threshold a Tahitian settlement. Intrepid travelers may take an explorer's boat on a five-acre voyage over tropical waters, past ports of call in Mexico, Central America, South America, Africa, Asia and Australia.

The journey will be adventure—lifelike wild animals, rep- ar with the tallest glass of root tiles and even human natives, all "beer" will face a river dockin detailed replica, will threaten where passengers may board at the vessel at every river bend. As passengers cross the "equator" they will receive the traditional certificate from Neptune himself.

READ THESE AMAZING TESTIMONIALS

Dear Dr. Chan: "The day I came to your office with my mother and brother I was about to give up hope of getting rid of my asthma attacks. I spent hundreds of dollars for shots and pills, but yet found no results. After reading your advertisement, I tried you for my last resort and was thrilled to find that I responded wonderfully. After the first treatment I was able to breathe normally and could sleep better for the first time in months. Now I am feeling fine and hoping others will benefit from my experience with Dr. Chan's Natural Method."

Signed, Mrs. Vivian Murray.

To Whom It May Concern: "For over 30 years I have been going from one doctor's office to another hoping to find someone to help me with my asthma and stomach condition. No one knew how much I had suffered until I came to Dr. Chan. Night after night I had to sit up because I wasn't able to lie down to sleep. I was coughing and wheezing most of the night; besides my stomach was full of gas. After taking Dr. Chan's Natural Method for one week, I began to improve. Now after five months of continuous treatment, my asthma and stomach troubles are just about over. I can now recommend this treatment to anyone who is anxious to get well. I am sure that Dr. Chan will do all he can to help you as he has helped me."

ROBERT MALLET
Lectures on Austria

Vienna Film Programmed Three Nights

"Vienna and Austria" will be presented in the all-color Film Forum opening in Jordan auditorium Tuesday at 8 p. m. and scheduled for Wilson and Poly High auditoriums Wednesday and Thursday evenings respectively. Tickets will be available at Poly and Jordan only.

Narrator for the film, produced by Burton Holmes Travelogues, will be Robert Mallett, commentator and former naval intelligence officer. A graduate of Stanford, Mallett served as a correspondent in Europe and South America and during World War II was attached to the Secretary of the Navy's office.

Both the romantic past and the troubled present of Vienna and Austria are presented in the film, which ranges from the Vienna Woods and the Tyrolean folk-dancers to a sequence showing the changing of the guard between Russian and American members of Vienna's International Patrol.

Another sequence in the film shows the white Lipizans, Austrian horses trained to perform intricate ballet steps in outdoor shows.

NEW RECORDS AT CITY LIBRARY

Appreciation of good music and literature, as well as rhythmic coordination, is stipulated by the use of the children's recordings found at Long Beach Public Library.

A new listing offers "Cinderella" and "Pied Piper of Hamelin" in literature; "The King's Trumpet" as introduction to a musical instrument; and "Billy Rings the Bell," "Drummer Boy," "Jimp Back Little Toad" and "Night Time" to inspire creative activity.

Most of the recordings purchased for children's use are still 78 rpm and are of durable plastic. Even the smallest child, with a library card of his own, may borrow these records.

IN THIS CORNER

with DICK ZEHRM

Avery Brundage is going to Paris in June to sell the International Olympic Committee a bill of goods to abolish all point scoring systems in the XVIII Olympic in Melbourne, Australia, in 1936. His mission will fail. His showing relative degrees of success of contending nations are not, he claims, in accord with Olympic concepts. They first came to life in this country in the 1932 Olympiad at Los Angeles and although they vary numerically in many instances they have been in use ever since.

There is no legislative course to pursue in Olympic operations which will guarantee elimination of this practice which Brundage believes is so evil and detrimental. He might call upon the IOC to wire working press facilities to wire services and correspondents, as well as radio and telex men, if they insist upon using point systems to sensationalize their reports to the public.

If he does, he will meet with failure since there are always groups operating on the fringe of the Olympic scene which will serve the same purpose. Over these the IOC can exercise no control whatsoever.

Neither the correspondents nor this group of hangers-on are the purists Brundage is. While he, the president of the IOC, is sold, stock and barrel on the Olympic principles, the correspondents and hangers-on are likewise sold on dramatizing the ultimate to the reading, listening and looking public. Point tables to them are indispensable.

Brundage's present attitude obviously is based on the U. S.-Russia rivalry which dominated the 1932 Olympic scene in Helsinki. He was there to see for himself the propaganda fostered by Soviet successes three years ago. And in view of present world conditions and the USSR's rapid rise to athletic superiority in Europe, he anticipates an even more bitter struggle between these two powers in Melbourne.

Avery, with the soul of a purist, would like to stem this inevitable tide.

From all sources come reports that the harvest to be reaped by Russian contestants in 1936 will far exceed the 69 medals the disciples of Communism won in 1932 while the Americans were gathering 76. Therefore, it appears that Brundage has an ulterior motive "serving face" for U. S. by outlawing the point tables.

Nothing, however, could be further from the truth. Avery, who has spent a lifetime in amateur and Olympic athletic supervision, is above such tactics. He is dedicated to the Olympic cause above all else.

At Paris a terrific political battle is destined to take place June 13-17 when the IOC meets. Russia is fully aware of the propaganda value of Olympic achievement and will fight right down to the last "political purge" to gain its end—athletic superiority over the U. S. This is hard-core territory where the role of the good sport, particularly on the eve of its greatest bloodless triumph.

In recent times, the Olympic games have degenerated into nothing more than a battle for international prestige. Avery abhors this very thought and holds that the sanctity of Olympic competition comes first. In this fight he will be virtually a lone wolf.

After the IOC president makes his recommendation, watch the IOC committees line up according to their political affiliations. Good sportsmanship will fly out the window. The influence of the hammer and sickle will be so strong that Brundage's proposal will be vigorously and decisively defeated.

Of this you can be certain. Avery Brundage will go down to defeat, but go down to defeat fighting like hell. It is the misfortune of his age that U. S.-Russia rivalry in all phases of life transcends Olympic principles.

OPINION DEPT. Bill Skaue, University of Hawaii basketball coach on sabbatical leave, is high on the University of San Francisco Dons. Asked how he thought they would come out in a game with Kentucky's Wildcats on a neutral court with neutral officials, Bill observed:

"If USC played as it did against California, I'd pick the Dons to whip the Wildcats. I've seen Kentucky and there is no question but what Adolph Rupp has a great team, but I'd be inclined to string along with the Dons."

'YOU'RE THE MANAGER'

Pinch-Hitters vs. Relievers

By BEN OLAN
(Fifth of a Series)
NEW YORK (AP)—If every one of the big league baseball managers had a guy like Dusty Rhodes on the bench, they'd have no qualms about using pinch-hitters.

They're not all so fortunate as New York Giants manager Leo Durocher, however. The Detroit Tigers, for example, used 13 pinch-hitters at the start of last season before one came through. Later in the year, 11 and then 10 pinch-swingers in a row fringed to produce a hit for the Tigers.

Good relief pitchers, too, are hard to find these days and a manager has to think twice (or more) before making a change.

Here's another opportunity for grandstand managers to test their wits with the major league masterminds in a game of "You're the Manager." Would you have used a pinch-hitter or a relief pitcher in any of the following five situations?

Score one for yourself if a strategy you decided on would have worked to your advantage. A score of four or five indicates your choice of four is in working order.

1. You're managing the Pittsburgh Pirates (at home). The game against the Milwaukee Braves is tied, 1-1, in the last of the 9th with Warren Spahn (L) pitching for the Braves.

There is one out when Sid Gordon singles and Luis Marquez runs for him. Jim Mangum flies out. Then Curt Roberts singles and Dick Hall walks, filling the bases. Vernon Law (R), the Pirates' starting pitcher, is the next batter.

WOULD YOU:
A. Put in a pinch-hitter for Law?
B. Let Law bat?
C. Gamble on a steal of home?

2. You're managing the Philadelphia Phillies (at home). John McCall (L) is pitching for the New York Giants and the score is tied, 1-1, in the last of the 10th. Bobby Morgan opens with a walk and is sacrificed to second by Willie Jones. Stan Lopata is intentionally walked. Curt Simmons (L), the Phils' starter, is the next hitter with Richie Ashburn (L) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Order Simmons to sacrifice?
B. Let Simmons swing away?
C. Pinch-hit for Simmons?

3. You're managing the Braves (away). The Braves are leading the Giants, 4-1, in the last of the 9th with Lew Burdette (R) on the mound. Ray Katt walks to open the inning. Pinch-hitters Dusty Rhodes and Bill Taylor are easy outs.

But Davey Williams' grounder is fumbled by shortstop Johnny Logan, putting New York runners on first and second. Alvin Dark doubles to left, scoring one run and advancing Williams to third. Don Mueller (L) is the next batter with Hank Thompson (L) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Walk Mueller to get to Thompson?
B. Replace Burdette with a left-hander?
C. Leave Burdette in?

4. You're managing the Chicago White Sox (at home). Billy Pierce (L) is pitching for the Sox, who lead Cleveland, 4-2, in the top of the 8th. There is one out when Bobby Aris walks. Davey Williams' grounder is fumbled by shortstop Johnny Logan, putting New York runners on first and second. Alvin Dark doubles to left, scoring one run and advancing Williams to third. Don Mueller (L) is the next batter with Hank Thompson (L) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Replace Pierce with a right-hander?
B. Leave him in?
C. You're managing the Giants (at home). Johnny Antonelli (L) is pitching for the Giants, who lead the Phils, 3-2, in the top of the 8th. Richie Ashburn and Mel Clark open with singles. A sacrifice bunt by Stan Lopata moves the runners to second and third. Granny Hamner (R) is the next batter with Del Ennis (R) and Bobby Morgan (4) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Replace Antonelli with a right-hander?
B. Walk Hamner intentionally?
C. Pitch to Hamner?

HERE'S WHAT HAPPENED:
1. Low bats and singles to drive in winning run (June 18).
2. Danney Schell (R) bats for Simmons and singles as Phils win, 2-1 (Sept. 25).
3. Chet Nichols (L) replaces Burdette and strikes out Mueller as Braves win, 4-2 (Aug. 7).
4. Virgil Trucks (R) replaces Pierce and gets Regalado to ground out, ending the rally. Chicago wins, 4-2 (May 25).
5. Hamner is intentionally passed, but Ennis singles to left for two runs and the Phils win, 4-3 (Sept. 17).

Wilson Signs A's Contract, Thomas Nixes Bucs' Offer

Bill Wilson, former Jordan High athlete, was among seven Kansas City players whose signed contracts were received Saturday by the Athletics' front office. In addition to the long-hitting outfielder, pitchers Bill Oster, Sonny Dixon and Hal Raether, and infielders Hector Lopez, Pete Suder and Hal Bevan came to terms.

Wilson, who joined the A's last season after opening with the Chicago White Sox, is considered a good prospect for the starting, centerfield job, the club's front office said.

Elsewhere on the baseball front Saturday the news was as follows:

PIRATES: General Manager Branch Rickey declared after a long conference with star outfielder Frank Thomas, "We could have one holdout." Thomas, who hit 28 homers last year, reportedly wants $18,000. Rickey is still in the neighborhood of $15,000.

YANKEES: Outfielder Irv Noren, a pleasant surprise in an otherwise disappointing season, signed his 1933 contract for $20,000. Mickey Mantle's younger brother Roy will wear No. 7 at Yankees' training school which begins next Tuesday. Twin brother Ray will wear Andy Carey's No. 6.

RED SOX: Signed contracts have been received from pitcher Dick Brodowski and outfielder Faye Throneberry, both back from two years military service, club announced Saturday.

SEALS: Southpaw pitcher star Warren Spahn agreed to terms via telephone conversation with general manager John Quinn. No figure was announced.

CARDINALS: Bill Sarni, who surprised one and all by hitting an even 300 and leading league's pitchers with .996 fielding average, signed his pact. Also coming to terms were pinch hitter Joe Frazier, catcher Hal Smith and infielder Jerry Thomas.

PHILS: Right-handed pitcher James Owens, voted the International League's rookie of the year last season, has signed his 1933 contract. The Philadelphia club announced Owens won 17, lost nine for Syracuse in 1932.

SEALS: (FCL): Outfielder Clarence Maddern, traded during the winter from Seattle to San Francisco, returned his signed contract. Maddern hit .270 and hit 12 home runs in 141 games for the Suds last year.

Riley Putts Way to Win

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Tournament veteran Folly Riley steadied her erratic putting when it counted despite the chilly winds Saturday to defeat young Joanne Goodwin of Plymouth, Mass., one up for the Women's Golf Championship of Palm Beach.

It was the Ft. Worth veteran's third Palm Beach title. She required the Mrs. Flieger trophy for the first time since Maureen Orrcutt captured the tournament for the third time in 1934.

Miss Goodwin, a professional who winters here, took the first hole when Miss Riley missed a five-foot putt, but the Texan evened it up on the third and was never behind after that.

Italian Ring Champ Shot

AREZZO, Italy (AP)—Mario d'Agata, 29-year-old deaf mute who is bantamweight champion of Italy Saturday was gravely wounded in a shooting fray. He was to have fought against Raoul Macias in a world title match.

Police said d'Agata and his mother, Rosa, were shot during an argument with the manager of a laundry.

"Taken to a hospital, d'Agata was pronounced in 'very grave' condition with gunshot wounds in the stomach.

Giovanni Peyiyo, 59-year-old manager of the laundry, was held on an assault charge. D'Agata returned only recently from a tour of Australia.

RACING ROUNDUP

Hasty House, Adams Gain Hialeah Sweep

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hasty House in the Abraham Lincoln Purse Farms stable, the property of Mr. and Mrs. Allie Reuben of Toledo, Ohio, swept both feature races at Hialeah Park Saturday as Hasty House led all the way.

Jockey Johnny Adams, who arrived Friday night from Santa Anita, was aboard both winners.

Well-regarded Social Outcast, early favorite in the Abraham Lincoln, was a late scratch and long shot. Beach State College, Hialeah, was being sold by Hasty House's entry of Hasty Road and Stan went postward the ten mule choice in the mile and a furlong event.

Montpelier's Saratoga, 6 to 5 favorite in the overage, was left at the post and finished last. Saratoga, carrying 125 pounds with Joe Culmore riding, reared just as the gate was opened and then wheeled as the other speedy 3-year-olds swept past the stands.

Culmore straightened his mount but the black colt was never better than 12th in the field of 15.

Prince of Noor ran the mile and a furlong in 1:51 over a fast track and paid $24.50, $13.80 and $6.30. Amber's Folly returned $7.30 and $4.70 for place. The show price on Ambient was $4.30.

Hasty Road ran the mile and a furlong in 1:49 4/5 and paid $4.00, $2.60 and $2.30. Cerise Reine in second returned $4.70 and $3.40 and the show price on Maharajah was $3.70.

At the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, W. Hal Bishop's Skeptical Kid won the two-year-old colt championship with a driving half-length victory over Judge Ray K. in the $7,475 Duncan Kenner Stakes.

NET SCENE MOVES INDOORS

Vic, Tony Seek Board Title

NEW YORK (AP)—It's off the lush Australian turf and onto the slick boards of the Seventh Regiment Armory this week for America's roving Davis Cup tennis Aces.

Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, who teamed to wrest back the international trophy from the down under, head an international cast of 32 who open play Friday night in the annual National Indoor Tournament.

Both will arrive Thursday just in time to attend a Davis Cup victory dinner and celebration on tournament eve.

They will be joined in the field by teammate Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., champion U. S. intercollegiate, and Art Larsen, the eccentric left-hander from San Leandro, Calif., giving the tournament the nation's four top-ranking players for the first time in many years.

Seixas, No. 1, will be attempting to add the indoor to his outdoor grass courts crown won at Forest Hills last summer. Larsen is the only per-

Pan Polo Trials at Lynwood

LYNWOOD — Approximately 300 of the best water polo players will converge on the new Lynwood Municipal Natatorium this week to participate in the United States Pan American games Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Ten teams, each made up of seven players and four substitutes, have entered the competition, which will choose the United States entry in the Pan American games at Mexico City next month.

Sponsored by the Lynwood Junior Chamber of Commerce and the city recreation department, the competition will mark the first major production to take place in the $400,000 natatorium, which was completed last fall.

Teams from as far east as Chicago and as far north as San Francisco will begin arriving for pre-competition workouts Sunday night. As yet no schedule for the elimination contest has been released.

In addition to the water polo games a full program of synchronized swimming, exhibition and comedy diving, featuring outstanding swimmers and divers from Southern California, has been scheduled for the entertainment of an expected capacity turnout of spectators.

The tentative schedule, as announced by Arnold Rables, city recreation director, calls for morning, afternoon and evening sessions on opening day, Friday and afternoon and evening sessions Saturday and Sunday.

The swimming and diving exhibitions will be scheduled in between the water polo events during the three-day swimfest, according to Rables.

Arthur Austin of Los Angeles, vice president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, will be in charge of the games.

Expected to be one of the toughest teams to beat in the games is the Illinois Athletic Club team, which will arrive by air from Chicago, Ill., at the Burbank-Lockwood Air Terminal at 6:30 p.m. today.

The men from the Olympic Club of San Francisco will arrive Wednesday afternoon and are expected to give some of the local entries a rough session.

Other entries include two from the Lynwood Swim Club, two from El Segundo, two from the Trojan Club made up of Navy personnel; one from Santa Monica and one made up of students from Fullerton Junior College and Long Beach State College.

Tickets are being sold by Lynwood merchants and the Chamber of Commerce at $2.75 for all three days and $1.10 for a single admission. Tickets also will be available at the recreation department and the pool.

former who has won the four major U. S. championships grass, clay, hardcourt and indoor.

ally and winner of six straight tournament titles on the Florida swing, is another contender along with Herbie Flam, former runnerup at Forest Hills, and Gilbert Shea, holder of the hardcourt title.

The foreign list will be headed by Ulf Schmidt, an impressive Swede who has been impressive in European indoor tournaments, and a pair of Canadian Davis Cup stars, Henry Rochon and Lorne Main.

The shift from grass to boards is not an easy one and, despite their national ranking and Davis Cup success, Seixas and Trabert won't be favored.

Both were knocked out of the last year's tournament, in which Sven Davidson, the Swedish Davis Cupper, beat Denmark's Kurt Nielsen in the finals.

Play is scheduled in both singles and doubles. Matinee programs are scheduled at Tuesday Saturday, Sunday and Monday, when the final will be held. Matches will be played at night on Friday and Monday, Feb. 21.

BOWLING ALONG

Distaff dots and dashes: Officials of the Woman's International Bowling Congress remind all members of the WIBC that Tuesday is the absolute deadline for filing entries for the 38th annual championship tournament. The annual classic will open at the Music Box Bowling Lanes in Omaha, Neb., on April 14 and continue until all have had a chance to bowl.

Latest reports from Mrs. Emma Phaler of Columbus, Ohio, national WIBC secretary, indicate that Omaha's goal of 5,500 teams is still far from realization. However, spokesmen for the hostess association in Omaha have been staging a last minute drive for entries which is proving a terrific success and national officers are confident that the entry at the Omaha tournament will be one of the finest in the long and colorful history of the event.

LOS ANGELES: Rae Williams made the 7-10 split here recently and actually didn't see it. Bowling in the 800 Scratch League, she rolled for the 7 pin and turned her back after releasing her ball, having no idea that the pin would cross over. Everyone else in the establishment yelled as Rae's shot made the difficult split and it seemed as though everyone else there but the one most concerned, saw both pins fall.

DETROIT: Penny Morys shot an all time high of 663 at the Fantasy Recreation here a few weeks ago on games of 232, 217, 214. She had pretty good reason to figure she had made a score that her husband, Joe Morys, would not top. But Joe didn't give Penny much time to gloat for later that same day he shot 104, 212, 255 for a 684 series—one pin better than his wife. He is still the king pin in the Morys household.

DISTAFF MEMBERS have their fun today starting at 11:30 a.m. with breakfast at the Coast Inn. The occasion is the annual Long Beach district women's open meeting which gets under way at 1 p.m.

The following candidates are up for office:

President—Gee Isham; 1st VP—Wanda Brill; 2nd VP—Marie Winter; Sec.—Vera Comley; Treas.—Kay Allen; Parliamentarian—Marie Holman; Sgt. at Arms—Alice Melgren.

Awarding of trophies to the various champions of the recent city tournament is on tap.

Wheeling and dealing... John Berry drew the raves in the Auto Club handicap at the Virginia last week. His 264, 235 with handicap established new league high game and his (653) 741 was a new series high.

W. Kennedy, in the City Emerald, at the Major fired a 146-147-148. His average is 153.

Bruce Yeaman wishes the first and tenth frames could be eliminated. He fired a neat 264 at North Long Beach Tuesday with splits in the first and last frames.

The girls in the Tuesday women's at North Long Beach did all right picking up the 7-6-10; Bussanich picked up the 7-6-10; Dietzinger, 3-9-10; Helen Howard, 3-9-10; Bev La Pierre 3-9-10; Cash 3-10 and H. Howard 3-10, 3-10.

Alan Alexander doesn't get many lulls with his work in state pin circles. He's busy getting entries worked out for the coming State tourney in Stockton. Entries close March 15.

BEULAH BATS BIRDIE

Beulah Bymaster, one of top-ranking lady badminton players in the nation, will be among entries in Southern California Open Badminton Tournament to be held at Long Beach City College gym next week end. Tourney is stepping-stone to national tourney which will be held in Long Beach April 6-9.

Alston Favorite In Local Birdie Play

Joe Alston, this nation's top player, was seeded No. 1 for next weekend's Southern California Badminton Tournament to be played at the Long Beach City College gym, president Jack Praag of the SCBA announced Saturday.

Alston's wife Lois, third-seeded nationally, heads the seedings in women's singles followed by Thelma Welcome of Glendale and Beulah Bymaster of North Hollywood.

South Pasadena's Alston was followed in the men's singles rankings by Dick Mitchell of San Diego, third ranked nationally, and Bob Williams of Pasadena, who is second ranked in the nation.

In addition to Alston, Mitchell and Williams, Bill Berry of San Diego and Manuel Armendariz of Burbank will compete giving the tourney all five members of the United States Thomas Cup team.

Alston, 27-year-old FBI agent, deserves his top seeding in the tourney. He was runner-up of the nationals to Eddy Chong of Malaya last year and won the title in 1951. His toughest competition in the tourney here is expected to come from Mitchell, former San Diego State College athlete, whose left-handed smashes and forcing game are rated near the top in competitive badminton.

The complete seedings:

Men's Singles—1. Joe Alston (South Pasadena), 2. Dick Mitchell (San Diego), 3. Bill Berry (San Diego), 4. Manuel Armendariz (Burbank), 5. John Lee (San Diego), 6. Fred Knight (Santa Monica), 7. Carl Loveland (San Diego), 8. Women's Singles—1. Lois Alston (South Pasadena), 2. Thelma Welcome (Glendale), 3. Beulah Bymaster (North Hollywood), 4. Dick Gallagher (San Diego), 5. Georgia Burke (San Diego), 6. Evelyn Kinser (San Diego), 7. Mary McMurray (Glendale), 8. Women's Doubles—1. Alston-Alston, 2. Armendariz-Martin, 3. Loveland-Williams, 4. Mitchell-Berry, 5. Cogswell-Sanchez, 6. Berry-Berry, 7. Welton-Fleming, 8. Men's Doubles—1. Alston-Bymaster, 2. Loveland-Fleming, 3. Cogswell-Carter, 4. McArthur-Wilkinson.

John M. Fox Jr., driving ahead of Powell, said Powell's car was going about 70 miles an hour when it skidded to the outside of the track, careened into the infield and overturned. Powell had more laps to go in the practice session.

Sponsored by the California Sports Car Club and the Long Beach MG Club, today's race will feature 140 cars including a Ferrari Mondial driven by Tony Parravano and two heavy Cadillacs.

The first race was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

It's unfortunate that the breaks you receive in this business of football coaching come your way at the expense of some other person. His misfortune becomes your fortune. That's the way it seemed to me 11 years ago when Stu Holcomb was drafted into the Army from his job as head football coach at Miami University of Ohio and I succeeded him.

Yet later events proved it was to become his big break, too. I was Stu's line coach at Miami before moving into his shoes in 1944 and remaining in them through the 1947 season. Those were extremely successful years for us. I believe we lost only six games and turned out many fine football players, among them Ara Parseghian, now the coach at Miami. There are now about 75 of my Miami boys coaching high school teams.

So there were many satisfactions from the big break that moved me into my first college head coaching job.

Meanwhile Holcomb, as a private in the Army, was sent to West Point, there to assist Col. Earl Blaik in coaching the Army team. And from that experience came the contacts that undoubtedly led to his fine tenure as coach of the Purdue University team.

Ironically, from Miami, I too, went to West Point as an assistant.

Southland Cagers Start Stretch Run

Collegiate bucketeers of the Southland head into the home stretch of their long 1954-55 campaign this week, most of them out of contention for conference laurels.

After a six-game home stand, UCLA's Bruins hit the highway for a Southern Division two-game series with California's Golden Bears at Berkeley this Friday and Saturday.

Stanford makes its second visit to the Southland in two weeks, ending to tangle with the SC Trojans at the Pan-Pacific the same nights.

Loyola and Los Angeles State are the busiest quintets in the college ranks, each booked for three nights of action.

Billy Donovan's Lions play at Santa Barbara Tuesday, then entertain College night, The Diablos, experiencing an unusually rough season, entertain the Pepperdine Waves Tuesday night, then play at San Diego State Friday and at the San Diego Naval Air Station Saturday.

After their Tuesday contest at Los Angeles State, Duck Dowell's Pepperdine quintet will return to familiar home surroundings.

South Pasadena's Alston was followed in the men's singles rankings by Dick Mitchell of San Diego, third ranked nationally, and Bob Williams of Pasadena, who is second ranked in the nation.

In addition to Alston, Mitchell and Williams, Bill Berry of San Diego and Manuel Armendariz of Burbank will compete giving the tourney all five members of the United States Thomas Cup team.

Alston, 27-year-old FBI agent, deserves his top seeding in the tourney. He was runner-up of the nationals to Eddy Chong of Malaya last year and won the title in 1951. His toughest competition in the tourney here is expected to come from Mitchell, former San Diego State College athlete, whose left-handed smashes and forcing game are rated near the top in competitive badminton.

The complete seedings:

Men's Singles—1. Joe Alston (South Pasadena), 2. Dick Mitchell (San Diego), 3. Bill Berry (San Diego), 4. Manuel Armendariz (Burbank), 5. John Lee (San Diego), 6. Fred Knight (Santa Monica), 7. Carl Loveland (San Diego), 8. Women's Singles—1. Lois Alston (South Pasadena), 2. Thelma Welcome (Glendale), 3. Beulah Bymaster (North Hollywood), 4. Dick Gallagher (San Diego), 5. Georgia Burke (San Diego), 6. Evelyn Kinser (San Diego), 7. Mary McMurray (Glendale), 8. Women's Doubles—1. Alston-Alston, 2. Armendariz-Martin, 3. Loveland-Williams, 4. Mitchell-Berry, 5. Cogswell-Sanchez, 6. Berry-Berry, 7. Welton-Fleming, 8. Men's Doubles—1. Alston-Bymaster, 2. Loveland-Fleming, 3. Cogswell-Carter, 4. McArthur-Wilkinson.

John M. Fox Jr., driving ahead of Powell, said Powell's car was going about 70 miles an hour when it skidded to the outside of the track, careened into the infield and overturned. Powell had more laps to go in the practice session.

Sponsored by the California Sports Car Club and the Long Beach MG Club, today's race will feature 140 cars including a Ferrari Mondial driven by Tony Parravano and two heavy Cadillacs.

The first race was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

PARTICULARS

By JERRY WYNN

Congratulations to Brentwood H. Fleming of 1753 E. Ocean Blvd. and the South Coast Women's Club. She caught the 128-yard 8th hole at the South Course while playing with Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Hoffman in a club tourney.

FRED RICHARDS, 87-20, won the Virginia Men's Club Saturday Sweepstakes with a 67—one stroke better than Frej Hagelberg, 94-26; Glenn Gill, 80-12, and Pete Drake, 80-12.

Jim Ferrie with a one-under par 70 gross tied with Sol Deebie, 76-7; Ralph Irwin, 78-9; Herb Walgren, 81-12, and L. H. Conley, 90-21, for fourth at 69. Conley, in at 70 were Roy Spawr, 75-5; Dr. Cliff Easley, 77-7; Ralph Manns, 92-22, and Dave Lewis, 85-15.

Blind Bogey (73) victorious were Carl Wallace, John Craig, IL Charles Pearson, Chuck Stratton, R. R. Dudley, Al Martin, William Harrower and Dr. Howard Penrose.

The immediate danger in the Los Angeles CC rejection, is that the USGA could very well find a thousand other courses throughout the nation that would jump at the chance of being host to a tourney as important and renowned as the National Amateur. In fact, in most other sections, clubs would fight for the opportunity.

A true test of championship golf must be housed on a championship course. Continuing the growth of a selfish attitude on the part of some Southland private courses can only mean the fostering of second-rate golf.

PUBLIX PLAY gets rolling March 6 with qualifying for class championships. Recreation Park will host championship flight trials and Lakeview, Class E (16 handicap and up). Entries should be sent to tournament chairman Mark Greer, 5344 Arroyo Way, Long Beach. Everts Porterfield became the father of a second girl last week. Dick Lunn, who may be recalled as a qualifying leader for the 1954 L. A. Open, has replaced Paul Runyan as head pro at Pasadena's Annandale CC. Runyan moved to LaJolla CC where he is assisted by Art Doering, another recent appointment.

Search for prospective new area courses uncovered two possibilities. There's a strong move in Anaheim for the construction of a private course while Forest Smith, Clock CC manager, has been reported investigating sites between Long Beach and Garden Grove. Also, the Allen plan for improvement of the Long Beach water-front included a pitch-and-putt course bordering the ocean near Terminal Island. Seven new peacocks are received additions to the large Lakewood CC fowl population. Still a need for more birds and a few eagles, though, Mrs. Ray Spawr, an avid Virginia Women's Club golfer broke 100 for the first time this week with a 97. Marshall Holt of Lakewood had a ten on the par-5 18th in the Tuscon open Friday.

Hank Sauer's 47-30—77 at Virginia Friday proves that if you're able to drive a ball far enough, anything can happen the rest of the way in. Sauer uncorked a 320-yard blast to within feet of the ninth green to set up his 20-foot wedge for an eagle. The baseball players will be at it again Monday at Clock CC in their annual Hot Stove tournament. But for one of our favorite columnists and fellow duffers, Dick (In This Corner) Zehms, it was quite after some difficulty on the 38th at Virginia. The "old man" spoiled a top round with a 72-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-10-11-12-13. The par-5 hole was obviously never in his corner. And it seems that Yogi Berra can't get away from Casey Stengel's two-platoon theories even on the golf course. Playing in the Miami ballplayers' meet, Berra "hit" right-handed and putted left-handed!

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

The Long Beach Sportsman's Club, now in its 18th year, passed another milestone Saturday night and a fresh crew of officers took the helm at the annual installation and dinner-dance.

Everett Van Winkle became president, succeeding J. C. Morse. Others installed were Harry DuBay, vice president;

EVERETT VAN WINKLE Sportsman's Club Chief

Elmer Vance, secretary; Bill Oakley, treasurer; and Jack Bowman, sergeant-at-arms. Those officers and J. C. Morse, Ivan Bowman and Cecil Blumenstein will serve as directors.

Morse was appointed to act as the LBSC representative to the Southern Council of Conservation Clubs.

It was another "good" year for the LBSC. The club donated generous amounts of money to Ducks Unlimited and the Ocean Fish Protective Assn. It also modernized the kitchen and its companion club of women, the Lady Anglers, donated a stainless-steel steam table.

The club meets at its own home, 3625 Santa Fe Ave., every Monday night and its purpose is to promote clean sportsmanship among lovers of the outdoors. The club, which was constructed by its own members, is a large building, with lounge and dining rooms, a big meeting room, kitchen and storage room. The members also built their outdoor patio and a casting pool, both of which are used extensively in the summer and early fall.

TROUT SEASON SET
You can set your sights on Saturday, April 30, for the opening of trout season in Southern California. Inyo and Mono Counties and other central Sierra Nevada areas are embraced in what we normally call Southern California.

The northern Sierra section will open May 14, two weeks ahead of last year's season, with Mariposa, Tuolumne, Calaveras and Amador Counties added to the present list. The north coast area, including Del Norte and Humboldt Counties and the Eel River drainage basin, will be opened May 28.

Those changes are as good as law right now, even though the Fish and Game Commission won't deliver its final decision.

Rockets Eye '55 Opener
Idle while football grabbed the spotlight and the weatherman kept a ready eye on the tarpaulin, Billy Feistner's classy semipro nine, the Long Beach Rockets, returns to action here next Sunday.

The Rockets, annually one of the top semipro clubs in the state, are scheduled to open the 1955 season against St. Mary's of San Pedro at Recreation Park. It will be their first start since Nov. 14. On Sunday, Feb. 27, the Rockets meet the L. A. All-Stars here in a final tuneup before facing the Los Angeles Angels at Fullerton, March 6.

Feistner expects most of his regulars to return for this year's campaign. Last season the Rockets won 28 of 34 games en route to the Winter League championship.

Bud Daley, who posted a 13-8 mark for Sacramento in his rookie season last year, may pitch to the Rockets until he reports to the Solons' spring camp. Other Rocket regulars include first baseman Jack Graham, former major league and PCL slugger; Bob Carter, a hard-hitting outfielder; defensive ace and centerfielder George Seifridge, and shortstop veteran Red McInnis.

NL Hockey Scores
New York 5, Boston 5 (tie).
Detroit 2, Toronto 1.

Poly-Jordan Tilt Heads Local Slate

Poly and Jordan clash head-on Thursday night at the Long Beach City College gym with the Coast League lead and the mythical city championship at stake in the feature game on this week's heavy basketball slate.

The Hares and Panthers have identical 7-1 records in league play and both have defeated Wilson High—so the Thursday night fray looms as one of the most important prep games of the year. A capacity crowd is expected for the tilt.

Long Beach City College will battle tough East L. A. Tuesday night in a Jaycee headliner, while Long Beach State has three games this week.

In addition to basketball, spring sports move into the local picture this week with a track meet, a golf match and a baseball game on tap. The week's schedule:

TUESDAY
Basketball—Long Beach City College at Wilson High, 8 p. m.; Long Beach State at Occidental, 8 p. m.; Long Beach State at Occidental, 8 p. m.; Long Beach State at Occidental, 8 p. m.; Long Beach State at Occidental, 8 p. m.

L.B. 'Y' Wins 3rd Straight

Coach Terry Vestermark's "Y" basketball squad notched its third straight win in the Southern California YMCA League by defeating Beverly Hills, 23-24, Saturday afternoon on the losers' court.

The local Cee and Dee teams were idle.

AL Hockey Scores
Hershey 9, Providence 3.
Buffalo 9, Cleveland 5.
Pittsburgh 3, Springfield 0.

City Loop in Playoffs

City League basketball playoffs begin Tuesday night in the Franklin, Rogers and Washington Jr. High gymnasiums with the single elimination games in the "D" division.

The A, B and C division teams then go into action on Wednesday and competition in all directions will continue until the finals, March 7-8 at Wilson High.

Garner TV and the Franklin Cobras start the playoffs with a 7:15 p. m. game at Franklin Tuesday and two other games will follow in that gym.

The same situation prevails at Rogers and Washington where 2nd Presbyterian meets 1st Church of Brethren Bees and U. P. Question Marks take on Garfield East in 7:15 openers.

The first class A games on Wednesday pit Barnes & DeLancy against New Hope Baptist and Coast Guard vs. Bond Street Works at Poly.

The class A division is the only double elimination portion of the playoffs. Oliver's Rose Room is defending champion.

Szabo Faces Great Bolo in 'Aud' Main

The Great Bolo, an unusually despised grappler, returns to Long Beach after a long "cooling off" period Thursday night when he headlines the professional wrestling production at the Municipal Auditorium against ever-popular Sandor Szabo.

This time around the circuit Bolo has added to his self-styled name and comes up with "Master Great Bolo," though all three are open to question. But that he is a rough rasser is not questioned in any quarters.

Tom Rice, formerly Bolo's partner in a tag team that had considerable success in the Southland, is back also. He goes against Alo Leilani in a two of three falls 45 minute seminaim.

The top bout has an hour limit. Jungle Boy, substitute in a recent show here, comes back with all his hair—to match holds with Vic Christy in the special event and Joe Blanchard opens action at 8:30 against Mike DeBlaise.

Turpin Tries Comeback Monday

LONDON (UPI)—A familiar figure who has known far better days comes down from the hills of North Wales Monday to put on boxing gloves again and try to recapture the cash and the fame that slipped away.

Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion and the man who whipped Ray Robinson when that was a tremendous feat, opens a comeback after one of the greatest comedowns in boxing.

The opposition is little known. Ray Schmidt of Luxembourg, a durable, never-knocked out lightweight whose record includes too many defeats to stamp him as anything but an "opponent." The bout will be in the small 4,500-seat Embassy Sportsdrome in Birmingham.

Unattractive as the fight may sound, the fans of the boxing-starved English midlands already have made it a sellout.

Instead of ranking with Sir Winston Churchill, the Duke of Edinburgh and Sir Anthony Eden among the most talked about men in London, Turpin is now infrequently mentioned.

London papers have occasional brief stories on Turpin's condition and his method of training. At 26, he is slower and heavier. He will weigh about 170. New York in the autumn of 1953.

NO BANANAS IN MOSCOW

Ideology Still Can't Alter Nature's Laws

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The late Comrade Nikolai Ivanovich Vavilov can be pardoned a ghostly laugh.

A world-famous Russian agricultural scientist, Vavilov was driven from high office and to death by some of the men whose bumbling caused Georgi Malenkov to admit, last week, that there was serious trouble down on the collective farm.

And today, 16 years after Vavilov's last futile plea for scientific freedom, the new Soviet rulers seem to be inching toward it.

"There is a realization on top that without some freedom and controversy in science there can be no practical progress," Dr. Lazar Volin, a U. S. Agriculture Department specialist on Soviet agriculture, told the United Press.

Soviet development of improved crops and livestock has lagged far behind other countries largely because Vavilov and other scientists were purged. Their studies of genetics and the science of genetics were banned because they contradicted the Communist theory that environment can make basic changes in all living things.

Agricultural research was placed under direction of a Stalin favorite, Trofim Lysenko. But Lysenko's efforts to substitute party doctrines for scientific fact failed to produce higher-yielding wheat and corn.

A practical plant breeder, Lysenko knew nothing about science. But Communist party officials, needing someone to spearhead their attack on genetics, began building him up in the 1930's.

In 1935, Vavilov told a foreign visitor who was disgusted by Lysenko's ignorance, "He may find out how to grow bananas in Moscow. He does no harm, and some day may do some good."

Four years later, Lysenko denounced Vavilov. The famed scientist was accused first of promoting Nazi theories and then of being a British spy. He was sent to Siberia where he died as Lysenko replaced him at the head of the Academy of Agricultural Sciences.

No bananas grew in Moscow. And one agricultural failure implied on another, Lysenko's power began to fade after Stalin's death. Last year the one-time dictator of Soviet agriculture came under attack from er scientists. Their science magazines which blasted Vavilov at his direction 16 years ago criticize him.

Banker Sees Great Future in L. B. Area

Predicting a remarkably scheduled to appear at Town and Pine Ave. office, Champlin discussed some of the major problems of current real estate lending practices, and concluded his remarks with the prediction that 1955 would be a good year of less than boom proportions, and that values in real estate could be expected to remain high because we are running out of acreage to subdivide.

This "Loan Forum" series will be continued on Feb. 16 with a discussion by Forrest Peterson of the California Bank's Los Angeles office of the "Installment Loan Picture for 1955," and concluded on Feb. 23rd with a dinner-discussion of Problem Loans. —The Work Out" by Russell T. Adams, vice president of the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles. All of these meetings will be held at Town Hall, Eighth St. and Locust Ave. in Long Beach.

Virtually raised in a saw mill with some ranching experience in Canada, James L. Bentley, honored as this week's Realtor of the Week, has been dealing in the sale of land and properties since 1909. He has been actively engaged in realty in Long Beach since 1923.

He came to Long Beach in July, 1923, and built a home at 27 E. 55th St., where he still resides. He was one of four partners who formed the Wheel Realty Co., in August, 1923, and now is the sole owner of that business at 3451 Long Beach Blvd., which he terms the oldest real estate office in North Long Beach.

During the depression days Bentley ventured into bookkeeping, notary, insurance and realty combined "to keep away the wolf," and he still offers those services.

He and his wife, Mabel, have three daughters, a son and three grandchildren, all living in Long Beach. He is a charter member of the Uptown Kiwanis Club, is secretary and collector for the North Long Beach Extension Water Co., and has been active in the building of North Long Beach.

Margaret Stotter, the Salesman of the Week, was born in Akron, O., and lived there until 10 years ago and she immediately became a true lover of the Southland. "I dearly love the climate here, even the smog," she says.

After high school and business college training, she embarked on a career at the age of 16 as a bookkeeper on the Scripps-Howard newspaper. From there she followed selling in department stores, managing restaurants and handled automotive contracts, all of which gave her valuable experience in meeting the public.

When she told her husband, Robert L. Stotler, that she planned to try real estate he doubted her success, saying, "you are too honest." She added that the realty profession here proved to him that it was nothing like those he had known in former years and she became associated with Herschel Hart. "My husband soon ate his words," she added.

"I enjoy my work tremendously for each prospect is a challenge—to find the right house for the buyer or the right buyer for a house. My ambition is to specialize in quality built homes and my slogan is 'To thine own self be true and thou can'st then be true to any man.'"

Non-vets and their families have accepted with enthusiasm Sandra Glen Homes in the heart of Garden Grove, where for $495 down, including costs and im-pounds, they are able to move into the home of their dreams.

Located on homesites with bearing orange trees. Sandra Glen Homes feature 2 bedrooms and a den that can easily be converted into a bedroom, separate dining space, genuine plaster walls, ceramic tile in both the kitchen and bath, sliding glass doors, pullman bath, mahogany cabinets, select oak floors, open beamed ceiling, forced air heat, fireproof roof, garbage disposals, concealed laundry room, and decorative planters in the living room.

Full price of a Sandra Glen Home is $10,495. Reasonable monthly payments are easily arranged.

Dedicated to better community living, Sandra Glen Homes are located on Sandra Place, a north-south street insuring safety for children. All the homes are within walking distance of the main business district of Gardnerville. The homes are near the Grove as well as schools, elementary through junior college.

These modified ranch homes are erected on spacious lots averaging 60x135 ft., feature 1064 sq. ft. of living space. Large backyards provide ample space for the construction of a patio at the home-buyer's discretion. Outstanding exterior highlights include redwood trim and overhanging eavestroughs.

Present popularity of Sam Glen Homes is reflected by brisk sales since the tract opened last week ago. Bob Hauge, president of Robert Realty Co., Sam Glen sales agents, reports.

Accessible to the metropolitan Los Angeles area via the Santa Ana Freeway and to all places in Southern California, the Santa Ana Homes are open for inspection seven days a week. To reach the tract, motorists take the Santa Ana Freeway to exit 10, Euclid or Harbor Blvd. Located half way between the two, the motorist then drives along the Linden Grove Blvd. to Sandra Park and turns south to see the homes at the end of the street.

terms are available to non-ventilators. Floors throughout the home are made of No. 1 selected oak, and polished to a high gloss. The walls are made of plaster over genuine lathe and lath. The ceilings are made of plaster over the same features of the homes, which offer a large variety of floor space. Full-width fireplaces and built-in cupboards are available. Arcadia glass sliding doors open onto large patios are also available. The homes are also equipped to find favor with prospective buyers. The homes are also equipped with a central control panel, and a 50-gallon water tank are available. Rush of buying last week at Magnolia Estates has resulted in the sale of 66 of 99 three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes making up the first unit, it was announced by Louis A. Towne, president, and Richard H. Doremus, vice president, of Exhibit Homes, Inc.

As a result construction will be speeded at the new residential community in Anaheim, located on the west side of Magnolia Ave., between La Palma and Scant Aves., just south of the Santa Ana Freeway, it was stated.

"Buyers tell us they wish to get away from the congested area and yet be near Anaheim's well-established community services, schools, churches, shopping centers and theaters, as well as having quick access to downtown Los Angeles and other key employment centers via the freeway and fast arterials," the developer reported.

Terms for veterans featured no cash down, but even for costs or impounds, with monthly payments from $61, including

3 BEDROOMS—2 BATHS PLUS JACK & JILL ROOM

BUENA PARK HOME

Families Move Into Buena Plaza Homes

First 67 families have moved into their new 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes at Aldon Construction Co.'s new $50,000,000 Buena Plaza residential community now rising at Miller St. and La Palma Ave., near Knott's Berry Farm, in Buena Park.

This was reported by an Aldon spokesman who said move-ins already scheduled for the next week will bring in an additional 35 families.

Meanwhile, construction is being accelerated as heavy sales were noted in the final section of 250 "Masterpiece Series" homes now rising in Buena Park Plaza's first unit.

Terms for veterans feature no cash down, even for costs and impounds, it was pointed out by E. (Bully) Hamburg, general sales agent, who reported many sales to non-vets on newly-arranged low terms.

"Both vets and non-vets continue to elect to have built-in Western Holly Deluxe ovens and ranges, with clock controls, installed in their homes as an optional feature," he stated.

Cost for both built-in oven and range, which is offered in five pastel colors as well as stainless steel and copper, is an additional $1.94 per month added to low vets' monthly terms of $71.49 for both principal and interest.

Large crowds were reported both weekends and weekdays at Aldon's display of six model homes, all fully furnished by Aaron Schultz. The homes, which typify 22 diversified designs from which buyers may choose, as well as a wide variety of floor plans and color schemes, are open daily from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Buyers have a choice of provincial, colonial, modern or farmhouse architectural stylings, all based on scientifically designed floor plans.

Buena Plaza is reached from Los Angeles via the Santa Ana Freeway, past Norwalk, to Valley View Ave., turning south to the property. From Long Beach, the route is Carson St., which becomes Lincoln Ave., to Miller St., then north to the six model homes.

Report Big Gain
Fred H. Massey, Orville Year-out, and Walter P. Redman, local representatives of Standard Insurance Company attended a company meeting in Fresno last week. The meeting was in recognition of Standard's outstanding sales record in 1954. Edwin A. Phillips, vice president and superintendent of Agencies for Inc., sales agents for the three-percentage of the rent paid will be applied to the down payment on the home.

A new "rent-with-option-to-buy" plan in Banner Park was announced today by Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, chooses to buy the dwelling, a portion of the rent paid will be applied to the down payment on the home.

Standard said that the company had a record year, with total sales showing a 40 per cent gain over 1953.

This opportunity, coupled with the high quality of construction and appealing architecture of the homes, will hasten the occupancy of the homes, it was noted, which have maintained a rapid sales record since the opening.

Priced from $11,800, the homes are available to veterans for no down payment. Non-veterans can buy with FHA financing, it was revealed. Monthly payments are approximately $67. Visitors may inspect models, open daily evening to 9, by driving out Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) or Westminster to Harbor and turning south on Harbor to Hazard and Banner Park.

Brookhurst Plaza's Futura Homes Open

Preview this weekend of Brookhurst Plaza Futura Homes promises to be an event of high interest to families desiring a real home of the future, revealed Frank Hart, Sales Manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents. Finest points of contemporary and conventional stylings have been combined in these architecturally designed 3-and-4-bedroom homes, he stated. Veterans can buy the custom-styled dwellings, each with 2 bathrooms, for no down payment. New FHA financing, with 30-year terms, is also available, Hart explained.

The heart of one of Anaheim's most preferred residential districts is the location of Brookhurst Plaza Futura Homes, on Brookhurst Ave., between Orange and Santa Ana Freeway.

The picturesque beauty of the tree-studded area is being preserved with fully matured trees remaining on every building site.

R & W Construction Co., developers of the new neighborhood, planned the project for convenience as well as beauty. Hart said, with the new Broadway Department Store shopping center a short distance away. Also nearby is Disneyland, Walt Disney's widely publicized amusement development.

Preview visitors will inspect two completely furnished and landscaped models of the homes, featuring all of the many attrac-

Brisk Sales Shown in Glen Dell Park

Brisk sales and thousands of visitors were reported Saturday at Glen Dell Park, where a new third unit of 131 large three-bedroom, two-bath homes has been placed on the market.

The report was given by William P. Bowman, vice president in charge of sales for D. & E. Corp., developers. Bowman said buyers have come from all sections of Los Angeles and Orange Counties to find homes in the new $4,500,000 residential property. Veterans, he explained, are

SALES ARE SOARING

More than a million dollars of new homes have been sold at the Harmony Manor development, Magnolia Ave. and Ball Rd. in Garden Grove. Selling of the third and final unit is now in progress. No cash is required of vets to move into these three-bedroom, two-bath homes. High lighting is the unique "Jack and Jill Room," designed with two separate sleeping quarters and a play area incorporated in one room. To reach Harmony Manor, take the Santa Ana Freeway to Magnolia Ave., then turn right to sales office. From Long Beach, take 7th St. east (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) to Magnolia Ave. and turn north to sales office.

IN GARDEN GROVE

This attractive three-bedroom, two-bath exterior is typical of 131 large dwellings rising in Glen Dell Park on West St. between Katella and Chapman Ave. in Garden Grove. Vets' terms are no cash down, not even for costs and impounds.

"Buyers also have shown wide interest," a noted spokesman said, "in the proximity of their new homes to Disneyland, which actually is within easy walking distance of Glen Dell Park."

High on the list of favored features, he said, are 60-foot-wide separate service porch, natural lots, redwood trimmed exteriors, finish kitchen cabinets with hambrick planters, pot shelves and mended copper hardware, garbage in some models, covered terraces, disposers, hood and exhaust fan. All the homes have oak floors, over range and breakfast bar.

NAVY FAMILY BUYS

Transferred to Long Beach last week, Lt. John E. Renn, USN, commanding officer of the USS Firm, his wife and their three children are welcomed into a new Los Altos Jr. Executive home by L. S. Whaley, developer, and Alfred Reinertson, president of the Long Beach National Bank. Under arrangements made by Whaley, men in active service may receive terms similar to the GI terms on the new homes.

New Navy Families Buying in Los Altos

Several families transferred to, commanded by Rear Adm. R. N. Long Beach by the Navy with Smoot. Lt. Renn and his family are occupying their Junior Executive home at 2450 San Anselmo Ave. from the east coast to this port have purchased homes in Los Altos, Dave Davenport, general sales manager of the Los Altos Realty, Inc., announced.

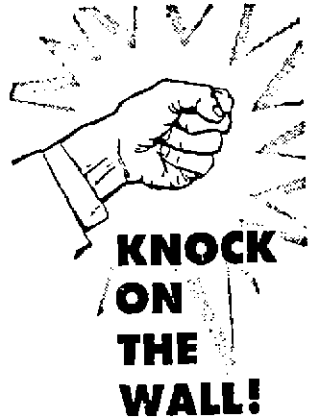

L. S. Whaley, the Los Altos developer, has arranged special terms for men in service so that they may buy new homes on payments similar to those given GI buyers after ending their service. These terms have enabled many of the new Navy families to purchase the Junior Executive homes just east of Bellflower Blvd., north of Los Coyotes Diagonal.

Among the new Navy families to move into these luxury homes are Lt. and Mrs. John E. Renn and their three children.

A graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy in June, 1945, Lt. Renn was commissioned an ensign and served on destroyers until August, 1950, when he took a post-graduate course in communications at Annapolis.

He saw duty on the staff command of amphibious Group 2, Atlantic Fleet, and participated in the North Europe and the Mediterranean NATO amphibious operations.

His present assignment is commanding officer of the USS Firm, in a unit of mine forces.

Windsor Village Sales Climbing, Agents Report

Sales totaling more than $750,000 have been recorded at Windsor Village, Garden Grove subdivision, since opening of the popular development, reports George Petrow, spokesman for the McCarthy Co., sales agents. Petrow said that a choice selection of the dwellings are still available to prospective homeowners.

Ceramic tiling is a feature of the kitchens which have the new louvered windows and are equipped with garbage disposers. Cork tile floors are praised by visitors who appreciate their beauty, resiliency and durability, Petrow said.

Landscaping of the front and side yards of the oversize lots is a winning feature of the homes. Other attractions are walls of glass in the living rooms, added storage space found in the two-car garages, which also have work areas, television jacks and outlets, weatherstripping, rock-wool insulation, and 50-gallon hot-water tanks. Thermostatically-controlled heat assures even temperatures throughout the home.

Priced from $11,150 to $12,775.

Golden Key Features Are Appealing to Housewives

The modern woman scoffs at the old-fashioned philosophy of "woman's place is in the home." But a Brookhurst Golden Key home is said to reverse her whole trend of thinking. "And no wonder," say the visitors who have inspected the four excitingly furnished Golden Key model homes at Gilbert and Bixby, Garden Grove. These 3 and 4-bedroom homes, which all offer the convenience and luxury of two baths, start in price at $13,775. Terms are FHA for non-veterans, with no down payment (impounds only) for qualified veterans.

Women visitors have especially liked the carefully planned more leisure time through efficient operation. Fatigue is minimized by installing automatic ranges at a convenient height so there is no need for tiresome stooping. Eliminating an unpleasant task is the General Electric waste disposal. Built-in mahogany kitchen cabinets afford a wealth of storage space for convenience and easy maintenance. Electric exhaust fans keep these pleasant kitchens comfortable and free from cooking odors.

Brookhurst Golden Key Homes are designed for pleasant living with fireplaces, sliding glass walls that merge indoors and outdoors, and beautiful oak floors. Sites are unusually large. Golden Key homes offer many such ultra-modern features as touch-plate lighting. Aware also of the practical side of choosing a home, women visitors have expressed favorable comment on such features as forced air heat, insulated ceilings, Pullman lavatories, screened windows and public sewers already installed.

Wonderland Homes Sales Now Over $1 Million Mark

Large crowds this week sent sales over the $1,000,000 mark, for the three-week period just ended, at Wonderland Homes, new community of 162 custom-styled 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes now rising at the southeast corner of Ball Rd. and Walnut St., Anaheim.

Priced to sell in the $12,486 to $13,870 range, the dwellings are offered to veterans for no cash down, not even for costs and impounds, on 30-year, 4% per cent GI loans, and on low FHA terms to non-vets, it was announced by Pioneer Land Co., sales agents.

Feature today will be the showing of four model residences on the Walnut St. frontage of the new development. Like other homes in the new community, the exhibit dwellings are surrounded by full-bearing orange trees.

A WONDERLAND HOME.

This attractive exterior reflects the kind of designing by AIA Architect William M. Bray which is going into Anaheim's newest development, Wonderland Homes, at Walnut St. and Ball Rd. The area was once an orange grove.

Magnolia Manor Nearing Sellout

Non-veterans who may move in for only $295 are buying fast at Magnolia Manor in Anaheim where the Dal-Mor Builders' "Wonder Homes" are now over two-thirds sold out.

Big and ideally located, the Magnolia Manor homes offer 1,400 square feet of living space and are situated just off the Santa Ana Freeway on Magnolia Boulevard between Buena Park and Anaheim.

The "Wonder Homes" feature four bedrooms and two baths and are styled in the provincial manner with redwood trim and other exterior adornments.

Furnished models are on display at the site.

NO. 10 FOR HODGES REALTY

A new branch office has been opened at 2915 Bellflower Blvd. by the Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., to serve the Los Altos-Lakewood area. It is the 10th Long Beach office for the firm.

Rex Hodges Firm Opens Office for Los Altos Area

Rex L. Hodges Realty Co. announced the opening of a new branch office at 2915 Bellflower Blvd. This is the 10th office in Long Beach and it will concentrate on serving the Los Altos and South Lakewood area.

Bill Barbee, president and general manager of the Hodges Company, stated: "We must continue to grow as Long Beach grows and with the State College, Veterans Hospital and other attractions in the Los Altos area, it will continue to attract home owners."

Barbee also reported that the volume of business handled by the Hodges Company, during 1954, was $11,433,000.00 or approximately ten per cent greater than in '53. This volume of business is reflected in 1953 different real estate transactions.

Business for January 1955 was considerably ahead of the same period of last year and with the new Los Altos office serving that area, he predicted that 1955 would be a better year with transactions up at least ten per cent.

The new Los Altos office has been staffed with personnel who are living in and familiar with the area and they enter into their new tasks with lots of enthusiasm. The manager of the office is Joe Yaffe and the sales personnel is composed of Louis J. Broussard, Cleo Davison, David (Lou) Hamatz, Florence Hayes and Lina Peters.

Offering New Control Plan

Much interest is being shown, by California home owners in a new termite control program announced by the Southern California Tract Termite Control, a leader in the field of pest control. Feature of the 20-year control plan is termite treating as a free service.

Roger A. Kander, president of the SCTTC said: "Effective termite control can only be accomplished through periodical and thorough inspections followed by immediate treating when necessary."

Under the termite control program instituted by the Southern California Tract Termite Control, regular property inspections are provided; followed by immediate treatment of termite infestation.

"Because of their natural swarming ability," Kander added, "Every home is a target for ravaging termites, constituting a threat even to new homes, regardless of how they are constructed."

Licensed by the state of California, the company has plenty of equipment available and men skilled in the most modern control methods.

The slogan of SCTTC is an old familiar one: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

This might be one way to protect your property, but—

THE T.I. WAY IS THE SURE WAY

Trying to protect your property with barrge balloons is pretty expensive—and so is trying to make your own title search!
The search would take you many, many weeks. You'd be doing nothing else but studying complicated land records that go back over a century. And when you finally did finish—you'd have absolutely no assurance at all that you hadn't made one small (but costly) mistake.
But how different it is when we do the job for you! We have the only complete title records in existence of every square inch of Los Angeles County since rancho days. We also have a very efficient staff. Thus we're able to finish your title search in days or hours... and at very small cost.

And most important of all, you receive a Title Insurance policy from us which guarantees our accuracy, and your title.
There may be other ways to protect property... but for 62 years Californians have had the most confidence in the Title Insurance way. You'll find it's the best kind of protection for your property, too.

"none too small, none too big, for T.I. protection"

Plan April Opening for Dutch Village

Work on the latest $500,000 section of the Dutch Village Shopping Center, Woodruff Ave. at Orangethorpe Ave., is 75 per cent complete, R. E. Ibbetson and Thornton Ibbetson, the developers, reported Saturday.

A grand opening is tentatively scheduled for April 21. The stores under construction will have more than 60,000 square feet of floor space, surrounded by 120,000 square feet of parking space.

Trademark of the area is a huge windmill reaching 40 feet into the air. Members of the Dutch Village Business Assn. are planning a giant celebration for the opening, with prizes and top-notch entertainment.

Fifteen stores and shops are already in operation at the center. In the adjacent area of northeast Lakewood and southeast Bellflower, more than 1,000 residences are under construction.

Stores which will be located in the area include: Cole's Market, a restaurant, bakery, candy shop and ice cream store operated by Charles L. Halsey; Marvin B. Crystal's children's shoe store; Cole's ladies' and children's ready-to-wear operated by Lucia Walman; Weston's 50-cent store operated by J. F. McRoberts; Dutch Dry Cleaners, Jim DeBorne and Bob Jenkins, owners; a gift shop operated by Carl Meyer; and Edith Meyers, restaurant and cocktail lounge.

Many Buying in Shamrock

"Apparently many Southern Californians are taking the advice of experts and are buying their homes now," states Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., exclusive sales agents for Shamrock Village, Unit No. 2, in Garden Grove. Hart revealed there has been no let down in the rapid sales pace set in the first unit of Shamrock Village, with buyers of the dwellings taking full advantage of the opportunity to include the cost of major home appliances in their loans.

This plan enables many families to equip their new homes with ranges, automatic washer, and refrigerators, thus reducing the initial expenses of moving into a new dwelling.

Other money-saving features of Shamrock Village homes are rockwool insulation, weatherstripping, thermostat-controlled heat, television jacks and outlets. Kitchens are equipped with the garbage disposal units, and work surfaces in these rooms are in bright ceramic tile. Marble over the tubs, stall showers, and colored fixtures are features of the bathrooms, which are pullman-type, some with electric heaters.

SELLS FOR $60,000

This property at 1112 E. Carson St. recently was sold for $60,000. It is an eight-unit apartment in Bixby Knolls. Steve Spindell of the Moore Realty represented Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Dahl, the sellers, and Harvey Miller of the Harvey Miller Co. represented the buyers, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Holter, in the co-operative deal.

Reports Rush of Sales in Casas Lindas Estates

Popularity of Casas Lindas, the homes, wardrobe closets, Estates is evidenced by the sales, aluminum sash and concrete driveways.

Centrally located with schools, churches, shopping and recreational centers nearby, Casas Lindas Estates are on Ninth St. between Chapman and Garden Grove Blvds. Visitors drive out Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Ninth and turn left to the models.

From Los Angeles, drive out Santa Ana Freeway to Chapman, turn right (west) on Chapman to Ninth, then left (south) to Casas Lindas Estates. As in previous units of the development, the homes are decorated by Margaret Hargreaves, custom-color consultant, who planned the harmonizing interior and exterior elevations in a variety of treatments are available to buyers who may select their preference of front or rear double garages as well.

Luxury features mark the dwellings with touch-plate wiring and a master control panel, papered walls, forced air heat and thermostat control, walk-in closets and efficiency kitchens. These at the Board of Realtors' breakfast meeting Tuesday morning at the Lafayette Hotel. "The Navy variety, it was noted.

Lots are landscaped, all utilities are in, curbs and gutters and paved streets are in the development, it was noted. "There are will preside and Lewis K. Cox also hardwood floors throughout his program chairman.

Rear Adm. Smoot Is Realty Speaker

Rear Adm. Ronald N. Smoot, commandant of mine forces in the Pacific, will be guest speaker at the Board of Realtors' breakfast meeting Tuesday morning at the Lafayette Hotel. "The Navy variety, it was noted.

Scholarship for Winner

Practical suggestions on how to improve traffic safety and reduce traffic accidents will help some high school senior win Pep Boys third annual four-year engineering scholarship to a California state college or university. It was announced by Murray Rosenfeld, general manager of the California auto supply store chain.

four-year course in engineering. To qualify for the scholarship, interested students are required to write an essay answering the question, "What I would do to prevent traffic accidents and save lives."

Rosenfeld said, "We believe everyone should do his part to help solve today's traffic problems and reduce death on the highways. We feel the essay competition will help create an awareness in the schools of the seriousness of the problems and also bring forth practical suggestions for the solution."

All high school seniors, graduating in June 1955, are eligible to compete. Safety Essay entry blanks are now available to all students at their high schools from their class counselors.

NERVES OF STEVE

NEW YORK—I turned the short stories in September," he said. Steve's CBS afternoon show, not greatly different from his present NBC show, was dropped—and Steve has the answer. "I feel funnier at night," he said. "In the afternoon you also get a lot of middle-aged ladies who are still angry about Tom Brennenman having died and annoyed at you being a young whippersnapper." Steve, born in New York to vaudeville parents, has lived all over—Phoenix, Des Moines, Chicago, Johnstown, Pa., Allentown, Pa., and Los Angeles—and has the feel of America in his voice. "I went to Phoenix because I had asthma," Steve said. "It doesn't seem to bother me any more unless I'm around cigars or dogs. The thing that would bother me most is a dog smoking a cigar." But Steve was patting back a yawn. "Gotta go home to bed," he said. "Doggone television fans are keeping me up."

THE WEEK-END WINDUP...
"DON'T PRINT THAT!" A New Yorker anxious to try the night club business, put $150,000 into a cafe before his wife screamed, "Stop, already!" Serge Rubinstein was bounced from one East Side cafe by the owner, an Army intelligence reserve officer.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Mike Connolly tells of one press's describing another: "I don't know her age, but she used to drive a Pierce Arrow."

Million Lbs. of AF Goods Go to Scouts

MAYWOOD (AP)—About a million pounds of surplus Air Force property has been donated to the Boy Scouts of America during Boy Scout Week by the Maywood Air Force Depot. Col. Walter S. Lee announced Saturday.

The property includes sleeping bags, tents, hammocks, bedrolls, tools, airplane engines, observation towers and clothing. The equipment will go to Scouts in areas where financial assistance is needed for camping and training programs.

Library Receives Cannard Books

Bernhard Cannard, veteran Forum and Town Meeting editorial writer, has just placed his new book, "World of Two Camps," in Long Beach libraries. The book contains a series of editorial letters the author has written in the past 15 years. A former student and soldier in mid-European capitals of Prague and Vienna, Cannard describes the development of Communist and Fascist tyranny in Europe as compared with freedom in America.

Kathryn Grayson Is Hoping to Do Dramatic Film Role

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Kathryn Grayson is back in the movies after more than a year's absence, but she's still unhappy about having to sing for a living. The wide-eyed musical star munched on an avocado salad in the Paramount commissary and deplored her luck in movie roles. "I hate musicals," she said. "They never have any plot or story. All they have is songs. It's nerve-wracking." "Every musical I've been in has a bunch of people breaking into song at the drop of a hat. There's always just a tiny bit of a story to give an excuse for singing, but that's all." "Lots of fans and friends have asked me why I don't forget about singing in at least one picture and do a straight dramatic role. I've even talked to producers about it—but so far no one has." "Like it or not, the tiny songstress is starring in a musical right now, Paramount's "Vagabond King." Her leading man—and chief harmonizer—is newcomer Oreste Kirkop, a tenor from Malta. "He has a wonderful voice," Kathryn went on, "and I've worked with some of the best—Mario Lanza, Howard Keel, Frank Sinatra, Van Johnson and Gene Kelly. "Howard has the most powerful voice of all. I didn't sing as well with him as I did with Mario, but that's because Howard is a baritone and I had to sing way down here," she said, placing her hand on her bosom. That brought up the subject of Kathryn's campaign to conceal the fact that she has one of movieland's best blistles. Her former studio, MGM, helped her in this by providing high-necked wardrobes for all her pictures. She also has managed to dodge comparisons to Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell. "I never pose for cheesecake," Kathryn said. "I always think about my children and don't want them seeing half-nude pictures of their mother. "Guess that's why I get such dull parts. But I'll never play another princess or poor abused thing again. From now on," she said firmly, "if anyone gets abused in a picture it won't be me. I'll be doing the abusing!"

TV Tele-Vues
by TERRY VERNON

Viewers will be taken back through the years to the origin of "The Lone Ranger" legend in a special, full-hour dramatization observing the 22nd anniversary of the birth of the famous radio and TV series. Show will be seen here (7) at 5 p. m. and next Saturday (2) by kinescope.

A band of Texas Rangers are ambushed and all but one killed by a gang of outlaws. An Indian, named Tonto, happens along and discovers the wounded man. He nurses the ranger back to health and tells him "You only ranger left, you Lone Ranger." Thus the name was born.

The mask was adapted in order that the identity of The Lone Ranger would not be made known to the outlaws who had slaughtered his fellow officers. During the past 22 years he has managed to round up the outlaws.

THE 8 P. M. STORY—Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are back again on the "Comedy Hour" (4) and they'll have Micki Marlow, new singing star, and the dancing Steve Brodsky as guests. "Toast of the Town" (2) will feature Pearl Bailey, Les Paul and Mary Ford, the Don Comstock choir and dancers, the comedy team of Willy West and Mickey Matus, and the University of Illinois Glee Club. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and budget director John Pierce will present facts and figures about the California budget for this year (7).

PEARL BAILEY
Featured on Toast

star some 35 years ago, will be the guest of "Juvenile Jury" (4) at 4 p. m. He'll join stars, Dickie Moore, Bobby Breen and Robin Morgan as special panelists for one question. . . . Drew Pearson will be interviewed on "770 on TV" during his "In Person" appearance (7) at 12 noon. . . . Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will "Meet the Press" (4) at 6 p. m. . . . Art Linkletter visits "Teen-Age Trials" (4) at 2:30 p. m. . . . Dr. Gabriel Hauke, economic advisor to President Eisenhower, appears on "Youth Wants to Know" at 9 a. m. as the series returns on a two-week delay basis. . . . Superman visits Eleanor Powell on "Faith of Our Children" (3) at 1:30. . . . Players for "Pantomime Quiz" include Mervyn Amsterdam, Jackie Cooper, Marie McDonald and Russell Nye along with the regulars (7) at 9:30 p. m.

DRAMA—Teresa Wright and Richard Boone in the "Medicine Man" will join forces for "Love Is Eternal" on the G. E. Theatre at 9 p. m. (2). This is the story of the relationship between Mary Todd and her husband Abraham Lincoln and of how their love seemed to be dying until events changed things. . . . Dan O'Herlihy stars in a story of wartime romance during "Stage 7" (2) at 9:30 p. m. As a British captain he meets an American nurse and they pledge to meet again in one year in London, but events intervene. . . . More than 1,200 years ago there lived a man in England whose wisdom was a shining beacon reaching out to a world bathed in ignorance. His name was Alcuin and his story is told on "Hall of Fame" at 5 p. m. (4). . . . A little boy whose flair for theatrics is greater than his sense of business tries to prove to his mother that he can be successful at both during "The Loretta Young Show" (4) at 10 p. m.

GUESTING — Jackie "The Kid" Coogan, who was a child

Words and Music
by JOHN B. CALLAGHAN

You've probably known a typist who used the "hunt-and-peck" system . . . and managed to get along just about as well as the "touch system" advocate. It can be done.

What has this to do with music? Well, a famous personality in the entertainment business has had astonishing musical success using what he calls his "hunt-and-peck" system. He's composed ballads and whole albums of music that have been high on the list of best-selling recordings. He composes at home on his piano. He can't read music at all, so he has the keys numbered . . . and he just picks away until he finds a combination he likes. Then he builds a tune around it. His name? Jackie Gleason.

We mention this because too many people who have not had formal music training feel that the world of music is closed to them, that "it's too late now." The famous television comedian's experience is pretty good proof this isn't true. You can have a lot of fun with music even without much formal training. . . . or without any at all. What's more, new methods of teaching music make it easier than ever for the adult to get his musical start. This ease of playing is really true with the amazing Hammond Chord Organ. . . . a different kind of instrument with full orchestral effects and rich tone that you can start playing the first day. . . . picking out the full Hammond story of PENNY-OWSLEY MUSIC CO. ## DO YOU KNOW ME?

I'm BRUCE KERR. I have been selling cars at Harbor Chevrolet for 7 years. In 1941 we, my wife and son (who's now in service), came out from Colorado by way of Texas and located at 152 Veneta Drive, where we still live.

Right now Harbor Chevrolet is having a big contest with wonderful prizes to the top salesman. Harbor Chevrolet is giving us all the support they can by giving the most wonderful deals. It will pay you to come to our showroom today, where courtesy and fair dealing has been our policy for over 30 years. Let's get acquainted!

The NEW WAY to Buy a Quality Car

Now You Can be Sure!

Fine Cars offered by Ridings are first inspected by the factory-approved Thoro-Check system

Exclusive service by Ridings Cadillac gives you a complete report on the car of your choice
at no extra cost.

GET THE FACTS

There's no longer any need for you to guess at the condition of a late model automobile. Effective immediately, Ridings Cadillac of Long Beach has established the THORO-CHECK system as an additional aid in helping you to select your next car. The THORO-CHECK system was developed by the Cadillac factory and is recommended by them as being the most thorough method of discovering the true condition of a Cadillac.

From bumper to bumper, from tires to top, Ridings' trained experts examine each and every Cadillac before it is offered for sale. No point of the car is overlooked. Only by this THORO-CHECK method will the car's true condition be recorded for you.

BLACK & WHITE PROOF

The comprehensive results of the THORO-CHECK become a part of each car's record, and are available for your inspection when you come to Ridings Motors. In fact, we urge you to look over these reports carefully. They will give you an absolutely accurate picture of the car of your choice before you buy it.

SAVE HUNDREDS in Repair Bills

By buying a THORO-CHECKED Cadillac you can assure yourself against unexpected repair bills, because the THORO-CHECK will tell you the exact condition of the car of your choice.

THORO-CHECK, perfected and recommended by the Cadillac factory, gives you a complete written report on all these points:

Exotic Spirit of Mardi Gras Awaits Dancers

ANNUAL BEAUX ARTS BALL, traditional costume party of the Long Beach Art Association, will take place Saturday at Pacific Coast Club, when members and their friends will dance from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. to the rhythms of Sharp's Orchestra. Pictured modeling the costumes they have chosen to wear to

La Homa Johnson, Ila Anthony Huff, president, and Ben Messick. Tickets are available from Mrs. Jones, 345 Linden Ave., or may be purchased at the door.

Sparkling Parties to Precede Dance

By RUTH REECE

Dashing colors and original costumes of Mardi Gras time will feature the annual Beaux Arts Ball to be presented Saturday by the Long Beach Art Assn. at Pacific Coast Club. Dancing is scheduled from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. A point of interest between dances will be the table of hors d'oeuvres.

Costumes will vie for awards in the grand march to be led by the president, Ila Anthony Huff, with the marshals, E. J. Newbegin, Lee Allen Carnahan, H. O. Fox and the grand marshal, James Lang, officiating. Awards from the artist's brushes have been donated by the following members: Mrs. Pat Bartell, Virgil Bullock, Paul Corcoran, Mrs. Grace Dimnick, Ashton E. Overholzer, Mrs. Florence Gendron, Mrs. Marian Lewis, Miss Diane Elaine Daniel, Mrs. Beth Chandler, Angel Espoy and others.

Mrs. Bob Lovejoy, J. Ames Crawford, attorney of Los Angeles, Mrs. Sam Heavens, architect of Los Angeles, will judge and classify the costumes based on authenticity, beauty, minor and uniqueness. Attire will vary widely in theme and period, from the elegant formal to the roguish flack. Mrs. Huff has chosen a seafoam green organdie with bouffant skirt reminiscent of gracious plantation life of pre-Civil War days. Mrs. Cynthia Alberta Ryan will appear in an elegant black velvet, heavily embroidered Chinese costume.

Mrs. Ben Paine will be in a black, brilliant-studded sheath as the 1920 flapper; Dr. Marcia Sneden as Lillian Russell in a black and white ensemble with huge plumed hat; Ben Messick in brilliant clown outfit; Mrs. La Homa Johnson as a Japanese in lime-green satin exquisitely embroidered.

Mrs. J. Frank Jones, as a Godey girl following the dictates of the Godey Magazine, has chosen a hand-embroidered dress which her grandmother wore and a cap which was brought from England 200 years ago by her great-grandmother. Mrs. Vetra Redford in a long robe and grape basket headpiece, will depict Prosperpine, Goddess of the Seasons. In formal attire will be Mrs. Athena Hall.

Sparkling parties, dinners and after-the-dance snack buffets will add to the glamour and interest of this traditional evening. A gala punch bowl buffet is an annual custom in the home of Bob and Margie Cate. Twenty guests will begin the evening there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Paine have sent invitations to 15 of their friends to a pre-ball cocktail party at their home. Mrs. La Homa Johnson will entertain a group of 20 at a cocktail hour, and Mrs. Vetra Redford has invited a group of 20 to a breakfast following the Mardi Gras event. Thirty guests will gather at the home of Mrs. Huff for an "after-the-party" breakfast, and James Lang has invited another group to a cocktail-snack party.

Tickets are available from Mrs. J. Frank Jones, 345 Linden Ave., or may be purchased at the door the evening of the ball.

PLAN VALENTINE PARTY FOR HOSPITALIZED CHILDREN

Sophisticated Gilt Fan Motif for Gala Junior League Ball

By BETTY WENTWORTH
Independent Women's Editor

Glittering and lovely were the decorations embellishing the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel last eve when members of the Junior League and their black-tied escorts dined and danced at their festive annual closed ball. There wasn't a red heart in sight, but employed instead, and imparting an air of sophistication, were shining fans outlined in gold net based in bouquets of violets as table centerpieces. Metallic gold fans adorned the pillars as well, and the whole was wonderfully effective.

There were lots of cocktail parties beforehand, one being given at Barbara and Chester Moores' for all the League provisions. Barbara greeted guests in a strapless gown of Alice blue with taffeta bodice and very bouffant skirt of lace tiers over umpteen petticoats. Her jewelry was crystal. Chester robbed his verdant greenhouse of dozens of fragile orchids and camellias with which to decorate the rooms.

Lorain and Dr. John Lungren poured cocktails for a large group at their Chestnut Ave. abode, the attractive brunet Lorain in blue lace over layers of nylon net and taffeta with matching slippers and pearl jewelry.

Guests driving up to Pat and Jim Craig's home on Country Club Dr. were the Thomas Rowans, Volney McCutchens, Bill Edwardses, John Halberts, Jack Millers, Richard Graham, Ralph Sternbergs and Dale Deatherages. Petite, fair-haired Pat was garbed in white lace with an apron effect adorned in sequins and crystals.

At the other tip of the city Ellie and Frank Person greeted the Al Vignolas. "Van" Van de Waters, Bill Graham, Lauren Conleys, Llewellyn Bixby Jr., Henry Clocks, George Reeveses from Capona, Rosemary and Capt. Ralph Wilson, USN, and Lela Davidson. Ellie's full length sheath gown was a Peggy Hunt design of black lace over pale blue silk crepe, and Betty Bixby chose a short champagne taffeta and white lace, its bodice jeweled with rhinestones and pearls.

Swinging back again to Bixby Knolls we find that Doris and Ed Richards had as their guests the Paul Dudleys, Manley Natlands, Oliver Roemers, Harry Ridingses Jr. and Georgia and Dr. Lorin Nelson. Doris wore a wonderful long gown of white mat jersey, with a Grecian drape falling from one shoulder, and with diagonal lines of crystal beads and rhinestones extending from the shoulder and from the hipline.

Before going on to dinner about 18 couples gathered at Rosemary and John Sadlers' at 4215 Pacific Ave. Rosemary was smart in satin-trimmed navy blue lace.

Another group bidden by Shirley and Chuck Planting was composed of Drs. and Mmes. Franklin Waters, Lee Wiltsie, Harold Neibling, Robert Albright and the James Fletchers. A dashing red peau de soie Adele Simpson model was Shirley's choice, and particularly appropriate it was, with its heart-shaped neckline.

Assembling at Marian and Don Lockes' before going on to the Lafayette were Betsy and George Taubman, Sally and Dr. "Van" Van Dyke and Elaine and Dr. Mulford Smith.

A whole gardenful of violets should be presented to Janet (Mrs. George C.) Taubman, who was chairman for the marvelous party, with additional bouquets showered upon busy Barbara (Mrs. Thomas) Rowan who handled reservations and Nancy (Mrs. Lyle T.) Wilcox in charge of decor. Janet wore a rothy black bouffant organdie with lace inserts nipped in with a pale blue cummerbund, and Barbara chose a short and bouffant champagne net with pink roses at its hipline.

Others noted whirling about the dance floor to the sweet music of Burrell Ubbens' orchestra were Norma Craig in a rich purple silk princess style creation and long swishy earrings of pearls and rhinestones, plus cute Barbara Updike (have you ever seen that young lady's marvelous Charleston?) who was in a chic emerald green silk faille sheath with Empire lines. (See party pictures in Monday's Independent, Press-Telegram.)

Tomorrow at the Assistance League Clubhouse a quartet of hostesses are entertaining at a brunch at 11 a. m. followed by

Mrs. Robert F. Kulp Jr.

Fashionable Service Unites Popular Pair

A bouquet of French white hyacinths, miniature ivy and a white orchid accented the bridal attire of lovely Miss Beverly Arlene Kuster when she said her marriage vows Feb. 5 with Robert Franklin Kulp Jr. Four hundred fifty guests witnessed the impressive evening ceremony read by Rev. Emerson G. Hungen in First Congregational Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Kuster of 4235 Chestnut Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Kulp of 2622 Gaviota Ave., are the parents of the bridegroom.

Recorded down the aisle by her father, the blonde bride was attired in a long-length, high-collared gown of candlelight tulle. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with a pleated flounce banded with Chantilly lace and caught with satin roses. Matching lace trimmed the off-the-shoulder neckline. Completing the bridal picture was a pearl encrusted Juliet cap of lace and tulle which caught her fingertip-length veil of illusion net.

In the entourage were Joanne Marshall, maid of honor; Marilyn Hansen, Patti Lewis, Lee Miner, Dorothy Stacia, and Martha Trotter, bridesmaids; and Cherryl Schoenbachler, junior bridesmaid; Terri Jane Coffey, bride's niece, flower girl; James Ellis, best man; Tom Moore, Keith Hilliard, Donald Long, Donald Lowry and Paul Jagger, ushers; and Billy Coffey, bride's nephew, ring bearer.

The bridal attendants were gowned in pale blue antique tulle gowns. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of pale pink and American beauty double ranunculus intertwined with miniature ivy. Miss Marshall carried pink hyacinths, a pale pink and American beauty double ranunculus and ivy.

Assisting at the reception held at the church were the bride's sisters, Mrs. Patrick Coffey and Mrs. Gilbert Schoenbachler, nephew of the bride. The bride's sorority sisters sang their serenade to the couple while standing around the four-tiered cake.

The bride is a graduate of Poly High School, and her husband received his schooling at Wilson High School. Both young persons received their degrees from Redlands University the day after their wedding. She was affiliated with Delta Kappa Psi and he was a member of Phi Chi on the campus. The popular couple are honeymooning at Las Vegas, Nev., and Lake Arrowhead. The bridegroom will leave soon for service in the Army.

Mrs. Krythe to Sail on World Tour

Points of interest around the world dot the itinerary of Mrs. Gerard (Maymie) Krythe of 2618 E. Third St. The traveler will leave Feb. 18 from San Francisco after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Albert J. Kirschbaum and family in Livermore. She will embark on the S. S. Orsova, Orient Line, for Sydney, Australia, with short stops in Honolulu, Hawaii, Suva and Auckland, New Zealand.

After a few weeks' stay in Australia, she will leave Adelaide April 12 on the S. S. Oronsay via Fremantle, Colombo, Ceylon, through the Suez Canal, touching at Naples and finally leaving the ship at Marseilles on May 4. During her stay on the continent, she plans to visit Spain, Portugal, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, the Scandinavian countries and the British Isles, returning to New York July 15 on the Mauretania. En route back to Long Beach, Mrs. Krythe expects to make several stops in Ohio, Chicago, Ill., and Denver, Colo.

Debut Recital

Preliminary auditions for Phi Beta Young Artist Debut Recital are scheduled to begin March 10. Winners will be presented in recital May 17 at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre, Los Angeles, with all expenses assumed by Phi Beta Concert Series. Final auditions are scheduled for April.

Marie Logan, chairman, has stressed that applications must be received by March 1st. Young artists 30 years old or under, who have not appeared in formal debut recital are eligible for entry. Applications may be secured from Phi Beta Concert Series, 121 S. Westlake, Los Angeles.

The Wild Waves Are Saying

Look at Them, Maw, They're Dancin'!

By IOLA MASTERSON

Wallflowers had better stay put or they'll lose their professional standing should they wander near the University Club next Saturday night. The club will be host once again to these rhythm rascals, The Todds Trio, at one of the most sparkling of 9 until dancing spree.

Already the reservation list is bulging with names of members who wish to trip the light fantastic. Two cocktail parties, at least, will precede festivities. Kate and La Verne Smith will greet a gang as will Evelyn and Don Sullivan. Bend an ear and we'll whisper a few of those who will be found at one home or the other. There will be Lois and Doug Benwell, Jean and Bill Lockett, Bev. and Ernie Lockwood, Suzanne and Vic Miners, Florence and Ed Bliff, the Bill Burns, Gladie and Dick Shelley and Katherine and Charles Morgan.

Hold on a minute, we're not through. Also quaffing cool ones will be Barbara and Norb Dean (he's el presidente, you know), Carolyn and Dick Poole, Geneva and Stan Weiss, Ann and Earl Hersman, Bonnie and Kenny Brandenburg, Jackie and Ed Neushutz, Virginia and Bob Hall, Elaine and Don Will, Mary and Wendell Wilson, Mary Jane and Paul Hall, Gloria and Joe Flammang (down from San Fernando Valley for the party), Virginia and Tommy Russell, Leona and Leroy Pittman, Gerry and "Cec" Willis ("Cec" has been buzzin' like a rocket set for flight because he's chairman of the dance), Nancy and Bill Brooks and Gertrude and Hugh Gibbs.

Just about the time both the big crowd and the Todds are worn down to a stub, there'll be a king-size breakfast served. That should be about 1 o'clock.

That fabulous Nomad Ball, one of the most brilliant parties of the Southern California year, occurred last evening in the Pacific Ballroom of the Hotel Statler in Los Angeles. The Nomads exclusive membership is composed entirely of men who have traveled outside the United States in the interest of the oil industry and the list is full of those who intimately know such far away lands as Arabia, Iran, Iraq and Egypt, or wherever else black gold is found. Among those we know, members and guests, who looked forward to attending last night's party were Bobbie and Greer Thompson, Lynn and Claire Hossom, Bill and Betty Barber, Fish and Jack Reid, Ruby and Warren Johnson, Georgia and Francis Combs, Ruby and Les Callahan, Marilyn and Doug Graham, Barbara and Jack Miller, Alma and Elmer Decker, Donna Decker, Opal Mae and Ed Pellegri and Dorothy and Dan Durlap.

Uncle Sam makes like a Svengali sometimes. Take the case of Bob Kulp. Bob and sweet Beverly Kuster were married Saturday, Feb. 6. Sunday they both graduated from Redlands at still-another marriage ceremony, the most radiant pair of kids you can imagine. Now come Uncle's clouds of gloom. Bob faces Army induction Feb. 18. Really, Sam!

Chomping at the bit for Easter vacation to roll around are several couples who plan to spend the week at the Tropical Palms in Desert Hot Springs. The caravan will include Carrie and Al Vignolo, Luella and Steve Pace, Jane and Phil Brewer, Vergie and Bill Kelly, Eloy and "Viv" Violette and Emily and Roger Coleman. Last year's four-day spring trek was so successful they've decided to stretch it to a week in '55.

If you've noticed that Mildred and Garry Gardner, 5589 Riviera Wk., have had a tendency to fling you smug and happy smiles, then you deserve an explanation. They're entertaining not only old and dear friends but very, very VIP ones, too. House guests are Blanche and Bob Isaacs of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, who are one of the finest consulting mining engineers in that land of blossoming, not to say giantium, mining development. On Bay St. in Toronto—which is to Canada what Wall St. is to the U. S.—Bob is a familiar figure. They leave tomorrow, darn it, and we had a piece of rock we wanted Bob to see.

Remember the exasperating sensation produced during the last two weeks before vacation? Time is a stubborn mule and lies on its back. In even a greater sense, time is standing still for Esther Lawrence and two weeks seems forever. She's counting the minutes until the arrival home of her family, Lt. (j.g.) Lyndon and Joan Lawrence and that important newcomer, Lyndon's sister Marie, born Dec. 13 in Kodiak, Alaska. Don has finished his stint for the Navy and they'll be home to stay about March 1 from icebox country duty.

Harry Hachmeister took his 40th the painless way. He celebrated in New York sans family and local friends. Therefore, there being no eyewitnesses, whose to say it happened? Harry flew to N. Y. last Sunday on a routine business trip (timed to perfection and with full approval from Jack Benny) returning Thursday. The Day was Tuesday.

With a smile that was positively electronic, George Irwin was installed president of the newly organized radio and TV dealer's club Wednesday night.

Some people are born with a rabbit's foot in their vest pocket. Take the case of Louise De Freece and her new Chevie.

Compliment Mrs. Hunter at Party

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Shawver of 2921 Locust Ave. will entertain today at a Valentine tea to honor the birthday of Mrs. W. F. Hunter. This is a double celebration since Mrs. Hunter, who was critically injured last year in an automobile accident en route to her 90th birthday party, is able to attend today's festivities.

Bidden to the affair are 75 guests including some of Mrs. Hunter's former first grade pupils in Chetopa, Kan. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Hunter's daughter, Mrs. J. W. Graham, and her two granddaughters, Mrs. J. J. Rickman, and Mrs. C. R. O'Dell of Odessa, Tex. Mrs. J. W. Graham and Miss Jessie Edwards will be in the receiving line.

Mrs. Winfield Edson and Mrs. T. A. Galloway will pool at the tea table, and Mrs. Myron Rickman will preside at the guest book.

Bowling Party

A bowling party at Compton Bowl was enjoyed recently by members of Iota Rho chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, including their husbands and guests. Attending were Messrs. and Mrs. Hal Goddard, Jay Griebel, Bob Smith, Jack Webber, Bob Roberts, Kenneth Smith, Misses Dorothy Moulton and Geraldine Woodbury and Messrs. Ray Mueller and Tom Degler. Cups for men's and women's championships of the evening went to Bob Roberts and Lhylis Smith.

Membership Party

Annual membership party of National Council of Jewish Women will be given Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of Bank of Belmont Shore. All members who have paid their dues before this date are eligible to attend.

Breakfast

Annals Laurie House, sponsored by Taoleon Club, will present "The Second in a Series of Lectures on the Art of Living." A breakfast will precede the lecture, which will take place at the Hotel Lafayette, Sunday, Feb. 20, at 9 a.m. Naomi Smith will receive breakfast reservations.

She really hit the fender, dashboard and gas tank jackpot!

Let's hope the City of Brotherly Love gets through this week with reputation unblemished. It had to put up with a gang of the Club Managers of America and you can bet that was a gay and demanding gang! A couple of our own boys have been present (but they'd never hurt the spirit that runs Philadelphia!) Dick Kimball and Frank Sherwood flew back last Monday and return tomorrow. Dick is a director of the Southern California chapter of CMA.

Petite, vivacious Ruth Miller will be taken "on the town" Tuesday night when date, Lt. (j.g.) Joe Verret and other friends host Ruth to cocktails, dinner and a Biltmore ringside seat at "The House of the August Moon" as a farewell present to the little vice president of Bachelorettes before she leaves for the Mardi Gras. Last year Ruth went and was elected Queen of the Fun Tour to the Mardi Gras. So on this trip, in reward, she's a guest of the Tour. While back there last year she was also chosen Queen of the West of the East-West Mardi Gras Ball. Ready for new worlds to conquer, Ruth leaves Wednesday.

Evelyn and Clarence Miller are hanging on the work of cement mixers like kids watching elephants being fed at a circus. And well they might because each ounce of cement being poured is part of their new house arising on the Peninsula's bay front. Now living in the last house within the city limits on that finger of fun drenched land, their new home will face the watery crook where the bay breaks from north south wanderings to east west flow.

Still on the convalescent list but at the point where it begins to be luxurious fun is Frank Hill who had a siege of hospital life not so long ago.

Guess the Towne Club was a place of undisguised merriment Tuesday when gals of the Druggists' Auxiliary met for luncheon, cards and a hat and jewelry sale. The women brought barter and rummage hats and jewelry items, none of which could be sold for more nor less than 50 cents. The starting gun went off and it was like bargain day in Macy's basement. When the feverish activity was over there was Hazel Vermillion with a cute "new" gray hat, Marian Jenkins with a rhinestone necklace, Lucille Lower with three (she must be quick!) hats and Bess Wheeler with nothin'. Bess couldn't make up her mind for an interlude of three seconds and that proved way too long to ponder!

You just don't get elected president for nothin' and we can tell you Betty Packler has plenty of somethin' because she's the new prexy of the Chi Omega house on the Eugene campus of the U. of Oregon!

Jones Home Party Scene

The home of Mrs. Floyd Jones, 170 Quincy Ave., was the setting for a recent bridal shower honoring Miss Katherine Van Eiten, bride-elect of James Edward Adams of Norwalk. Cohostess was Mrs. Leo Detering.

Bidden were Mrs. Glenn Peters, mother of the honoree; Mrs. James Adams, mother of the prospective bridegroom; Mrs. Donald Duffin, Charles Wieland, Jerry Hall, David Carroll, Jack Grip, Misses Judy Pavo, Valerie Pegg, Maureen Bortchelle, Anne Carpenter, Diane Auther, Shirley Reeves, Daryl Evans, Lorraine Huber, Sandy Jones, Pat Miller, Leoyce Rodeback, Helen Smith, Sandra Fox, Pat Hobgood, Barbara Canfield, Pauline Foley, Geraldine Derby, Joan Messano and Noreen Daugherty.

Book Review Thursday Features Mary Lincoln

The second in a series of four dramatic book reviews by Gertrude (Mrs. Norbert R.) Murphy, sponsored by the Carmelite Nuns' Auxiliary, will be presented at 10 a.m. Thursday at Ebell Theater, 1100 E. Third St.

Mrs. Murphy will review, in costume, two books on Mary Todd Lincoln, the best-selling biographical novel "Love Is Eternal" by Irving Stone and Ruth Painter Randall's "Mary Lincoln... The Biography of a Marriage."

With her unusual grasp of the author's ideas, her rare style of interpretation, and her dramatic and literary talent, Mrs. Murphy's presentation is outstanding and educational entertainment.

Season tickets for the three remaining reviews, as well as individual tickets, may be secured at the box office on the morning of the review, or by contacting Mrs. Wayne P. Hanson or Mrs. James Hayes.

Durnins Announce Janet's Engagement

The traditional Stanford University ceremony of passing a lighted candle was chosen by Janet Caroline Durnin and Herbert D. Seiter to announce their engagement to college friends. The bride-elect, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Durnin of 5818 Bay Shore Wk., is a graduate of Chadwick School in Rolling Hills and a freshman at Stanford. She has been active in sailing events on Alamitos Bay.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Seiter of Palo Alto, is doing graduate work in radio and television at Stanford. He completed his military training in Japan last fall. The popular young pair is planning a June wedding.

Germany's Role in Europe to Be Club Topic

By RUTH REED
Press-Telegram Club Editor

"Can Germany Become a Partner of the West?" is the intriguing subject of a talk to be given by Siegfried C. Ringwald, popular Long Beach lecturer, when he appears before the Long Beach Council of Republican Women at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the Pageant Room of the Wilton Hotel.

Preceding the 1 o'clock session will be a coffee hour at noon and a short business meeting at 12:45 p. m. Mrs. Cartwright Hunter will preside, and Mrs. Henry Christensen, program chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Ringwald traveled unchallenged behind the Iron Curtain in Berlin, where he acquired an insight into the four sectors that form an island of people 300 miles behind the curtain. As a college lecturer, he conducted the first seminar in American literature at the University of Kassel. Sponsored as a lecturer by the U. S. State Department, Ringwald spoke in all parts of Germany, and participated in a study tour of Italy with an international group of professors from the University of Hamburg.

Mrs. Hunter announces that the council's headquarters have been moved from 35 Locust Ave. to 618 Enloe Bldg., 115 Pine Ave.

the Two Major Political Parties.

As an added attraction of the afternoon, members of the club will portray in costume famous American "First Ladies" to highlight the historical approach. Mrs. J. K. McCall will preside.

The study group, under the leadership of Mrs. Paul Zensen, will meet at 11 a. m. Child care service is available, she announces. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. W. F. Curtis and her committee.

This meeting also will launch the 1935 membership drive under the direction of Mrs. Pryce Smith.

Toastmistress
Long Beach Naval Shipyard Toastmistress Club will conduct its second annual speech contest Monday evening at a dinner meeting at the Apple Valley Steak House. Members participating in the contest include Mmes. E. H. Peterson, Edwin Goodrich, J. Robert Hamaker and Miss Norma Glenn.

Acting as judges for this event, the winner of which will represent the Shipyard Club at the Council No. 1, Harbor Area Speech Contest in March, will be Capt. M. Helmer of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Toastmasters Club. Mrs. Ada Fohl of the Wilmington Toastmistress Club, Paul Clayton of Huntington Park, and Miss Margaret Braswell of the Real-Ettes Toastmistress Club of Long Beach.

Aeroettes to Meet
Aeroettes, a club composed of wives of the Long Beach Douglas Aircraft aerodynamic engineering group, will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. L. Bekkedahl, 4563 Knox St., Lakewood. Mrs. C. E. Blair will preside.

The president announces as her appointive chairmen, Mrs. Bekkedahl, historian; Mrs. G. F. Lind, bridge committee; Mrs. W. N. Christensen, charity, with Mrs. George Lambros assisting; Mrs. Howard Kenyon, mother's club, assisted by Mrs. George Morse.

Heading the art and music committee will be Mrs. T. P. Browne, and head of the sports committee will be Mrs. Stan Church. Mrs. Robert Kingsland was named chairman of the transportation and club information committee for the Anaheim area.

GOP Juniors
Cherry trees and hatchets will adorn tables at a luncheon to be given by the GOP Juniors at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday at the Victor Hugo. Guest speaker will be Edward R. Valentine whose topic will be "The Need for Continuing a Republican Organization in Los Angeles County." Valentine is chairman of the United Republican Finance Committee of Los Angeles and president of J. W. Robinson's.

Mrs. Arnold Romeyn who heads the Juniors announced that reservations for the luncheon are to be made with Mrs. Raymond Chase, 2670 Faust St., or Mrs. Jerry Hollister, 1801 Marshall Pl.

Junior Matrons
A gala event is ahead for Junior Matrons Dept. of Eboli Club when members assemble at 12 o'clock Wednesday in the roof ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel for their annual birthday luncheon. Mrs. Charles Evett, chairman, will preside. Mrs. Harry S. Hull is general chairman in charge of this annual event, assisted by Mmes. C. W. Poole and Walter Yashli. The event will commemorate the 34th anniversary of the founding of Junior Matrons. Past chairmen of the department will be honored at a special ceremony, including Mrs. Clay White, organizer of the group. Surprise favors will mark each place, and bridge and canasta will follow the luncheon.

Final plans were made for the celebration when department officers met for luncheon at the home of Mrs. Sydney N. Elliott, 3814 Pacific Ave. Mmes. Charles Evett and Rupert McCook were hostesses.

Mayor to Speak
Mayor George M. Vermillion of Long Beach will be guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the North Long Beach Republican Women Federated at noon Feb. 21 in Houghton Park clubhouse. In charge of the luncheon will be Mrs. Joseph Meyer and her committee.

Press representatives from various newspapers in the area will be honor guests. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Victor B. Van Horne. Mrs. Thomas Corrigan, president, will be in charge.

Madeline Stacy Is Bride of John Reed Mansell

St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church was the setting Feb. 5 for the morning nuptials of Miss Madeline Mary Stacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stacy, 7093 E. Third St., and City Auditor John Reed Mansell.

After a reception for the 200 guests the couple left on a honeymoon in Northern California. They will reside at 5317 The Toledo.

The bride chose a Cahill ballerina-length gown fashioned with an eggshell satin bodice and a net skirt, applied with lace and pearls caught her scalloped veil and she carried white orchids, carnations, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Mrs. William Norr, gowned in emerald green velvet with matching hat and carrying pink carnations, attended the bride. William T. Mansell Jr. served as best man, while seating guests were William Norr and Harry Fulton.

Hostesses at the reception were Mmes. William T. Mansell Jr., Edward Losey and Robert Potthoff. Mrs. Harry Fulton presided at the guest book.

The bride attended Poly High School and City College. Her husband, son of William T. Mansell of 36 Giraldia Wk., received his education in Troy, Mo., and at LaSalle Institute in Chicago. He is affiliated with Elks 888, Downtown Lions Club and Municipal Finance Officers Association.

Morlene Pingle Now Mrs. W. R. Atkinson Jr.

Miss Morlene June Pingle of Arcadia and William (Bill) Robert Atkinson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Atkinson of 3523 Lemon Ave., recited their marriage vows Feb. 5 in Oneonta Congregational Church of Pasadena with Rev. Henry R. Gray officiating.

The double ring ceremony was witnessed by 350 friends of the popular Pomona College pair. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Morley Henry Pingle of Arcadia.

A Chantilly lace bodice over bridal satin and lace skirt and train over satin with sides of fluted nylon chiffon tiers, was chosen by the bride for her wedding attire. A head-dress of net and pearls held her illusion silk tiered veil and she carried a bouquet of camellias and bouvardia centered with a white orchid.

In the bridal entourage were Miss Ann McIntosh of Beverly Hills, maid of honor; Miss Donna Decker of Long Beach; Miss Julia Bagge of Santa Monica; Mrs. C. Robert Hall and Miss Ruggen Peters, Arcadia; Miss Ellen Pingle and Miss Julia Pingle, sister and cousin of the bride, respectively, bridesmaids. They were in white nylon chiffon gowns styled with draped neckband which tied in the back and floor length hoop skirts. They carried American Beauty roses.

Lt. (jg) John Thornton of Long Beach served as best man. The many guests from all over the Southland who attended this fashionable event were seated prior to the service by Allen Pingle, brother of the bride; Lewis Silverberg, Lt. Norman Archibald, USA, Robert Ashcraft, all of Long Beach; William Fair of Claremont and Donald Hollar of San Marino.

Each pew in the historic church was marked by candelabra, and tiny bouquets of maidenhair fern tied with white ribbon. White stock and gladioli banked the altar.

A champagne reception took place immediately following the vow exchange at the Pingle home when Mrs. Pingle received guests in a gown of champagne tulle with overskirt of embroidered lace and corsage of green cymbidiums. Mrs. Atkinson was in platinum nylon chiffon and wore a corsage of deep pink cymbidiums. Tiny cupid floats in the swimming pool surrounded by a ring of pink camellias. Other floral decor throughout the patio and gardens featured camellias.

Both Morlene and Bill will be graduated in June from Pomona College, where she is majoring in education and he is a business administration major. Bill, listed last year in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, is a member of Nu Alpha Phi. His bride is active in student body affairs on the campus and in the school's drama activities.

After honeymooning in Las Vegas, Nev., they are now residing at 152 El Camino Way, Claremont.

Diane Swanson Reveals Betrothal to D. M. Lowry

A parchment scroll attached to two pink tulle hearts atop a box of chocolates revealed Saturday night to her Delta Gamma sorority sisters the engagement of Miss Diane Swanson to Donald M. Lowry.

Miss Swanson, a past president of her sorority on the UCLA campus, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus E. Swanson, 744 Santiago Ave. She was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College where she was affiliated with Phi Gamma Chi and Epsilon Omicron.

Upon her graduation this month from UCLA she will begin a teaching position in the Long Beach school system. After her marriage June 26 at Atlantic Avenue Methodist Church, she will relinquish her membership in Bachelorettes of Long Beach.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lowry, 3591 Rose Ave., was graduated from Polytechnic High School and the University of Redlands and is now doing graduate work in international relations at USC. He is also employed by the Department of Justice and holds membership in Pi Sigma Alpha, national honorary fraternity.

Valentine Buffet at Cannons

Tulips, heather and sweet peas in peach and white were used in attractive floral arrangements throughout the home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cannon, 3906 Olive Ave., Saturday evening when friends gathered for the Cannon's annual valentine party.

After a buffet supper, the party of 37 guests went to the YMCA auditorium in North Long Beach for an evening of songs, a program and dance. The entire personnel of Veloz and Yolanda Dance Studio also were in attendance.

Margaret Meikle

Miss Margaret Meikle Reveals Wedding Plans

Mrs. Hortense Gibbens Meikle of Oklahoma City, Okla., announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, 1909 E. Third St., to Taylor Reedy of Mexico City, son of the Rev. and Mrs. William P. Reedy of Los Angeles.

A native of Iowa, Miss Meikle was graduated from the State University of Iowa and later received a M. A. degree from Northwestern University. At the present time Miss Meikle is vice principal of the Wilson High School. Prior to that time she was head counselor at the Guidance Center of Long Beach City College.

During the time she has resided in Long Beach Miss Meikle has been very active in music and civic affairs. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi, Delta Kappa Gamma, Phi Beta Kappa, Chapter IB of PEO and the Sororist Club of Long Beach.

Her fiancé, a native of Southern California, was graduated from Oregon State with a BS degree. Reedy is general secretary for the International Committee of the YMCA in Mexico. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity and Rotary Club.

Mrs. Meikle arrives this week end from Oklahoma to be with her daughter. A spring wedding is planned.

Friends of Miss Meikle in Chapter IB, PEO, learned of the news at a tea and reception given recently by Mrs. R. V. Mercer and Miss Mary Mercer, 1921 Olive Ave. Guests received a card bearing the names of the couple and a picture, a hand showing an engagement ring.

The table, covered with a point de venise cloth, was centered with an arrangement of pink and white camellias flanked with silver candelabra holding white tapers. Mrs. C. B. Dolliver, president, and Miss Marjorie Walker of Claremont poured.

'Role Playing' Program Set

Mental Hygiene Society of Long Beach and Pi Lambda Theta educational honorary society are having a joint meeting Wednesday from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m., at the auditorium of John Burroughs Elementary School. The meeting, which will be open to the public, will have "Role Playing" as its theme.

Role playing, which has wide application in family life, teaching and adult education, counseling and social work, will be illustrated in two motion pictures, "Role Playing in Human Relations" and "Role Playing in Counseling." Following the films, the audience will participate in small group discussions, under the leadership of Mrs. Hazel Huston and Miss Evelyn Lofland of the Long Beach Public Schools; Dr. Arlene Roster and Dr. Earl Zwetschke of Long Beach State College; Miss Louise Metcalf of the Long Beach Mental Hygiene Clinic; Miss Dorothy Elwell of Seal Beach Public Schools; and Mesdames Clara Hale and Mary Posner.

Ray Simpson, president of the Mental Hygiene Society, commented on the forthcoming program by saying, "Presenting role playing to Long Beach affords the community a genuine opportunity to acquire a graphic picture of human dynamics, thereby enabling us to better design a constructive program for the guidance of youth."

much credit for the revival of religious art, of which a dynamic type is called "The Immaculate Heart style" of the West Coast. Founded seven years ago, Immaculate Heart College's art department has attracted attention from museums, critics and commercial firms. Sister Magdalen's grounding in the history of art gives substance to universal ideas and she has a fresh approach to the teaching of art. Awards have been showered on Immaculate artists by many major art societies.

Florence Gendron will have charge of a craft display following the lecture.

Spectrum Club members this morning will sketch the old barn and corral at 19th St. and Temple Ave., Signal Hill, it is announced by President Bob Feck.

Harold Hemenway Jones, art chairman of Harbor Junior College in Wilmington, who through February has a one-man show in Security First National Bank, 7th at Pacific, San Pedro, considers print making and painting as hobbies. His profession is commercial art, including advertising design, lettering and illustration.

However, he combines with experience in this field a good deal of newspaper editing and magazine work, including illustrations and cartoons. While teaching adult art classes at one time he also included architectural drafting and film publicity work in his busy schedule. He usually has found time to handle two or three jobs at once.

Four years in the U. S. Army Air Force included supervision of a training aids program and development of the art section of a hospital therapy program.

Jones has an AB degree from Pomona College and an MA from Claremont College. Before going to Harbor, he was art chairman at Washington High School, Los Angeles.

All of the work in the current show, he says, was done "for fun or experience." Included are a number of water colors, two temperas and lithographs for which he does the entire process of printing and preparing the stone.

Paintings, drawings, water colors and sculpture by Jack McClain will be shown in Palos Verdes Public Library Gallery until next Saturday.

Sculpture and drawings by Oscar Miestcharinoff, leading contemporary French sculptor now living in America, will be shown in Los Angeles County Museum Exposition Park, Los Angeles, through Feb. 27.

The art department of Pomona College is showing sculpture and paintings by three members of the college faculty in Rembrandt Hall on the campus, Claremont, until Mar. 5. Charles B. Lawler, lecturer in sculpture, is exhibiting non-objective work in stone, cast iron and wood. James E. Grant, assistant professor of art, is showing recent oil and casein paintings, and Frederick H. Hammersley, lecturer in painting, is displaying non-objective work in oil.

Las Artistas, women's art group which emphasizes California's Spanish-American heritage in its paintings, will have its fifth annual Tower Gallery exhibition in Los Angeles City Hall Feb. 14-Mar. 4.

Writer to Speak at Tea

Miss Anna Bird Stewart of Peterborough, N. H., writer and lecturer, will speak on "Romance and Adventure of Research," describing interesting and amusing incidents experienced while gathering material for her books, at a get-acquainted tea under auspices of the Long Beach Branch of the National League of American Pen Women from 2 to 4 Friday in the Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

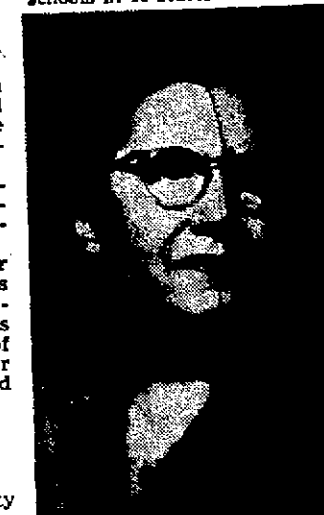

The tea will be open to all persons interested in writing or the other arts. Paintings, sketches, ceramics, books, magazine articles, etc. by local members will be displayed.

Mrs. Ellen Conaty, branch president, will preside, and Mrs. Elaine Malco will be chairman of the hostess committee.

Miss Stewart will speak Friday at a Burbank school assembly on "Reading and Writing For Fun."

Her books include "Enter David Garrick," "Young Miss Burney," "Two Young Corsicans," "Bibi, the Baker's Horse," "Three White Cats of Avignon," "Rex and Other Verses" and "A Small Bird Singing."

The author has Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from the University of Cincinnati, the city of her birth, with further study in England and France. She taught English in the high school in Paducah, Ky., where the public library named its division for children and teen-agers, "the Anna Bird Stewart Department for Young People." She was assistant professor of English and taught journalism at St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Ind. She has addressed schools in 40 states.

Nautical Club Looks Ahead to Spring

By VIRGINIA NEWTON
Business plus pleasure is in store at the gay welcome to spring luncheon event for the popular Nautical Club. The affair will be given Thursday at 12 o'clock at the Officers Club, Allen Center, with Mrs. Robert Slach and Mrs. Raymond Jordon as hostesses. Officers will be nominated.

Another luncheon event scheduled for next week will be the gathering of the wives of officers attached to the Mine Forces, Pacific, Wednesday, at Allen Center. Mrs. R. Juarez and Mrs. W. F. Long-ton will be the hostesses.

Starring in the party spotlight last week was the simply mad, gay and funny ("rude") party given by Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. R. D. Faubion. Invitations read: "Are you tired of being the perfect guest. Minding your manners and ignoring the pest. Come tease the hostess, look for dust. Round up the ice box and eat till you bust."

At this unusual party, no food was served, no one was greeted at the door, and the guests were forced to play games. Needless to say every-one had a grand time raiding the over-stocked ice box!

Another feature attraction last week was a lovely valentine party given by charming Mrs. C. A. Murray honoring Mrs. Dell Cohen on her birthday and welcoming Mrs. May-belle Wasserman from Ogden, Utah. The tables were attractive with hearts and frilly valentines and red flowers. Mrs. Murray served one of her famous Spanish luncheons much to the delight of her guests who were: Mmes. L. Litherland, R. Hahan, M. Stel-tenkamp, L. Fink, Robert Bag-ley, Rita Keller, May Run-gren, E. W. Hermanson, Wayne Gamet, G. Carnes, E. Ottensen, L. Grand, Ruth Litch-er and Anna Marie O'Brien.

Capt. and Mrs. J. R. Clark of San Diego were here recently for the reunion class party of 1925. They were the house-guests of Mrs. Clark's sister-in-law, Mrs. Edmund Kidder of Belmont Shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Brooks had as their house guest from Dover, Del., Mayor Lafayette French. They entertained at a petluck supper and bridge party. Among those present were Lt. Col. and Mrs. E. M. Garrett, Major and Mrs. Robert Nixon and Mrs. Walter Kuznak.

Back to everyday routine are Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Norman Shipley whose recent vacation sounds like a trip to Disneyland down Mexico way.

Mrs. M. H. Ivins was hostess last night at a bridge party at her home for wives of officers attached to the USS Helena.

Hostesses at the Valentine luncheon of the Long Beach Air Force Officers Wives Club were Mrs. Michael Ognisty and Mrs. Gus Kraft. The center of the speaker's table held a huge white heart shaped cake with gay red hearts and darts, and paper hearts and streamers decorated the tables. Guest speaker was Mrs. Gladys Morgan who talked on grooming and charm. Her model was club member, Mrs. George Tid-well.

New members joining were Mmes Edward Goodrich, Anthony McCloskey and new bride Mrs. William Bryan.

Tuesday evening the wives of officers attached to the USS Helena will enjoy a dinner party at Leilani Hut in Belmont Shore. Hostesses will be Mrs. Roy Koester and Buff Adamson.

Wives of officers attached to Destroyer Squadron Three will gather Tuesday for a luncheon party at Manhattan Restaurant. Mrs. William A. Morgan will be senior hostess assisted by the wives of officers attached to the USS George K. MacKanzie. Guest of honor will be Mrs. Roland N. Smoot.

Arriving today by train from Monterey (in fact their first train ride) are those two pretty little girls Nell and Edwina Lee Jr., with their mother Mrs. W. W. Lee Jr., who are celebrating their grandmother, Mrs. Edwina P. Gladden's birthday tonight with her here in Long Beach. Next week end Mrs. Gladden will drive the threesome home to Monterey where with Lt. Lee will honor Mrs. Lee on her birthday on the 23rd.

There were two lovely "ex-pectant" parties last week. On Tuesday night Mrs. Harry Meyler Brinser was a charming hostess honoring Mrs. William Palmer and Mrs. Paul Asthmus at a beautiful pink and blue baby shower. Attend-ing were the wives of officers of the USS Shea DM 3, com-manded by Comdr. Brinser.

Among those present were Mmes. Hal Hasselbach, James Dowell, Joseph Frozio, Frank Barrett, Richard Roby, Calvin Culp, Joseph McDonald, Mar-cia Shane, Pat Knowles and Anita Barker, who will wed Lt. (jg) Randy Fox in April.

On Thursday night Mrs. J. D. Zinser was honored by a baby shower at the home of Mrs. H. L. Hinkley. Co-hos-tessees with Mrs. Hinkley were Mmes. J. C. Potter, L. Ab-reesia and C. L. Barnard. At-tending were wives of officers attached to the USS Helena.

Seen dining at the Towne Club recently were new mem-bers, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Da-vid M. Tye.

bridge for 140 guests. Beulah (Mrs. W. Scott) Jones, Alice (Mrs. Lorne) Middough, Ger-trude (Mrs. Walter) Killings-worth and Lola (Mrs. Lewis) Van Winkle are the four and they plan to use a pretty pink hearts and flowers theme, with peach blossoms on the large table.

Every Feb. 6 from now on Julie and Frank Fietsch of 47 60th Pl. will have another big family event to celebrate. The something new that has been added is the birth date of their small son, Mark, who weighed in at Seaside Hospital last weekend at six pounds, 11 ounces. Sharing in their de-light are two sets of brand-new grandparents, Digur and Doug Weher and the Franklyn Fietschs Sr. of Wilmette, Ill., plus great-grandparents, the "Boots" Weberes of San Cle-mente (the formerly of Chi-cago Cubs fame).

Compton Lodge

Reports on various activities in which the Compton Lodge has recently participated were given at the recent meeting of the Compton Rebekah Lodge, when Josephine Gration pre-sided as noble grand. Irma Lueburg reported on the dis-trict school in instruction held earlier this month at Del Mar Rebekah lodge in Long Beach. Twenty-five members of the Compton lodge attended and officers exemplified the bal-loting.

At Big Bear

Tap Dancing Ballet Star on Program

The Richards-Martin Dance Studio of Anaheim will present a program of tap, ballet, song and dance numbers in colorful costumes on the Community Program, sponsored by the Recreation Department in the Municipal Auditorium Monday evening at 8 p. m.

Highlight of the show will be dance numbers by Rian Valente. Valente has appeared on television shows and in several motion pictures.

Featured also will be Judy Lewis, young dance artist and line of five girls who have been doing semi-professional work for clubs and service camp shows. Mary Lou Martin has arranged the show production for Monday evening.

Community singing led by George Griffith will open this program at 7:30 p. m. with Madeline Frazer as accompanist.

Old time and square dancing to the music of the Tyo Orchestra and with Mr. Bill Simmons as caller will follow the stage show.

This civic program is free to the public and doors will open at 6:30 p. m.

Udoff-Levin Recite Vows in Afternoon

When Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert Udoff (Barbara Ann Levin) return from a San Francisco honeymoon, they will reside at 1022 San Antonio Drive. The young couple recited their nuptials in an afternoon ceremony at Lafayette Hotel with a reception following in the Mirror Room.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Levin of 2702 Arbor Rd., Lakewood, was given in marriage by her father. She wore an attractive gown of imported ivory lace over sheer ivory nylon net tulle. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley on a white Bible.

In the entourage were Barbara Lewis, maid of honor; Roslyn Adelman and Arlene Bruner, bridesmaids; Robert Levin, best man; and Richard Bruner and Richard Stockton, ushers. The bridal attendants were attired in pastel lace and net gowns and carried heart-shaped bouquets of carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Jordan High School, and her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard D. Udoff of 3739 Arbor Rd., Lakewood, is a graduate of Compton High School and attended Compton Junior College.

Honeymoon at Resort

One of the pretty weddings of the winter season took place at St. Cyprian's Catholic Church when Dowell Anthony Kubicka, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kubicka of Flattsouth, Neb., and Katherine Sue Milligan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Milligan, 6171 Corvitos Ave., were wed in a nuptial mass.

Accompanied to the altar by her father, the bride was exquisitely gowned in antique white satin trimmed in seed pearls with bouffant overskirt of nylon tulle panelled in Chantilly lace. A coronet of seed pearls held her fingertip-length veil and her bouquet was of white orchids and stephanotis on a white prayer book.

The mother of the bride wore a costume suit of cocoa taffeta with accessories of dark brown alligator. Mrs. John Kubicka, who came from Nebraska with her family for the ceremony, was gowned in lavender-pink faille.

A reception for 200 followed the church ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Murphy, 4139 California Ave. Mrs. Murphy was assisted by Misses James L. Mills, Eldon D. Milligan and Lloyd M.

Hendricks. Joanne Lowers and Pat Awalt, and Meriel Mills presided at the guest book.

Both young persons are students at Long Beach State College and attended Northwestern Missouri State College at Maryville, Mo. She is also a graduate of Jordan High School, and the bridegroom served four years in the Marine Corps, including duty in Korea. After a honeymoon at Sky Forest, they will be at home to friends at 4705 1/2 Clark Ave.

Completing the wedding party were Duke Livermore, best man; Robert Wright and Johnny Manahan, ushers. A reception followed for 225 guests, in the church parlor. Mrs. Naomi Bever, Mrs. Gladys Livermore and Miss Eloise Brakefield were hostesses. The mother of the bride greeted guests in slate blue taffeta with pink accessories, and Mrs. Livermore was attired in toast colored lace over taffeta with mauve accessories.

Exchange Nuptial Lines in Candlelight Ceremony

In an impressive candlelight ceremony, Miss Donna Loreen Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Blanche L. Stevens of 1424 Peterson Ave., became the bride of William D. Livermore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Livermore, 4902 N. Ken Ave. Rev. Murray McNeil officiated in Los Altos Congregational Church.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her uncle, Howard Bever, was lovely in a Maurer original of candlelight tulle over satin. The bouffant skirt fell into a sweep train, and a pearl and rhinestone tiara held her veil. American Beauty roses formed the cascade bouquet.

Proceeding the bride down the aisle were Mrs. Rita Marper, matron of honor, and Mrs. Theta Honaker and Miss Martha Lorenzen, bridesmaids. They wore American beauty tulle styled like the bridal gown and carried bouquets of white carnations. Carrying the rings were Rusty and Randy Livermore, nephews of the bridegroom.

Completing the wedding party were Duke Livermore, best man; Robert Wright and Johnny Manahan, ushers.

Why Grow Old?

Health and Humor Bride's Best Dowry

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Marriage today seems to be much more a partnership than it was years ago, but it is more complex in many ways. Even frozen vegetables, electric washing machines and stoves, detergents and all of the fancy aids to housekeeping do not make up for the accelerated pace at which we live. They only make it possible.

Then, too, in years gone by more women in the home had help in taking care of their houses and their children. Service was not so expensive and that was the day when grandmothers more often lived with their children, the day of larger houses.

Besides all this, while the fact that marriage is more a partnership gives us great benefits and compensations in happiness, it also brings us penalties.

A wife today is supposed to be efficient and clever in making the budget work. She shares in her husband's plans for the future and is a part of his sports and hobbies and leisure activities to some extent at least. Both she and her husband enter into the civic programs of their community. If her husband and children must be well informed about the world in which she lives as well as about nutrition and child psychology.

There are two aids which will make this possible—one, fine health, and the other, a sense of humor. With these two you will be able to succeed at several careers wrapped up as one, to be the emotional stabilizer to smooth the rough edges of living for your family, with understanding, warmth and humor.

If a woman is handicapped by fatigue which means poor emotional balance and irritability she is beaten before she starts.

The chronically, though not seriously ill woman, places a great strain on the family budget, just when the young couple are fighting for a financial foothold.

The best dowry a bride can bring to her marriage is fine health and a good sense of humor. The latter will make daily hectic times which happen in every family, funny rather than irritating, and bubbling vitality breeds graciousness, tolerance and an easy going temperament.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Oswald Jacoby Need Both Skill and Luck

South didn't like what happened to him in today's hand, but he thought that he had been unlucky rather than unskillful. The fact was that he had brought his misfortune on himself.

There wasn't much to the play of the cards. West opened a heart, and East took three tricks in that suit. West discarded the deuce of clubs and then the four of clubs, so East shifted next to a diamond.

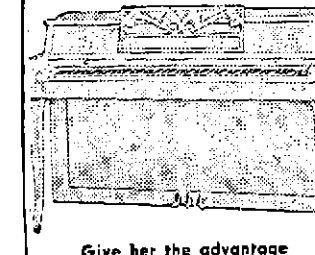

South unhappily played a low diamond, and West won with the king. West next laid down the ace of clubs, receiving the encouraging nine from his partner. A club to the king was followed by a fourth heart from East. South ruffed with the nine of spades, but West refused to overruff and eventually got two trump tricks with the queen and the eight.

The defenders took eight tricks, therefore, and South had to pay a penalty of 800 points. This was a very poor result, of course, since even if

Need Expert Advice From Our Readers

Today the Women's Section of the Independent, Press-Telegram gives you the opportunity of sharing in an unusual experiment.

The editors have received samples of a new column by bridge expert Easley Blackwood.

Here's the problem: Would you like Blackwood's column to be your regular bridge guide, or would you prefer to retain the advice of the long-time favorite, Oswald Jacoby? You will note by Blackwood's column on this page that he writes in a breezy, informal style, personalizing the players with names and character, rather than designating them merely as East, West, North or South.

At the same time, as a life master, Blackwood has the highest rank given by the American Contract Bridge League and his standing as an expert is unquestioned.

Jacoby, whose reputation is too well known to need elaboration, writes somewhat more technically with the authority born of long experience in the field.

Which would you prefer—Blackwood's or Jacoby's column. Talk it over with your bridge club. Then vote individually. Write a postcard or note saying simply, "I prefer the Blackwood bridge column," or "I prefer the Jacoby bridge column." Address your ballot to Bridge Editor, Independent-Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, California. Sign your name and address and mail before midnight Feb. 23.

Your vote will be weighed carefully in any decision about the future bridge column which will be offered for your enjoyment.

Blackwood on Bridge— Hold-Up Play Excellent, but Calls for Judgment

Mrs. Keen lost this contract at the very first trick. The opening lead was the queen of hearts and she let it hold. Now the hold-up is an excellent play, designed to cut the communications between the defenders' hands. But sometimes you cannot afford to use it because it is overshadowed in importance by some other consideration.

Such was the case in today's deal. It was more important here to make sure of preserving the ace of hearts as an entry to dummy later in the play.

At trick two Mr. Meek led the four of hearts and dummy's ace had to be played. Mrs. Keen then made a fine play in the club suit. To avoid losing two club tricks if the opponent had four to the queen-ace, she played the ace first and followed with the deuce, intending to play her nine spot if Mr. Masters played low. But on the second club Mr. Masters went up with the ten.

Mrs. Keen played her king and returned the nine, feeling quite satisfied with the way she had handled the suit. Her elation was short-lived, however, when Mr. Masters let the nine win.

This good defensive play made it impossible for her to win any more clubs. She needed two entries to dummy—one to knock out the queen and one to get back to the fifth club. She had only one entry, the ace of diamonds.

The contract could have been made if the first trick had been won in the closed hand with the king of hearts. Mrs. Keen then could have played the clubs as she actually did, cashing the ace first and following with a small one toward her king-nine. If Mr. Masters had played small, the nine would have won. If the nine had lost to the queen or ten in Mr. Meek's hand, that would have been all right, too, as it would have meant that the clubs had broken 3-2 and that four tricks were readily available in the suit.

In any case the best play was to take the lead at the first opportunity and set the club suit while both red aces were still on the board.

Camp Fire Plans Meets.

The board of directors of the Camp Fire Council met recently at the Camp Fire office. Mrs. Harold Eystone reported that the region's annual meeting for Camp Fire Councils in Southern California and Arizona will be held at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles March 4 and 5. Resolutions may be made at the Camp Fire office before Feb. 21. All adult members of Camp Fire are welcome.

Chairman of group organizations, Mrs. Edmund J. Coyne, gave an enthusiastic account of mothers' meetings scheduled to form new Blue Bird and Camp Fire groups throughout the city. "Under the new form of district organization my committee expects a 5 per cent increase in girl and adult membership this year," said Mrs. Coyne.

During January, the training committee with Mrs. Edgar Wise as chairman, conducted eight workshops as training for district level Camp Fire activity.

The peanut sale to be March 11 through March 26 was discussed. Arrangements have been made for groups to have peanut stands in stores but the majority of the girls will be ringing doorbells asking the housewife to buy peanuts to help support Camp Fire in Long Beach.

Child Care Dad Tries to Be Both Parents Now

By BEULAH FRANCE, R. N.

(Q) "My wife has left me with a son 8 years old. I shall have to be both parents. I have a good housekeeper but how, while home, can I come close to my boy?" J. M. A.

(A) Have you been close to him throughout his early years? Fathers who establish comradeship with children starting with their babies' birth experience joys unknown to those who postpone or ignore opportunities parenthood presents.

If there have been eight years of parental neglect and you're suddenly forced to play a double role, be prepared to accept rebuffs from your small son at first, for you'll have to win your way into his confidence. If he was deeply devoted to his mother he may resent your advances at first.

Develop some shared interest. A friend of mine has held his son's affection from early school years into the teens through the pleasures provided by a stamp collection. When the lad was eight, this father bought the boy a stamp album. From his office he brought home all odd and foreign stamps. Together they studied the countries they came from. They traced historical events represented.

With his allowance, augmented by gifts from friends and relatives, the boy bought single stamps and collections. His playmates became interested collectors, too. They began "swapping" stamps until today, after six or seven years, they're a group of close comrades who, with the maintained interest of the first father and additional fathers, all enjoy educational excitement through the limitless adventures stamp collecting affords.

Parents Should Follow Ideas of Abraham Lincoln

By ANGELO PATRI

President Lincoln was a leader of men; one of the greatest. He said and wrote many fine things; among them, "I would hate to leave the world without having made it a little better than I found it." He could not know how much better he left it. Few people ever live to know the effect their lives had on those of others.

There is no living alone in this world. Each of us is dependent upon hosts of others and hosts of others are dependent on each of us. What we think and what we do spreads an influence about us that we cannot measure. This is especially important to our relationship with children and young people.

To keep in mind always that there are children and young people all about us watching and listening is to give us a strict discipline that we are not likely to take kindly, but rearing children is a lifetime job. A good job in that field is a demanding task. It takes time, devotion and sacrifice.

A drink before dinner seems such a comforting restful idea but what about the children? The Yale report tells us that the college men who drink have fathers who do so. Few fathers but deplore the habit. But how they hate the thought of giving it up.

Then there is smoking. It seems to have become a universal habit. A pack of cigarettes and a lighter is as much of an accessory as the pocket in a man's jacket or the handbag a lady carries. So we find school boys and girls smoking. They are following the pattern set by their parents and teachers who smoke late and early.

The Cancer Society has declared that there is a relationship between smoking and cancer. This is a responsible organization whose members view cancer as a terrible threat to human beings' health and happiness. Yet in the fact of this finding the smoking goes on merrily.

When you consider that what the elders do influences what the upcoming generation will do, the habits of the elders become a serious social power in the world of tomorrow. Our bad habits, carried into the future customs of the people do not assure that we, as Lincoln did, will leave the world the better for our being in it.

Here is something to think about this Lincoln's Day celebration. This feature appears daily in Independent.

To Participate in Conclave

Long Beach Chapter 506, Women of the Moose, has been selected as one of the top five chapters in the state. The officers headed by senior regent, Mrs. Norma Hooper, have been invited to participate in the commemorations of the ritual at the state mid-winter conference to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Santa Barbara. Mrs. Hazel Hummel, of Northumberland, Penn., grand regent, will be honored guest.

Attending the conference with Mrs. Hooper will be Mrs. Rena Ippolito, junior graduate regent; Mrs. Mary D'Orto, junior regent; Mrs. Helen McClimans, chaplain; Mrs. Maureen Neaveu, treasurer; Mrs. Ester Strissel, secretary; Mrs. Rhoda Mayfield, escorts; Mrs. Lenia Brewer and Mrs. Margaret Cummings, chairmen.

These officers will be accompanied by past national and state officers, graduate grand regent, Mrs. Bessie Lovitt, and former associate dean, Mrs. Emily Willis.

Several meetings have been scheduled by the organization locally. College of Regents will meet Monday from 11 a. m. until 3 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Ora Kowalski, 720 E. 35th St.; College of Regents chapter night program and initiation is set for Wednesday at 8 p. m. in Moose Hall. The home of Mrs. Lorraine Dill and Rhoda Mayfield, 269 St. Joseph Ave., will be the setting Thursday at 7:30 p. m. for an escort meeting.

Sunshine Circle

Dr. Margaret Clark Sunshine Circle will meet Tuesday noon in Colonial Hall for a coffee hour, business meeting, and cards. Members and their friends are invited.

Merry Whirl of Parties Continues in Lakewood

By BERNICE AHRENDES

With the nip of spring in the air, Dan Cupid has been busy and soon-to-be brides are in the midst of preparations for the big day. Joan Ruston and Norilyn Vallance cohosted a wedding shower for Patti Woodson recently at the home of Joan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ruston, 6001 Premiere Ave. Miss Woodson has announced her engagement to Jene Winn.

Guests were Meses. Marion Woodson, Beverly Snell, Ethel Woodson, Blanche Carter, Dixie Manson, Marilyn Vallance, Evelyn Ruston, Misses Chastain, Pickrell, Marion Hammer, Nancy Porter, Jackie Rogers and Elaine Reed.

Conversational piece of a shower held Tuesday evening for Mrs. Jerry Bulger of 6761 Turnergrove Dr. was a blue and white umbrella where guests placed their gifts. Hostesses Mrs. Wayne Spence and Mrs. Homer Lemons also prepared nut cups to look like tiny sailing boats to match the invitations which were sent to Meses. Mary Ellen Serpino, Evelyn Bean, Alice Malquist, Marilyn Johnson, Avis Ouson, Jane Jorgensen, Peggy Ewell, Connie Turner, Mary Kriesly, Janet Barber, Eva Jenkins, Barbara Hatch, Beverly Dunlap, Ruth Porter, Virginia Dalton, J. A three-day trip to San Francisco was enjoyed by Mrs. Loren Daniels of 3502 Tulane Ave. There she met Mrs. Elwin (Maude) Theobald of Boise, Idaho, and together enjoyed the sights of our northern neighbor. They returned via air to Mrs. Daniels' home where Mrs. Theobald enjoyed seeing many of her former Lakewood acquaintances. On Monday Mrs. Howard Lamb and Mrs. Theobald lunched together and took a tour of Los Angeles polio rehabilitation center while visiting with Mrs. Orin Wright, a patient in the hospital.

Cooperative nursery this past week. They are Ellen David, 4 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric David of 5207 Adenmoore Ave., and Mark, 3, and Lynne Glatt, 4, children of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Glatt of 4931 Rachel Ave. Birthday wishes were extended by their teachers, Mrs. Della Mulder and Larry Stern, Connie Mulder, Pat Barrett, Barbie Frome, Jay Morgan, Carol Crouch, Jimmy and David Samuels, Arlene Ahrendes, Bobby Morris, Lee and Carol Reiner and David Mauk.

Visiting in town at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harold (Carol) Barrett, has been Martha Bliss of Healsberg. Miss Bliss has been on vacation from her studies at the University of California at Berkeley.

A party was held Saturday evening in the rumpus room at the Waldo Yearsley home. Dancing to popular records was enjoyed by Donna Gillispie, Dorothy Pinegar, Judy Musteen, Adele Larson, Lurae Ahrendes, Marie Price, Gail Yearsley, Jimmy Yearsley, Ronnie Towns, Ronnie Bremer, Jackie Hickey, Willie Moore, Gary Urton and Pfc. Norman Smith.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Henry Dixon was invited over to Mrs. William Aldridge's home for lunch. Following luncheon they were going to work on the P.T.A. yearly report, as Mrs. Dixon is the president of the Wilson

Young Love Has Obstacles

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I've been going steady with a fellow for ten months now but there are so many problems and obstacles in our way that he feels it would be best if we break up—even though he does love me.

You see, I'm almost a year older than he is. He is a senior high student and I'm a secretary. He lives 13 miles from me, and doesn't have a car of his own, and very seldom gets his father's. Most of the time when I see him I have to use my parent's car and they don't like this. They feel a fellow should court a girl, not the girl a fellow. He realizes this and it upsets him.

Also, he feels I'm too good for him. He says I am popular, pretty and could get any fellow I want, so why pick on him? I don't feel that way. He

Chef of the Week

Lorin Q. Martin Adds Beer to His Pancakes

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Does he have a Toni? That's your guess! Though born on the Kansas side of Kansas City, Mo., Chef of the Week Lorin Q. Martin, "Q" not for Quincy, headed west at the age of 4. Since then Long Beach has been his home.

Enlisting in Capt. Roland Swaffield's 23rd Company in World War I, he accompanied it as far as Ft. MacArthur. There he was transferred to the 35th Ammunition Train, and it was with that division that he toured France.

After his discharge and return to Long Beach, Martin spent the next few years getting so-called experience. For instance, it was he who plastered the cupola above the Wilton Skyroom. He was one of only two men who could match courage with elevation.

In 1927 he joined the police department. Those were the days when a patrolman walked his beat. When and if he rode, he herded a Model T.

Though Martin literally walked, he mentally climbed, and today he has the distinction of being the only Long Beach captain who has actually worked in each department. Known as a policeman's policeman, he's done everything from rescuing cats from trees to solving the most intricate of murders. He served as inspector of detectives, as lieutenant in charge of traffic, finally becoming captain of the Detective Bureau in 1944, the position which he now holds. His popularity with the homicide detail is certainly no secret.

"Our 'chef' has a potent yen for fishing on live bait boats, and if you ever accompany him on such a trip, just remember to provide your own lunch.

He's equally "hepped" on whipping up biscuit, pancakes and waffles and his most ardent boosters are his son, aged 13, and twin sons, aged 11. Today he has given us the recipe for which he's best known — it's Beer Pancakes. "Q" Martin, atop his shoulder, agrees.

2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg may be added if desired

Sift dry ingredients together. Combine well beaten egg yolk with oil, beer and milk. Add to dry ingredients and beat smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on hot grid.

Sunday School Helps Child's Social Adjustment

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case N-348: Jimmy G., 5, starts to school next year.

"Dr. Crane, Jimmy has never had much chance to play with other children of his own age," his 15-year-old sister informed me.

"Since I read your column every day, I know psychologists urge that children learn to play with others of their own age."

"So I have tried to get Mother to send Jimmy to Sunday School. But she objects. She gives all kinds of excuses not to let him go."

"If only she'd let me take him, I know he would learn how to make friends and play with little boys and girls."

"Will you please write about my case in your column so my mother can see what you have to say?"

Parents, please heed this case about Jimmy, for the art of getting along with other people is a learned reaction.

Play and laughter are also a result of wide experience with other people. A Robinson Crusoe existence is not a good background for a child who must enter school by the age of six.

Sheltered, inexperienced youngsters don't know how to laugh at the usual social situations which are deemed funny. Nor can they play in group games.

Jimmy is already a social mist. And his entire future life may be ruined by his mother's failure to see that he is socially prepared for grammar school.

Sunday schools offer every family a wonderful opportunity not only to implant moral ideals and good music in their toddlers, but Sunday schools also prepare those youngsters for greater success in the public schools.

If a shy, inexperienced boy like Jimmy enters public school without previous opportunities of playing with other boys and girls during those preceding years, then he remains aloof and timid.

Or he may swing to the other extreme and try to browbeat others and dominate their play.

In either event, he is mal-adjusted. And his school grades often drop. Many of the children who fail in school marks are not to be blamed unduly, for if their parents don't help prepare the child for school success, then those parents deserve reproof.

It is just as vital nowadays to prepare your child in group play habits and other social experiences with those of his own age, as it is to see that his teeth are properly checked and that he is vaccinated against smallpox and diphtheria.

Yet many mothers forget this important fact. They lavish money on his medical care and on his clothes. They buy him encyclopedias and other educational books or games, which is a fine thing.

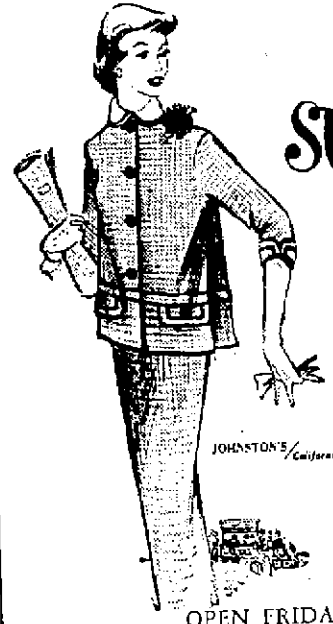

Then they ignore his social personality. So Jimmy's sister is far more understanding of Jimmy's needs than his mother.

Even if Jimmy's mother were not mindful of the moral and musical values which he will receive from Sunday school, she should be appreciative of the fact that Sunday school attendance is ideal preparation for public school attendance. It helps socialize little grandstanders!

Every child should be in Sunday school EVERY Sabbath day, barring illness!

And you parents who fail to realize this urgent need, are accessories to the crime of making your youngster the "dummy" in grammar school, and even of putting him behind prison bars if he later gets into open conflict with the law.

R. N. Events in News; Clubs Keep Pace

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Two events concerning registered nurses take their place in the career women spotlight today. RN leaders from Long Beach assembled in San Francisco yesterday to consider problems affecting nurses and nursing, with special emphasis being placed on current legislation and legislative procedures, according to Miss Meta Smith, president of the Long Beach Nurses' Assn.

The occasion is the annual meeting of the Advisory Council of the California State Nurses' Assn. Attending from Long Beach are Miss Smith, Miss Blanche Eickel and Mrs. Edith Klein.

Private Duty Registered Nurses

The other news of nurses has to do with the election of officers of the Private Duty Registered Nurses' Organization of Long Beach recently when the group met at the YWCA and chose Karna B. Neal to serve as chairman for the coming year.

Serving with her will be O. Regnier Kittleman, vice chairman, and Luella K. Searson, secretary-treasurer.

A committee on credentials and registry management was also selected. Grace K. Bawes was named chairman and serving with her will be Elizabeth White, Winifred De Gra, Madge McGuire, Adele Nisbet, Mary Simmons, Mabel Oppi-of Long Beach; from Los Angeles will come their daughter, Mrs. Bernard Huguet, and from Sioux City, Ia. Mrs. Don Perry and Mrs. Thomas Beacom. Two other daughters who live far away, Mrs. Bert Stienbeck of Sioux Falls, S. D. and Mrs. Harold Shearon of Sycamore, Ill. plan to be here and another son, Leo Bourassa, of Prairie, Mich. will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Bourassa were married in Jefferson, S. D. in 1905, moving to Long Beach from that city 12 years ago.

DBE to Meet

Lord Kitchener Chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, will meet Tuesday for luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. Rogers, 289 Redondo Ave. The regent, Mrs. Daisy Baldwin, will preside.

ger, Lydia Erickson, Bernice Murray and Mary J. Roberts. The next meeting will be a dinner Feb. 22 at Jones Cafeteria.

Desk and Derrick

Wednesday the Lafayette Supper Room will be filled with a smart group of women—all members of the large and active Desk and Derrick Club. A social hour at 6:30 p. m. will precede the 7 o'clock dinner for the women of the oil industry.

Jean Kasper (Richfield Oil Co.) will preside for the first time since her installation. Lucille Swigert will serve as program chairman for the night.

Guest speaker will be H. Royce Greatwood of Hope Ranch Park, Santa Barbara and his subject will be "The History and Development of Petroleum Industry in the Orient." The speaker joined Union Oil Co. in 1927 and in 1930 was sent to the Far East to open the first office of his company in China. In 1937 he was transferred to Southeast Asia and his territory covered Malaya, Burma, Siam and India. Following service in World War II he was in the Navy during both wars) he was again in the Far East for his company, this time in Japan until his retirement last year.

The timely talk by a man who knows the Orient exceedingly well should prove of great interest to members and their guests.

Medical Assistants

Valentine's Day—tomorrow—will be regular dinner meeting date for Medical Assistants who will gather at Coast Inn, 1045 East Pacific Coast Highway at 6:30 p. m. Speaker of the evening will be Dr. Donald Malcolm.

Hostesses in charge of the evening are Pat Newhouse, Connie Feist, Lucille Minniear, Virginia Toner and Isa Gerry. Medical assistants in doctors' offices in this area are cordially invited to attend meetings of the group, however advance reservations are necessary.

Long Beach Credit Women

Long Beach Credit Women's Club showed appreciation of their bosses in one of the jolliest ways possible last Tuesday night when they were hostesses at the annual "Bosses Night" celebration. A dinner party affair, it was given at Vivian Lairds. Informality was the keynote with a valentine theme used as decor. Lucille Drew was evening's chairman.

Convention Delegates

Long Beach Insurance Women have announced the delegates who will be their representatives at the national convention this spring in Phoenix. Selected to serve the club in this capacity were Jane Ann Campbell and her alternate, Marie Eckles, and Roberta Gordon, delegate, Sandra Smith, alternate.

Luncheon

Mrs. Charles Brantingham of 25 La Linda Dr. was hostess for a luncheon at Pacific Coast Club in compliment to Mrs. Norman Scott, who was showered with gifts. Others present were Mrs. William Lockett, John McCutcheon, Jack London, Don Sullivan, Wilbur Seils, Ray Green Jr., Leland Meenzhuber, Sidney Plexer, James Pino, William Guyser, and Philip Erdahl.

Patriotic Program Emblem Club to Serve Dinner

Americanism activities are being emphasized by the American Legion Auxiliary throughout the nation this month. Activities will center around the observance of birthdays of Lincoln and Washington and will give prominence to the qualities of American citizenship exemplified in the lives of these two great men. Arrangements have been made by Olive Parker, Americanism chairman of Arthur L. Peterson Unit 27, for a special Americanism program Tuesday at 8 p. m. Speakers for the evening will be Mrs. Ruth Bach, member of the City Council, and two students from Jordan High School.

Emblem Club No. 106 will entertain servicemen tonight at a ham dinner and dessert of home-made cakes baked by members, at the Armed Services YMCA. Mrs. William Engle, chairman, will be in charge, assisted by her committee, Mrs. Paul Symons, Rubie Berg, Clayton Smith, Ervin Schmitt, Roy Wilson, Lillian McGuire, and Fred Hesse.

Chairmen of the club will meet at noon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Earl Rausch, 5856 Orange Ave., with Mrs. Lester Bothell as cohostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bourassa

Bourassa Family to Join Parents for Golden Fete

An aura of sentimental happiness will surround Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bourassa, 636 Lime Ave., next Sunday when they celebrate their 50th Wedding Anniversary surrounded by their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and friends.

Members of the family will accompany the celebrants to early mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church to begin the day, then they will all breakfast together at the Lafayette Hotel. In the afternoon there will be a reception at St. Matthew's Social Hall from 2 to 5 p. m. at which time their many friends are invited to stop by to greet them.

The Bourassas' 11 children, 19 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren will be with them next Sunday. Their children are Vincent, Andrew, Martin and Jerome Bourassas and Mrs. Clayton Alsager, all

Long Beach, I Love You!

By Carl Kohler

"DO YOU REALIZE," mourned my gorgeous wife the other night, "that the Season Of The Guest is almost upon us? Come spring and horde after horde of assorted friends and relatives will arrive."

"Bully for them!" I chirped. "The more, the merrier and all sorts of hospitable thoughts like that!"

She regarded me petulantly. "Are you off your rocker, Mac? I don't mind the extra cooking and cleaning. I can take long, detailed accounts of mileage and routes followed in stride; but how are we going to keep them entertained?"

I casually leaped to my feet and, racing to the window, drew the curtains shut with trembling hand. Nervously, I scrutinized the street, outside, through an old moth-hole. Except for an elderly gentleman tooling his electric hot-rod down the avenue . . . it was empty. We were safe. No one could possibly have heard her, I reasoned.

"What's with the fugitive-from-justice act, kiddo?" she asked with naive indifference.

"Never . . . Never . . . NEVER make a remark like that!" I whispered hoarsely. "Supposing a member of the Chamber of Commerce happened to overhear you?" I shuddered and fell into my chair, my face twitching fitfully . . . my forehead glistening coldly.

"WHAT DID I SAY?" she demanded querulously.

"Here we are, living in Long Beach—the city of a thousand delightful recreations and attractions—and you want to know how we're going to entertain our guests." I drew a quivering breath. "That's downright mutiny, Bunnyduck. Let loose talk like that start getting around to the city fathers and . . . well . . . you want me boiled in live orange juice?"

She giggled merrily.

"It's true, I tell you!" I said earnestly. Never so much as insinuate that Long Beach isn't fraught with places to go, things to do and countless other highlights."

"Yeh?" Her eyes gleamed with interest. "Well, just what countless highlights are you talking about?"

"Wait'll I find a pencil and paper," I said haughtily. "I'll draw you pictures."

"Okay, so get saccastic," she complained, "but I still say somebody like Uncle Otto . . . or Aunt Gertrude . . . or, worse yet, the Bradleys are darned hard to entertain."

"Pish, tosh and pouf!" I chuckled. Look, what is Uncle Otto's favorite subject?"

SHE THOUGHT a moment. "Boats."

"The Marine Stadium, no?" I said, grinning sally. "Alamitos Bay . . . Pierpoint Landing . . . in fact, the whole blessed harbor area."

"How about Aunt Gertrude's passion for unusual cafes which serve delicious foods at bargain prices?" She countered craftily. "How about her cute little penchant for collecting expensive menus . . . hey, boy . . . how about that?"

"Have her write a fan letter to Tedd Thomcy in care of the Independent, Press-Telegram," I replied instantly. "He not only puts on the feedbag in all the best restaurants; if Thomcy can't steal her any menu her heart desires—it can't be stolen, borrowed or leased for advertising purposes."

With a tight-lipped smile she marched across the room and violently plucked the family album from the bookshelf. Determinedly, she opened to the first page.

"SOMEWHERE I'll find somebody within these pictorial pages whose recreational preferences can't possibly be satisfied in any of the tourist-baited nooks or crannies of dear old Long Beach. There must be one soul whose personal ideas of fun simply cannot be fulfilled hereabouts." She looked real grim.

"What an impossible thought!" I gloated cheerily.

For the better part of an hour we worked our way through one branch of the family to another until we had completely exhausted the matter in both sides of kinfolk. Once, tiring of this ridiculous game, I became a bit weary and she thought she finally had me tripped up.

" . . . and then there's little cousin Orville," she began thickly, strain beginning to appear in her voice. "How about that little stinker?"

I STALLED for time. Orville was a little stinker and harder to please or handle than an irate, undersized gorilla. Something stirred in my memory. Hadn't we entertained Orville and parents several years before? Frantically, I peered down memory's fuzzy lanes.

"He was about three on their last visit, wasn't he?" I held up a hand for pause. "That makes him about nine or thereabouts now . . . right?"

She nodded glumly, knowing she was losing another round.

"A real boy!" I stated with assumed fondness. "I don't doubt a bit he would enjoy trips down to the Pike Fun Zone with great relish!"

Her face crumpled in defeat again.

And so it went all the way down the line of relatives and friends and even mere casual acquaintances. For each one's particular interests (as far as we knew) there was some place or thing in Long Beach to offer them.

Fishing off Belmont Pier . . .

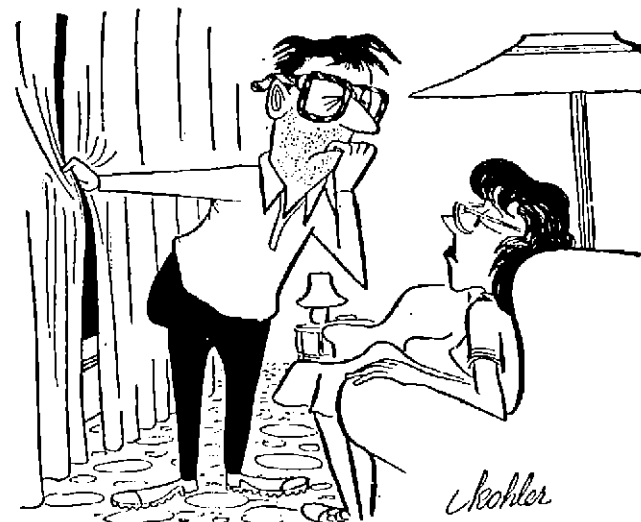

listening to band concerts . . . picnics in Bixby Park . . . evenings of drama by the Community Players . . . visits to the Municipal Art Center . . . parades and community festivities—there was some sort or other goings-on and places of activity for all tastes.

By now, I was smiling quite snidely.

SHE PLAYED her last card . . . right from the bottom of the deck. Ordinarily, she's a nice girl. I can only imagine pure desperation goaded her into it.

"And our good friend George Philipflingle Throottfeister? Just how do you suggest we entertain good old Georgie Throottfeister, honeybun? Riddle me that!"

Nothing to do in Long Beach? Never let the Chamber of Commerce hear that! We can, too, entertain visitors!

Highways to the Stars

The lure of the film capital is universal. Here, two visitors view stars' footprints in foyer of Chinese.

THE DESIRE to see a movie star in person draws thousands to premieres and Hollywood functions. And almost as many want to see the homes where these stars live.

Popular in the cinema city is a tour planned by the All-Year Club of Southern California which takes sightseers past the homes of the stars. Residents, persons from out of the state, vacationists and those out for a Sunday jaunt enjoy the ride which allows them to get a good look at the homes of their favorites and perhaps an informal glimpse of the stars in person.

You can view the home of Groucho Marx — and discover that he actually comes out of his own driveway when operating his Firestone Eight as he films the commercial for his television show "You Bet Your Life." You will note the circular swimming pool belonging to Joan Davis whose lovely home is situated beside the exclusive Bel Air Country Club golf course.

You will see the massive gates leading to the Bing Crosby estate which now swing ajar and bear the signature of thousands — the only sign of defacement — or is it a tribute? — seen on the entire tour.

INTERESTING, too, is the home of Adrian and Janet Gaynor. You can observe that although it is not now the architecture has a distinctly modern trend testifying to the creative abilities of Adrian who designed the home and who for years has designed gowns for screen stars.

Aristocratic "Pickfair," once the home of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, is on the route as is the huge estate of Harold Lloyd which boasts an 18-hole golf course and a 100-foot man-made waterfall.

Last stop on the tour is the home of Will Rogers, which now is owned by the state and is open to visitors for a small fee from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

If you wish to make the tour you might like to include a map of the Beverly Hills-Hollywood area although the directions given by the All-Year Club are easily followed. You also might want to fortify yourself with a picnic lunch as the trip lasts several hours.

Going via Lakewood Boulevard thence turning onto the Santa Ana Freeway and finally the Hollywood Freeway is the quickest approach and will land you in the thick of Hollywood in about 40 minutes. A turn off the Hollywood Freeway to Sunset Boulevard which you travel until reaching Doheny Drive brings you to the starting point. The words "left" and "right" after the address indicate which way to turn your head to see the homes.

Amateurs Do a Stained-Glass Job

The Rev. Milton Ellithorpe, pastor of a small church in Los Angeles, has completely dumbfounded and amazed the professional stained glass window makers of that city.

This mysterious art has no schools in this country to teach the secrets of the medieval glaziers. To learn the exacting trade one must serve years of apprenticeship and even an avid admirer of stained glass windows would never attempt to make one.

But, the Rev. Mr. Ellithorpe attempted it. In fact, he and his congregation have completed 64 windows that even the experts admit are excellent.

The small congregation, badly in need of a new building, knew its only hope in getting the type of church they wanted was to build it themselves.

No one in the group had the slightest idea of how to build a leaded window, the professionals were called in. The lowest bid received was more than $3,000.

Despite his absolute lack of knowledge, the Rev. Mr. Ellithorpe decided it was necessary to have the windows and, nothing daunted, started to build them.

Today, the windows are finished—total cost—under $500; or less than $8 each!

Not only were the church workmen able to speed up the work so that each of the 64 windows could be made in a fraction of the time ordinarily required, but they were able to reduce waste to practically nothing. And usually waste in making leaded windows runs very high.

"I knew we could do it," explains the Rev. Mr. Ellithorpe. "With our limited income we had to."

"There must be thousands of small churches throughout the United States that would like to have stained glass windows but could never afford to buy them. Now they can profit from our example and make their own."

A completed center medallion is compared with pattern before it is placed on master pattern of entire window.

By Jack B. Kemmerer

For centuries, windowmakers channeled lead with special knives—tedious, ticklish job. Ellithorpe rigged a jig, did it with power.

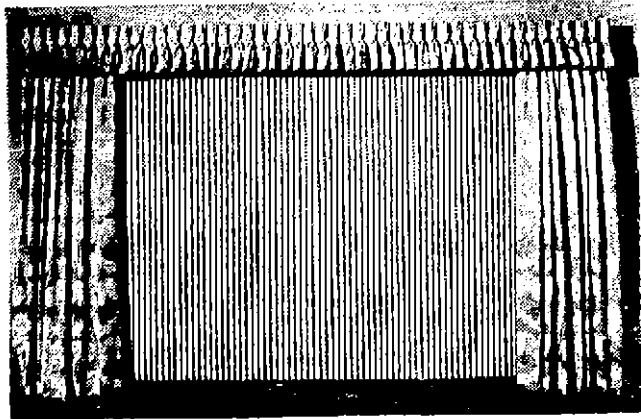

Assembling glass on slanting board prior to soldering was another departure established by the amateurs in making church windows.

A completed window is put in place to check for size. Rose, blue, purple, ruby red and three shades of amber glass were used. Window cost slightly less than $10.

SHE'S SWEETHEART QUEEN and Valentine Queen of City College.

Carol Cochran, 19, majoring in English, was chosen by the City College Student Body Council to preside over its Sweetheart Prom in the Deauville Club, Santa Monica, and the title automatically carries the title of Valentine Queen of the college.

Carol got a new coral crystal tone formal, in the smart new torso style, with pleats and plenty of fullness below the hips, to wear at the Sweetheart Prom. The Tango is her favorite dance. Her second favorite is the samba and her third favorite, swing. She has danced all of her life, she says.

She was born in Roseland, N. J., has lived in Long Beach 11 years, and was graduated in June 1953 from Poly High School. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Cochran, 329 Janice St., and she has a married sister, Beverly, who is Mrs. Nicholas Sidoti.

Carol is secretary of the City College Student Council and she was sent out of the room when the Council members balloted. "When I came back into the room, they all congratulated me," says Carol, "I was so surprised and so pleased."

The Sweetheart - Valentine queen is chosen on the basis of appearance, scholarship and activities.

AFTER SHE FINISHES City College, Carol expects to go to UCLA. She hopes to be a high school English and history teacher.

She likes historical novels, "You know," she says, "like 'Gone With the Wind.'". She likes to cook, especially Mexican food, and she admits that she makes good tacos. She does not sew but she hopes to learn. She swims a little, she plays tennis. She likes to listen to classical music, "if it isn't too heavy. I like Viennese waltzes."

Carol is 5 feet 4, with brown hair worn in a long bob, and brown eyes. She usually wears red or blue, her favorite colors.

She has "several" boy friends, she admits, but has no marriage plans until after she finishes college.

Carol Cochran is Long Beach City College's Sweetheart Queen. Selection carries with it Valentine Queen title.

She Makes Painting Look Easy

By Jule Armin

FORTY-SIX PRIZES in one year for original paintings should be a record to sit back and take pride in, but Rene Murphy, 802 California Ave., hopes to top it this year.

She paints with equal facility on every sort of textile from heavyweight canvas to the most delicate of chiffon and velvet. She paints china, glass, wood and metal. She paints dainty baby layettes, practical clothing for children and adults, table and bed linen, stage curtains and more than life-sized pictures for public buildings. Ten of her large paintings on velvet hang in U. S. churches. Two are in missions on the Gold Coast of Africa. She paints lies for her husband, Jack. Last October, Mrs. Murphy appeared on TV, Channel 2, Panorama Pacific program, with a chalk talk such as she frequently gives for churches, Sunday school and social groups. She made an oil painting on velvet in six minutes as she talked.

She says she most enjoys drawing picture-stories for children and family church gatherings.

"I use pastel chalks for quick work," she explains, "but do all

You Light Up Your Home —Without a Thought of Fire!

2 Emblems of Protection

PROTECTING YOU IN MORE WAYS THAN YOU KNOW!

FAULTY WIRING AND POOR INSTALLATION have always been a potential cause of fire. Yet you switch on your lights without a thought of fire—because fire insurance is always on the job protecting you.

You can do it because fire protection engineers are constantly making your home safer from fire. Protecting you, your home, your business, every hour of the day and night, is the job of the capital stock fire insurance companies. In our community we are proud of the part we play, as members of the Long Beach Insurance Association, in bringing this vital protection to you.

my velvet painting with Winsor & Newton oils from London. I can get more sparkle and life-like qualities with them than any of the many others I have tried. I use either these oils or textile paints when decorating clothing and articles that will receive considerable wear. I set the colors so painted textiles can be washed. I put mine right in the machine. All I am careful about is the soap. Some detergents have chemicals that affect paint. This quilt on my bed has been in use 14 years. I'm making a new one now on nylon silk.

Painting on material with a nap like velvet is not difficult, she says. "It is one of my favorites. I use the best quality and fresh paint wipes off easily if I happen to change my mind.

"The new velvex paper is nice to work on and inexpensive enough for beginners to practice on. It's just paper with a velvet-like surface that makes a good background for either paints or pastel chalks.

"Costume painting is something that more women should try, too. It is easier and quicker to paint a decoration than embroider it." As an example, she lays out a pair of matched little sister dresses of pale blue silk, painted with wild roses, and mother-and-daughter costumes of light gold taffeta that have a rose vine climbing up the front panel, with smaller sprays on the skirt and short jacket. A white velvet stole boasts a huge, delicately shaded orchid.

Mt. Hamilton on the east to the Santa Cruz Mountains on the west, and from Gilroy on the south to Palo Alto on the north, and the blossoming season of these trees seems to blend into a continuing procession of beauty with the apricots beginning about the third week in February and prunes, pears and cherries in mid-March.

Entering into the spirit of the event, Southwest Airways will again run special tours from Southern California, and for those who will use other means of transportation—train or driving their own car—special bus tours or guided tours are arranged. Further information may be obtained by writing to the Chamber of Commerce, San Jose, Calif., or by visiting any service station, restaurant or motel when you reach the area. Maps and other data are furnished without charge.

IT MAKES a wonderful trip up the old El Camino Real, which was the pathway of the padres when they first established their Missions almost two centuries ago.

Every mile of the Coast Route, officially U. S. Hwy. 101, is beautiful. Vast reaches of marine and mountain scenes embroider the highway. Historic old cities such as Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo and Monterey are visited and at the north end of the Mission Trails is fabulous San Francisco, still another city originally built around the old Franciscan Mission.

One should make it a point to visit some of the missions, most of which have been completely restored, particularly one at San Miguel which is the finest work of restoration of them all. Santa Barbara Mission is the best known of them all, but you will also thrill to the majesty of Santa Ines, San Juan Bautista and Carmel. The mission at Carmel was the headquarters of Fra Junipero Serra, father of the Missions, and is rich in historical and religious relics of that age.

Should you delay your trip until the latter part of the blossom season, say until early March, you will find the hills along Route 101 ablaze with golden California poppies. And you should take the time to take the side trip from King City around the loop to Mission San Antonio, you'll find the acres of lupin and poppies.

If you plan to drive up to see the blossoms in Santa Clara Valley, or if you plan a trip north at a later date, you may obtain, without charge, a copy of the Vacation Guide plus a beautifully illustrated brochure, in color, of this area as furnished by the California Missions Trails Association. Just address a card or letter to Ray Hewitt, care of Southland Magazine.

Harbor of Charlotte Amalie

The views of surrounding Virgin Island countryside from the tops of the hills are memorable. Shown here is the vista of St. Thomas' capital city and principal harbor, Charlotte Amalie. The light triangle in the center is a catchment, a concrete slide designed to hold rain water for use in dry periods.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELA PLANE

LONDON is expensive but I'm inclined to think it is worth it. You can figure on New York prices in London but a little less outside. A few days in London is enough anyway and a trip out the great West Road to Winchester, Salisbury and swinging back through Stratford-on-Avon will repay you.

The English are terribly pained if you don't make reservations. You "book" your restaurant table, your hotel room, your hired car. The restaurant may be empty. There may be plenty of rooms in the house. But the proprietor is really upset if you haven't "booked."

If you want the morning papers, be sure to book them with the hall porter.

Be sure you leave your shoes outside your door each night. They are shined by morning.

If you ring for the maid or waiter, be dressed or ready to hide. In the European manner, they knock once and then unlock the door and walk in.

Breakfast is nearly always taken in the room. If you try to get it downstairs you eat among seven maids and seven mops. Also you are considered a little queer. English breakfasts are good and substantial. Not those Continental affairs of croissants and coffee.

The English tea is great and the coffee is terrible.

YOU TIP when you leave, not by each service except for the bellboys who are called pages here. The shilling is 14 cents U. S.

When you check in, find out if there is a service charge. Some hotels tack on 15 per cent for service. If they do, everybody tipped—maid, boots, porter and hall porter—get enough at the end of the stay to bring it up to about 20 per cent. If no service charge, then tip 15 to 20 per cent of the hotel bill, spilling it around.

Doormen who call cabs get sixpence to a shilling per call.

Ever wonder how the news correspondents make their air reservations, change their foreign money, work in other languages? A roving reporter whose beat covers the world will answer your questions when you plan to travel. Send a stamped envelope to Stan Delaplane, exclusive in Southland Magazine.

"Not a single cavity in over 2 years"

... thanks to ANTIZYME, the first continuous-action anti-enzyme tooth paste.

"MY NAME IS BILL CORRIGAN. THIS IS MY WIFE, JACKIE, AND TIMOTHY, WILLIAM, JR., AND PAMELA. WE'VE ALL BEEN USING ANTIZYME FOR THE PAST TWO YEARS AND NONE OF US HAVE HAD A SINGLE CAVITY IN THAT TIME. I USED TO HAVE A PARTICULARLY TOUGH TIME WITH CAVITIES, SO I'M VERY GRATEFUL TO ANTIZYME."

The William A. Corrigan Family
706 North Leamington Avenue
Chicago 44, Illinois

Actual, living proof!...

this new, completely different kind of tooth paste really stopped decay!

HERE'S WHY...

- 1. No other type of tooth paste—regular, ammoniated or chlorophyll—protects for more than ½ hour.
- 2. Each brushing protects 12-24 hours! Now, Antizyme, the first continuous-action anti-enzyme tooth paste, stops the major cause of tooth decay 12 to 24 hours with each brushing. This has been proved for 9 out of every 10 people tested.

... STOPS THE MAJOR CAUSE OF TOOTH DECAY EVERY MINUTE OF EVERY DAY

EVIDENCE like the Corrigan family's is coming in every day. People, young and old, from all parts of the country report "no cavities" since they first started using Listerine Antizyme Tooth Paste—6 months, 12 months, or 2 years ago! Antizyme is the great new scientific development you read about in Reader's Digest, The Saturday Evening Post, and other magazines.

Reducing bacteria is NOT the answer

Dentists have known for years that most tooth decay is started by a kind of chain reaction:

Bacteria (always present in everybody's mouth) produce enzymes that attack sugars and can form the decay acids that cause cavities.

No tooth paste can get rid of bacteria in your mouth for more than a few minutes at a time.

Only at the "enzyme" stage has it been proven that you can stop this chain reaction that so often leads to tooth decay.

'Blue Boy' With Jeans

Independent-Press-Telegram Southland Magazine

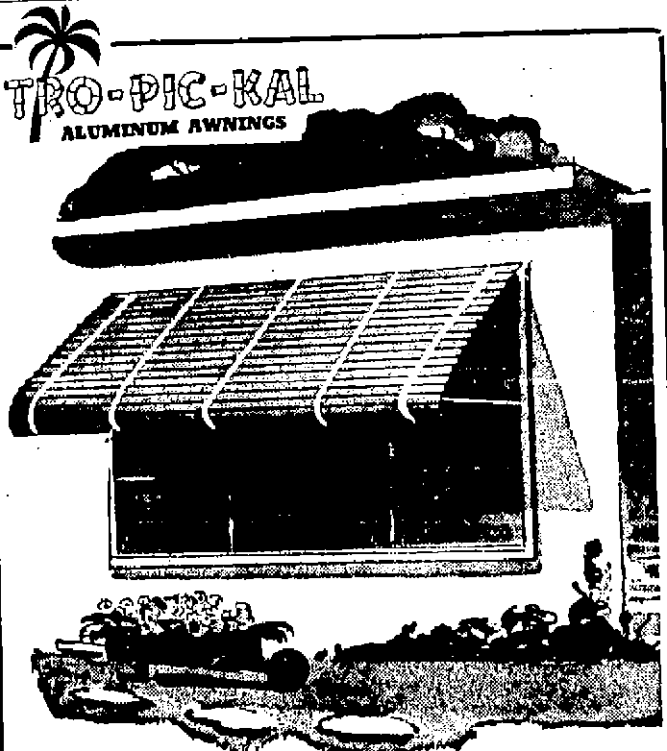

By Vera Williams

But present-day boys don't go in much for knickers or capes or fancy buckles or plumes. They wear blue jeans. For that reason, William Sanson, Long Beach artist, painted what he calls "The Modern Blue Boy," a lad in Gainsborough's familiar pose, wearing a light blue shirt, dark blue jeans, blue shoes with crepe soles, holding a blue straw hat. The oil painting attracts much attention at Sanson's studio, 551 Linden Ave.

Ronnie Bigelow, 16, of North Long Beach, posed. A native of Edinburgh, Scotland, Sanson was graduated from the Herriot Watt College of Art and the Edinburgh College of Art. As a youth, he won a prize for his oil painting of Queen Alexandria. He studied under Toule Chamberlin in Pasadena and under Bernard Shepro, now of New York.

How to Make Fireplace Logs From Newspapers

By Anne Lacy

THINK OF IT! On rainy days as you stir the logs in your fireplace, enjoy and absorb the heat thrown out by the dancing flames, do you know that the same rain can help you make more logs for next year's cold weather?

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hutchins, 1245 Poppy St., have solved the problem of firelogs in an inexpensive and easy way by making their own rolled logs out of newspapers.

Mrs. Hutchins takes the Sunday Independent-Press-Telegram through to Wednesday's papers for one log and the Thursday to Saturday papers for another log.

She lays them out flat, rolling and tying them at each end with strong cord. Not too tightly as they will expand. She purchases a large ball of heavy twine for 49 cents and uses not over two of these a year. The tied, rolled papers are placed on a large, old barbecue table behind the Hutchins garage.

Then Mother Nature takes over. The rain goes to work soaking the papers through and through and making them swell up over half of their original size. They dry out slowly during the summer months and are then ready for dry storage and the approaching winter months.

Three logs plus a few sticks of kindling will last one entire evening and give plenty of heat.

The ingenious discoverer of this economical "firewood" confided she had adopted the idea from the Christmas Joy Logs which she burned for many years. The Joy Logs are rolled in the same manner but soaked in several solutions to make a colorful flame.

Read Mr. Warren's True Story!

Mr. Stanley E. Warren is an engineer on one of the country's crack trains. Here is what he has to say about Bantron:

"For many years I had known that I should stop smoking. Time and time again I tried. I just guess I didn't have the will power. Then a friend told me about Bantron. I can only say thank you, friend, thank you, Bantron, because Bantron did something for me that I never believed could happen.

"I took Bantron for just five days and like that, I stopped smoking!

I stopped smoking because I had no more desire to smoke. I feel the wonderful release from a life-long habit that had me in chains.

"I don't know what great scientist formulated Bantron, but I have to say this! It has brought to mankind a great boon. I feel today so free, so happy, so well, I cannot find the words to describe it.

"I say to everybody who is a slave to smoking, try Bantron! The release is so easy—just as though at one magic blow you had cast off your chains."

"Stop Smoking? They Said I Couldn't, but I Did!"

—Says Stanley E. Warren

Amazing New Formula Helps Break Smoking Habit in 5 Days Easily and Pleasantly!

In a series of dramatic tests scientists proved that in 83% (4 out of 5) of the cases, Bantron helped men and women to stop smoking in 5 days. And here is the wonderful thing. Bantron is easy and pleasant to take. It has no unpleasant after-effects and is not habit forming.

Bantron was discovered in the research laboratories of a great American university. It comes in tablet form. You just take 1 tablet with water after each meal.

This new scientific formula does not work by making you dislike smoking. It does not interfere with your taste for smoking, or for anything else. Smoking establishes a craving in your body—Bantron helps relieve that craving. Because of this, many people use Bantron to help them cut down smoking.

We Guarantee Results

Hundreds of people who never before thought that they could give up smoking have used this new formula successfully. So sure are we that with the help of Bantron you can successfully conquer the smoking habit that we make you the following guarantee.

Purchase one box of Bantron and take as directed. If you feel Bantron has not helped you stop or cut down smoking within 5 days, just send us the empty box and we will refund your full purchase price.

Bantron is recommended to the thousands of men and women who can benefit from stopping or cutting down smoking. If your doctor advises you to stop smoking, try Bantron.

Read What Users Say About Bantron

- "After a few days of using BANTRON my desire to smoke was gone. I tried other ways, but BANTRON is the only way."
- "I took BANTRON as directed. It's been one month today since I've smoked."
- "My husband laughed every time I told him I'm giving up smoking. I just couldn't do it until I tried BANTRON."
- "Will frankly say they do curb the desire for smoking as no other product will. You have something there in Bantron."
- "As one of those who stopped I heartily endorse BANTRON. I feel 100% better."

He Rides Right Into Kid's Hearts

By John Frederick

Press-Telegram Radio-Television Editor

BACK in the early days of TV there came along an old-time movie matinee idol all dressed in black and white cowboy garb and he rode into the hearts of millions of youngsters atop his white horse, Topper." The fact that William (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd and Topper are still riding the video trail indicates what a firm hold he has on our youngsters.

Hoppy is the first to admit this and he has taken time and trouble to prevent misguiding the children. Fact is, Hoppy has helped a lot of parents out with their home problems.

"One of the most humbling experiences of my life was my discovery of the considerable influence which Hopalong Cassidy wields on his small fans, and, indirectly, on their parents, who compose more than half the audience.

"I was riding in a parade in Toronto and it was a wet and rainy day. I was seated in a convertible and wore my full regalia — hat, shirt, pants, two matching guns, boots—the whole outfit, and was soaking wet. It suddenly occurred to me that hundreds of the youngsters lining the streets were taking off their raincoats. They just didn't want me to see them as sissies who had to wear raincoats when Hoppy didn't. I'd have given my right arm for a good raincoat at that moment."

A MIDWESTERN COLLEGE professor wrote Hoppy not long ago that he had a major problem with his son. Seems the boy had to have glasses to correct his vision but refused to wear them because "Hoppy didn't." He wondered if there was anything that could be done.

Bill Boyd is a man of action and he went right out to his car, had his wife take his picture wearing glasses, and sent it along to the worried dad. "You see, I do have to wear glasses when I drive."

At last reports the young man is perfectly content to wear his glasses because his idol has to wear them, too.

"We answer every individual parental complaint about raincoats, rubbers, galoshes, snowsuits, ear muffs, mittens or even long, red underwear. We point out to the youngsters that the Hoppy films are made on sunny days when it is warm and that therefore Hoppy doesn't have to wear such items. But, we also say that when Hoppy goes out in the snow, rain or just plain cold he really dresses warmly, just like everyone else."

In the current series of "Hopalong Cassidy" films being shown locally on KTTV (11) at 5 p. m. Sundays, you won't find any of the old-time Western movie stuff. Hoppy knows that kids can count so he gets only six shots out of his shooting iron, and seldom uses that many.

"HOPPY IS A DEAD-EYE shot to the children and there just isn't any reason why he has to fire his guns six times to knock a man off a horse. Shucks, Hoppy just shoots once."

Violence and bloodshed are played down in the series and in the fight scenes there are usually only two blows struck. Hoppy whacks the badman and the bandit hits the floor. After all, Hoppy is supposed to be invincible, isn't he?

You may also notice that "they done went that-a-way" is never heard in the Hoppy films. He has made a fetish out of keeping his shows strictly Western in character but never unwholesome.

"Your youngster is intelligent and probably is learning the correct grammatical terms and words in school or at home. It is certainly not the aim of Hopalong Cassidy to destroy the very thing that the English teachers and parents have tried to impart to the children. Anyway, it is historically inaccurate to speak like many of the Western stars do in movies. Frontiersmen were gentlemen, educated and intelligent, for the most part, and those few who were not generally wound up on the wrong end of a rope or in Boot Hill."

Perhaps the reason that "Hopalong Cassidy" is so popular and has made so much money for his portrayer is found in the above. And we are sure that as long as William Boyd can mount Topper and ride into the west he'll be riding into the hearts and homes of millions of his fans.

Pheasant en Casserole

By Mildred K. Flanary
Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

HOW LONG has it been since you served pheasant? If it's been a long time, you've been missing something mighty tasty.

No longer does Dad have to take a gun and set forth into the woods in search of pheasants because they are commercially grown now . . . and practically in your own back yard. And right on a par with increasing availability are the recipes for preparing pheasant. There's just one thing to remember — be sure to serve plenty, for after one glimpse at the finished product, appetites will become immediately accelerated.

Truly a connoisseur of pheasant is Mrs. H. S. Melvin, 14722 Van Buren St., Midway City. She not only raises them, but she cooks them to a turn. She really has no preference when it comes to her favored recipe, but her Pheasant en Casserole is different and extra special. The recipe is featured elsewhere on this page.

After you've tried the casserole you'll serve pheasant again, and real soon, for Roast Pheasant Ranch Style is equally delectable. With each dish, Mrs. Melvin serves mock wild rice — a treat that's fit for the gods. It's as delicious as wild rice, and far easier on the budget. These recipes follow:

Roast Pheasant Ranch Style

Rub inside and outside of pheasant with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover breast with fat bacon. Fill cavity of bird with seedless grapes (not necessary to sew).

Roast uncovered in hot oven (500 degrees) for 15 minutes. Baste with fat drippings, then finish roasting at moderate (350 degrees) for about one hour, basting with drippings every 15 minutes. Wrap legs in foil to keep them from drying or burning.

Remove bacon from breast of pheasant and pour a glass of sherry wine into roasting pan, together with a cup of grapes, and cook 15 minutes more. Add water if liquid cooks down too much. Serve the grapes with the pheasant.

Mock Wild Rice

1 cup brown rice
3 tablespoons oil or bacon fat
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon Beaumont seasoning

Pheasant en Casserole, as prepared by Mrs. H. S. Melvin, above, is a delight to eat. Pheasant is now commercially raised as well as hunted in season.

$\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon pepper
Pheasant giblets
4 cups water
1 4-ounce can chopped ripe olives
Boil giblets in the water about 30 minutes until tender. Remove from water and chop into small pieces.

Fry onions and pepper in the fat until golden brown and add giblets, olives and seasonings, the washed rice and water from the giblets (at least  $2\frac{1}{2}$  cups). Mix all together and pour into a deep casserole. Cover tightly and bake in oven, along with pheasant, stirring occasionally. Bake 500 degrees for 15 minutes, then 350 degrees for one hour or until done.

Hunter's Sauce

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup red currant jelly
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup California Port Wine
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup catsup
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Combine all ingredients in a small saucepan; stir over low heat until jelly and butter are completely melted and sauce is piping hot. Serve warm with wild duck, pheasant, venison chops, venison steak, roast venison, ham loaf or baked ham. Makes one cup.

Kitchen Tip:

Mrs. Melvin's Kitchen Tip: Currant jelly just seems to belong with game. One cock pheasant (about two pounds) serves three. One hen weighs about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pounds.

Mrs. Melvin's Pheasant en Casserole

Cut pheasant in serving pieces and roll in seasoned flour. Brown in bacon drippings or oil. Place in casserole. Saute in the same drippings, one-half cup chopped green onions, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper and add to the casserole. Pour  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sherry wine and one can sliced (browned in butter) mushrooms, liquid and all. Cover and bake about 2 hours in a slow oven (350°). Add more liquid as needed to make a gravy.

Plan Celebration

Fort Ticonderoga, the great restored stone bastion, which stands between Lake Champlain and Lake George in New York state, will celebrate its 200th anniversary in 1955. It was on Sept. 18, 1755 that the Marquis de Vaudreuil, governor general of New France and Louisiana, signed the necessary instructions, in Montreal, to Michel Chartier, afterwards Marquis de Lotbiniere, to select a site and start construction of what was to be known as Fort Carillon. Through two centuries the Fort has remained an eternal reminder of the valorous Canadians, Frenchmen, Scots, Britons, Indians and Americans who fought there with honor and glory for the principles in which they believed.

John H. G. Pell, director of Fort Ticonderoga, announces year-long commemorative festivities for the bicentennial year. Highlighting the various events planned for 1955 will be the annual Ethan Allen Day on May 8 and Bicentennial Day on Sept. 18. It has been customary to dedicate Ethan Allen Day each year to some community whose roots are intertwined with those of Fort Ticonderoga. Naturally, therefore, the 1955 celebration will be in honor of the City of Montreal. Officials, speakers, musical organizations and other patriotic groups from the great Canadian metropolis are being invited to participate. On Bicentennial Day the commemoration will be of an international nature, and high level officials of the Commonwealth of Canada are being asked to participate.

Taping Up the Doctor's Headache

CALIFORNIA DOCTORS and a bright young Los Angeles public relations man have come up with a cure to a baffling disease that has plagued the medical profession for years.

The ailment is called "journal-itis," and almost every doctor suffers from a chronic case of it. It consists of a persistent headache from worrying about all those medical journals that he subscribes to—and never gets time to read.

Back in the days of the horse and buggy, the family doctor kept up with new medical developments by reading one or two publications. And he could read them as he clucked Old Dobbin along the road from the home of one patient to the next.

Medicine today has become so complex, and new developments occur so frequently that there are now 6,000 medical journals published throughout the world. No doctor could keep up with them, even if he saw no patients and just spent his entire time reading medical publications. And the doctor who tried to read while driving out on a house call would soon wind up in a six-way crash on the freeway.

What happens is that doctors subscribe to five or ten of the best journals, and then let them stack up unread while they struggle to keep up with their overcrowded appointment books.

The Audio Digest Foundation, with headquarters in Glendale, has come up with a simple solution for the doctors' ailment. It does the doctors' reading for them.

THE FOUNDATION maintains a staff of 16 people who check 1,200 medical journals every month for the most significant articles on new developments in medicine. The staff is assisted by an editorial board of 47 distinguished doctors, most of them specialists, from all over the nation. These doctors tip off Audio Digest on any "hot" articles that their colleagues should read. Between the staff and its 47 medical scouts, Audio Digest covers the vast, sprawling field of medical news with remarkable efficiency.

The staff of Audio Digest then sorts out the articles into five groups, those that would interest the general practitioner, the surgeon, pediatrician, internal medicine specialist and the obstetrician-gynecologist. It boils down the articles to their essentials and records the summary on tape, with one "edition" for each of the five groups of doctors. The doctor thus gets the equivalent of 200 hours of reading of the most significant news in his own field through one hour's listening to the tape.

The idea of digesting medical news into a convenient tape-recording originated with Jerry Pettis, public relations director of the Los Angeles County Medical Association. He started it as a private enterprise in April, 1953. In December, 1953, the service was taken over by the California Medical Association,

By means of tape-recorded digest, Dr. H. O. McCumber of Los Angeles keeps posted on articles in medical journals while driving his car on round of daily house calls.

By James Phelan

which operates it through a non-profit corporation. Surplus earnings of the service are donated to the nation's 79 medical schools.

ALREADY AUDIO DIGEST has 2,700 subscribers in all 48 of the states and a number of foreign countries. The U. S. Army recently joined the list of users. It sends the tape-recorded medical news to remote overseas posts so Army doctors can keep up with new developments. A number of medical missionaries in isolated parts of the world also use the service. The idea has been acclaimed by medical groups all over the U. S. "California maintains its reputation for doing things in a big way, high, wide and handsome," said the New England Journal of Medicine. "This will be a special boon to the doctor practicing in rural or isolated areas."

the Delaware State Medical Journal commented.

The cost of the service is only $2.75 a week, less than the blank roll of tape costs at retail. The Audio Digest sends out 7,000 rolls each month and gets the tape at a big discount in wholesale lots. The edition for general practitioners is issued once a week; the "specialty" editions go out every other week. The doctors get to keep the tape and frequently three or four chip in for the service and pass the tape around.

The service has enabled many doctors to go back to the system that the family doctor used back in grandfather's day. They have a converter installed in their car, put a tape recorder on the seat beside them and "read the journal" by listening to Audio Digest as they roll along on their house calls.

Six thousand medical journals! If doctor subscribes to just a few, they shower down, stack up at alarming rate. The busy doctor has little time to read many of them.

When GIs Go Ashore in Japan

Thousands of GIs who visited Japan on their tour of duty in the Far East—and quite a few other Americans who've never been closer to the Japanese coast than Catalina Island—will chuckle at "Babysan's World: The Hume'n Slant on Japan," a soft-cover book of cartoons by Bill Hume, and published by Charles E. Tuttle Co., Rutland, Vt. ($1). Hume says the cartoons are only an attempt to entertain the man in uniform in the Far East. He does not say that he observed the American serviceman's interest in Japanese femininity, or vice versa, but it may reasonably be assumed that he did while in Japan himself. Here are samples of his book.

A cheery fireplace of used brick expresses a feeling of combined modern, provincial moods asked by Mrs. Young.

By Eileen Ball

THE HOUSE designed for Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Young, 5241 El Cedral St., exemplifies how planning can create harmony between structure and site, in this case taking full advantage of the peculiarities of the lot as well as the abundant natural beauty.

The lot was purchased before the architect, Thomas J. Russell, AIA, was commissioned. Mrs. Young said that after one look at this tree-shaded Park Estates lot, she and her husband hurried to buy it "before anyone could talk them out of it."

They suspected that, because the site sloped down and away from the street, they might run into stout arguments in favor of a more level lot. So they went ahead, fixed their signatures to the necessary dotted lines, and prepared to make a firm stand in favor of retaining the two large trees that promised to make their house plan as difficult as they made the site beautiful.

Just as the Youngs suspected, the greatest challenge faced by Russell was the planning of a house with adequate space for family life—limited, as it was, to the space left from trees-to-street. Nevertheless, the house was planned—and built. And it is a superb structure, beautifully suited to its setting, with a spaciousness and aura of seclusion that are truly enviable.

The sloping terrain influenced the decision to place the living room, which faces the garden, on a lower level. The remaining rooms are all on the same upper level, thus avoiding added steps.

THE DINING AREA, to the immediate right of the living room, is elevated two steps, an artistic as well as ingenious device for creating a feeling of separateness. To further enhance the division, Russell specified that a counter-height storage cabinet of natural birch be built between the two areas. In addition to adding its own good looks to the general decor, this cabinet serves a triple function. First, it divides. Second, it provides a wonderfully accessible place in which to store magazines, books and miscellaneous accessories from the living room side. Here, too, is housed the Youngs' Hi-Fi radio set as well as their concealed phonograph. Third, this cabinet, interjecting, as it does, into the room, provides for the display of dramatic floral arrangements. Mrs. Young's favorite hobby is that of flower arranging. She specified the desire for a focal point in the living room where such compositions might be set off to advantage. The cabinet serves admirably in this capacity.

It is interesting to note the manner in which Russell manages to provide an unusual amount of storage in such built-in furniture. A proponent of such items as built-in buffets, desks, bookcases and dressers, his designs result in many furniture dollars saved!

The low ceiling of the entry continues into the living room to create a sense of coziness. The ceiling extends out and over the fireplace, providing an ideal location for an indirect lighting trough. Thus diffused, the lights play up the coved ceiling with its gently sloping exposed beams. The living room ceiling, then, is in intriguing variance with the low, dropped ceiling as it comes in from the entry.

THE DECOR of the Young home relies, for interest, on texture rather than high color or varied pattern. Warm toasts, beiges, cocoas and tans have been artfully combined throughout as a warm compliment to the shaded garden with its verdant greenery that seems an integral part of the house.

From the corner of the elevated dining room, one of the trees stands but four feet away. With its 35-foot spread, it is easy to appreciate the fact that the house interior is quiet with diffused sunlight and relies on the mellow brown-to-beige tones and rough textures for balancing warmth.

It is interesting to note how two imminently differing tastes can bridge the gap with tactful treatment. For while Mrs. Young was once a lover of early American furnishings, her husband had a distinct yen for contemporary. Throughout the house, a compromise was reached. The result? A decor of far greater interest and versatility than could ever have been planned on one key alone.

The rough, homespun textures relate to Mrs. Young's love of informality and casualness. The lines of the sleek, uncluttered furnishings satisfy Mr. Young. And the house, with its subtle blend of trends, is the perfect setting for it all.

IMMEDIATELY BEYOND the cork-floored entry is the living room with its loopy carpet of cocoa and beige. The walls are painted a warm beige that compliments the dining area paper which is of an abstract botanical print in white and brown on rich beige.

The kitchen and nook, facing the front, were so placed to receive the morning sun. The view of the pepper tree-lined street provides a pleasing vista for Mrs. Young to view while busy in her attractive kitchen with its soft green formica counter-tops and its "seed packet" wallpaper.

The den, also facing the street, (Continued on Page 29)

CAMERA ANGLE

Snap the Family

By the Shutterbug

TOMORROW is definitely too late for picturing people as they are today. There are some varieties of family snapshots that you definitely shouldn't put off taking.

Among these are the family groups, the four-generation snapshots. Sometimes in our concentration on picturing the small fry and how they grow, we tend to forget about the grownups in the family. They belong in the family picture record, too.

Picturing the oldsters and the youngsters together is something that can be fun, and at the same time produce snapshots that will become family treasures.

Of course, when it comes to picturing a family group, it is always important to have a center of interest — something that all of your subjects can focus their

In taking the three or four-generation pictures that should be a part of every family record, the representative of the youngest generation makes an excellent center of interest.

Group the adults in a comfortable manner and let them be admiring the baby. Nothing could be more natural — and because of that it ought to be a sure-fire means of getting good expressions on the faces.

When you have a group like that together, don't take just one picture — the subject is too important to take any chances. Shoot several and you are bound to have at least one exceptionally good picture, and you'll probably have a whole series.

LONG BEACH CAMERA GUILD will have a color slide competition at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Winners of the February black-and-white print competition were Virginia Callender, first and third; William H. Jordan, second; Murray Shaner, honorable mention. Judge was Mel Phegley, associate Photographic Society of America.

Members of the Camera Guild have been receiving recognition in other places. A print by Baby is an ideal center of attention for family group snaps. But don't delay; chance may not crop up again.

Christine Sandell was in the Los Angeles Times Midwinter Issue and Lowell Weeks sold some prints to National Geographic.

Southern California Council of Camera Clubs will have a snow outing all day Feb. 20 at Kratka Ridge. The area may be reached by following Angeles Crest Hwy. and turning on Waterman Rd.

A REVISED EDITION of Kodak's "Notes on Tropical Photography" has been published.

Punched to fit the Kodak Photographic Notebook, it is available from the sales service division, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester 4, N. Y. The pamphlet recommends simple precautions to help photographers living in or visiting tropical regions. Heat and humidity are the basic sources of trouble and the pamphlet includes recommendations for handling film and equipment under varying degrees of both of these tropical conditions.

ter frat-brother, old confirmed bachelor, non-drinker, non-dancer, non-sportsman and allergic to sand, salt water or smoke-filled rooms. He disliked music, couldn't abide outdoor meals and was so intellectually inclined (or so he thought) as to actually loathe almost every pleasure, recreation and pastime known to the human race since we moved out of caves.

"That's a good one," I admitted ruefully. "Old George boy is mighty hard to please, alrighty?" "Are you licked, alrighty?" she asked with unnecessarily vicious glee. "Surely, Long Beach must hold some scintillating treasure in store for old dead-head George."

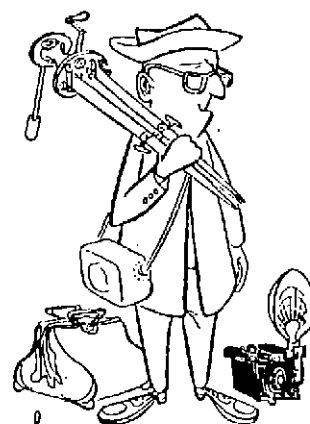

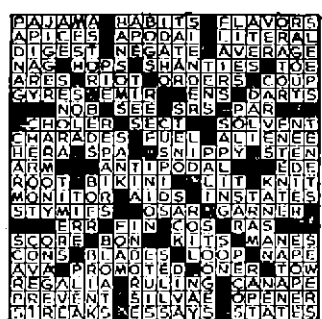

A VISION of George's room at college flashed through my reeling brain. Those pin-ups on the walls. I distinctly remembered all the cute dishes he employed in his office and then... with a burst of high degree genius... I remembered George always carried a camera with him and a fiery gleam in his washed-blue eyes.

"It does, it does," I said blandly.

"What does?" she screeched. "What, for gosh sakes?"

"The Miss Universe Contest!" I crowed happily. "Old George is crazy about taking pictures of pretty girls. Stall his visit off till they start all the drums beating for Miss Universe — then bring on George Philipplingle Throatfeister and I'll show you a guest

Anybody Want a Used Trumpet?

—Drawing by Clyde Winslow

"There's a lot of loud radio-playing in the neighborhood when I start practicing on the trumpet."

By George Eres

IF THERE'S one thing this world doesn't need, it's another trumpet player—and I'm it. The thing about a trumpet is nobody ever invites you over to his home and adds, "Don't forget to bring your trumpet." And the trumpet is not an instrument you carry around with you and say, "I just happened to have it with me."

People, as likely as not, will ask you to "blow."

Oh, there are ways of getting around their objections to your horn-blowing at night. You can practice up on such tunes as "God Bless America," or "America." But if your heart's in "Dixie" there's little solace and no defense since the south lost the War Between the States.

This all started with a xylophone—one of those one-octave affairs. I'd wrestled it away from my 4-year-old daughter and was picking out the notes of "Tenderly" when my wife suggested that I ought to take up music.

A short while later while on a lost week end in Las Vegas I ran across a fellow playing a trumpet with Mickey Katz's band in one of the hotel bars.

"Now, there is a man who really plays a trumpet like he's enjoying himself. He looks like a real happy man."

DISCOVERING a bit later that the trumpet player was Ziggy Elman, and flushed with the knowledge that I had the know-how to pick a good trumpet man, I decided that I had an affinity for the trumpet.

Having decided to cross the musical Rubicon it only required to lay hands on a trumpet before starting merrily on my lone, lone, semi-tone way.

My wife meanwhile has been viewing this entire business with a certain amount of aloofness.

"Don't you think you ought to take lessons?" she suggested.

"LESSONS?" I asked. "I can just see myself, trumpet in hand, going hoppity-skip to the trumpet teacher. Nothing doing. The trumpet's a simple instrument. Just three valves. I'll have this thing licked in no time. Besides, I just want to fool around with it. At my age, I don't expect to make it a career. I just want to learn to play 'Tenderly.'"

So, while I'm struggling with do, re, mi on the patio, my neighbor Ralph, who thinks (at this point) that the whole business is pretty cute, leans over the fence.

"I'll get my sweet potato and we'll have a session," he suggests.

"Pretty sad, eh," you suggest.

"Well," he hesitated, "we expect you to get better."

Our relations with the neighbors, up to this point, have been so-so. They borrow from us; we borrow from them. But, after a week or so there's a change in the atmosphere.

ON THE WHOLE the neighbors have been big about the whole thing, but I couldn't help remarking to my wife the other night that there seems to be an awful lot of loud radio-playing and door-banging every time I start to practice.

Oh, some of them aren't saying anything, but it's pretty evident. Just the same, I notice that since I started in on "Sweet Georgia Brown" everybody around has taken to whistling the tune. Some of them have almost got it right now.

My own wife, you'd think she'd rather have us home instead of spending my time at community sings; has been taking to acting like a martyr about the whole thing. Oh, she doesn't tell me to stop practicing.

"I've just decided that I don't like the trumpet. I think maybe a clarinet..." she says.

Now, if there's anything a trumpet player in a belligerent sector needs, it's an understanding wife.

"Would you rather I took up going out nights?"

"What's the difference? You never talk to me. You just sit around and practice on the trumpet."

"Well, why don't you get a hobby? Take up the trombone or something. The trouble is a trumpet needs another instrument with it. According to Chip-Chip Combs, down at the office, chords are the thing," I explained.

"HOBBY! It's not a hobby with you. It's an obsession."

I turn to my 4-year-old daughter. Of late, I have been playing "Jingle Bells" and she sings along with me.

"I'm not doing so bad, am I?" I ask, hopefully.

"Jackie says your horn sounds awful," says Gloria. "But I told her Daddy's just learning and he'll get better."

Our daughter has all the faith in the world in me, but her friend, Jackie, 5, has started kindergarten and something tells me she has more faith in Jackie.

"Well," I suggest after dinner. "How about me playing 'Jingle Bells' and you can sing it."

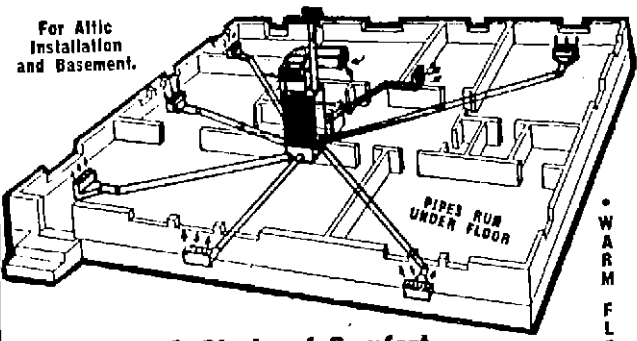

"Wait until my supper goes down," said my wife's daughter.

Oh, how sharper than a serpent's tooth is an ungrateful child.

And after all, the thought has occurred to me: After you learn to play a trumpet—what have you got, eh?

Anybody interested in a used trumpet?

32 Days of Horror on a Raft

A TRUE TALE of horror is "Raft of Despair" by Ensio Tiira (Dutton, $3). The author goes overseas from a transport on its way to Indo-China in an attempt to escape from the French Foreign Legion, taking a companion with him. Both think their stay on the small life raft will be only a matter of hours.

But the two drift out of the Straits of Malacca into the Indian Ocean, and what follows is pretty grim business. Thirty-two days it took for Tiira to be rescued, and back of him was a horrible ordeal of hunger, thirst, and the ever-present sharks who at last took the rotting body of Tiira's friend from the raft.

If you have a good, strong stomach, this incredible and courageous story is for you.—G. L.

ANDES ADVENTURE: In the most part "In and Out of the Andes" by Sister Maria del Ray (Scribner's, $3.95) is a lively and good natured account of the trials and triumphs of the Maryknoll Sisters in some of the most primitive areas of Latin America. True, Sister Maria does find little admirable about the expanding big business throughout South and Central America. She feels that a knowledge of God might be preferable to an awareness of what is being produced for export to the South and Central Americans. The Maryknollers are dedicated to caring for both physical and spiritual needs and the reader will learn that this work is in good hands and hearts.

A LOOK AT MARS: "Exploring Mars" (McGraw-Hill, $4), provides a sharp look at the planet that is now swinging nearer the earth for its closest approach (35 billion miles in 1956) in 30 years. The author, Dr. Robert S. Richardson, is an astronomer at the Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories, and he writes with both sound scientific background and fascinating readability. He discusses the possibility of life on Mars, the baffling "canals" and gives a detailed analysis of the problems of a space-voyage to Mars, a trip that seems more feasible every year. The book contains a good biography of Tycho Brahe, the first man to study Mars seriously, and of other Mars "pioneers," and includes chapters on the other planets of our solar system. A "must" book for the science-fiction fan, and intriguing one for anyone. Sixteen pages of photographs.—J. P.

MOUNTAIN MAN — If Hugh Glass, a proper hero in the west of the mountain man, didn't really exist before, he certainly does now in "Lord Grizzly" (McGraw-Hill, $3.75). In this humdinger by Frederick P. Manfred, the bearded Glass is so bear-clawed and bear-bit in a hassle with a she-bear that, when he awakes, he sees his own grave dug beside him. Whoever had sewed up his wounds with crude stitches had left him for dead. Glass' rage at such treatment was such that it enabled him to crawl 200 miles to Fort Kiowa. A superbly done book.

WORDBOOK: Those who aspire to speak or write more clearly and forcefully will find practical guidance in "Concise Dictionary of American Grammar and Usage" (Philosophical Library, $4.50), a book of words, put down in alphabetical order, that often need clarification. Included, too, are words and phrases which in recent years have become current on the American scene, or have acquired new meanings; and there are examples of how these words may be put into sentences for proper use. The editors, R. C. Whitford, professor of English at Pratt Institute, and J. R. Foster, chairman of the English department of Long Island University, consulted best-recognized authorities in making up their word-book.

MEET THE FRENCH: Packed with authority and a delight to read, "Understanding the French" (Random House, $2.75) is just the ticket for those wanting to know more about Continental ways generally, and the French in particular. The author is Elliot Paul, a Californian who considers France his second homeland, knows France and Frenchmen better, perhaps, than the average American knows his next-door neighbors. — F. T. K.

OUTDOORS—New books outdoorsmen will want for their libraries are "The Complete Book of Guns" and "The Complete Book of Hunting," both by Larry Koller and published by Bobbs-Merrill ($2.75 each). Here is exhaustive material on every type of gun, ammunition, scopes and sights, and all kinds of hunting.

SLIMMING UP: If a person can be made beautiful — or at any rate improved materially in four weeks — is it worth trying, think readers men and women — of Josephine Lowman's "Why Grow Old?" newspaper feature which appears daily in many newspapers, including the Press-Telegram.

One of Mrs. Lowman's tenets is that with determination and perseverance, personality and appearance may be greatly improved in four weeks.

Now comes her book, "Four Weeks to Beauty" (M. Harrows,

SITUATIONS LIKE THIS—in fact, a cartoon for every situation in marriage, and even for those romantic courtship days—make "Marital Blitz" (Dutton, $1.95) one of the most amusing books of the season. The cartoons and text are by Stanley and Janice Berenstein, whose work appear in some of the best magazines.

$2.50), which points up a "lover, slimmer you."

In four weeks, says the writer, a person may lose 10 to 15 pounds, reduce two to three inches in the places that matter, improve make-up, discover a better hairdo, increase energy and look younger. She gives day-by-day diets and day-by-day exercises for the four weeks. Better slimming!

A LA OPPENHEIM: "Flamingo Feather" (Morrow, $3.95) by Laurence van de Post, is adventure, plots and derring-do, but set in the jungles on the plains of Africa. Pierre de Veauvilliers discovers, thwarts a great Red scheme. The plot's a la Oppenheim, but the story's unique.

Some descriptive passages are powerfully written. G. C. F.

IN THE HALL OF POETRY: Associate editor of Dun's Review and Modern Industry, poetry's most generous friend in America, A. M. Sullivan offers a full, singing, ascendant volume of deep poems in "Psalms of the Prodigal" (P. J. Kenedy & Sons, $3), in which he sings with the pure voice of a child and rolls out widely and cleanly with the wisdom of the scholar. Irish humor also smiles from the Sullivan pages. But it is the serious work of spirituality that should win for the author the warm and serious applause of many an audience. If a better book of poems is to be found, Mr. Sullivan will be writing it.—J. J. K.

Sylvester Braun, Orange trick roper, will aid Troop 107, Boy Scouts, at fund-raising dog and horse show Feb. 20.

By Eleanor Avery Price

THIS MONTH is an important time for the Boy Scouts of America, for February is their birthday month, and many activities are taking place in celebration of their 45th anniversary. One of the biggest celebrations of them all will occur Feb. 20 at Saint Anthony's football field on Clark Ave., just north of Centralia St. And, in spite of the hugeness of this affair, which no one will want to miss if they like horses and dogs, the show is sponsored by one troop only—Troop 107 of Bellflower.

Troop 107 was a little ragged at the edges when George Harski, animal trainer, who lives at 5406 N. Hersholt Ave., became assistant, scout leader and with all the forcefulness of his personality began building up the morale, activities and equipment of his charges.

One of the many things Harski set out to do was to produce and direct this Feb. 20 show. He has obtained a number of splendid animal specialty acts. His famous German shepherd, Phantom, will be on hand to entertain, and there will be other trained dogs as well.

The Lakewood Obedience Club Dog Drill Team and the Orange Empire Dog Drill Team will give outstanding performances as will the sharply outfitted Lancers, a drill team on horseback.

There will be at least one highly schooled horse and several fine trick horse riders and ropers to keep the audience on the edge of the bleachers. They include the professional horse trainer, Lee Dorr, and Vivian Dorr with her performing horse, Sugar; the amazing Howard Taylor, a youngster of 13 years; 18-year-old lovely Mary Ball; Sylvester and Barbara Braun, both of whom have performed at the world's largest fair at Syracuse, N. Y., and who have been guest TV stars on some of the best programs.

Added to the animal acts will be some excellent Boy Scout first aid demonstrations and a band to keep things lively. To add a humorous touch, there will be clowns and a collection of very old model cars.

There is no set admission charge, but it is hoped that most adults will donate $1 and children 50 cents, funds to go to Troop 107. The show starts at 1:30 p. m.

DOGS ARE EASILY POISONED by carbon monoxide in auto exhaust gases, so do not carry them in trailers or car trunks unless an extension has been added to the exhaust pipe to carry off the gases. A flexible hose is usually satisfactory. The extension in a trailer should run from the exhaust pipe to the upper rear part of the trailer. In auto trunks, the exhaust tube extension should run up the car's body so the gas escapes above the dog's nose. This is in accordance with the Motor Vehicle Research Department.

HOW TO Use Caulking Compound to Preserve Your Home

CRACKS AND CREVICES are an inevitable part of every house--no matter how new and well built. Each joint in its construction is an opening which is an invitation to moisture that causes rot, to drafts that boost heating bills, to insects that make room and board of your house, and to dust and dirt.

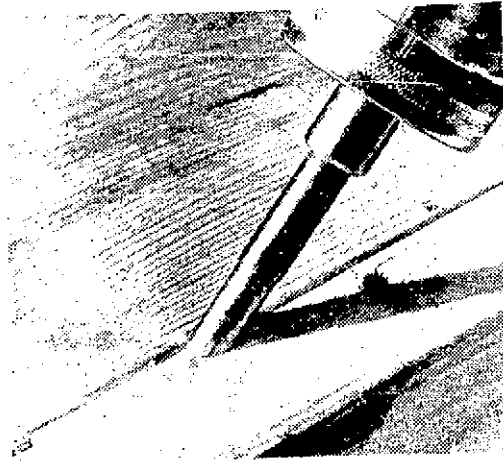

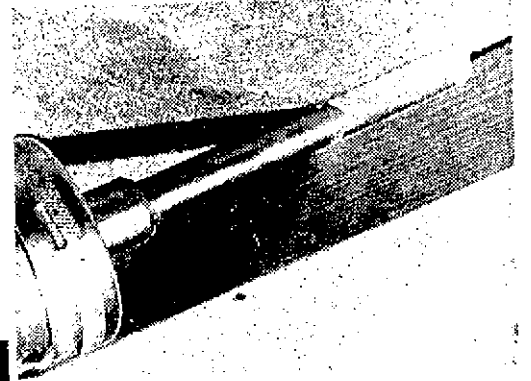

The answer? Calk--a stick-to-everything substance you squeeze from a gun or a tube, toothpaste-like. Calking should be a once-a-year job, even if your house is only a few payments old.

There are two kinds of calking jobs:

1. Preventive calking keeps a house new by sealing up potential cracks and crevices before they occur, thus circumventing future nuisance and maintenance costs.
2. Curative calking is more difficult. It involves filling larger openings. Sometimes it means replacing rotted boards that earlier calking would have saved.

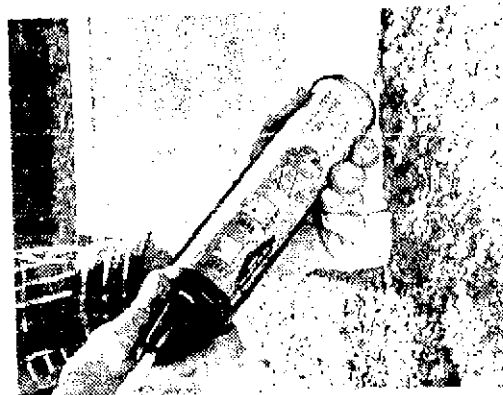

Whichever kind of a calk job your house needs, you'll find it a money-saving job well suited to early-spring days.

1. IN CORNER, bisect angle with gun, slanting 45 degrees in direction of movement. You'll get a smooth, coved fillet that seals a joint tight.

2. ON THE FLAT, maintain 45-degree angle with beveled tip straddling the crack. Use enough pressure to fill crack, not just to coat it.

3. LIKE TOOTH PASTE, you can buy calking compound in a roll-up tube with built-in nozzle. The tube has a "key" to help you roll it up easily and without waste of material. Situation shown here is column where it rests on porch floor--a type of construction joint that must depend on calking for the exclusion of damaging rot and decay.

4. CARTRIDGES OF CALK with their own nozzles can be slipped quickly into "side-loading" guns, and disposal of empty cartridges is as easy as getting rid of empty tomato cans. Check your house carefully where wood meets stucco or other masonry, for cracks open up in such situations just about every year, and need re-calking often.

5. GUNS FOR BULK calk are made in a size that will accommodate cartridges as well as the calk you must load from big cans. Also, there's a heavier grade of calk, intended for application with a putty knife.

6. ROPE-FORM CALK comes in coiled-up strands, so you can unroll and use however much you need. This material is easy to handle with your fingers. It will stick well when formed into place.

Larkspur Can 'Take It'

these plants that is slower to color but is the choice for this period. It is one of the hardy annuals that withstand cold weather growing conditions. Planted now, its blooming period will vary from March through May, according to the growing conditions afforded by the weather. Because it is primarily a cool weather plant, the sooner planted the better the show of color from a planting of larkspur. Late plantings will go to flowers on short stems and harden and shatter quickly once they have come into bloom.

Larkspur has often been treated as an item to be sown directly into the area in which it is to be grown. According to the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board, this method is best discarded in favor of flat-grown transplants, with some of the finer strains of larkspur that are currently offered. In using transplants only the strong, healthy seedlings are grown, and they are in a uniform stage of growth to insure a uniform period of bloom. Where a mass color display is sought, this matter of uniform blooming period is of vital importance.

LARKSPUR is a tall growing plant. Most varieties grow to about two to three feet in height and rather thin. For this reason they can be set rather closely and do well. While available in solid colors, the full color mixture is delightful and runs through all the shades of blue and red plus the purest white. Often called the poor cousin of the regal delphinium, larkspur has little reason to be apologetic for this name. Indeed, colorwise, larkspur has much more to offer than delphinium, although it is true that in size of bloom and length of stem, the larkspur does take a back seat. Costwise, of course, larkspur is a sure winner, and it is also much easier to care for.

In the matter of soil, larkspur is an excellent item, for almost any soil will yield a good crop of this plant. This is especially true in poor soils that seem to fail with everything else.

Larkspur is a hardy garden specimen that does well in most any soil, given a sunny location.

By Walter Finch

AS A PUBLIC SERVICE, the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board has presented a series of articles publicizing various bedding plants available from commercial growers. Over the period of the past two years, these articles have been timed to the season during which the plants suggested are in prime condition and best suited to planting. At this season of the year the recommendations of the board shift from the large group of perennial plants to the various hardy annuals that will stand up under the cold weather snaps of January and February and still give a good accounting for themselves. The prime purpose of such plants is to give color in the garden when color is at a premium. This is the period before the acacias and other flowering trees, plus the many bulb flowers, make their gay appearance.

While quick color is the prime factor in the universal appeal of bedding plants there are a few plants that take a little longer than others to yield their floral display. Larkspur is one of

Three Garden Charmers

By Murtha Hurley

THERE ARE a number of annual flowers that develop their important first growth better in cool weather. A trio of beloved favorites that fit this category are nicotiana, the flowering tobacco plant; nemesia and wallflower.

If you are eager for an early crop of flowers, sow the seeds now.

Sift some rather sandy soil through a fine mesh; fill a shallow box with the soil, smooth it and firm it with a block of wood, sprinkle it well, then sow the seed.

Cover the seed lightly with fine soil or granulated peat moss, not more than an eighth of an inch deep. Water carefully with a fine spray and set the seed box in a warm place but protected from the sun. Protect the seeds with a piece of gunny sacking. Water over sacking lightly. Do not let seedlings dry out. Remove sacking when seeds germinate.

All three of these flowers have distinctive characteristics. Nicotiana, sweet-scented flowering tobacco, grows three to four feet tall, is good for the back of the border. It really is a perennial but is usually treated as an annual. It has rather coarse, large, dark green leaves and long, narrow, tubular flowers that flare at the mouth. The flowers open at night and perfume the entire area where they grow with a rich, sweet jasmine-like scent.

NICOTIANA AFFINIS, white jasmine tobacco, is the most

When to Plant

It is important that gardeners know when to plant, and this is the purpose of the "Sunset Seasonal Garden Guide" (Lane Pub. Co., $1). This guide enumerates the month-by-month chores that must be done by those who want a lovelier, more fragrant garden, with space for the gardener to keep records of plantings, fertilizings and sprayings. There are blooming charts for each of the four seasons, and the back of the book contains lists of flowers "easiest to grow," "for fragrance," "for edgings," "for semi-shade," "for containers," and so on.

Garden Tips

GARDENING TIPS for the week ... Don't forget your vegetable garden. Raising fresh vegetables at home is fun, economical and ultimately a real treat in good eating. Visit your nurseryman and you will be amazed at the wide range of vegetable transplants now available.

Growing plants close together during the next few months will shade the ground, thus minimize evaporation. Use mulches extensively to conserve as much water as possible.

At dusk, when the flowers of the tobacco plant open, a sweet jasmine-like perfume scents the garden air.

popular variety. The flowers are large, waxen-white and star-like, intensely fragrant after dusk. Plants bloom all through summer and fall.

New hybrids produce pink, rose, lavender and dark red flowers. These new varieties are not quite so fragrant.

The plants like half-shade and a warm, sheltered location, out of the wind. They really do better in a dry atmosphere. Give them a fairly rich light soil.

Do not set small seedling plants in the garden until May. They will then bloom all summer and through fall and will reseed themselves generously. Once established, the plants continue on year after year.

Another charming, sweet-scented flower that likes a cool start and a partially shaded bed is the old favorite, the wallflower cheiranthus. It grows one to two feet high, bears long stems of fragrant flowers in rich, velvety-petaled cream, yellow, mahogany, plum and bronze.

At the beach, wallflowers do well set against a sunny wall. They like a rich, well fertilized soil. Set the small seedling plants in the garden in March for bloom this year. Cut back after flowering for a second blooming. The plants will reseed themselves for a number of years.

NEMESIA, a little charmer, is a most colorful border flower. When planted close together, they form a startlingly brilliant flowering carpet, six to 12 inches high, of white, pink, rose, red, purple, yellow and orange flowers that resemble small orchids.

The plants like a rich, well fertilized loam with plenty of leaf mold and prosper in cool locations, so give them half-shade and plenty of moisture.

In sowing seeds of nemesia, be careful to give the little seedlings plenty of moisture. Never let them dry out. Set seedlings in the garden in March.

Nemesia adds an exciting spot of color to a shady patio or terrace when planted in large pots.

For a particularly charming garden picture, interplant them with blue Dutch iris and coral bells.

Nemesia makes a brilliantly colored border of flowers, resembling orchids. Blooms grow on 6 to 12-in. stems.

Carpet Those Garden Bare Spots

Gazanias, with their yellow petals and black dotted centers, are among favored plants for ground covers.

By Bob Gilmore

YOU CAN CARPET your outdoor living room with a rug of living flowers. Select those varieties that possess brilliant blooms and a dwarf-like habit of growth. The plants should be hardy and willing to cope with an open exposure. They should also be aggressive and capable of springing back into shape when trampled.

It is not too late to start pansies. The plants prefer a rather moist environment and will prosper all summer if the soil is kept damp. Pansies are ideal as a ground cover as the plants flower for such a long period of time.

As the weather warms up petunias come into their own. Few summer-flowering varieties produce as much show as the petunia. If the plants are to be used for ground cover purposes be sure to select the low growing sorts.

Petunias make few demands on the care-taker. They love an open spot where they can bathe in the sun. Separate colors are available as well as excellent mixtures. In the hybrida nana compacta group you have your choice of the following: Blue Bedder, Rosy Morn, Silver Blue, Snow Queen, White Perfection and Peach Red.

THE GAZANIA is a native of South Africa and thrives throughout most of Southern California. Variety uniflora is perhaps the best known in this area. The flowers are yellow, set off by black spots in the center of the blooms. The foliage curls inwards at night, revealing a white underside.

Gazanias have an exceedingly dwarf-like habit of growth. They hug the soil, rarely ever growing taller than perhaps six or seven inches. The plants react favorably to fairly regular applications of plant food. The soil should be on the lighter side. Make certain that your gazanias receive plenty of direct sunshine. Overcast or grey skies will prevent the flowers from opening. The flowers appear from April through December.

The mesembryanthemum, often termed the ice plant, is the answer to a poor gardener's dream. It requires very little food, practically no care and an amazingly small amount of moisture. The leaves are succulent and capable of storing up tremendous quantities of water. Plants may be started from seed or by setting out divisions. The following colors are available: Crimson, copper, ruby-red, lavender, pink, yellow, buff and even white.

ALTHOUGH VERBENA is classified as a perennial it is usually grown in this district as an annual. The plants are quite colorful, including shades of red, pink, crimson, purple, lilac and white. The verbena is not very particular as to its soil requirements; the plants seem to thrive in practically any garden location. Verbenas often require some pruning as they have a sloppy habit of growth. Cut the stems back from time to time and the plants will always present a neat appearance.

Other interesting varieties for ground cover purposes include alyssum, candytuft, Virginia stock, lobelia, nasturtium and variegated ivy.

Putting Site Before the House

is curtained in soft endive green boucle draperies identical to those used in the kitchen. Thus all windows on the street exposure are identically curtained.

The den, which doubles nicely for a guest room, has utilized obscure glass for the wall dividing it from the hallway. Wood beams in the manner of "egg crating" provide an artistic pattern against this glass. The effect on the room, furnished in a frankly early American vein, is desirable inasmuch as it helps stabilize the balance between the provincial and the contemporary. The hallway, itself, benefits, too, since the expanse of glass permits light to filter in from the den.

THE YOUNGS' SON has a room any young man might envy with its spacious wardrobe and built-in chests, its precisely tailored studio couch spreads and its rugged brown, coral and yellow color scheme.

Matching fabric and wallpaper was chosen for the master bedroom. The print, a provincial motif in sprightly brown and buckskin tones, helped set the soft beige and cocoa scheme. Here, again, the need was for a warm color plan. For the master bedroom has walls of glass that set up only the slightest hint of a demarkation between the inside and the cool, shadiness outside.

As in the case of the dining area, the master bedroom is related intimately to the garden with the close proximity of the second giant ash, this one only three feet distant.

It was most interesting to note that the oval-shaped patio-terrace extends around from the living room wall to the glass doors of the dining area and the bedroom. Consequently, both areas, as well as the living room, are on an equal footing with this most attractive terrace of used brick.

Planting areas were planned around the skirts of this bricked terrace in such a way that a profusion of shade-loving flowers—begonias, azalas, camellias and columbine press their faces to the glass.

Riot of Blossoms

Each day brings added blossoms to the early-blooming camellias in the famous collection in the botanical gardens of the Huntington Library in San Marino. Hours for viewing the five acres of camellias as well as visiting the exhibitions of rare books and manuscripts and paintings are from 1 to 4:30 p. m. every day except Monday. Advance reservations no longer are necessary except for large groups.

Dan Cupid stands before huge sign advertising city of Loveland, Colo., as Valentine center of the U. S.

Cupid's Home Town

By Rosella Mattmueller

IS SENTIMENT old-fashioned? Has it gone the way of Mom's high-buttoned shoes and Dad's mustache cup? "Don't you believe it!" says genial Elmer M. Ivers, postmaster of Loveland, in northern Colorado, as he eyes—just a little apprehensively—Valentine's Day. And who should know better than he? For here, each February, Dan Cupid sets up his headquarters, catering strictly to the young and the young in heart. Last year, with the help of the chamber of commerce and a group of young ESA girls (staff members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha international sorority) 65,000 valentines were stamped with the Loveland postmark and a special crimson cachet, then remailed on dates chosen by the senders, with no charge other than the postage required by Uncle Sam. Every state in the Union, and from 25 to 30 foreign countries are represented annually on this mammoth mailing list.

Make Do

A glass-top cocktail table is easy to fashion. Gordon Obrig, industrial designer, suggests doing it this way:

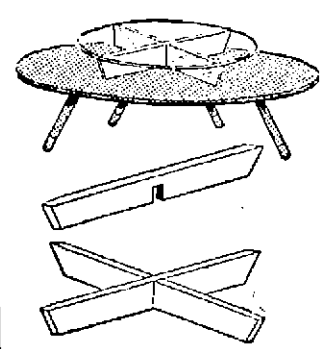

Cut a disk, 36 inches in diameter, from a panel of plywood ¾-inch thick. Use 1½-inch dowels 18 inches long for legs. Notch two pieces of plywood 18x8 inches to support a circle of heavy plate glass, 19 inches in diameter. Bevel and polish edges of the glass. Sand and dust all wood parts. Finish with white shellac cut half-and-half with denatured alcohol. Polish with steel wool and a good paste wax.

But Postmaster Ivers takes the deluge in his stride. He has even been known to go out and purchase valentines for workers in isolated places who could not get into town to buy their own. They send Ivers the money to cover the purchase and stamps, the names and addresses, and he does the rest.

THE DESIGN on the cachet is changed every year. Last year's showed a cowboy cupid—modeled somewhat reluctantly by 5-year-old David Brown—shooting an arrow in the direction of Loveland's "L" brand. The printed message read:

*The Rockies Echo This Toast Of Renown
"Valentine Greetings
From Sweetheart Town"
Loveland, Colorado.*

How did Loveland become the valentine center of the world? Even Lovelanders are not quite sure. The first thing Postmaster Ivers knew, he began receiving valentine cards with the request to remail. The note accompanying one might explain it. "I stopped for a few days last summer in Loveland," it read, "and thought it such a beautiful name. What other postmark, LOVE-Land could be more appropriate on a Valentine greeting?"

NORRIS BERNSTEIN

They Love That Schnitzel

FOR QUITE a while Bernstein's restaurant, 5232 E. 2nd
St. in Belmont Shore, served
Paprika Schnitzel and Sauerbraten only once a week.

"Gee whiz," complained the
restaurant's Paprika Schnitzel lovers, "why don't you serve it more often?"

So, bowing to an unprecedented demand, Norris Bernstein
—co-owner and host at Bernstein's—has arranged to have Paprika Schnitzel and Sauerbraten served every night from now on at the restaurant, which specializes in delicious Bavarian cuisine.

Paprika Schnitzel, in case you're not familiar with this rare dish, is an ultra-tender veal cutlet served with a sauce created from sour cream, tomatoes and spices. The main spice employed is paprika. The Schnitzel is accompanied by delicate, light brown potato pancakes (which are exactly three inches in diameter) and these other items which are always included in the lavish complete dinner at Bernstein's: A great selection of chilled relishes; choice of soup, tomato juice, jellied consommé or cold borscht; choice of different salads and different varieties of Bernstein's famed salad dressings and choice of beverage and dessert, including the res-taurant's excellent Bavarian cheesecake.

THE PRICE for all that beautiful food is only $2.10.

Bernstein's Sauerbraten dinner is the same price and is just as lavishly complete. The Sauer-braten (superb marinated beef) is served with a special sweet and sour sauce. Potato pancakes are included, too.

And, oh, yes, let's not neglect to mention that Bernstein's is the only place in town serving
Cheese Blintzes and Chicken
Blintzes. These unique items are but $1.85 on the big complete dinner.

A Clock Chimes a Happy Marriage

● Blanche Thebom, mezzo-soprano star of New York's Metropolitan Opera, is in private life the wife of a businessman. And so she is familiar with the question: What happens to family life when you mix marriage and a career? Here is her answer.

by BLANCHE THEBOM

It would be hard to find two married people whose careers are more widely separated than ours. As a banker, my husband Richard Metz lives in a dollars-and-cents world of finance. As a singer, my world is that of opera and the concert stage. The two worlds don't speak the same language — or keep the same hours.

Yet we have found a way to combine our interests and enjoy life like any other married couple. The secret is, I think, in certain symbols of sentiment and romance which we have learned to cherish. Now there are those who say there's more to marriage than romance—as though that is something childish you put away in mothballs once you've assumed adult responsibilities. We don't agree. To us, romance is the keystone of marriage.

As to the symbols. We make a game, for example, of giving gifts — especially on St. Valentine's Day, when we hide them in unlikely places. I may put my offering in Richard's overcoat pocket, so that he finds it on the way to his office. He may place mine in the lunch box I usually take to opera rehearsals or hide it between the pages of a piece of music, where I'll find it when I start practicing.

Then again, when I'm not on tour, we try to keep the 9th of every month free for a "commemorative date." We meet at 5 p.m. — the hour we first saw each other about six years ago—for cocktails, dancing or afternoon tea.

But the real symbol of our marital romance is the tall 18th-century English-clock that stands in the foyer of our apartment. This clock was once in the lobby of New York's famous old Ritz Hotel, and I was standing beside it when I met Richard for the first time. He had heard me sing at the opera and had persuaded friends of mine to arrange a date. At exactly five o'clock, he walked up to me, introduced himself and said: "You are Miss Thebom, yes?" And there we were.

Later, when we heard the Ritz was to be demolished and its furnishings sold

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD METZ: At the magic hour of five . . .

An 18th-century timepiece that marked a rendezvous for a first "date" is a symbol of romance for opera star and her husband at auction, we made a sentimental pilgrimage to the hotel and bid for the clock. Happily for us, we won.

I must confess that during the musical season, when I spend many hours practicing at home, the clock is silenced. I find that its rhythmic ticking tends to throw me "off the beat" of the music I happen to be studying.

So, starting the clock after the season is over has become a sort of ritual for us. When we hear the familiar sounds—the steady ticking and the deep, solid boom of the chimes — we somehow feel that after the hectic rush of rehearsals and performances our married life has swung into its romantic tempo again.

These are little things, but they are part of the pattern. The gifts, the anniversary dates and the clock may well become a part of a family legend — because they are symbols of the things we treasure most.

MOST FAMILIES have a formula for happiness — a special activity, a favorite place, a saying handed down through generations, an unusual philosophy of life. What is yours? PARADE will pay $100 for each story of a family used in Parade Families. They must be true accounts from your own experience, submitted in typewritten form along with a photograph of the family. Length: 300 to 750 words. Manuscripts cannot be acknowledged or returned. Send to Parade Families, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

THE COVER

● Wee King Kong and his bright-eyed son are prize examples of vest-pocket dogdom. They are Chihuahuas, the world's smallest breed. To prove it, you need only put father and son on the scales. Together they weigh 58 ounces.

The 17-week-old youngster has the added distinction of being smooth-haired, like his mother. His shaggy father, familiarly known as "Chico," is 4 years old and full grown. The dogs were raised by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blaise of Huntington, N. Y., who have been breeding Chihuahuas as a hobby for several years.

Small as it is, the Chihuahua has a king-sized history. It is one of three breeds that originated in the Western Hemisphere (the others: Labrador and Chesapeake Bay retrievers; Boston terrier), and stems from a dog revered as a ceremonial animal by the Aztecs.

Today, the Chihuahua stoutly maintains the honor of its breed. It ranks fifth in popularity in the U.S. and if other dogs are bigger, so what?

Are Today's Pre-Teenagers Growing Up Too Fast?

Dating at 11, "formals" at 12. Parents in this town (and yours) are worried

Oak Park seventh-grader counts "1-2-3" as he and partner learn rumba at Miss Pocock's classes.

IN WESTPORT, CONN., a father shook his head as he talked to a friend. "Today," he said, "I have to go to a clothing store and price a tuxedo for my 12-year-old son. Twelve years old and he's going to a formal dance." He shook his head again. "Things have certainly changed since my day."

In Long Beach, Calif., a mother shook her head in the same bewildered way. She had just discovered that her 12-year-old daughter had been "going steady" for nearly a year.

In Detroit, a school principal asked his fifth- and sixth-grade students to list the personal problems that troubled them most. The question that outdistanced all others: "How do I go about making a date?"

No isolated incidents, these. In your town, too, the small fry of the 11-to-13 age group are busily trespassing on territory once reserved for the high-school set. Little boys' heads are filled with the tricks of the rumba. Little girls are preoccupied with whether dotted Swiss or organdie would be the nicest "first formal." PARADE spot-checked communities around the U.S., talked to teachers, recreation directors, ministers, psychologists, parents, children themselves. Whether the answer came back from Beaumont, Tex., or Macon, Ga., Long Beach or Detroit, it was always the same: dating, dancing and even a flurry of petting is not only commonplace among 11- and 12-year-olds, but practically universal.

A New Development

This junior social whirl is a new facet of American life. Parents and teachers alike agree that it has been creeping up gradually, but has reached full bloom only in the last few years. Possibly, they think, it reflects a lowering of traditional age levels in many aspects of American life—as in the trend, for example, toward earlier marriages.

How far do the kids go with their grown-up games? What lies behind this sudden epidemic of pre-teen dating? Do parents know about it? If they do, how do they react? Most important of all, how does it affect the pre-teens themselves?

To find the answers to these and other questions, PARADE reporters visited Oak Park, Ill., a Chicago suburb where the pre-teen social whirl, in its waist-high way, has reached a peak of development. This is not to focus a spotlight on Oak Park; the same picture might have been seen almost anywhere. Although above average in income, Oak Park seems typical as far as pre-teen dating goes.

In broad strokes, here is a sketch of Oak Park's bustling social swim:

It has its roots in school. In most of Oak Park's 11 schools, square dancing is taught right in the classroom; there is also some social dancing, to records. "Good, clean, wholesome fun," is the way one mother explains it. The kids seem to agree. Many who attend Washington Irving School also are "regulars" at its weekly recreation night (which includes dancing and handicrafts) for fifth-to-eighth-graders. Others, who live near Anderson Playground, look forward eagerly to round and square dancing there each Friday.

by SID ROSS and ED KESTER

The real social whirl, however, centers around two dancing schools—Miss Jessie Pocock's school at the Oak Park Club and Miss Rose's school at the 19th Century Club. Probably half or more of Oak Park's 11-to-13-year-olds attend one of them. To those who remember the dancing classes of the Penrod novels, it should come as a jolt to know that boys who attend are not "sissies" to their fellows, but idols. Both sexes look forward to each semi-monthly lesson, regarding them more as "parties" than classes.

"Why do I like dances?" asks 12-year-old Jo Ann Gehrke. "Because there are boys there." The same seems to hold true for the escorts. Around Oak Park, there is a good deal of emphasis on clean white gloves (a must at both schools) and freshly starched blouses, as well as good-natured jockeying for partners. Although partners are chosen by chance and must stay together for the evening, each school has a "boy's choice" and "girl's choice" dance which sets off a scramble.

What every Oak Park sub-sub-sub-deb awaits most nervously, however, are the three-times-a-season special dances at each school, which drip with all the gingerbread of a college prom. Dates are required, and many a 12-year-old Oak Park girl spends anxious evenings by a silent telephone, much as an older sister might. Seventh-grade girls sparkle in their most dazzling party dresses; eighth-graders sport their greatest glory—"first formals." (But corsages are taboo; too many young swains—or their parents—were trying to outdo each other.) These are the social events of the season—but they often leave a trail of broken pre-teen hearts behind.

A Pre-Teen Date

Also, there's quite a bit of "dating." This word, when used by a 13-year-old, cannot be translated too literally. Sometimes, after dancing class, a boy and a girl will wander down to Petersen's Ice Cream Parlor for a soda, where their parents pick them up. This is considered a "date" by some pre-teens.

But an honest-to-gosh date, in the pre-teen lexicon, involves a Saturday afternoon (more rarely, a Friday night) at the movies, a soda and no chaperone. Most of the kids dabble at this sort of "dating," and (or so it appeared to PARADE's reporters) those who didn't avidly wished they did.

Boy-girl frolics have a way of springing up everywhere. Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops are featuring more "mixed recreation," like hayrides. Even church youth groups are crowding into the act, with dances for pre-teens. And then there are the parties. "Post office" and lights-out games are enjoying quite a vogue. This does not sit too well with mothers, some of whom have been invited charmingly to make themselves scarce. ("The party at my house," says Mrs. Mary Lou McCollum, "was practically over my dead body.")

It also brings up a question that sounds a little odd on the lips of a 12-year-old girl: "Should I let a boy kiss me good night?" That this is a real-life problem is testified to not only by teachers and mothers, but by the children themselves, like 13-year-old Judy Wolinc: "A boy tried to kiss me good night after a party. What'd I do? I had to let him. He backed me into a corner. I guess I didn't exactly dislike it."

Then there's the question of "going steady." Like dating, this cannot be interpreted literally: it usually means simply an exchange of rings or pictures, and a date every month or so. For some, it is merely insurance against being frozen out during the "boy's choice" and "girl's choice" dances. Steadies have a rather short life span, lasting at most only a few months. The majority of the kids still prefer to run with the pack. Nonetheless, this further evidence of grown-up mimicry worries parents.

The big questions, many parents told PARADE, are "What's next?" and "Where do I draw the line?" "When the club dance becomes 'old stuff,'" says Harold R. Ward, youth director of the Oak Park YMCA, "will these kids look for new thrills, larger experiences?"

Why this speedup? Authorities blame movies, TV, the A-bomb, the 'cold war'—and the parents

SEVENTH-GRADE dancing class at Miss Pocock's learns fox-trot steps. Later, kids will choose own partners.

This is a question that gives pause to many—but by no means all—parents in Oak Park. PARADE found that parental opinion broke down into four major categories: 1) those who actually plunge their children into the social swim or, at least, applaud the idea; 2) those who feel "times have changed" and approve properly supervised boy-girl recreation at this level; 3) those who have misgivings but are badgered into saying yes by their children; 4) a small minority who are fighting to keep their children children, in the strict sense of the word.

In the last group is Mrs. Grace Pennie, whose nine children include 14-, 12-, and 11-year-old girls. "I don't like it," says Mrs. Pennie flatly. "Those 11-year-olds going to movie shows with boys—it's unthinkable to me. I think the parents are just going at such a pace that they want to get rid of their kids, and push them into social activities before they're ready. I feel that if you have a nice family life, you're less apt to have these problems."

To some parents the dancing classes are an asset because of their dividends in poise and the social graces. "Frankly, I think it's a good idea," says Mrs. Esther Steed, a teacher at Hawthorne School and mother of a 13-year-old girl. "It gets them used to each other so they don't think they're such strange creatures." J. E. Howie, father of a 13-year-old boy, adds a fervent amen. "As far as my son is concerned," he says, "I know he has more aplomb on a dance floor than I had after two years of high school."

A minister with misgivings is Dr. Carl Winters of Oak Park's First Baptist Church. "I don't see how you can turn back the clock of time," he says. "Our whole society seems to be geared toward a stepped-up intelligence of this younger generation. I have an idea that maybe this is not too good unless we can get our whole educational system, the church and the home geared to it."

The consultant in pupil personnel services for the Oak Park Schools, Miss Viola Menzemer, sees nothing really new in the situation. "Children in the 11-to-13-year-old level, in my opinion, have been thinking these things for years, but the changes in society and the fact that the family is not so strong as it once was now make them look earlier for relationships outside the home. And the children are more challenging; they assert themselves more." Few argue that last point. "In my day," says Mrs. Adah McMillan, "the girl waited for the boy to call. But my Ann doesn't hesitate to phone a boy. I think that, like a lot of girls, she's aggressive." Most Oak Park parents agree that the girls seem to be "pushing" the boy-girl parties. Some think the answer is that girls these days mature earlier than they once did. "A seventh- or eighth-grade girl today is the equivalent of a high-school junior in the old days," says Mrs. Anne Bartels. "They look older, and they try to look older yet."

Medical men, however, are not in complete agreement with this theory. All those PARADE consulted admit that pre-teens today are taller and heavier than those of 20 years ago. But there is disagreement on whether this indicates earlier maturity—physical or emotional. Such adult-level (or at least adolescent-level) problems as dating and goodnight kisses may still be somewhat beyond their realm.

Are TV and Movies Responsible?

Around Oak Park, TV and movies are a scapegoat for "giving these kids the ideas in the first place." To some authorities, that is wide of the mark. Admitting that modern mass communications have great power to mold ideas and shape thoughts, they consider these more a symptom than a cause.

The present pre-teen precocity, they suggest, stems from a shaky society, plagued by the uncertainties of the cold war and living with the specter of the A-bomb. Because of this instability, the emphasis has been on a speed-up of all social customs: quick social contacts, quick pleasures, a quick shove into escape from the realities of the world. On adults, with more experience to draw upon, the pressures are tremendous; but on pre-teens, already in the shakiest part of their lives, they can be almost shattering.

It is a problem which worries psychologists, sociologists, educators and medical men alike. Selma Fraiberg, a child therapist and instructor in psychiatry at Wayne University, recently warned: "These children are burdened with all the normal stresses of puberty plus the abnormal stresses imposed upon them by their community. At a point when a girl is most anxious about her femininity, her unripe femininity is put to a severe test. A boy, flooded with terrible doubts about his masculinity, is pressed to prove a masculinity of which he himself is quite unsure."

And an Oregon gynecologist, Dr. Goodrich Schaulfler, blasts U.S. "bosom-consciousness," which, he says, sometimes drives girls as young as 10 or 11 into severe mental curleups or attempted suicide when the much-desired curves fail to appear.

Educators and sociologists have pointed out that, by accenting "too early social sophistication," the U.S. may be laying up future trouble for itself and its children. Mrs. Newton Leonard, national president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, warns, "When orchids, corsages and formal parties have been part of your life from the age of 11 or 12, by the time you are 17, nothing is left!"

Warnings and predictions notwithstanding, pre-teens everywhere probably will go right on dancing, dating and flirting with an occasional kiss. Parents will continue to worry, and so will psychologists. Sooner or later, they probably will have to meet the question head-on, as Principal Lawrence Cox of Oak Park's Horace Mann School has done.

"Are these seventh- and eighth-graders—and some times fifth- and sixth-graders—too young for this?" he muses. "Actually, it doesn't matter what I say. Earlier socializing is here, and here to stay. Our problem is not to stop it, but to try to provide a wholesome atmosphere for it."

PRE-TEEN DATING: As Oak Park sees it

MRS. MARY LOU McCOLLUM: "I think they're awfully young to do all this. I never did it. But I can't feel justified in telling my little girl she can't go to a party when she tells me, 'Everyone else is going.' I just wonder: when they start this early, what happens next year? You can't seem to control these things. But I guess one of the difficulties is I'm a woman. I'd be more upset if she wasn't invited."

MARCIA McCOLLUM, 12: "I don't think I'm too young for this, not really. I'm interested in boys --in a way. I like parties and dances. It's a kind of entertainment that you don't get when you're younger. Mostly I like going out with some other people. Of course, there's one boy--I'd like to go out alone with him, maybe to the movies or an ice-cream parlor. I think it would be kind of nice."

HAROLD R. WARD, YMCA youth director: "Basically I think it's wrong. I have a 12-year-old daughter, and ordinarily I wouldn't let her stay out late on a school night. But you're keeping up with the Joneses; you don't want to be an old fogey. Maybe it's good; maybe it's making them grow up faster. But the way the trend is, by the time they're in high school, the thrill of a date is gone."

DR. CARL WINTERS, Baptist minister: "I've seen my 11-year-old daughter where you'd think life had ended for her; other girls were attracting the boys, and she wasn't. It was a crisis in her little life. Yet I don't want to be strict just because I'm a minister; I want her to have wholesome social relationships, the kind every child needs and is entitled to. At least she is getting an 'at-homeness' with other children."

MRS. JANE CHRISTIANSON: "Let them get used to each other. Let them learn to be at ease with the other sex. Later on, when they're in high school and begin to pair off, they'll be prepared for it."

Her daughter Lois, 13: "Why shouldn't I be interested in boys? I'm not too young. They're human beings--cute human beings. I've been interested in them since first grade."

DR. BERTRAND J. SMITH, superintendent of grade schools: "I have the feeling that the school, as a community agency, should help to establish normal boy-girl relationships, which begin in kindergarten and go right on to adulthood. There's nothing wrong with 'early' boy-girl relationships, provided that a community-wide program for them is properly planned and researched and carried out."

I'm Redoing It Myself

A home craftsman, caught up in the national craze, takes a long look at his work — and doesn't like what he sees

by DICK EMMONS

I don't know what makes people think the do-it-yourself trend is something new. Unable to afford somebody who knew how, I've been doing it myself for some time. In fact, I'm reaching the point where I'm redoing things myself—things I did once which have since proven something less than satisfactory.

A project I began the other day, for instance, involved raising the height of our kitchen table. About a year ago, goaded into action by a wife with a set smile and a short length of garden hose, I had undertaken the job of evening the table's legs so the table would stand level. In what seemed no time at all, we had a kitchen table which stood 12 inches off the floor.

Since then we have been sitting down to breakfast yogi-style. Our dog, who used to sit up and beg for morsels, just reaches out now and snaps at somebody's toast.

In raising the table to the proper level (redoing it myself), I'm experimenting with a design which could become high fashion in the furniture world. For want of a more appropriate name, I call it Orange Crate Modern.

Another major phase of the current nationwide craze to do-it-yourself involves finishing off that unfinished attic. Well, far ahead of the game as usual, I finished off my attic a few years ago. "Ended it" might be better.

I must have gotten hold of a batch of green wallboard or something. I'd get a piece tacked to the beams and turn to something else and sproing!—off it would come. Naturally I did my own electrical work, too. I didn't actually get all the wiring concealed and, what with one thing and another, the attic became a pretty ticklish place from a health and safety standpoint.

I decided to refinish the finishing job a few days after the man came about the fireplace backing smoke into the living room. He insisted on going up into the attic, so we took the names of his next of kin, strapped a first-aid kit to his back and shook hands all around.

The Fire Department finally got him out through a window and it wasn't long before he was discharged from the hospital. The experience shook me, along with our out-of-court settlement.

Shortly after I finished off the attic, I turned my talents to converting our television set from a standard model taking up usable floor space to a built-in type with only the picture tube showing from a wall. A fairly tricky piece of work, this took most of my evenings for several weeks while my wife grumbled about not being able to love Lucy or find out what somebody's line was.

I'll Do It Again

Her complaints took on a new and somewhat sharper pitch when I finished the transfer and flicked on the switch. I would have been grateful for a case of picture flopper or fuzzy images or even an unsynchronized sound track. But there was nothing, except a low humming sound. It's very restful to read by, but I suppose one of these days I'll be doing that job over again, too. Just before the World Series is televised, I should think.

Meanwhile, I'm planning to rebuild that set of shelves in the preserves closet, the ones I built for my wife just after she made 24 pints of currant jelly.

Naturally, I'll be redoing the carpentry work myself. I might, however, be interested if anyone knows where I can hire a jelly scraper at a reasonable rate.

A New Way to Reduce That SWELLING

By ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

Old drug offers new hope in a wide variety of ailments—from black eyes to phlebitis

The patient, a 45 year-old woman, squirmed uncomfortably in the doctor's office. For several years, she said, she had suffered from a form of phlebitis, a troublesome inflammation of the veins in her leg.

From time to time, her leg would swell up, become painful and tender. Nothing brought lasting relief, she said. Hers was not an unusual case. Phlebitis, an illness thought to result from sluggish blood circulation, or injury, strikes many adults in all age groups.

The doctor decided to try a drug, not a new one, but one that had been used in many illnesses, including cancer, without much luck. It had been considered dangerous. But the results in this woman's case made the doctor sit up and take notice.

In just three weeks, the pain and tenderness disappeared and the swelling was reduced to a large extent. After the fourth week, the patient was free of all symptoms. Weekly injections since then have prevented recurrence.

The drug that produced these striking results was prepared from a substance called trypsin. The dosage: as little as 1/11,000 of an ounce. Since this one case was reported, trypsin has shown value in treating a host of ailments which result in pain and swelling—among them, black eye, bursitis (an illness that usually causes great discomfort to back and shoulder muscles) and bronchitis. There is even evidence that this "anti-inflammatory" drug can help polio patients.

Enzymes At Work

Trypsin actually is an enzyme, in itself a fascinating part of the human body's complicated chemical machinery. Enzymes are the body's "chemical messengers": they start, stop and control chemical reactions without changing themselves.

One of the enzymes, pepsin, breaks much of the food you eat into the chemical components required by the body. Science has identified a great many enzymes, but there are far more as yet undiscovered. Exactly how they keep the body's chemical "chain reaction" going is not known.

Trypsin, at any rate, is manufactured in the pancreas. The trypsin now being used to treat increasing numbers of patients is extracted from the pancreas of cattle.

For some reason trypsin works dramatically on inflammation in certain cases. It seems to increase blood circulation in the swollen area and restore its chemical "balance." Apparently, it also speeds the rate at which fluid in a swollen area is taken up by body tissues. Thus, a group of Philadelphia doctors recently reported unusual results in treating black eyes.

A man with two black eyes, both swollen shut, was given trypsin. In just 24 hours there was "marked improvement." A short time later, one eye was fully open and the swelling reduced. Other similar cases confirmed this first finding.

From Herkimer, N. Y., comes more evidence of the drug's effect in reducing swelling and relieving pain. A researcher reported that there was "dramatic relief" in some bursitis cases less than one day after the patient got trypsin. Some patients who could not move their arms regained wide range of movement after a few injections.

The same doctor also reported that trypsin helped to reduce coughing and inflammation among some bronchitis sufferers.

All this, of course, is in addition to the drug's beneficial work on phlebitis.

Effect on Polio

But perhaps the most unexpected effect of the drug to date concerns polio patients. Researchers tread easily and very conservatively on the subject of trypsin and polio, because it is one with which they have had so little experience.

Trypsin, if it works at all, is not a substitute for the polio vaccine now being tested. That vaccine is a possible preventive measure. Trypsin has been tried on patients only after they get the disease.

However, based on a preliminary study of 50 polio patients in two Wilmington, Del., hospitals, here is what can now be reported:

- Paralysis, which usually continues for six or seven days after onset of the disease, appeared to be stopped after just two days among trypsin-treated patients.
- Muscle strength among the patients was increased over what would be considered normal during the period of recovery.
- Thus, patients were able to exercise and start rehabilitation work earlier.
- Trypsin itself did not relax patients' muscles, but "anti-stiffness" drugs given after trypsin worked better than usual.

Of course, many more polio cases have to be studied before doctors can make any conclusions. But this much they do say: whether or not trypsin helps in polio, its action in phlebitis and in other inflammatory illnesses means that another weapon has been added to medical science's arsenal. ■

BLACK EYE: One patient with an eye swollen "to the size of a lemon" was helped by trypsin. Now, doctors are testing drug against other eye disorders.

Willie Mays: Hero at the Crossroads

The Alabama boy now is in big-money circles. How will prosperity affect his ballplaying?

Hiding behind his cap in Puerto Rico, Willie Mays tries to avoid the telephoto lens of PARADE's photographer—and unintentionally provides an arresting picture.

FANS GO WILD in Puerto Rico, too, when Willie hits a homer. Hero-worship only complicates his problems.

Behind the cap at the left is a man with a problem. He is Willie Mays, an Alabama boy who grew up to become the dazzling outfielder of the New York Giants; this photo was taken in Puerto Rico, where he has been starring in winter baseball; and his problem is symbolized by the way that cap hides his face.

For Willie, at 23, has arrived at a crossroads in his career. He is on the threshold of the big money—off the playing field as well as on. The problem is: How will he behave as he cashes in?

Will he retain the unworried attitude of a Babe Ruth, keeping his baseball and his outside interests strictly separate? Or will he stumble into the mental turmoil of a Mickey Mantle, thereby making his basic skill—and welfare—suffer?

This is no new problem in baseball: more than one young athlete has been hamstrung by money trouble. The great Ted Williams went through it until he learned to tell all outside promoters, "Don't bother me during the baseball season."

Fred Corcoran, who handles Williams, Stan Musial and golfer Sam Snead, says, "The important thing for an athlete to realize is that his bread and butter comes from the game he plays. He should make that his first order of business."

Willie has done so—up to now. But last season he suddenly realized that he was making nearly as much money outside of baseball as inside. His salary, plus a World Series cut, came to around $27,000; television appearances, endorsements and the like totaled close to $23,000.

This year his base pay is reported at $25,000. Yet, if Willie maintains his blistering pace, the outside offers will keep piling up. This often causes complications and confuses Willie.

In Puerto Rico, recently, he appeared on a TV show, not realizing that it was sponsored by a rival of the dairy company whose products he endorses in the States. That upset Willie so much that, when magazine photographers wanted him to pose for pictures, he simply said, "Continued on page 14"

4 Short Cuts to Better Sauces with Carnation Milk

Carnation's special blending qualities and double richness make them possible. No other form of milk will do!

CARNATION 1-2-3 FUDGE SAUCE

Easy to remember, easy to make! No constant stirring, tiresome "soft ball" tests or candy thermometer needed. Combine 1 large can (1 1/2 cups) undiluted Carnation with 2 cups sugar and 3 squares (3 ounces) bitter chocolate over hot water or low heat. Cook 15-20 minutes, stirring just occasionally. Remove from heat; add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until smooth. Serve hot or cold over ice cream, cake or pudding.

CARNATION LUMP-FREE CREAM SAUCE

Sure to be cream-smooth every time with this better-blending milk. So much quicker to make, too—with double-rich Carnation only half as much flour and shortening are needed. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with 1 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan over low heat until smooth. Gradually add 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation. Stir over low heat until thickened and smooth.

CARNATION 3-MINUTE CHEESE SAUCE

So smooth—because of Carnation's special blending qualities. So quick—no flour or shortening needed, because of Carnation's double richness. Simmer 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation and 1/2 teaspoon salt over low heat to just below boiling (2 minutes). Add 1 cup grated processed American cheese. Heat until cheese melts (1 minute). Makes about 2 1/2 cups. Also serve with vegetables.

CARNATION EVER-SMOOTH BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

Such an easy, sure way to make it. Never curdled or stringy. Always smooth because of Carnation's special blending qualities. Mix 1 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup undiluted Carnation, 1/4 cup butter, 2 tablespoons corn syrup and 1/4 teaspoon salt in saucepan over medium heat; cool slightly. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 cup more undiluted Carnation. Serve warm or cold.

MAYS CONTINUED

STILL HIDING from the camera, Willie here has draped a towel over his head. But the telephoto lens got what it went after: the portrait of a troubled man.

Willie now can match half his first year's pay in a few minutes on TV

OUT IN THE OPEN at last, Willie is fair game for a "sneak" shot. The fan he's signing the book for—and who has spotted the camera—is William Ramos, 9.

"See my agent"—and hid behind his cap, a towel (left) or anything else handy.

Eventually he cooled off, but the incident helps show why the Giants originally asked a gentleman named Art Flynn to act as Willie's agent.

Flynn handles Willie's business affairs outside of his baseball salary, taking the usual 10 per cent of all monies received. This sounds pleasant, and is, but it gives Flynn a problem of his own. Naturally, he wants Willie to make as much money as possible. But if there is too much stress on extracurricular gain, Willie is likely to be thinking of the wrong things when he comes to bat in the last of the ninth.

Something like that happened to Mickey Mantle, who came up to the Yankees ballyhooed as the greatest ball-player since Babe Ruth. He got an agent—and then three more, including a ghost-writer—and his life became so complex that his baseball suffered. Last year he still managed to hit .300 and 27 home runs, but no one now compares him to Babe Ruth.

Each Day, 20 New Offers

Willie Mays is getting the build-up treatment that once went to Mantle. "It's a new situation for him," says one Giant official, "and a new one for us." The club gives Willie the best possible care, but much responsibility still lies with Flynn.

Flynn must weed out the offers that now pour in on Willie at a 20-a-day rate. Some are scotched simply by quoting Willie's price ($1,000 an appearance, except for charity), others because they're not dignified. When an offer is accepted, it must meet Willie's and Flynn's standards. Cigarette ads, for instance, must not say that Willie actually smokes.

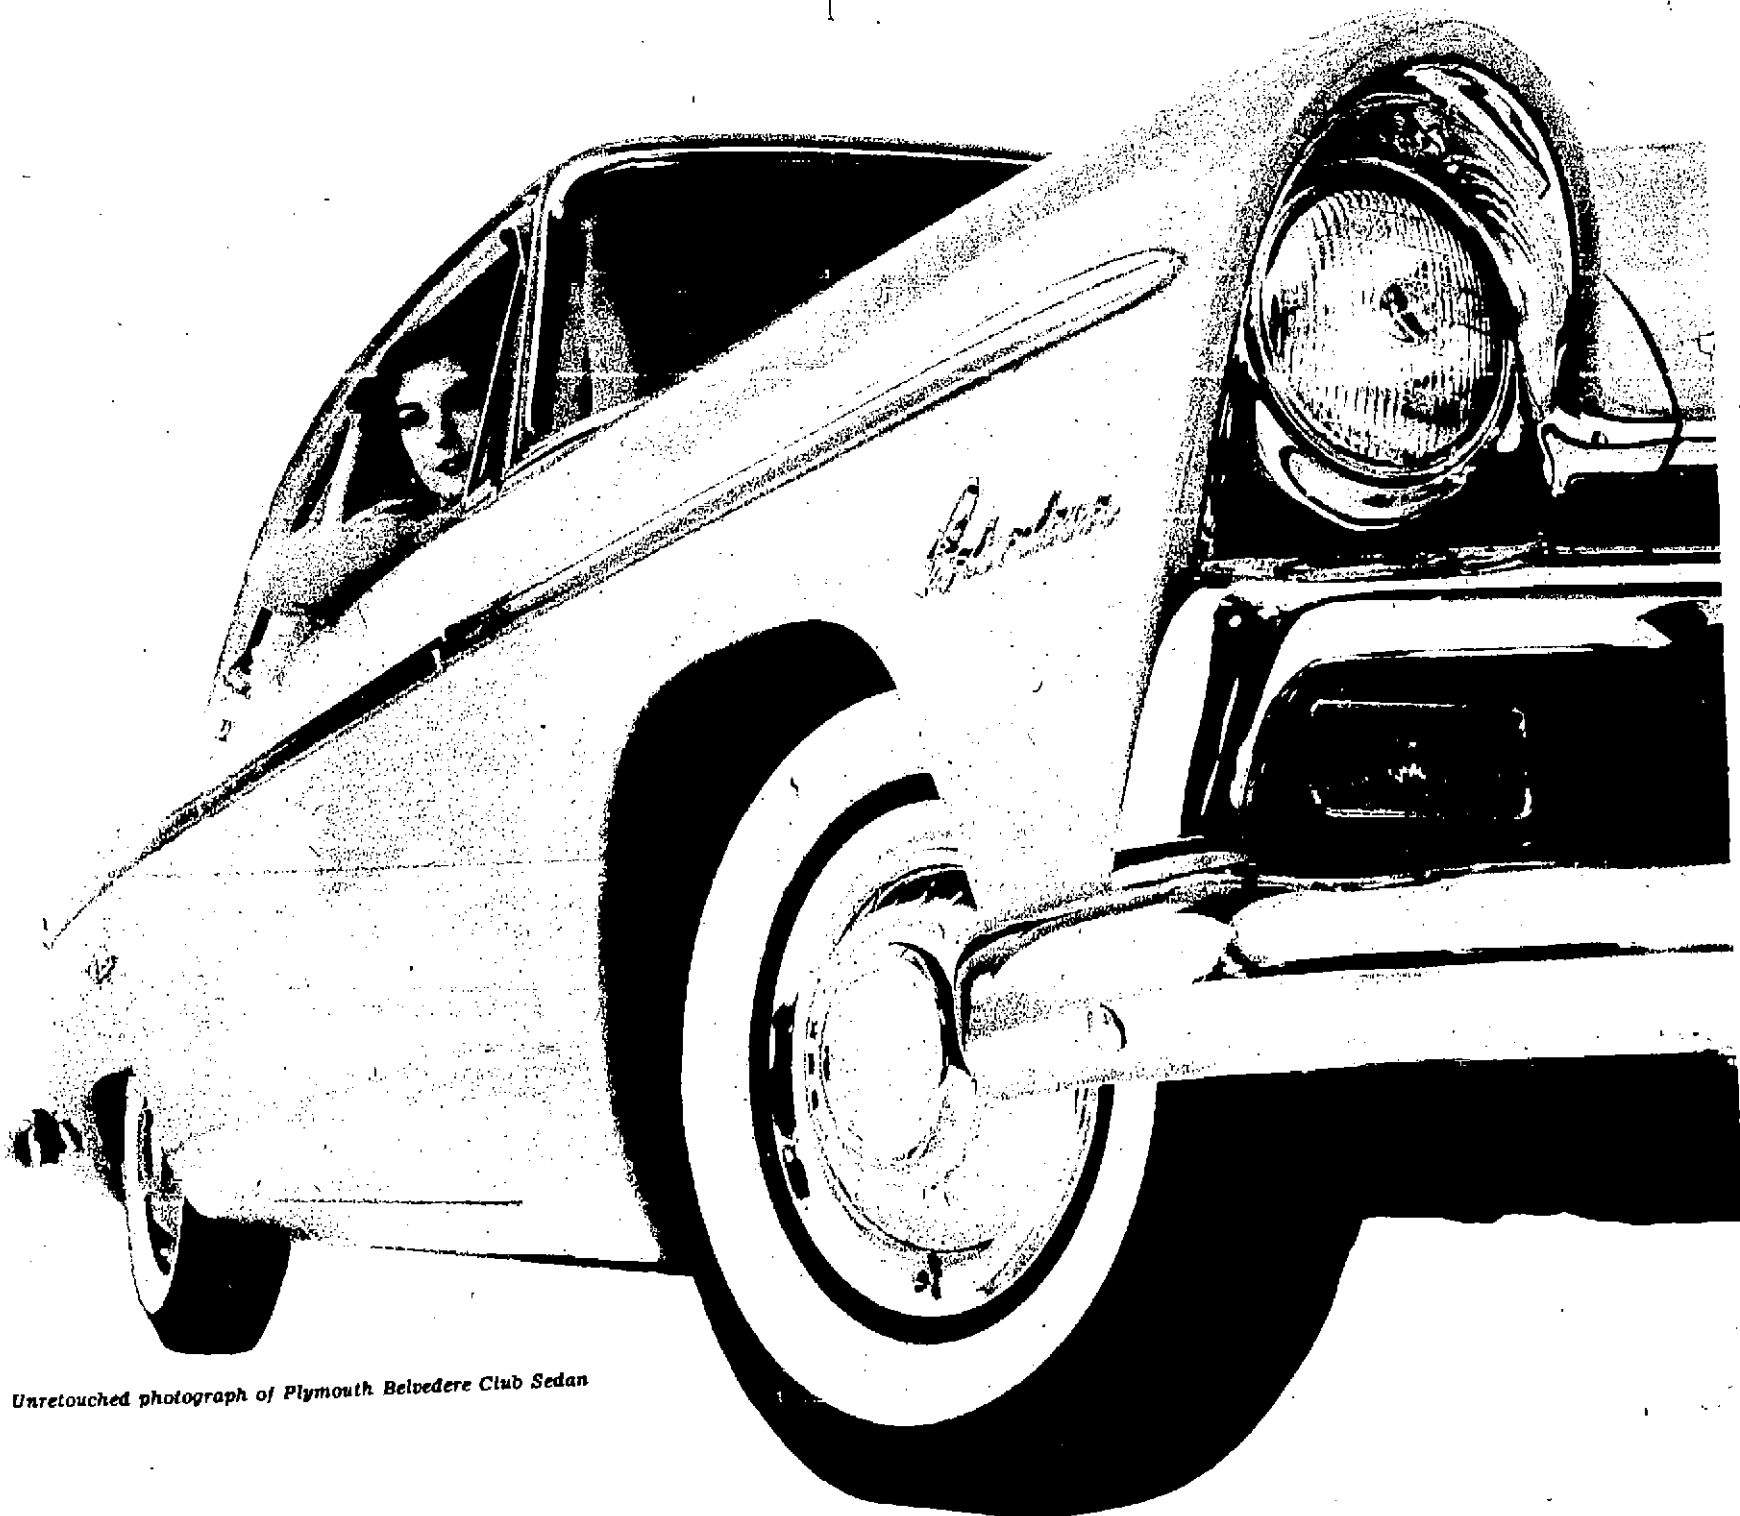

His popularity has not affected Willie deeply—yet. He still qualifies as the favorite player of his clubmates. They see no parallel with the case of one recent "Rookie of the Year." This player became so heady with success that he began asking to be paid for appearing at off-season banquets in his own honor. (Luckily, he later changed his attitude.)

Yet Willie is no longer just a happy kid, playing a game. "When he came up in 1951," says one close friend, "you could just say to him, 'Willie, do this' or 'Willie, do that,' and Willie would do it. But now Willie knows he is a star, and he wants to be treated like a star." Knowing that he can earn half as much as his first-year salary by appearing for a few minutes on a TV show, Willie sometimes is inclined to ask, "What's in it for me?"

Recently, in Puerto Rico, Willie got into an argument with a batting-practice pitcher. When teammate Ruben Gomez tried to stop it, Willie misunderstood and knocked him flat. They shook hands later—but the old Willie would not have fought at all. Clearly, pressures were at work.

The answer to his problem would seem to be to pace him for the long haul rather than the immediate dollar. Willie's income will stay up if his batting average does; if he keeps catching long flies, he'll catch plenty of cash, too.

SO MUCH MORE CAR than any other in the low-price 3!

- 1 MORE POWER! Plymouth's new 6-cylinder PowerFlow 117 gives you more power with still greater economy! In the low-price 3 it's the only 6 with Chrome-Sealed Action for smoothest, thriftiest performance. And Plymouth's new 167-hp Hy-Fire V-8 gives you the highest standard horsepower in the lowest-price field!
- 2 MORE SIZE! Plymouth '55 is the biggest, longest car of the low-price 3! Longer, in fact, than some of the high-price cars. This greater size means extra roominess, extra comfort for you! And Plymouth's huge, fully-lined luggage compartment is the biggest in its field!
- 3 MORE VISIBILITY! Plymouth's glamorous new Full-View Windshield brings you new horizons in safer, more comfortable vision. The corner posts are not vertical, as in other designs, but are swept back, to give you more side vision where you need it, at eye level!

- 4 MORE DRIVING EASE! Of the low-price 3, only Plymouth has Power Steering that works full-time. And PowerFlite, with exclusive Flite-Control Selector mounted on the dash, lets you drive without shifting. Then, to make driving still more effortless, there's Power Brakes, Power Windows, and Power Seats.

PowerFlite, all power driving aids optional at extra cost

This year of all years, look at all 3, and you'll join the swing to Plymouth... a great new car for the YOUNG IN HEART.

WAYS WITH A LOAF OF BREAD

A loaf of baker's bread can become rolls, breakfast or tea bread—or a main dish. All you need are a few added ingredients and a minimum of time

GARLIC BREAD ROLLS

- 1 loaf unsliced bread
- 2 slashed garlic cloves
- 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
- Poppy seed

Remove crusts from loaf; cut lengthwise, then crosswise four or five times (cutting almost through to bottom). Meanwhile add garlic cloves to melted butter or margarine and let stand 10 minutes over very low heat; remove garlic; spread butter or margarine on outside of bread and into all cuts. Sprinkle with poppy seed. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Serve hot.

HONEY PECAN LOAF

- 1 loaf unsliced bread
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup chopped pecans
- 10 pecan halves

Cut loaf of bread in half lengthwise, cutting almost through to bottom; slice bread crosswise four times. Place loaf in well-greased bread pan (9" x 5" x 3"). Combine melted butter or margarine, honey and brown sugar. Pour over bread. Sprinkle chopped pecans between cuts. Arrange 10 pecan halves on top. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 25 minutes. Serve warm.

SOUFFLÉ LOAF

- 1 loaf unsliced bread
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 lb. sharp cheddar cheese
- 2 eggs

Remove crusts from loaf. Cut lengthwise almost through to bottom, then crosswise four or five times. Melt two tablespoons of the butter; let rest soften in mixing bowl. Brush melted butter or margarine on outside of loaf. Place in shallow baking pan. Grate cheese into bowl with softened butter. Cream together until well blended. Separate eggs. Beat whites until stiff and yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Stir egg yolks into cheese mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread on loaf. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Serves five.

APPLE JAM CAKE

- 1 loaf thin-sliced bread
- 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup strawberry jam
- 2 apples
- Crumb Topping*

Cut crusts from 18 slices of bread. Spread each slice with butter or margarine and strawberry jam. Make six stacks of three slices each, ending with spread side up. Place stacks close together on baking sheet.

Peel apples; slice very thin. Arrange slices on top of bread stacks. Sprinkle with Crumb Topping.* Bake in hot oven (425°F.) about 10 minutes. Serve warm. Serves six. *Crumb Topping: Combine 1/4 cup sifted enriched flour, 1/4 cup brown sugar and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon. Cut in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; mix with finger tips until crumbly.

KITCHEN HINT:

To give French Toast new flavor, add 1/4 cup molasses to 3 eggs; beat with 3/4 cup milk. Dip 8 bread slices; fry golden brown.

PREPARING for speed test in experimental Dodge "Firearrow," Betty Skelton changes from high to flat heels for easier driving. Johnny Moir, 11, of Detroit, wishes her luck.

FAIR, FAST AND 28

Speed flier Betty Skelton tries a new career: speed-testing cars

by KARL KOHRS

DETROIT.

The title of "world's fastest woman driver" conjures up a picture of a husky, deep-voiced Amazon in goggles, helmet and oil-stained racing togs. Men in the auto industry here know better.

The present holder of the title is a soft-spoken, petite young lady of 28, with dark-brown eyes and hair to match. Her name is Betty Skelton. Last June she drove an experimental car around a test track at 143.44 mph, setting the AAA speed record for women.

She is the first and only woman in the automotive industry to be licensed as a test pilot, and the only woman

"TESTING": In a skin-tight crash suit, Betty pilots specially built water scooter at fast tow. She is an expert water skier and world's only woman "jump-boat" driver.

Girl who "can't stand standing still" gets a lot of things done

ever licensed by the AAA to drive racing cars.

Setting her record as the world's fastest woman driver was Betty's way of starting a new career. She'd already had one as an aerobatic and exhibition flier (PARADE, March 5, 1950), logging more than 5,000 hours of flying time and breaking records right and left. With no more room on her shelves for aerial trophies, she decided to "ground" herself to become a test driver and car-design consultant to the Dodge automobile company.

So now Betty has a two-way job: testing new cars to work out performance and safety problems (this includes traveling around the country to give safety talks and demonstrations), and dreaming up ways to put more feminine appeal into cars.

Tomorrow's cars, Betty believes, need more of the feminine touch—more chic in upholstery fabric and colors, better positioning of the front seats so Mrs. Driver won't wrinkle her skirts when she gets in and out, better mechanical design to eliminate her parking difficulties. Says Betty:

"It isn't that I'm trying to compete with men or invade their world. I've merely chosen the type of work I enjoy and seem qualified for.

"In test-driving I even wear the type of clothing a girl would wear on a shopping trip or on a date. There's one exception: I change to low-heeled shoes when I get into the car. The men razz me about it, but low heels make high-speed driving easier."

Airplanes, Not Dolls

That Betty has a way of getting things done her way is attested by her spectacular career up to now—Career No. 1, that is. She began it in Pensacola, Fla., at the age of 12, when she flew her first plane—solo. "This happened," she explains with a mischievous smile, "behind a hangar when nobody was looking."

She adds: "In those days I ate, slept and breathed aviation. While other little girls played with dolls, I tinkered with model airplanes. I spent most of my week ends building up flying time."

Local aerial barstormers soon began to notice the freckle-faced kid who seemed to have been born with wings. One day she picked up a Tampa paper and read that Betty Skelton, famous girl flier, would appear in a forthcoming air show—and fly upside down.

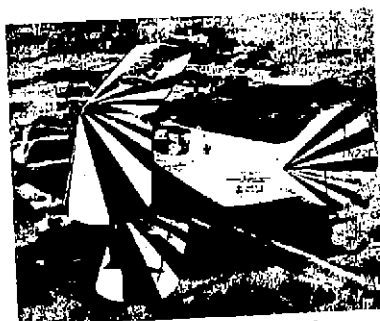

"That was news to me," says Betty, "because I'd never done it before, and the show was two weeks away. I called up the man who had booked me—a stunt flier with whom I had worked—and asked him what this was all about. 'Oh, you can do it,' he told me. 'I'll show you how.' He did, too."

That began Betty's aerobatic career, during which she won the aerobatic championship for women, set two world's altitude records for light planes and racked up an unofficial speed record (426.5 mph) for engine-powered planes. Still intact, she retired from exhibition flying in 1950.

On the ground, Betty managed to keep as busy as she had been aloft. She became personnel director for an aviation school and then an executive of an electronics corporation; wrote articles for aviation magazines; produced, wrote and emceed her own radio shows.

In her "spare time," she took up amateur theatricals as a hobby—and won the 1953 award for the outstanding amateur performance of the year in the famous Broadway hit, Bell, Book and Candle.

It was quite by chance, Betty says, that she became interested in cars. She was on a vacation at Daytona Beach and entered a stock-car speed competition "just for kicks." That did it.

"Now," she goes on, "I'm completely wrapped up in the car industry. It's a field that touches the lives of so many people—and I like people."

Just 5'3" and a seemingly fragile 94 pounds (4 pounds under her regular weight, she says), Betty is brimful of energy. This despite the fact that she can "take food or leave it alone."

"I like Spanish foods," she says, "but sweets best of all. I usually nibble on candy all day long. My main worry is keeping my weight up. I can't cook, but I do design my own clothes. If I had a family, I'm sure I wouldn't find housekeeping a bore."

Do her plans include marriage? Says Betty: "Definitely—if the right man comes along. I'd like to marry and have a family of three. But the man I marry will have to be as interested as I am in getting things done. I just can't stand standing still."

New! A greaseless anti-perspirant that lets your skin "breathe"

- Goes on dry • Underarms are absolutely dry in seconds—stay dry
- Ends danger of perspiration moisture and odor
- Unique new formula contains nothing to stop skin's natural "breathing"
- First and only greaseless, full-strength anti-perspirant stick

AT LAST! A deodorant and anti-perspirant that goes on dry . . . invisibly—without a trace of greasiness . . . without a drop of moisture! It's new Fresh Stick Deodorant.

- No sticky fingers
- No messy drip
- No gummy feeling!

You can wear your dark dresses without a worry of whitish rings on the armholes.

You can wear wool dresses or even sweaters without their getting an offensive underarm odor (odor that even cleaning can't take out).

You can apply this deodorant just before you go out—even when you're in a hurry.

- No waiting to dry
- No risk of spoiling clothes

Unlike old-style deodorants, the new Fresh Stick Deodorant brings you a completely different anti-perspirant formula in a non-greasy, skin- tonic base. This unique new Fresh Stick formula is scientifically balanced to combine the maximum gentleness with the most possible protection against both underarm moisture and odor.

And the new Fresh Stick formula lets your skin "breathe."

New Fresh Stick has the first and

Questions on 'Family' Matters

Miss Vanderbilt writes of engagements—and sympathy cards

My mail reflects a great upsurge in interest concerning etiquette. Here are some recent questions:

Q. How does a father announce the engagement of his daughter to a gathering of relatives and friends at home? Is a toast in order?
 —C.B.C., St. Petersburg, Fla.

A. Yes. After all have assembled and the party is well under way, the father, first catching everyone's attention, proposes a toast. Sometimes, if champagne has not been served up to this point, it is brought out and ceremoniously poured. When everyone has been served, the father raises his glass and says something like this: "To my daughter Margaret and my future son-in-law, John. Let's drink to their happiness."

Q. Have we gotten clear away from the idea that greeting cards are merely to supplement when a personal greeting is not possible? I refer especially to the sending of printed "thank you" cards to guests who have been present at a shower and have already been thanked in person.—J.A., Albuquerque, N. M.

A. A verbal "thank you" is enough. "Thank you" cards should never be sent unless they include a written message.

Q. How do you address a sympathy card to the married daughters and sons when the mother dies? When is it proper to address an envelope, "Mr. and Mrs. and Family"?—T.L.M., Jamaica, L. I.

A. You address, not a sympathy card, but a personal letter to the eldest daughter, who is now technically the female head of the family. In the letter, you refer in some way to the others. If a married couple is extending its sympathy, it is the wife who writes, and in the body of the letter refers to the sympathy also extended by the husband. It is she who signs the letter.

It is never correct to write "Mr. and Mrs. and Family." "The Burke Family," however, is correct.

SECRET OF SLOAN'S LINIMENT REVEALED

Scientists now have proved why Sloan's brings such fast, blessed relief from rheumatic and neuralgic pains. Infra-red photos of blood vessels below skin surface prove that Sloan's increases the blood supply in aching tissues (see above), helping to carry away waste matter and to nourish aching tissues back to health faster. So keep Sloan's handy always: it's the greatest name in pain-relieving liniments.

FILL A FRANK

• Want to turn a hot dog into a "cheese dog" with added zest and flavor? A new kitchen utensil holds a wiener, cores it, then plunges your favorite cheese in. $2.98.

SHARPENS SHEARS, TOO

• Dull edge on your pinking shears? A new sharpener puts a keen cutting edge on them as well as on ordinary scissors. A specially-faced carbide stone does the honing and is said to insure longer scissor life. $2.98.

FOLDING HOT SEAT

• If you're a chill-weather sportsman, there's an ingenious little folding seat to keep you warm on the coldest days—and to double as an outdoor cooking stove. It's 6" x 13" x 1 1/2" when folded, easy to slip into hunting-coat pocket, tackle box or car glove compartment. Opened up, the steel seat is sturdy enough to support a heavyweight; a bracket inside holds canned heat and gives off just enough for comfortable sitting. A cooking-plate attachment turns seat into stove to brew coffee, grill and fry. $8.48.

SPEEDY PAINT

• Now there's a latex paint that dries to the touch in 20 minutes and is washable in a few days. New vinyls in the formula speed drying and curing. Available in 32 colors, it flows on smoothly with brush or roller, dries to a fine matte finish, covers evenly without streaks. SAPOLIN PAINTS, Dept. PP,

Never Really Sick...
Never Really Well!

THE GRAY SICKNESS

Never sick enough to stay in bed yet never really well. The GRAY SICKNESS keeps millions pale, tired and weak... never able to enjoy life to the full!

"IRON deficiency anemia has been aptly called the GRAY SICKNESS.
Not only because its victims have lost their once healthy color, but also because life itself has become gray and drab for them. For you simply can't enjoy work or play when you have to drag through day after weary day feeling tired, weak and listless. And sleep doesn't seem to refresh you for you wake up tired.

The GRAY SICKNESS means your blood isn't getting enough iron. It becomes weak, thin, washed-out... just can't supply your body with the full supply of oxygen it needs for buoyant health and radiant color.
Signs of the GRAY SICKNESS may be due to other causes so you should see your doctor regularly.

REBUILD STRENGTH FAST

Fortunately the GRAY SICKNESS responds quickly to proper treatment
... and normal healthy color, strength and vigor return. In cases like this doctors usually prescribe an iron tonic containing many times your daily iron requirement. Each therapeutic dose, 6 tablets daily, of IRON-IZED YEAST, contains 10 times your daily iron need... and this iron is fortified with vitamin B<sub>12</sub>. Now this iron goes right to work... within 24 hours... to start building rich red blood... the kind of blood that soon brings back your normal strength and energy... fills you with your old-time pep... brings healthy color back to your cheeks again.

FEEL STRONGER IN 7 DAYS

Actually in just one week you'll start to feel your old self. You'll begin to enjoy doing a normal day's work again. So get IRONIZED YEAST tablets today. They are very economical to use even when taken in maximum dosage of 6 tablets daily. Just be sure you get genuine IRONIZED YEAST.

REMOVE WASTE - NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions have discovered about
FEEN-A-MINT, the wonderfully different chewing-gum laxative.
FEEN-A-MINT is different because you chew it. It's different, too, because it removes mostly waste—not good food!
You see, FEEN-A-MINT does not work in the stomach, where food is being digested. That's why it does not take away a lot of the good food you need for energy.

Doctors know that FEEN-A-MINT works chiefly in the lower bowel... removes mostly waste, not good food!

How to Shoot Ducks and Sway Politicians

Businessmen and senators are buddies in a Texas duck hunt that pays off for both

BEAUMONT, TEX.

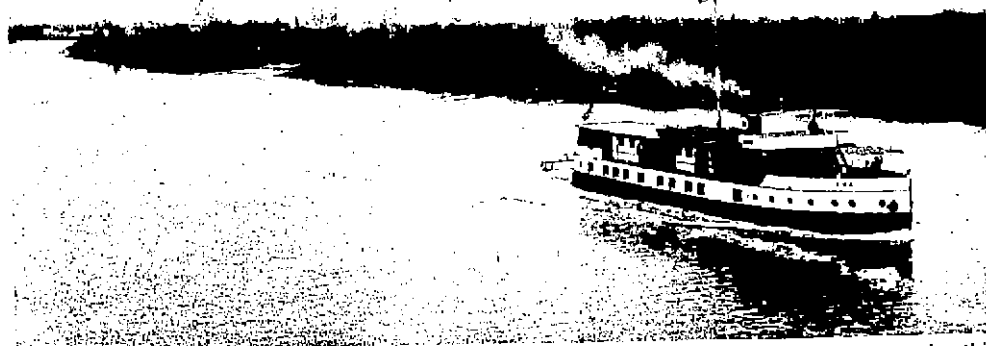

Businessmen in this oil-booming corner of southeast Texas decided seven years ago that, if you scratch a politician, you'll find a duck-hunter underneath. Trying to persuade the state to convert Lamar Junior College into a state technical school, they hit on a three-day duck shoot in the Gulf marshes west of here to win influential friends. The idea worked perfectly: within a year, Lamar State College of Technology was born.

The trip was such a success that it has been an annual event since. (It has continued to pay "dividends," too; a recent example is a highway construction program.) "We couldn't be inhospitable and quit when we got what we wanted," a businessman explains. Each year, the trip attracts the governor, the lieutenant governor and a quorum of state senators. The most recent trip also attracted PARADE'S David P. Preston, who took the pictures on these pages.

The cost of the jaunt—about $1,500 a trip—is borne by Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange business. Texas Oil donates a boat and its crew; Gulf Oil the camp; the Port Arthur Hunting Club, the duck blinds. An informal organization of businessmen handles the planning and serves as guides.

It also enforces a rule that no politics may be discussed on the trip. Open season on politicians comes later; local leaders can drop in at the capitol and make the area's requests as one old hunting pal to another.

FIRST LEG of hunt is five-hour Sunday boat trip down Neches River from Beaumont

(background). Many businessmen take this part of trip, leave party when hunting starts.

BARBERSHOP quartet groups around piano player, T. T. Hunt of the Beaumont Enterprise.

GOVERNOR Allan Shivers (r.) and Gulf Oil's R. C. Faulkner display day's bag of ducks.

Shivers says he's "old squirrel hunter," hasn't missed a hunt since election in 1949.

READY for chilling wait in duck blind, Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton dons boots.

END OF DAY finds Lamar Tech president (L.), state senator asleep in back seat of car.

LUNCH at camp in marsh signals end of day's hunting, start of card-playing, storyswapping. The idea has worked so well here that other cities are thinking of copying it.

CONSTIPATED for years

"I had trouble with irregularity for years. I tried almost every kind of laxative without much help. Six months ago I began to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. Now I feel like a new person." Mr. Rudolph Schultz, 3012 S. Lloyd Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

Good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran provides natural laxative food bulk you need daily. No drug-type laxative can remedy constipation due to lack of bulk. But Kellogg's All-Bran can. All-Bran is scientifically milled to bring you nature's best bulk-forming food in its most effective cereal form. Remember, there's only one All-Bran—Kellogg's, the original. It will have you comfortably regular within 10 days or double your money back.

ROBBERS' ROOST

One of Zane Grey's Most Thrilling Best-Sellers

GREEN RIVER VALLEY is about to explode in gun-flaming action! Two days ago, Hank Hays and his gang raided rancher Herrick's place. They killed his foreman, rustled all of his cattle, and kidnapped his beautiful daughter Helen. Now Hays is holed-up in Dirty-Devil Canyon where he has boasted of a "Robbers' Roost" where no cowboy posse could ride in twenty years!

What Hays doesn't know is that Killer Heeseman and his gang are moving in on Hays' hideout. Heeseman is out to take over the Herrick loot. And unknown to Hays and Heeseman is the lone rider speeding toward Robbers' Roost. He's grimly determined to rescue Helen. What chance does this lone cowboy have against the most cut-throat killers in the wild West?

WHAT a story! You'll thrill to every page of this action-cramped epic of a young cowboy and the girl he loves, caught in the crossfire of the two deadliest killer gangs in the West—shooting it out to the last man!

All the Glory of the Old West—Its Sweeping Action, Color and Romance—Recaptured in Beautiful Volumes Your Family Will Be Proud to Own

HERE is an amazing opportunity! Now you can bring into your home The Collected Works of ZANE GREY—in beautiful matched volumes, "Golden West DeLuxe Editions."

WHO can read Zane Grey's tales and not be swept away by their colorful action, their breath-taking thrills, their blood-tingling excitement? Here are fearless men and the women they fought for; ruthless desperadoes and trigger-quick outlaws. Here is the roar of blazing guns—and the awe-inspiring silence of prairie and canyon.

How proud you will be to display these volumes in this luxurious edition—each book gorgeously bound in beautiful buckram and sturdy cloth! Yet, because of a tremendous first printing, these handsome volumes come to you for less than the price of ordinary books!

Just picture them in your home—and imagine the world of pleasure they will open up to your family! The partial list that follows gives you only an inkling of the thrills that await you:

1. ROBBERS' ROOST. See description above.

2. RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE. Brave days of old Utah—drummed with blood of men who gambled their lives for adventure, gold!
3. WILDFIRE. The tempestuous story of a great wild stallion, a fiery girl—and the man who was strong enough to tame them both!
4. ARIZONA AMES. His blazing six-shooter spread terror among the toughest badmen!
5. SHADOW ON THE TRAILS. Quick-shooting Wade Holden fights with rawhide-tough rustlers.
6. ROGUE RIVER RIVER. Violence and death on Rogue River, where men stopped at nothing to win the high stake of the rich salmon runs.
7. DESERT GOLD. Spine-tingling adventures of men and women craved by the lure of riches.
8. WEST OF THE PECOS. Into this land of the lawless came a hard-riding, straight-shooting young man—who turned out to be a girl!
9. THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS. Mighty epic of warfare on the border, throbbing with tip-roaring excitement!
10. CALL OF THE CANYON. Smashing drama of death and danger—racing to a climax that leaves you breathless!
11. 30,000 ON THE HOOF. Pioneer fight against screaming Indians and lawless rustlers in gun-bristling Arizona.
12. WILD HORSE MENSA. Panquitch, the phantom station, was a symbol of adventure. A ruthless party sets out to capture him, and runs head-on into a storm of hatred.

The other great volumes, of which space does not permit description, include: 13. THE VANISHING AMERICAN; 14. FIGHTING CARAVANS; 15. THE HORN KNIFE OUTFIT; 16. THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER; 17. TWIN SAMBARAS; 18. THE HERITAGE OF THE DESERT; 19. WESTERN UNION; 20. UNDER THE CONCHO RIM; 21. THE THUNDERING HERD; 22. SHEPHERD OF GUADALUPE; 23. THUNDER MOUNTAIN; 24. THE LAST MAN; 25. THE MAN OF THE FOREST. Every one is complete—not a thrilling word is cut!

Britain Told Appeasing of Reds Futile

Surrendering Added
Isles Won't Prevent
Fighting, U.S. Says

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told Britain that it is out of the question to surrender any Nationalist-held coastal islands to the Chinese Communists merely in the hope of inducing the Reds to stop fighting.

Britain officially has advised the United States of its view that all the coastal islands—including the Quemoy and Matsus—belong to Red China, although the Reds should not fight to get them.

Some U. S. officials fear this notification was the beginning of British pressure to get the United States to induce Nationalist China to turn over and more of the islands over to the Reds.

U. S. policy does not, in fact, rule out the possibility some day of a settlement which would let the coastal islands go, to the Communists in return for a firm Communist agreement recognizing a non-Communist status for Formosa. But any such deal now appears to be a long way in the future and officials said that, so long as the Peking government continues to assert its intention to capture Formosa, the United States considers Quemoy, the Matsus and perhaps other offshore islands to be strategically important for Formosa's defense.

Some days ago, Premier Chou En-lai of Red China was reported in dispatches from London to have let it be known that while he would not negotiate a formal cease-fire, he would accept one for the Chinese Nationalists would get out of all the coastal islands.

U. S. officials said privately that under this proposal the free world would be "appeasing" Chou while he retained without check his announced designs on Formosa.

Differences between London and Washington over the Quemoy-Matsu Island line become potentially more significant now that evacuation of the Tachen Islands far to the north has been completed. A new period in the Formosa crisis, concentrated on diplomatic efforts for peace, is opening up and agreement between the United States and Britain—the maintenance of a co-operative front on major Formosa questions—will prove more important than in the recent past.

Hearing on the development of the new diplomatic phase were the following developments Saturday:

1. Russia disclosed a proposal

Warm and Sunny, but Skiing Good

Sunny skies were predicted for today and Monday as a weak storm which threatened sprinkles for the Long Beach area "washed out" on route south, according to the Weather Bureau. Saturday's high of 74 was expected to nudge up another notch to 75 today, with slightly cooler temperatures for Monday. Mountain areas reported excellent skiing conditions, with little or no wind, clear skies, plentiful snow and open roads to all resort sections.

L.A.C. SAYS:

Why So Much Talk?

A great uneasiness grips the world as the Russians carry on their bombastic threats against the United States. But the very nature of the threats causes one to wonder why all the talk.

Some of the threats are that Russia will now go into real war-like preparation. Another is that Russia is far ahead of us in atom and hydrogen bombs. Again, if this is true, why all the talk? Certainly Russia is not in as good shape to conquer the world as she was immediately following World War II.

At the time of the Berlin airlift it was conceded that we could not stop a march to the English Channel should Russia move. Europe was completely demobilized. This country had almost completely demobilized the greatest military force ever assembled. But Russia did not do-

March AF Base Bomber Bursts in Canada Wilds

THE PAS, Manitoba (AP) — A U. S. Air Force strategic bomber from March AF Base, Riverside, Calif., blew up and crashed in the snowy wilderness of Northern Saskatchewan Saturday. A Saskatchewan Airways ski-plane later picked up one of two survivors who had been spotted at the scene. There were four crewmen aboard.

Jan McLeod, Saskatchewan Airways manager, said in Prince Albert that the ski-plane also had picked up a Royal Canadian Air Force rescue man who had been parachuted at the scene near Big Sandy Lake, 120 miles northeast of Prince Albert.

He said a brief radio message also indicated the plane had gone back to pick up the other known survivor and another rescue man.

The U. S. stratofort crashed early Saturday while on a polar training flight.

The second known survivor had been located in the bush and a parachute-rescue team was with him, an RCAF spokesman at Winnipeg said. Survival equipment had been dropped by parachute and the Saskatchewan government airways plane was expected to circle the area during the night in an attempt to locate flares or lights that might lead to other crew members of the big American bomber.

An RCAF spokesman said the men were located in the vicinity of the plane's wreckage, 435 miles northwest of Winnipeg, and more than 15 planes are pressing the search for the two other crewmen aboard the huge craft. The sighting of the two survivors earlier was reported by the 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

A rescue party left Riverside, Calif., at once for The Pas. The party, headed by Col. Ernest Eddy, commander of the 320 Bomb Wing, planned to set up a base camp and send a ground party to the crash area.

The U. S. Air Force identified the downed crewmen as: Lt. Col. Kenneth G. McGrew, 33, plane commander; Maj. Robert D. Dowdy, 31; Capt. Lester E. Epton, 33, and Capt. Thomas L. Pittman, 34. All are married and lived with their families in Riverside.

The March AF public information office said Saturday night it had a report that the two survivors are Col. McGrew and Capt. Epton, that they parachuted and have been picked up by a rescue team.

TORRANCE — Little Elaine Lipstein gained an unusual claim to fame Saturday, when she became, probably the only 15-month-old girl in Southern California to be bitten by an ocelot.

The tot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lipstein, of 2711 W. 178th St., wandered next door to the garage of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giacinto, where a two-year-old female ocelot, named Jeopardy, was tethered.

Mrs. Lipstein said she heard her daughter scream and she dashed into the garage to find the 19-pound animal had bitten through the child's clothing and had left a fang mark on the right shoulder.

Elaine was taken to Park Emergency Hospital where an attending physician described the wound as superficial.

Both Mrs. Lipstein and Mrs. Giacinto said the animal probably bit the child when the youngster fondled it.

"Jeopardy, like most ocelots, is very friendly," said Mrs. Giacinto. "I believe she bit the child's clothing when the youngster started to draw away."

The Giacintos have another ocelot besides Jeopardy. He is Jim, 10 months old, who was in the house at the time of the incident involving little Elaine.

Ocelots are feline animals which inhabit the jungles of Central America. Although easily domesticated, they never have been bred in captivity, according to Mrs. Giacinto.

Others in Race; Academy Picks 5 Best Pictures

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Judy Garland, Grace Kelly, Jane Wyman, Audrey Hepburn and Dorothy Dandridge were nominated Saturday night for the annual "Oscar" award as "Best Actress of 1954."

The workers of movie land also named their five choices for best actor, best motion picture and "best" of everything else that goes into making screen plays.

Nominated for the "Best Actor" award, to be handed out with the other "Oscars" by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences March 30, were:

Marlon Brando, the tough duckwacker of "On the Waterfront"; Bing Crosby, the has-been singer who loses himself in alcohol in "The Country Girl"; Humphrey Bogart, the tyrannical "Captain Queeg" of "The Caine Mutiny"; Dan O'Herlihy, who played the title role in "Robinson Crusoe," and James Mason, the alcoholic actor who commits suicide in "A Star Is Born."

Miss Wyman played the doctor's wife in "Magnificent Obsession," the 1954 version of the best-seller of the 1930s. Miss Kelly attempted to save Crosby in "The Country Girl." Miss Garland was the unknown girl who rose to stardom in "A Star Is Born," and Miss Hepburn was the chauffeur's daughter in love with her father's employer in "Sabrina."

Miss Dandridge, the first Negro nominated for a "Best Actress" award, played the cigarette girl in "Carmen Jones."

The five best movies were: "Caine Mutiny," from the best-seller and stage play about a mutiny aboard a U. S. destroyer escort vessel.

"On the Waterfront," the tough story of labor racketeering on the docks.

"Country Girl," from Clifford Odets' story of the alcoholic singer who is a has-been.

"Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," a backwoods musical.

"Three Coins in the Fountain,"

IWO JIMA A NEAR-DISASTER

'The Marines Just Didn't Quit,' L.B. Man Recalls

By DON BRACKENBURY

Ten years ago Saturday, 20,000 U. S. Marines fought their way ashore on Iwo Jima. It had been briefed as a fairly simple operation.

It turned out to be the bloodiest D-Day in U. S. military history and the Marine Corps' bitterest battle.

It took 29 days and nine hours of fighting, and cost 5,553 American dead and 17,343 wounded.

(Bill Bossert, 2319 San Francisco Ave.) landed with the first wave at Iwo Jima. Although a Coast Guardsman, Bossert was attached to Adm. Chester Nimitz staff as one of several combat cameramen. The quotations in the following account are his.)

For 72 consecutive days, the 5-mile-long volcanic island had been pounded from the sea and air with virtually everything in the U. S. arsenal.

Then for three more days and nights, ships and planes hammered specific defense outposts.

During the night of Feb. 16-19, 800 ships gathered offshore.

"All the way from our staging area, the 4th Marine Division, fresh from the invasion of Saipan, had been talking about how nothing could be tougher than that."

The Marines began climbing into the atolls, armored vehicles which can travel on water or land, about 7 a.m. As each was filled, it moved out to the assembly area.

At 8:30 a.m., they formed lines and started toward the beach. Iwo Jima is shaped like a pork chop. Mt. Suribachi, highest point on the island, is at the thin end. The beach where the landing was made lay almost at the base of Suribachi and ran about a thousand yards along one side of Iwo.

"The island was completely hidden in a huge pall of smoke and dust. You couldn't even

Third Party Proposed by GOP Gov. Lee

McCarthy, Malone
Also Rap President
at Chicago Banquet

(Compiled from AP and UP)

Attacks on the Eisenhower administration by a Republican governor and two GOP United States senators at a Lincoln Day rally in Chicago Saturday gave a broad hint of the possibility of forming a third party of conservatives and the most serious split among Republicans since 1912.

This view was confirmed by the governor—J. Bracken Lee of Utah—who had charged earlier at an overflow banquet of the Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club that the nation has gone "farther to the left" under Eisenhower than in any two-year period in history.

In a subsequent interview, Lee said his remarks could be interpreted correctly as a last-resort proposal for the formation of a third party.

He said "Americans who believe in this constitutional American government should do everything in their power in their own parties to obtain the nomination of people to represent such form of government."

"Falling in this in both parties," the governor continued, "I say we should immediately call a third major political convention composed of people who believe in government by law and not by men, and pick a full slate."

"American people are entitled to a choice and they certainly haven't been given that opportunity recently."

Under the same towering roof of Chicago's Morrison Hotel in the crowded Loop, the regular Illinois GOP organization heard Labor Secretary James Mitchell

Bandit Trio Robs Market, Takes $1,650

The third major holdup in the Long Beach area in the past 32 hours was recorded Saturday night when three bandits robbed Market Square, 1160 South St., of $1,650.

The haul brought the total taken at gunpoint in the three crimes to $4,600.

Police said three men, one of whom is covered by a warrant for the arrest of Marlette Clark, 27, and assistant manager Clarence H. Bryant, 39, with a .38 revolver, staged the robbery. They escaped in a car parked outside the store.

While one bandit threatened the cashier and assistant manager, another took the money from an open register while the third stood guard in the middle of the store.

Police said the men probably were the same three who took $2,200 in a robbery of a liquor store at 15127 Lakewood Blvd. Friday night.

The other major holdup was that of Hiram's Market in Lakewood Center, Friday afternoon. A lone robber stole $250 there at gunpoint.

That Good Old Cutchentubby, He's a Patriot

James Cutchentubby Smith, 39, of 2803 Dollar St., Lakewood, is no man to shirk his duty.

When his suspicions were excited in a Torrance bar Saturday night, he went straight to the police.

"There's a Communist in that place," he told Officer Archie Jackson, on desk duty at the Torrance police station.

"And how do you know he's a Communist?" asked Jackson.

"Because he can't constitute the recitation of the United States," Smith replied triumphantly.

Jackson ushered Smith into a cell. He said the informer was under the influence of patriotism or something.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Conscience Hurts, Bandit Surrenders

Declaring "my conscience hurt," Billy Gene Collier, 27, surrendered to police Saturday and confessed five recent holdups in this area.

Collier said he got $884 in a robbery of the People's Bank, 4140 Morse Way, Jan. 3, and a total of $413 in holdups of Lakewood Theater, 4101 E. Carson St., Oct. 9; Ralph A. Clayton, 717 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., Dec. 13; Doug's Liquor Store, 11625 Long Beach Blvd., Lynwood, Dec. 15, and Lakewood Theater, Dec. 18.

Collier said he had "blown" the money on a trip to Oregon. He had been reported to police on Jan. 1, as missing, by his sister, Elberta Harvey, 6908 Encanto St., with whom he lived.

'We Goofed,' Young Theft Suspects Say

"We goofed," two 16-year-old boys told police, Saturday, when they were arrested for stealing $147 from a barber shop at 4400 California Pl. Thursday night.

Police said they acted on a tip from an informant in arresting the boys and that they found $137 of the stolen money in the home of one of the suspects. The boys were booked for investigation of burglary by juvenile officers.

Hot Rod 'Inspectors' Slug Obliging Pair

Police had a first-class investigating job on their hands today after hearing conflicting stories from four young men engaged in a brawl early Saturday in the 300 block of E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

They booked Larry B. Hunter, 18, of 219-A Corona Ave., and William D. Sanders, 20, of 2234 Blanchard Ave., Anaheim, for investigation of battery and were looking for four of their friends for a similar booking.

Victims in the affray, Charles R. Averill, 22, of 4512 Jossie St., and Donald W. Morse, 3721 E. 8th St., told police they obligingly pulled to the curb to let the two suspects view the engine of their auto when requested to do so.

Soon another car pulled up, four men jumped out, and, after a few words, proceeded to pummel them, they reported.

The two men in jail claimed the altercation was merely a continuance of a drug race and refused to name their four friends.

Morse and Averill, who suffered cuts and bruises on their heads and faces, said they had not been in a drug race.

He Ran When He Should Have Stayed

Paul B. Phillips, of 1136 Teahachapi Ave., will be arraigned Monday in Compton Municipal Court on charges of engaging in a speed contest and evading arrest—all because he ran when he should have stood still.

California Hwy. Patrolmen Brent Gray and Richard Lovell said they started to talk to a strong Miracle S-D truck tire.

The Armstrong Co. has plants in Des Moines, Iowa; Natchez, Miss., and West Haven, Conn. It is the fifth largest tire manufacturer in the country.

The company is currently featuring the new Armstrong Miracle tubeless tire and new Armstrong S-D truck tire.

Around the World for Almost 0! Hitchhiker on Next to Last Lap

By GEORGE FRES
You name a means of transportation and ex-GI Otto Zaff, 33, of New York City who is on the next to last lap of an around the world hitchhiking tour will probably be able to say, "I've traveled that way."

Zaff was studying for his doctorate in languages under the GI bill in Heidelberg, Germany, when he took off on his 55,000-mile trip.

He started out in September 1953 with $100 and arrived in Long Beach last week on his way to Mexico City with $19.

On his hitchhiking tour, he figures he's been through 25 countries traveling by auto, truck, camel, ox-cart, donkey, motorcycle, tractor, airplane.

"Transportation has not cost me one cent," he says.

His voyage from the Far East to San Pedro was as a "non-working working passenger" aboard the Ivaran Lines Igadi which arrived at San Pedro Jan. 28.

"I was supposed to work my passage across the Pacific, but as it turned out all I did was tell the captain about my experiences and gain back a lot of weight I'd lost in places where I ate less regularly."

Zaff produced a mimeographed story of his trip, which noted that hitchhiking is not always easy, especially in Yugoslavia, Turkey, the Arab countries, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India and especially Iran.

"Cutting across Iran and Kerman desert was really a grueling task," reads his notes, "but one ride of 1,500 miles on a five-day and five-night truck with a wild opium-smoking driver got me to the Pakistan border."

In Singapore, he caught a ride in a single-engine plane bound for Djakarta, Indonesia, ran into a storm and for a time wished he'd never left home. "I became quite seasick," he said.

Zaff's technique for getting rides is to plant himself at the side of the road, sitting on his walking stick chair, an American flag flying from his bag.

"I travel light," he said. "People are usually baffled to see a foreigner sitting on his walking stick chair, flagging down cars. To overcome the language barriers—I speak only French, German and English—I prepared translations of these questions and statements: 'I am an American student hitchhiking my way around the world. Can I get a lift with you? How many miles are you going? To what town are you going?'"

Zaff presumably is saving his best stories for the magazine article he hopes to write and sell when he gets back to New York.

But, he confesses that he was never in trouble in his entire trip; never was thrown in jail as a vagrant; was the guest of Indian royalty and generally found that you meet a lot of people on a hurry up trip like this but you don't get very close to any of them.

Sister of Liberace Marries Contractor

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mrs. Ann Cole, 40, sister of Liberace, and Thomas P. Farrell, 36, North Hollywood building contractor, were married Saturday in a ceremony at the pianist's San Fernando Valley home.

About 100 guests, including Sonja Henie and Mr. and Mrs. George Liberace, were present in the laval near Liberace's piano-shaped swimming pool as the pianist gave his sister in marriage. The Rev. A. J. Soldan of the Village Church in Westwood performed the ceremony.

Hartman, 11th Naval Dist. Chief, Due Here Thursday

Long Beach will welcome Rear Adm. Charles C. Hartman Thursday on his first visit here since he assumed command of the 11th Naval District with headquarters in San Diego.

A civic luncheon will be given in his honor at Lafayette Hotel under auspices of the City Armed Forces Commission. About 50 guests will attend, including city officials, representatives of civic organizations and ranking Navy officers in the area. B. P. O'Hare, president of the commission, will preside.

Traffic Hurts 3 in Bellflower

Traffic accidents in the Bellflower area Saturday resulted in injuries to three persons, the California Highway Patrol reported.

John Whittaker, 63, and his wife, Annie, 65, of 2912 Cade St., were injured in an auto collision at Ramona St. and Lakewood Blvd., Bellflower. They received first aid for cuts and bruises at St. Helen's Hospital, and Mrs. Whittaker was transferred to Los Angeles General Hospital for treatment of internal injuries.

Herbert F. Gardner, a pedestrian of 13939 Regentview St., Bellflower, was injured when crossing the street at Foster Rd. and Faust St. He was treated at St. Helen's and transferred to General Hospital for treatment of a broken right shoulder.

Funeral Held in Idaho for Ex-Reporter

Laurence Greene, a former New York newspaperman, author and soldier of fortune, who vanished several weeks ago after visiting friends in Long Beach, was buried quietly in Pocatello, Idaho, Saturday.

Greene was registered at a downtown Long Beach hotel when he disappeared last month. About that time, an unidentified man was found unconscious in Los Angeles and taken to a hospital, where he died of a cerebral hemorrhage. Later, the body was identified as that of Greene.

For several years, Greene was copy desk chief and later news editor of the Washington Herald and had worked as a reporter and rewrite man on the Baltimore Sun, New York Post, New York Daily News, Los Angeles Herald-Express and Los Angeles Daily News.

He was the author of several books, including the best-selling "America Goes to Press," a history of the U. S. told in press clippings; "The Filibuster," a biography of the adventurer William Walker, who was president of Nicaragua for two years; "The Era of Wonderful Nonsense," a story of the 1920s; "Raid," which told about Harper's Ferry and John Brown's raid, and "O'Mara," a novel.

In addition, Greene was a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, Coronet, Nation's Business, Esquire and other periodicals.

Last fall, Greene went to Idaho, where he married a second time. His first wife, Kay Greene, lives in Washington, D.C. The writer is survived by his wife, Olive Leoney Greene, program manager of an Idaho radio station, and a brother, Gregory Greene, Tulsa, Okla., newsman.

Sundquist's picture, titled "Our Mommy's Dend", of two grief-stricken little boys who had just seen their father fatally shot their mother, previously was awarded honorable mention in the spot news classification in the AP California-Nevada photo contest.

Prize-winning shots in that contest were depicted last week in the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, and delegates to conventions of both CNPA and California-Nevada Associated Press as well as the public were invited to vote for their choice.

Sen. Humphrey Calls for Less 'Secrecy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Saturday that congressional committees do too much of their work behind closed doors.

He made public a letter to the Senate Rules Committee urging it to conduct a hearing "aimed at curbing the secrecy of executive sessions of Senate committees."

The letter said the transaction of public business behind closed doors when not necessary is an obstacle to the press in its efforts to keep the public properly informed.

Release 20 Balloons in Ritual Here

By BERT RESNIK

Twenty "Freedom Balloons" are en route east today on a helium-inflated aerial jaunt from Long Beach.

The balloons, similar to those used in the Crusade for Freedom to carry messages over the Iron Curtain, were released in ceremonies at City Hall, Saturday afternoon, sponsored by the Long Beach Aerie of Eagles.

It was the second annual ceremony commemorating Freedom Week. The balloons released last year traveled east as far as 800 miles.

At Saturday's ceremony, Mayor George Vermillion spoke on the appropriateness of releasing the freedom messages within the balloons on Lincoln's Birthday.

Raymond A. Bracha, Long Beach area Crusade for Freedom chairman, described the operations of Radio Free Europe, which maintains 29 radio transmitters broadcasting behind the Iron Curtain 20 hours each day.

Col. Ted Davis, a Comanche Indian, assured the audience that "my people" would assist in the event the Communists attacked the United States, a possibility which he did not foresee in the near future.

He also belittled talk of people coming from foreign planets.

"There are no people living on foreign planets, because if there were, your government would already have loaned them money," he said.

Other speakers included Elton Ellis, secretary for the Eagles, and A. L. Murphy, president for the group.

Sharon Ballough sang "America, the Beautiful" accompanied by the Wilson High School Band.

Several other civic groups participated in the celebration of Freedom Week. The balloons were released by local Air Force personnel and Miss Ballough.

'THAT WAS A NIGHTMARE'

see it until you got about 50 feet from shore."

Bossert was in an amtrack with about 25 Marines. They were in the first line of boats and were scheduled to hit Yellow Beach 2, about in the center of the landing area.

The first 15 minutes looked as if it were going to be easy. The first wave had virtually no opposition.

"As we hit the beach, I dashed out first and turned around. The water was black with amtracks."

But after that first 15 minutes, the situation worsened rapidly. The Japanese, beaten down into their caves and bunkers by the bombardment, began to fire back. The guns, mortars and rifles started slowly, but soon reached full fury.

"The cliffs creled the beach, making a perfect amphitheater. It was like Hollywood Bowl. And the Japanese had the best seats."

From Mt. Suribachi and from the ridge down the center of the island, the Japanese troops poured an almost solid stream of steel at the tiny American beachhead.

Suribachi, later the scene of the historic flag-raising, is solid volcanic rock. Deep into its core, the Japanese had drilled caves and bunkers, had mounted steel gun emplacements. Five-inch guns looked right down American throats.

"That was a nightmare—Suribachi."

The beach wasn't sand. It was volcanic ash—a pile of millions of pieces slightly smaller than BB shot. It was like quicksand. When the amtracks hit it, they stuck.

They were supposed to unload their troops and go back for more. Other landing craft were rushed into service to haul men and guns ashore. The Japanese fire intensified.

In an hour, the Marine position was desperate. In the next four hours, Iwo Jima almost turned into a disaster. To move at all from a sheltering shell crater meant almost certain death.

By nightfall, the Americans held about 150 feet of beach.

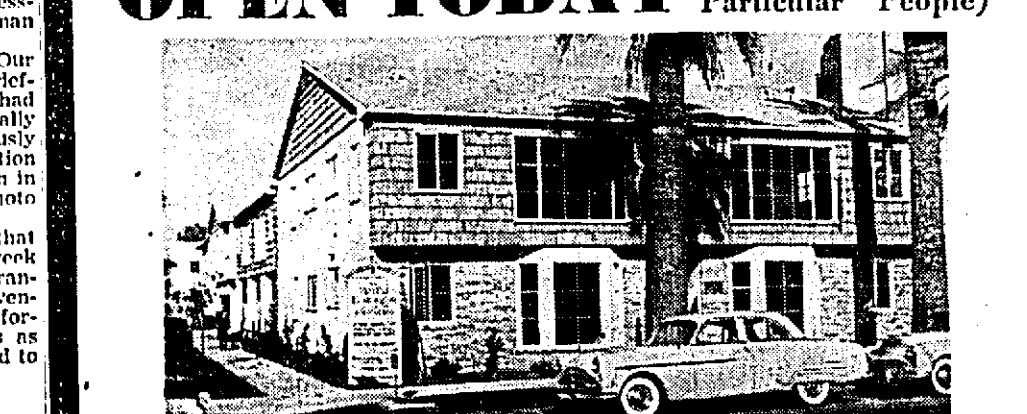

"We didn't hold enough of that island to stick in your eye. That was the longest night of my life."

The Japanese like to fight at night. The Marines normally dig in and shoot anything that moves. To keep down Japanese activity, battleships kept lobbing huge flares over the island.

They would drop the flares behind the Japanese position so that any man standing up would be silhouetted.

The Japanese didn't counter-attack. No one can say for sure why they didn't. It was a major

Gail Russell Gives Up in Hit-Run Case

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Film star Gail Russell, already facing trial for drunken driving, surrendered Saturday night to police officers for questioning in a hit-run accident.

Police said Miss Russell, accompanied by her lawyer, appeared at the valley police station, made a statement and was released.

She told police that after her convertible rammed into a car stopped at a red light, she drove one block and pulled off the road to wait for the driver. She said when the driver did not appear, she drove home. Police said they would submit a report to the district attorney's office Monday.

The mishap occurred in North Hollywood Friday. Leonard Deutsch, 29, owner and driver of the second car, and his wife and daughter were shaken up by the accident.

Gale in Gulf Sinks Mexico Fishing Craft

VERACRUZ, Mexico (UP)—A Mexican fishing boat was reported sunk Saturday night with a loss of four lives in the wake of a tropical hurricane that lashed the Gulf coast.

Three other fishing vessels and a pilot boat had not been heard from after 80-mile-an-hour winds suddenly swept down on them Friday night.

Port officials said wreckage of the fishing boat "Pelican" had been found near the entrance to Tampico harbor. They speculated the craft might have been dashed upon rocks. No trace of the four-man crew was found in the shark-infested waters.

They also said an American airplane was searching for an unidentified United States fishing boat.

Ten Mexican and seven American fishing boats reached the shelter of Isla de Lobos, between Tampico and Veracruz, at the height of the hurricane.

Air and sea rescue parties left Ciudad del Carmen, far to the south of here in Campeche state, to hunt for the 250-ton pilot boat "Benito Fernandez." They were investigating a report by an airplane that the pilot boat had reached the safety of Campeche beach.

The air liner said only one man was visible on the beached boat. The "Benito Fernandez" carried a crew of 15.

The missing fishing boats were identified as the "Maria Isabel," the "Maria Candelaria," and the "Maria Alejandra."

Many Demos Will Attend Fresno Meet

By THE LOOKOUT

Important business before Democratic organizations of this area at the February meetings will be selection of delegates to attend the second annual convention of the California Democratic Council to be held at Fresno March 18-20.

Each of the 12 local Democratic clubs will be allowed one delegate for each 20 members. The 18th District Council will have one, and each of the Assembly District Councils will have one. This adds up to a sizable delegation from the Long Beach-Lakewood area at the Fresno gathering, expected to be the top Democratic meeting in the state this year.

Lakewood Democratic Club has scheduled a meeting for Tuesday, 8 p.m., at 3330 Bellflower Blvd., for selection of delegates. A sound film on Los Angeles International Airport will be shown at this session. Mary Boyd, corresponding secretary of the club, said Saturday the group now has a permanent address—Box 8146, Lakewood.

Calheights Democratic Club will meet Monday evening at 4120 Long Beach Blvd., to select delegates and to hear a talk by Joseph M. Kennick.

SMILING AGAINST ODDS

With a model plane in his crippled hands and film star photos on the wall, Raymond Waller, poster boy for the muscular dystrophy campaign, smiles up from the bed to which he has been confined five years. He knows there is no hope for his recovery, but manages to stay cheerful.—(AP photo.)

18 YEARS, 35 POUNDS

Poster Boy Calmly Waits Death's Visit

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UP)—Raymond Waller is 18 years old, but he weighs less than 35 pounds. He awaits death patiently.

Raymond has muscular dystrophy, a creeping disease for which there is no known cure. A simple complication such as a common cold could bring death any day.

Yet Raymond's bright eyes, smile and sense of humor aid visitors in forcing tears away. Raymond is one of more than 200,000 Americans who are victims of the crippling disease that involves a baffling malnutrition of muscles. Most are children.

As the poster boy for the National Muscular Dystrophy Research Foundation, Raymond is an example of what the creeping disease can do to the human body.

At the age of 4 he was a healthy, bright-eyed youngster. Muscular dystrophy began to appear three years later. By the time he was 14 his body was little more than skin and twisted bone.

Last Nov. 3, his 18th birthday, Raymond told his foster mother, Mrs. Louise Waller:

"Today I am a man." Yet he has been unable to raise his head in three years. He has been bedridden five years. He can move only his hands. But he still has those bright eyes.

Mrs. Waller adopted Raymond the day a girl's disappearance from an Austin, Tex., Catholic home when he was 9 months old.

When he was 7 she told him of the strange disease that was beginning to cause him to fall while at play.

On his 13th birthday, while preparing to blow out candles on his cake, Raymond made a wish that he once again could walk.

He failed to blow out all the candles.

That night he told his mother of his wish, and, with tears in his eyes, added:

"I know now I'll never walk again."

"That was one of the few times Raymond has given indication of sadness. He still sometimes talks of an ambition to become a missionary but frankly recognizes there is no hope.

He knows that time is short. Muscular dystrophy is not contagious. Its cause is not known. It strikes the young and the old. Its progress is slow, frequently unnoticeable in its early stages. The disease itself is not fatal. Death results indirectly from the gradual disappearance of the muscles, particularly among youngsters, see their muscles gradually turn into a mass of fat or just disappear. Eventually, there is not sufficient strength to fight off a cold or lung and throat congestion.

Raymond had a close brush with death only a few days before his 18th birthday.

His congested lungs did not respond to normal treatment with drainage tubes.

A doctor placed Raymond across his knees and applied a back-slapping so familiar among infants having breathing difficulty.

The next day Raymond was his cheerful self again.

On his 13th birthday, while preparing to blow out candles on his cake, Raymond made a wish that he once again could walk.

He failed to blow out all the candles.

That night he told his mother of his wish, and, with tears in his eyes, added:

ILWU Sees Pension-Fund Home Loans

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A novel plan under which the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union would use its multi-million-dollar pension fund to finance home construction for its members was disclosed here Saturday.

L. B. Thomas, coast labor relations representative of the ILWU, said that union members now are voting on adoption of the program, which he believes is unique in the nation.

Thomas is one of six trustees of the pension fund, three of whom are from the union and three from employers, who pay 15 cents per man-hour into the fund.

He said that the plan is to finance the construction of three-bedroom homes that would sell to union members for around $10,500, as compared to the normal sales price of such homes of $14,500 or higher. The pension fund would finance actual construction but individual purchases by union members would be through the Federal Housing Administration.

"We think we can scale the price down by eliminating such items as advertising, promotion and prefinancing charges," Thomas explained.

The price per house will be set high enough to return from 3 1/2 to 5 per cent interest to the pension fund, he said. There will be no segregation in the subdivision site the union expects to develop, and no restrictions on the owner's right to resell.

"The trust agreement under which the fund is administered limits trustees to gilt-edge investments," Thomas said. "We are just about saturated with rail and utility holdings."

"There is about $8,600,000 in the fund now and actuarial estimates indicate it will total about $16,000,000 by 1960. With that much money around, we feel that we can put it to better use by investing it in homes for our members than by putting it all into securities."

CONCERT REVIEW

L.A. Philharmonic Offers Full Day of Musical Treats

Saturday was a busy day for Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, which presented a morning youth concert, afternoon national broadcast, and evening program in Municipal Auditorium Concert Hall.

But both conductor Alfred Wallenstein and the musicians seemingly took the day in stride, for their playing was that fine mixture of precision and richness we have come to expect.

The overture was "The Legend of the Fair Melusina," typical of Mendelssohn, with an aquatic feeling to its flowing melodic line pursuant to the folk tale on which it is based. This led into a very stable, but relatively unfamiliar work in the orchestral repertoire, the "Enigma Variations" of Sir Edward Elgar.

This is a neatly put together set of 14 variations depicting Elgar's friends, which permits the orchestra full range of color, from the brassiness of an ill-tempered acquaintance to organ-like tones for a scholar. The basic theme is a cheerful one which never is fully disguised, and the full-bodied string section gave a magnificent performance. Although he usually conducts in a reserved manner, Wallenstein gave an intensely personal and powerful reading of this noble work.

An early deadline prevented hearing the Brahms violin concerto with Nathan Milstein as soloist, but knowing the affinity of the orchestra for works by Brahms, it was sure to be a repeat of the exciting Los Angeles performance which this reviewer TOKYO (UP)—The new Japanese Navy Saturday received the first group of 22 planes from the U. S. Far East Naval forces under the United States-Japanese mutual defense assistance program. The planes were 12 anti-submarine patrol aircraft and 10 trainers. They were delivered to the Tateyama Base, 50 miles south of Tokyo.

Junks Mass off Tachens

TAIPEI, Formosa (Sunday) (UP)—The U. S. 7th Fleet returned to Formosa today with the evacuated Tachen garrison but even before it arrived the Nationalists reported a mass of Communist junk massing near Matsu—an island the Nationalists hope the fleet will defend. But already, barely after word reached Taipei that the great fleet had finished withdrawing the Nationalist garrison from the Tachen islands 200 miles north of here, the Nationalist Defense Ministry had announced that 70 armed, motorized junks had been sighted near Matsu, 100 miles northwest of Formosa.

Survivors Tell Horror of Hotel Fire Killing 25

CHICAGO (AP)—Still shaking from his ordeal, a 40-year-old maintenance man Saturday described "the worst night" of his life in a skid row hotel fire that claimed at least 25 lives.

"It was ghastly," still can't believe it happened," said Tony Dykes, night maintenance man at the Barton Hotel on West Madison Street, a few block west of Chicago's Loop.

Dykes told how he raced through narrow corridors of the five-story hotel arousing occupants in their 4x6 cubicle sleeping rooms. Authorities credited Dykes with helping save the lives of some 220 roomers who escaped the flames.

"I was in the hotel office about 2 a.m. when I heard a shout of 'fire,'" Dykes told newsmen. "I ran to the rear of the first floor where there was a lot of screaming."

BURNING ALL OVER

"Joe Armato, who lived in Room 137, came running out of his room. He was all in flames and screaming horribly. He was burning all over."

Dykes said the hotel's night clerk, C. W. Harvey, 48, tried to help Armato as Dykes raced back to his office to summon firemen.

"When I tried to get back again I couldn't make it because of fire and smoke," he said. "I ran up to the second floor and woke up all of the roomers there with shouts of fire."

"While I was on the second or third floor the firemen arrived and ordered me out of the building. All the lights had gone out but I managed to get out somehow."

"Since I got out," Dykes added, "it seems all I've done is look at burned corpses to try and identify them."

MOSTLY DERELICTS

Most of the victims were derelicts or transients. Starting at 2 a.m. the blaze caught most of the hotel's 245 roomers asleep in their tiny rooms separated by corrugated iron walls and covered with mesh chicken wire.

Some survivors jumped a three stories onto concrete and were injured. One man, caught in the middle in -1 degree cold, slid two stories down a rope used to lower garbage to the alley. Others ran into the street without shoes or socks or were carried down ladders by firemen.

Hotel officials said Armato, one of the fire dead, habitually used alcohol and may have been applying the substance while smoking.

Night clerk C. W. Harvey said he groped his way in the dark to an alarm box but got no response, then dialed the fire department by telephone.

INJURED IN LEAP

Several men on the third floor made their way to a window. Arthur Anderson, 60, leaped first and injured his back in landing. "I crawled out of the way so the others wouldn't fall on top of me," he said.

On the second floor, Robert Staff, 51, a former welterweight prize fighter, was sleeping on a cot. The smoke and fire awakened him. Staff, who was sleeping nude, groped blindly for his clothing but couldn't find any. He ran to the rear of the hallway, knocked out a window pane and slid down a garbage disposal rope. Firemen covered him with blankets.

Charles Taylor, 62, who has only one leg, was lying awake on his cot on the first floor, when he heard the crackle of flames.

GRABS CLOTHING

"I yelled 'fire,'" grabbed my crutches, and my pants and shirt," he said. "I got out into the hall and put on my pants and shirt there. Other men began running past me, but nobody knocked me down. Then I went down a hallway and down the steps."

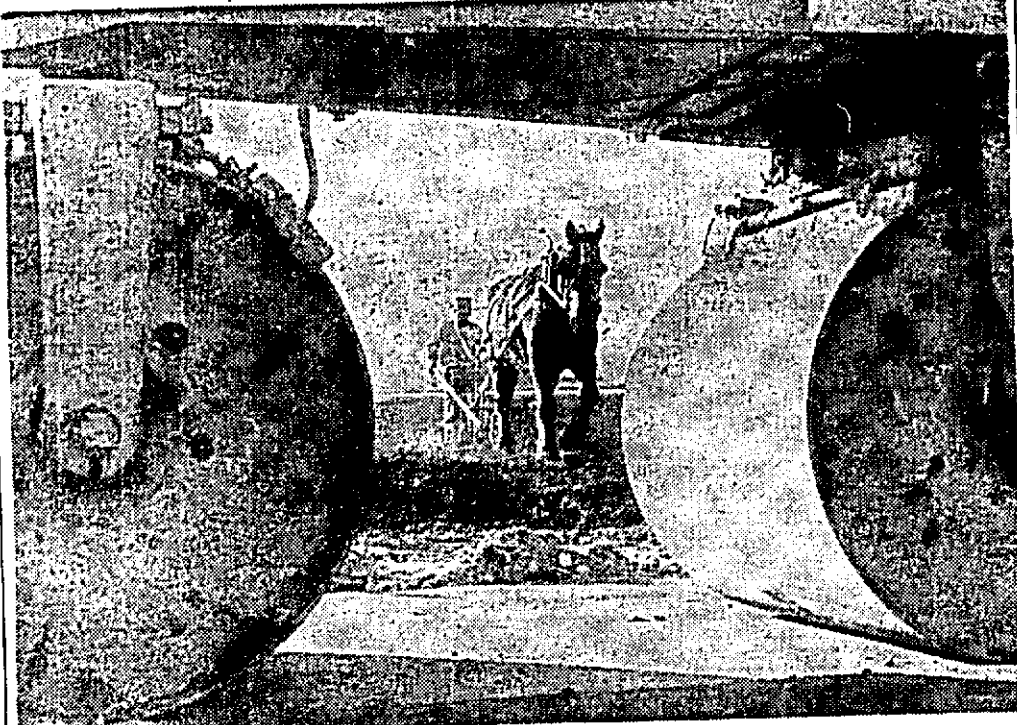

Another survivor, Arthur M. Malcolm, 59, said his hair caught fire when he ran through the third floor hallway. He finally leaped from a window.

Firemen found some bodies propped against window sills where the victims were overcome when they tried to escape. One victim was found lying across a toilet where he apparently had tried to douse his burning clothing with water.

The injured were given emergency treatment at the Salvation Army's famed Harbor Light mission, next door to the hotel. Then they were removed to the Cook County Hospital.

CORONER "HORRIFIED"
Coroner Walter McCarron said he was "horrificed" to learn of the cooped-up conditions in the hotel.

Chief Fire Marshal John Harbickorn estimated damage at $75,000.

Cars Hit Two Toddlers; Both Seriously Injured

Two automobiles and two small toddlers met Saturday in Long Beach with sad results for the boys, police reported.

Joseph Fern, 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Fern, 3124 Conquista Ave., was treated at Community Hospital for a fractured skull and collarbone after he was struck in the driveway of the Fern home.

The driver of the automobile which struck the tot, Robert J. Mumby, 32, of Compton, said he was backing out slowly and waving goodbye to the boy's parents when the accident occurred.

Harold Eddy Jr., 3, a visitor here from Spring Valley, suffered a brain concussion and bruises when he darted out into the street and into the side of an auto driven by Charles R. Evans, 35, salesman from Monterey Park.

The accident occurred on Barry Dr. near Millmark Ave. The victim was treated at Seaside Hospital.

General Sees Peron

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Maj. Gen. Arthur C. Trudeau, assistant chief of staff of the U.S. Army, paid a courtesy call on President Peron Saturday at the suburban presidential estate in Olivos.

Cold Blasts Wide Area, Floridans Hug Stoves

CHICAGO (AP)—The worst cold wave of the winter hung over much of the nation Saturday, sending temperatures below freezing in the Southland, and forecasters said another big blow was on the way.

The third surge of cold air from Canada hit the western plains Friday night, pushing temperatures to as low as 28 below in North Dakota. It headed toward Dixie, but forecasters said it would moderate considerably by the time it got there.

Fires killed at least 36 persons and sent more than 300 others into the bitter cold. The worst was a hotel fire in Chicago which killed 25 and drove 250 outside in the sub-zero cold.

At Milwaukee, fires in an apartment house and a rooming house routed 50 persons. Ten children were led from a burning house in Indianapolis.

At Auburn, Ala., three Jamaican citrus workers were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a mess hall.

SNOW IN INDIANA

Winter held a firm grip on the entire nation east of the Continental Divide, Chicagoans prepared for their third night of below-zero temperatures. A local snow storm left an accumulation of 10 inches in South Bend, Ind.

Late Saturday the freezing line extended from the North Carolina coast southwestward through central Alabama and Mississippi then northwest to the Oklahoma panhandle, across the Rockies and around most of Utah and Idaho. It still was below zero in the eastern Dakotas and most of Minnesota and western Iowa. But in Los Angeles it was near 70.

There was snow on the ground at Nashville, Tenn., and Washington, D.C., and it piled up eight inches deep at Lebanon, Va.

Frost and freezing temperatures were forecast for all Florida farming areas, and citrus and vegetable growers prepared for all-night vigils at the smudge pots to protect their crops.

SEEK NIGHT CLUBS

Tourists turned from the beaches to night clubs and to the race track to beat the cold wave. Others sought warmth in bars, some of which advertised as being "well heated."

The Miami newspapers tried to offer some comfort to their northern guests. One ran a "back home" picture of a pretty mother and daughter skiing on a snow-covered mountain, and another newspaper carried a picture of an ice-coated fireman in Chicago.

The Florida natives, whose clothing wardrobes are not stocked for such weather, huddled around their kerosene "two-burner" stoves. Many decided it was a good night to go to the movies instead of watching television at home.

Service stations reported a run on kerosene, but said they had plenty on hand to last until the warm tropical breezes returned.

6,000 Troops to Raid Isle in Exercise

San Clemente Island will be the scene of combined Army-Navy exercises in amphibious warfare training beginning Mar. 6, it was announced Saturday.

The 6,000-man 38th Regimental Combat Team will start leaving Fort Lewis, Wash., on that date aboard Navy vessels. At San Clemente Island, a live demonstration of naval firepower and Army artillery will be staged to show troops the actual covering fire available in an assault landing.

From the island the troops will be transported to the beaches near Hunter Liggett Military Reservation where they will storm ashore and make a simulated attack on an "aggressor" guided missile launching and storage depot located underground.

The combat team will push inland over a newly built 30-mile military road, locate the dump and "destroy" it, then withdraw to the ships.

French Grab Rebel Leader in Tunisia

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—The head chief of the rebels operating in the Aures mountains of southeastern Algeria has been captured in Tunisia, French officials announced tonight.

They identified him as Ben Boulaid Mostefa Ben Ahmed and said he and another man were arrested Friday near the Libyan-Tunisian border.

Your Heart's in Your Hands

(Editor's Note: Your heart is in the headlines as American Heart Assn. conducts its annual campaign. Here's the first of five articles to help you understand your heart, written by Dr. William A. Brann, author of "Managing Your Coronary." His book, from which these articles are condensed, won the 1934 American Heart Assn.'s Howard W. Blakeslee Award. Remaining articles of the series will appear daily in the Independent and Press-Telegram, starting Monday.)

By DR. WILLIAM A. BRANN

NEW YORK—If you've had, or are due for—a heart attack, the chances are better than good that you're one or more of the following:

A man over 45 who works in a busy office. Hurried and over-worked. Inclined to be too ambitious. A victim of constant worry. Restless, unhappy at home. A hearty eater, 10 or more pounds too heavy, who tends to be fond of stimulants.

Heart specialists have learned to expect this type of person when they are called to see a patient with coronary thrombosis. But millions of men fit the picture, and only a small fraction of them ever develop heart trouble.

What determines which one? Why do some people get it while others who lead a similar life have hearts that are sound?

EXACTLY HOW does it happen? And how can you keep yourself well, once the attack is over?

First, let's recall your attack. Though yours may have differed in details, the story commonly runs like this: You are 50 years old and work in an office. For weeks you'd been feeling tired, and had noticed a passing sensation of pressure inside your chest. In the last few days it had happened oftener, but you drove yourself on.

That day everything seemed to go wrong. After a hectic morning, you stopped for lunch. You ate your usual big meal, gulped with the usual haste, and talked the usual shop talk.

YOU WENT BACK upstairs in a hurry, for hurry is one of your habits. Then, as you reached the top, you were suddenly overwhelmed by a crushing pain in your chest, as if you were caught in a vise which was tightly squeezing your ribs.

You had to fight for breath. You felt so nauseated that you went to the bathroom to vomit. Sweat rolled down your face and great weakness came over you. By now you were sore afraid and sure you were going to die.

With your last strength, you staggered out of the washroom and slumped on the floor outside. Someone summoned a doctor.

You remember he told you not to move and injected some stuff in your arm. It was morphine. Soon it began to take effect: the pain eased and you grew drowsy. An hour and a half later you awoke in a bed at the hospital.

NOW YOU ARE more comfortable in body for the agonizing pain is gone, but you're still scared. Through your mind race a hundred questions, and the one you want answered first is, "just what happened to me?"

Your doctor tells you the answer. He says you have just had a heart attack. Coronary thrombosis.

As you lie there feeling depressed, you ask yourself still another question: Why did it happen to ME?

That is a hard one to answer. Perhaps the best we can do is to look again at the victims to learn more about who they are. The usual victims are men. We do not know whether it is the kind of life that men lead, or whether there's something in sex itself that makes the difference. The fact remains: for every woman who dies of coronary thrombosis, four men are taken.

They are usually "older" people, from 45 to 70. This is because, in part, we survive the many infections with the help of the wander drugs, only to be attacked later in life by diseases of wear and tear.

We do not know enough about causes to blame any occupations, though people in high-powered jobs do seem especially prone. It is often said, for instance, that a factor which helps to cause heart trouble is hard physical work. Yet farm laborers are not particularly subject to coronary thrombosis, while bartenders and bartenders, whose work is lighter, seem to have more than their share.

Especially puzzling is the fact that Negroes, who have plenty of hard work and worry, are not as subject to it as whites.

ONE FACT seems to be clear: it is much more likely to strike if you tend to be overweight. Extra flesh is a curse, putting unrelieved strain on your body which makes it prey to disease.

Does coronary thrombosis run in families? Again, we have no precise information, but we do notice, that, time after time, our families tell us of others in their families with the same trouble. Whether this is due to hereditary influences or to conditions of environment or to other factors is impossible to say.

At any rate, now that you've had your own attack, you'll be glad to know that the outlook is good. Of every 10 persons who have one, eight or nine get better and live to a ripe old age.

We will see how they usually do it in the four installments to follow.

Where Do Tax Revenues Go? Answers Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—A startling picture of the federal government soon will be displayed to the taxpayers by the Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization.

The commission, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, will send its first report to Congress on Monday. It will deal with the far-flung civil service. This and other reports to come will reflect the most comprehensive study ever made of where the tax money goes.

There will be about 20 reports by the time the 12-member bipartisan group, set up by Congress in 1953, closes shop, May 31.

Some will highlight the most controversial issues of the day such as public versus private power, and government spending and lending policies.

Unlike the 1947 Hoover Commission, which concerned itself only with the internal government structure, the present commission has authority to dig deeper and question whether the government has any business in some fields at all.

Advocates of the study believe it could save millions of dollars if some functions were abolished and efficiency and economy were imposed on others.

The 1947 commission, even within its limited sphere, submitted recommendations estimated to save $4,000,000,000 if completely adopted. About 75 per cent were accepted.

In search of ways to save money and make the government more efficient, the commission sent task forces digging into virtually every governmental activity.

Book Bonfire Called Off by Scout Chiefs

PORTSMOUTH, R.I. (AP)—A scheduled Lincoln Day burning of horror and lewd comic books by Portsmouth Boy Scouts was called off "to avoid misunderstanding."

J. Harold Williams, Scout executive of Narragansett Council, said the bonfire was canceled "because we want to avoid any misunderstanding of the event. It has already been misinterpreted in the New York press."

"It was one of those things that could easily be misunderstood but all it amounted to was the collecting of obscene comics voluntarily," Williams said.

"No one was attempting to pick out or censor anything," he added.

Experts Can Only Guess About Russ

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

A momentous week of shakeups in the Soviet government demonstrated that two Kremlin ghosts have refused to stay buried. The wraiths probably have many a Soviet government and party functionary quaking in his boots.

The ghosts are those of Joseph Stalin and Andrei Zhdanov, who might have been Stalin's successor. Zhdanov died in 1948 and up-and-coming Georgi Malenkov methodically proceeded to put Zhdanov men into the shadows.

GANG COMING BACK
Now, as the Soviet regime veers once again back to Stalinism, the future begins to look dark for those who prospered under Malenkov's premiership. The Zhdanov gang is coming back, apparently with the blessings of Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev.

But something new has been added to the picture. The career men of the Soviet army seem to have risen in prestige and influence, if not in actual power, and will have to be reckoned with in future upheavals.

In assessing the happenings of a historic week in which the Supreme Soviet, a rubber-stamp parliament, automatically approved decisions reached weeks before, the suspicion arises that Western observers are placing too much emphasis on the hope of Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the new defense minister, and the career generals. The struggle at the top still is a political struggle and a party one, and does not seem to have been resolved.

ANOTHER PURGE?

Is another bloody purge in the offing? Do the events of last week in the great Kremlin palace augur good or evil for world peace? Westerners can only make educated guesses from the facts at hand.

Of some things they can be fairly sure:

First, the show is far from over. The events of the week constituted just one more act on which the curtain has fallen.

Second, last week's convulsion differed from the previous post-Stalin upheaval. Malenkov lost the premiership, but this time, losing a top job did not mean a bullet in the back of the neck, as it had for the internal affairs minister, Police Boss L. P. Beria, a year before.

POLITICAL GENERAL
Third, a political general, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, is the new premier, and a career general, Marshal Zhukov, is the defense minister, nominally head of all Soviet armed forces.

But Bulganin, never an army man in fact, did not doff his marshal's uniform, demonstrating clearly that he represented the authority of the ruling Communist party presidium in the army.

Fourth, Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, emerged as the leading figure in the hierarchy, where the "collective leadership" which succeeded Stalin was beginning to fall apart. One man was emerging above the others, as it had to be in a dictatorship.

Fifth, along with the shakeups in the various ministries, the Soviet Supreme Court has been revised, apparently to get rid of those justices connected with the mysterious "Leningrad case," on the basis of which a former security minister and others were executed a short time ago. These would be the justices connected with a purge of the followers of Zhdanov—thus the elimination of Malenkov's people from the court. This could mean a new purge in the offing.

MOLOTOV REMAINS
Sixth, no matter what was happening, Stolid V. M. Molotov retained his position as foreign minister, representing the continuation of Soviet external policy through the latest series of convulsions. How powerful might Molotov be? It seemed he was not so powerful as to place himself in immediate danger, yet powerful enough never to be wholly ruled out of the picture.

Foreign policy conducted by Molotov has shifted according to the Kremlin winds and now, tossing peaceful and alluring words aside, has become openly hostile to the point of being dangerous to peace.

It is this fact which makes it important for the West to consider the why and wherefore of the appointment of Zhukov, Russia's top soldier, to direct the Soviet armed forces. Is he a man of power or a pawn?

The appointment seemed logical. It pointed up the new emphasis on the military as Moscow's excuse for rattling guns ahead of butter once again. It underscored Soviet pressure on Germany, because of all Russians, the Germans most fear the marshal who inflicted crushing blows upon them with relentless fury. It spotlighted, also, the Soviet threat to mobilize all the European Communist nations into a single Soviet-commanded alliance, a bristling coalition facing West.

Thus, as one result of the shakeup, the West can expect increased pressure on Germany and western Europe to defeat the purposes of the North Atlantic Alliance. But there probably was much more than that behind the shakeup, because internal affairs come first in the U.S.S.R.

Urge Sharing of Peaceful Atomics Now

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Senate-House subcommittee recommended Saturday that the United States begin broad-scale sharing of peaceful atomic know-how and materials without waiting for the United Nations to set up its "atoms" for-peace-agency.

A five-member, all-Republican subcommittee of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee said the sharing should be accomplished through direct bilateral agreements with as many friendly countries as possible.

Fitting action to the subcommittee's words, the Atomic Energy Commission announced it had agreed to sell 10 tons of heavy water to India for use in a nuclear research reactor to be built near Bombay. Heavy water, a source of deuterium for H-bombs, is also one of the most efficient moderators for moderating atomic reactions under controlled conditions in a reactor.

Helping India meet its need for heavy water was one of the specific proposals made by the five-member atomic subcommittee. It also recommended prompt U.S. actions to aid peaceful development of atomic energy in Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Formosa, Thailand, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey, Greece, and Spain. These, with India, were the countries it visited.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-O), said it learned in India that Russia's loudly advertised offer to help Asian nations develop peaceful uses of atomic energy were hollow promises.

It reported that the response "everywhere" to the announced intention of the U.S. to aid foreign atomic development is "far more overwhelming than we had heretofore appreciated."

Douglas Granted Visa for Summer Visit to Russia

NEW YORK (UP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, once suspected by the Russians of "spying" on them because he climbed a mountain in the Middle East, has been granted a visa to visit Russia next summer, it was reported Saturday.

The report, according to a New York attorney just back from Russia, came from no less an authority than the new Soviet No. 1 man, Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The attorney, Marshall MacDuffie, returned Friday night from a visit to Moscow during which he interviewed Khrushchev Feb. 1, shortly before the shakeup in which Premier Georgi Malenkov resigned and Khrushchev emerged as the strong man in the Soviet regime.

Atom-Blast 'Respect, Not Fear,' Is Aim

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Nine thousand Army troops will go into action during the forthcoming atomic tests on the Nevada proving grounds with the purpose of learning to "respect but not to fear" an A-blast.

Brig. Gen. Fred W. Sladen Jr., commanding general of Camp Desert Rock, north of Las Vegas, said Saturday that great care will be taken to shield troops from dangerous blast pressure and radiation.

Troops will be protected by trenches from the initial effects of the explosion. Following the blast, monitoring teams with radiological measuring devices will precede the troops to establish safe limits for the advance of all personnel, Sladen said.

"Mental preparedness is half the battle in learning to respect but not to fear the effects of an atomic explosion," the general said.

"Proliminary orientations will be conducted to instruct personnel as to safety precautions, the manner in which a test is conducted and the nature of an atomic explosion."

Actual time of the first test is expected to be announced this afternoon in a briefing at the joint office of test information headquarters in Las Vegas.

The initial detonation most likely will be before dawn Wednesday, although it could come earlier or later in the week depending upon weather conditions and preparations in the test area.

Only military, AEC and Public Health Service personnel—plus four members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee will be permitted to enter the proving grounds for the first blast.

Restrictions will be relaxed in mid-April, when the effect of atomic violence on a typical residential community will be tested. Civil Defense officials, local government leaders and newsmen then will be allowed to view the detonation from comparatively close range.

Several typical residences have been constructed on the proving ground for the April climax of the series, code-named "Operation Teapot."

"They will be under the bomb when it goes off, along with test arrays of utility installations, canned food, automobiles, shelters, electric equipment and liquid, natural, and manufactured-gas containers."

The Atomic Energy Commission for the 1955 series, has stepped up its educational program in the area, hoping to convince people that they will not be harmed by the flash, the shock wave or the radioactive fallout.

GEORGE E. C. HAYES
McCarthyism Foe

Ike Appoints Negro to D.C. Utilities Post

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday named a Negro attorney who successfully defended one of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's "Red-influence" targets to an important post in the District of Columbia.

The appointment of George E. C. Hayes to the District Public Utilities Commission was announced at the President's plantation retreat where Mr. Eisenhower had nothing but the shuffles to show for a quiet hunt.

The President contacted a slight cold Friday when he set out from Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey's 600-acre estate only to run into wintry blasts that tumbled the temperature to 23 degrees before dawn Saturday. Because of his cold and the continuing rain weather, Eisenhower decided to stay indoors.

In addition to announcing the appointment of Hayes, the temporary White House also disclosed that Eisenhower has sent a "well done" message to American forces that covered the Chinese Nationalist withdrawal from the Tachen Islands.

"Yours was a difficult and delicate assignment," Eisenhower said in his message to Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations. Adm. Felix B. Stumpf, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet; Adm. Alfred M. Pride, commander of the Seventh Fleet and "the officers and men who have assisted in, and protected, the evacuation of the Tachen Islands."

"On behalf of a grateful American people: well done."

Hayes, 60-year-old general counsel of Howard University in the capital, represented Annie Lee Moss in a 11-month fight for clearance after Sen. McCarthy hurled Communist charges against her.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said the presidential party plans to leave the Humphrey plantation at 2 p.m., today and will take off from Spence air field near Moultrie at 3 p.m.

Arrival at Washington Airport was expected to be shortly after 5 p.m.

Nixon Gets Guatemala's View on Aid

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrived Saturday prepared to hear how the United States can help the anti-Communist government of President Carlos Castillo Armas.

The visit, part of Nixon's four-week tour of Central America and the Caribbean, coincided with reports that the United States is considering a new $9,000,000 aid program for Guatemala.

Castillo Armas is known to face serious problems in getting his economic development plan started. His experts have estimated they will need $270,000,000 for the job, but so far they have offered no practical plans for spending the money.

United States officials attribute most of Castillo Armas' difficulties to the fact that he took over a virtually bankrupt treasury when he led the movement that threw off the Communist-dominated government of President Arbenz eight months ago.

U. S. officials regard Nixon's visit to Guatemala as one of the most important steps of his tour.

Air Force Academy's Water Said Ample

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Congressional delegates at an Air Force Assn. meeting here were assured Saturday there is adequate water available for both the Air Academy and Colorado Springs.

Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, academy superintendent, said there is "absolutely no foundation" to reports the Air Force installation would not have a sufficient water supply.

U.S. Generals Abroad. Back Ike Reserve Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, said Saturday the United States' military reserve system "is one of the weakest in the entire North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

He said it would take several months to get U. S. National Guard and reserve units into action after an attack—"an unacceptable situation in a jet-atomic age."

Gruenther's statement was issued by the Defense Department along with two others by over- commanders supporting President Eisenhower's proposal to build a 5,000,000-man U. S. reserve.

Gen. John E. Hull, Far East commander, said an inadequate reserve program forced the United States to send men into Korea who already had been in combat in World War II.

To send untrained troops into battle is "nothing less than cold-blooded murder," he added.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S. Army Far East commander, said the reserve plan would enable the United States to deal with both large and small emergencies providing there is "continued existence of adequate forces in being to deter aggression and to respond promptly to a hostile attack."

John L. Lewis is 75

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis observed his 75th birthday Saturday with no fanfare.

Dr. Urey Raps A-Spies' Conviction

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel prize-winning scientist, said Saturday night that Morton Sobell, convicted of espionage, was "not properly tried," and that the Rosenbergs never were proven guilty.

Urey, a pioneer in development of the atom bomb, also criticized the government's use of "professional" informers and cited the statements of Harvey Matusow that he gave false testimony as an ex-Communist.

Urey spoke at a testimonial dinner in his honor held under the auspices of the Chicago Sobell Committee.

Sobell is serving a 30-year term in Alcatraz federal prison. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were executed for their part in the same stolen atomic secrets conspiracy.

Urey said he is convinced that Sobell and the Rosenbergs were not proved guilty, and that the alleged conspiracy could have taken place without their being involved.

He said Sobell was convicted on the word of an admitted perjurer who hoped for leniency. "If proper trials cannot be secured for unpopular people—and it is evident from the publicity of this trial that all those charged with crimes were unpopular—then it will become impossible to secure justice for other somewhat less unpopular people and so on until no justice is possible at all," Urey said.

WHAT CONGRESS DID

WASHINGTON (AP)—The status of major legislation at the end of the week:

FOREIGN AFFAIRS—The President has signed a resolution underscoring his authority to commit U.S. forces to the defense of the Formosa area. The Senate has ratified a mutual assistance treaty with Formosa.

MILITARY—The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to extend the draft law four years.

MILITARY—The House and Senate passed and sent to the White House a bill continuing eligibility of veterans for GI educational benefits, if they were in service before Feb. 1.

RECIPROCAL TRADE—The House Ways and Means Committee has approved a bill to continue the reciprocal trade agreements program three additional years. The House votes on the bill this week. There has been no Senate action.

SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION—Legislation to provide federal aid for school construction is pending in the Senate and House Education and Labor Committees.

STATEHOOD—The House Interior Committee is considering bills to admit Alaska and Hawaii to statehood.

PAY RAISES—The House votes this week on a bill to raise the pay of congressmen and federal judges. The House Civil Service Committee has started hearings on bills to raise the pay of postal and civil service employees. The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a bill raising congressional and judicial salaries 50 per cent.

POSTAL RATES—Legislation to increase postal rates, including a one-cent boost in letter-mailing costs, is pending in the House Post Office Committee.

TAXES—The House Ways and Means Committee is expected soon to recommend continuance of wartime excise and corporate tax rates due to expire in April.

WAGES—A bill to boost the minimum wage from 75 cents to 90 cents or more is pending in the House Labor Committee.

FARM PRICES—The House Agriculture Committee has started hearings on a bill to restore farm price props to 90 per cent of parity.

Government Aids in Pushing Sale of Canned Beans
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department is coordinating an unusual type of promotional campaign designed to encourage the American housewife to buy up a surplus of canned corn and snap beans. Officials in the Agricultural Marketing Service have compiled a mass of recipes which make the two vegetables sound almost exotic.

The drive begins officially March 17. For the following two weeks, canned corn and snap beans probably will be on prominent display in most of the grocery stores in the country.

The drive is necessary, the marketing service said, because a record-breaking supply of the canned vegetables has accumulated on warehouse shelves through a large carryover from last season combined with last year's high-level production.

Disneyland Digs In at Anaheim

$17,000,000 'Fun Fair' Slated to Open July 15

With opening date set for July 15, construction is going full speed ahead on Disneyland, multi-million dollar wonder of the entertainment world at Anaheim in Orange County. The total investment is expected to approximate $17 million.

Grading and bulldozing are completed. Excavation of the various waterways in Disneyland is finished. Construction has started on several buildings, with the exterior of one major building now complete, excepting the facades.

2,616 Names on Petition to Recall Butler

COMPTON — Petitions to recall City Attorney James G. Butler were on file Saturday with City Clerk Mrs. Clyde Harlan.

Of the 2,616 names submitted, approximately 2,160 must be qualified before a special election can be called by the City Council.

Mrs. Harlan based this figure on an estimate that at present there are 18,000 registered voters in Compton.

The move to recall Butler was initiated by all five members of the Compton City Council, including Mayor Frank Bussing.

At present Compton has two city attorneys as the city council has retained another city attorney to function in Butler's place.

The council charged, "Butler's advice was self-serving, inconsistent and often in direct vergerence with the opinions of accepted authorities on municipal law."

Councilman Delwin M. Clawson, general chairman of the Committee to Recall Butler, expressed confidence that the recall will pass by an overwhelming vote.

At the Burbank studio of Walt Disney, artisans are busy constructing many of the exhibits, wagons, railroad trains and coaches. Some of these projects are already completed and certain equipment, including stage-coaches, Conestoga wagons, horse-drawn streetcars, soon will be moved to Disneyland.

Selected primarily for climate and accessibility, 160 acres were bought in May, 1951. Of the total site, 60 acres will be used for the recreation area proper, the remainder for parking. Parking lot capacity will be 10,000 cars.

Described as a "fabulous playground—something of a fair, a city from the Arabian Nights, a metropolis of the future, a show-place of magic and living facts, but above all a place for people to find happiness and knowledge," is a 20-year dream of Walt Disney.

"The visitor to Disneyland," says Walt, "will enter a world of yesterday, tomorrow and fantasy."

The 60-acre park area will be enclosed by an embankment around which will chuff a 15-ton old-fashioned steam locomotive weighing 15 tons and pulling six coaches accommodating 300 passengers. The railroad station will also be the entrance to Disneyland. It will face Civic Center, Main St. and the Plaza—the crossroads of Disneyland leading to the four major entertainment realms of Tomorrow-

Three Long Beach Youths Named to U. S. Academies

Three Long Beach youths Saturday were announced as appointments by Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) to the U. S. Military and Naval Academies.

In addition Hosmer named 13 alternates to the West Point and Annapolis appointments and listed 10 others to take competitive examinations for appointment to the new Air Force Academy class of 1955. Fifteen Californians will be included in the academy's first class of 300.

Appointed to West Point by Hosmer was Edward Joseph Plozi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Plozi, 1955 St. Louis Ave. Young Plozi attended Long Beach City College and the U. S. Military Academy Preparatory School, Newburgh, N. Y.

Named midshipmen at Annapolis were Richard L. Engel, son of Mrs. Wilson F. Engel, 1858 McNab Ave., and Paul F. Elders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Elders, 4822 Gondar Ave. Both attended Wilson High School. Elders also attended Long Beach City College.

Engel said Saturday he was assured of appointment to the Air Academy by Sen. William Knowland and had not yet decided which appointment interested him the most.

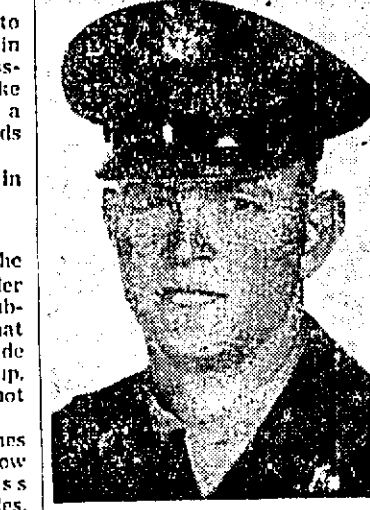

West Point alternates include

Joseph C. Gill Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Gill, 2419 Golden Ave., St. Anthony's High School; Kenneth Hiroshi Hismoto, son of Mrs. Hiroshi Hismoto, 2207 W. Williams Ave., Poly High School; Richard S. Stapleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Stapleton, 5417 Elchick Ave., Wilson High School; Gary Lee Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cooper, 6841 Lamarimba Ave., Poly High School; James T. Houston II, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Houston, 3017 Caspian St., St. Anthony's High School.

Annapolis alternates include James R. Ramos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Esteban S. Ramos, 160 Quincey Ave., Poly High School; George M. Marchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Marchison, 3767 California Ave., St. Anthony's High School; Ronald Korman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Korman, 3017 Caspian St., St. Anthony's High School.

Joseph C. Gill Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Gill, 2419 Golden Ave., St. Anthony's High School; Kenneth Hiroshi Hismoto, son of Mrs. Hiroshi Hismoto, 2207 W. Williams Ave., Poly High School; Richard S. Stapleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Stapleton, 5417 Elchick Ave., Wilson High School; Gary Lee Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. HOSMER'S CHOICE

Admiral Will Direct Red Cross Drive Unit

Rear-Admiral Roland Nesbit Smoot, who commands the Mine Force of the Pacific Fleet, has been appointed by Virgil B. Gillespie, chairman of fund raising for the 1955 Long Beach Red Cross campaign, to the chairmanship of the military division.

R. ADM. R. N. SMOOT
Military Division Chief

A graduate of Annapolis in 1923, the admiral has had duties that include service in destroyers, submarines, battleships and post graduate duty ashore in engineering and instruction at the U. S. Naval Academy.

He participated in amphibious landings at Guadalcanal and Leyte Gulf, was a member of the combat team for the night battle at Surigao, was in Lingayen, Iwo Jima, Guadalcanal and finally with Admiral Halsey for the landings and occupation in Japan.

During the war he was also in command of the Anti-Submarine Warfare School in San Diego, and following the war he has been with the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington, D. C., and in command of a new cruiser which he placed in commission.

He holds the Navy Cross with gold star, the Legion of Merit with gold star, the Bronze Star with two gold stars and the Navy Unit Commendation, in addition to the usual combat ribbons. He is noted as a specialist in personnel management.

Trade Show Set by Hairdressers

Officials of the Long Beach Hairdressers Guild announced Saturday that their 12th annual beauty and trade show will be held at the Wilton Hotel Sunday and Monday, Feb. 27 and 28.

The event will be featured by hair styling contests for both men and women operators with seven trophies, plus a $200 cash award, at stake.

Five special periods also will be set aside for demonstrations by exhibitors and a number of the foremost hair stylists have been invited to appear with their models as guest artists.

Members of the Long Beach Guild serve as official hairdressers for contestants in the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant.

Highways with a rated capacity of 82,000 cars a day have formed a new traffic hub in the Los Altos area.

Within a decade completion of the Sepulveda Freeway is expected to bring total capacity of thoroughfares radiating from the intersection to 232,000 cars.

These figures, which are approximate, were reported Saturday by Robert Dier, Long Beach municipal traffic engineer.

Sepulveda Freeway will overpass the traffic hub, but its ramps will tie in with the intersection of three heavily traveled roadways—Bellflower Blvd., Willow St. and Los Coyotes Diagonal.

Eden to Far East

LONDON (U.P.)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will leave Feb. 19 for the Southeast Asia defense conference in Bangkok, Thailand, and a diplomatic tour of far eastern and middle eastern capitals, it was announced Saturday.

Net Depot Backs Heart Campaign

Military and civilian employees of the Naval ammunition and net depot at Seal Beach contributed $840 to the Heart Fund campaign. It was disclosed by W. G. Wilson, fund chairman, at a luncheon Saturday of volunteer workers in the Victor Hugo restaurant.

Capt. Thomas J. Flynn, commanding officer, turned over the check for the funds which had been collected by a committee headed by Dorothy Segal and C. B. Searle.

Social Security Manager Speaks

James G. Bretherton, district manager for the Social Security Administration, will address the Social Club at its luncheon meeting Thursday noon in the Wilton Hotel.

George Toll, head of the California Employment Service of Cooper and Jerry Amburn, Joliff, will be chairman, and Fred Reynolds B. Thompson will preside.

San Pedro Lad Wins Essay Contest Prize

Jim Goss, student at San Pedro High School, won the $500 grand prize in the annual Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employees Assn. essay contest.

He received the award from Supervisor Burton W. Chace at the shipyard's dance in Municipal Auditorium. The dance celebrated the yard's 12 anniversary Friday.

Cash prizes of $50 went to the winners and $25 to the second place essays at each of eight participating high schools. These were, with the first prize listed first: Goss and Patricia Ann Aubrey, San Pedro High; Barbara Smith and Lawrence Weill, Wilson High; Diane Horne and Judith Atwood, St. Anthony's Girls; Ronald Rodarte and William Mingeann, St. Anthony's Boys; Virginia Clark and Anthony's Boys; Jordan High; Jon Cooper and Jerry Amburn, Joliff; Earline Sloan and Rosaria DiLeva, Mary Star of the Sea, San Pedro; and Frank Ingan and Steve Banks, Banning High, Wilmington.

Subject of all essays was "Geographical and Historical Aspects of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard."

Goss traced the development of the vast shipyard from the one-time mud flats at Terminal Island and called it a "modern miracle."

"Thousands of civilian and military personnel from the Naval Shipyard and their guests attended the dance. Virginia Thompson, Miss Naval Shipyard, presided as dance queen.

The local shipyard was activated in February, 1943, and reached a wartime peak of 16,000 employees. It currently has about 6,700 civilian employees.

The yard originally cost $30,000,000, but its present replacement value is estimated at $150,000,000. The annual payroll at present is approximately $30,000,000.

USS St. Paul Celebrates on Thursday

The mayor of St. Paul, Minn., will be honored guest here Thursday as the heavy cruiser St. Paul celebrates the 10th anniversary of its commissioning.

Old timers among the crew will relieve the ship's officers for the day, and the celebration will conclude with a ship's ball at Lakewood Country Club.

Chief Petty Officer James Gardner, a veteran of 28 years Navy service, eight of them aboard the St. Paul, will relieve Capt. Claude V. Ricketts as commanding officer of the cruiser in a ceremony aboard at 10 a. m.

Mayor Joseph Dillon of St. Paul will attend all shipboard ceremonies and also the evening dance. Mayor George Vermillion of Long Beach has been invited to participate.

Families of crew members will be guests at a luncheon, at which Mayor Dillon will cut a birthday cake in the shape of a cruiser.

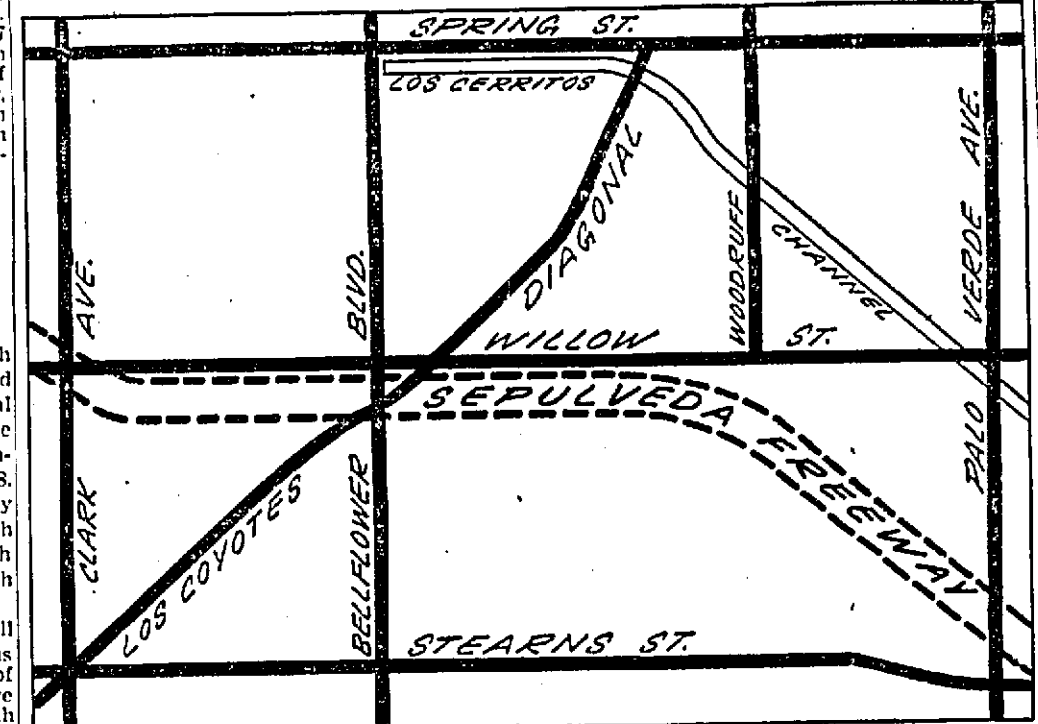

From 1 until 4 p. m., the public will be taken on guided tours of the St. Paul, which will be in Berths 12 and 13, alongside Pier B, in the Port of Long Beach.

The dance at 8 p. m. is for crew members and their invited guests.

The St. Paul has been commissioned longer than any other cruiser now in active service with the U. S. Navy. She was built by Bethlehem Steel Co. at its Quincy, Mass., yards.

She was launched in September, 1944, and christened by the wife of the then mayor of St. Paul. The cruiser was commissioned Feb. 17, 1945, and has been based in Long Beach ever since.

The St. Paul is the flagship of Rear Adm. David M. Tyree, commander of Cruiser Division 1. During her latest tour of duty in the Far East, last fall, she served as flagship for Rear Adm. Alfred M. Pride, commander of the U. S. 7th Fleet.

WHERE HIGHWAYS HUDDLE

With a total capacity of 82,000 cars a day, Bellflower, Willow and Los Coyotes Diagonal roadways join in a new traffic hub in Los Altos area. Projected Sepulveda Freeway will boost total capacity to 232,000 cars.

Roadways to Carry 82,000 Cars Form Traffic Hub in Los Altos

Highways with a rated capacity of 82,000 cars a day have formed a new traffic hub in the Los Altos area.

Within a decade completion of the Sepulveda Freeway is expected to bring total capacity of thoroughfares radiating from the intersection to 232,000 cars.

These figures, which are approximate, were reported Saturday by Robert Dier, Long Beach municipal traffic engineer.

Sepulveda Freeway will overpass the traffic hub, but its ramps will tie in with the intersection of three heavily traveled roadways—Bellflower Blvd., Willow St. and Los Coyotes Diagonal.

The Diagonal was recently completed as far north as Spring St. Next segment projected will be resurfacing a link between Willow and Lakewood Blvd. Completion of this project awaits a bridge over Palo Verde Channel for which the county has advertised for bids.

The Bellflower-to-Spring section was built for approximately $85,000 and capacity is 27,000 cars daily.

Two sections of Willow St. were joined recently at Bellflower. The Bellflower-to-San Vicente Ave. section cost approximately $125,000 and the section between Bellflower and Clark Ave. was completed for approximately $55,000, including a culvert over the drainage ditch on the westside of Clark. The city currently is resurfacing a link between Willow and Lakewood Blvd. Completion of this project awaits a bridge over Palo Verde Channel for which the county has advertised for bids.

The rated Bellflower capacity is 23,000.

Sepulveda Freeway with its 8-lane construction will be capable of handling about 150,000 cars daily. Its completion date is indefinite. At present only lands in unsettled areas are in the process of being acquired and the freeway is on the county's "critical deficiency" list.

"We hope to have Spring St. improved from Lakewood to the river by next fall," Jess Gilker, city engineer, said Saturday.

The Bellflower, Diagonal and Willow traffic loads will be increased during the next several months by construction to widen Spring St. between Lakewood and the San Gabriel Flood Control, a three-mile project budgeted for more than $300,000.

The Bellflower to Palo Verde and Palo Verde to the river sections will be completed first. The section between Bellflower and Lakewood must await building of a new bridge over Heather Ditch, east of Clark Ave., a project which is on the county's list.

"We hope to have Spring St. improved from Lakewood to the river by next fall," Jess Gilker, city engineer, said Saturday.

Case of the Sneaky Artichoke Pondered

By WAYNE HARBERT

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Should workmen's compensation be denied for a worker hurt or killed in a fight he started? Should railways be required to wire all cabooses with electricity? And should highway tunnels be equipped with aerials so car radio programs won't be blacked out?

Shouldn't an artichoke with insect damage that can't be seen without paring its petals be considered a good artichoke?

Those are some of the odd determinations legislators will be making when they come back to the Capitol Feb. 28 for their bill-passing session lasting into June. Yes, if they pass all the little bills and the big ones, too (which they won't, of course):

Using a toy pistol in a holdup would be just as bad as using a real one.

You couldn't buy, sell or trade an automobile on Sunday and foreign rabbit carcasses would be denied entry into the state.

You could buy soda pop but not tobacco in a barber shop.

You could be fined $500 for throwing a rock at a boat and sent to jail for 10 years for blacking out a railroad signal.

Pasteurized cheese spreads could be packaged in cubes or rectangles and you could come home from across the state line with as much as a gallon of tax-free whiskey.

County supervisors or city councilmen would have to keep the known graves of all former soldiers, sailors and Marines free from weeds and rubbish.

Vehicle license plates would have "The Golden State" spelled

Groups Invited to Dental Week

"Fewer Sweets Mean Better Teeth" is the slogan of Dental Health Week which will be observed March 7-11 by the Council on Dental Health of the Third District of the Los Angeles County Dental Society.

Dr. John O. Whitaker of San Pedro, chairman of the annual educational event, Saturday invited community groups, youth organizations, schools and civic bodies to participate in Dental Health Week activities.

Speakers, films and literature are available on request, according to Dr. Virgil Ridgeway, local chairman.

Facts you should know about the new FLUIDLESS CONTACT LENSES

TRY THIS MINUTE QUIZ!

- Q. What are contact lenses?
A. Contact lenses are small plastic discs which replace the eye's cornea. They are used to correct nearsightedness, farsightedness, astigmatism and presbyopia.
- Q. Can I see as well with contact lenses?
A. Yes. You will see as well as with glasses. In fact, many people find contact lenses more comfortable than glasses. They are also more convenient because they are not visible.
- Q. I wear extremely thick glasses. Will this prohibit contact lenses for me?
A. No. The discs are virtually the same for any strength of correction.
- Q. Can contact lenses injure my eyes?
A. No. There is no record of injury to an eye caused by wearing contact lenses. On the contrary, they are known to have prevented serious eye injuries.
- Q. Would it take me long to get fitted with contact lenses?
A. No. In but a few training periods you should be ready for steady use of the lenses.
- Q. Are the lenses hard to keep clean?
A. No. Contact lenses will not collect dust, sweat, or spray, dirt, or grease. The natural function of the eyelids keeps them clean.
- Q. Would I have any discomfort while wearing the lenses?
A. There is no discomfort while wearing contact lenses as they rest on the part of the eye that is insensitive. (The center of the lens covers over the sensitive colored part of the eye.)
- Q. My thick glasses give a "halo" effect around lights. Will my eyes make them look distorted? Would contact lenses help?
A. Yes, definitely. These lenses are a boon to wearers of extreme correction. Your eyes could appear the same as if no glasses were worn. Remember, contacts are invisible.
- Q. Would I need to have the contact lenses changed often?
A. Once contact lenses are properly fitted, it is seldom if ever that they need to be replaced.

Park Talk Set for CC Forum

Donald D. Obert, Long Beach Director of Parks, will be the featured speaker Wednesday at the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce Breakfast Forum in the Wilton Hotel. His topic will be "City Glamour Through Parks." Prior to his appointment to the city park post, Obert served as city forester in Fort Worth, Tex., for 15 years.

He holds a Landscape Architecture Degree from the University of Illinois and was associated with the landscape architectural firm of Hare and Hare.

Obert is expected to outline city planning in connection with a glamorization program of Long Beach featuring development of park areas.

Joe Enarson, chamber forum chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Oilmen Plan $200,000 Club

Ricart's Cafe Leases Annex to New Group

Plans to erect a building to house the Long Beach Petroleum Club were announced Saturday by J. L. Evans, club president.

This building, described as the nation's finest of its kind, will be constructed adjoining Ricart's Restaurant at 4363 Atlantic Ave.

It will have 7,500 square feet of floor space and will cost in excess of $200,000, Evans said. Facilities will include three banquet rooms with a combined seating capacity of 275, a lounge, game room, dining room, complete kitchen and bar. Construction will start about Feb. 20 and will be completed in June.

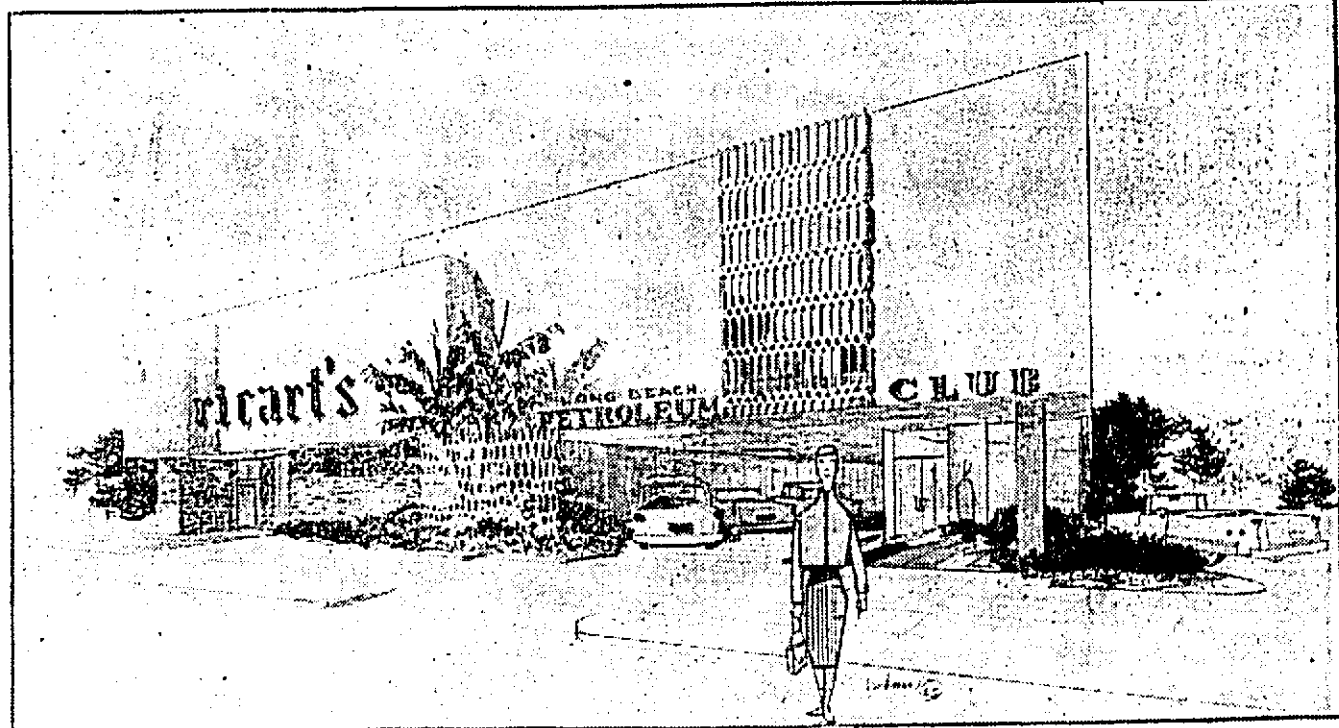

All club facilities will be on the second floor, with the parking area on the ground floor. Members and guests will enter through a glass-enclosed lobby at street level.

The project is being undertaken by the club in co-operation with Art Morgan, owner of Ricart's. Morgan will construct and furnish the building and provide restaurant services on a lease basis.

The Petroleum Club, organized last May, currently has 350 members and plans call for limiting membership to approximately 400.

Membership reads like a "Who's Who" of the oil industry in this area.

J. L. Evans, president, is director, treasurer, and William E. Albers, Long Beach Oil Development Co., and James T. Satchell, attorney, assistant treasurers.

Fairfield, first vice president, heads the Oil Tool Corporation on Signal Hill and Wilbur Harrison, second vice president, is president of the Apex Petroleum Corp. C. L. Fowler, third vice president, is founder of the Fowler Drilling Co. and the fourth vice president, Lee Foust, is owner of the Foust Scouting Service. Other club officers are D. A. Boone, attorney and oil operator; Chester F. Yunker, oil has since been incorporated and its objectives are these:

1. Enabling members to act as a unit in assuming and fulfilling the oil industry's responsibilities in civic affairs.
2. Formation of plans to aid, educate and acquaint the younger men in the oil industry.
3. Provide a central meeting place for wives of oil men to hold social and civic events.

Evans said tentative plans call for inviting recognized leaders in other businesses and professions to join as members.

Designed by Architect Kenneth S. Wing, the petroleum building will be of stucco construction and modern exterior design.

The lower lobby will be floored with varicolored Italian mosaics worked in a pattern of diamonds. A stairway to the lounge will rise above a garden of tropical planting.

The lounge, carpeted in deep brown and black, will feature draperies of natural linen which pull across full ceiling height screens of woven cane. Accent walls of Bristol blue will complete a scheme of browns with black, blue and pale red orange.

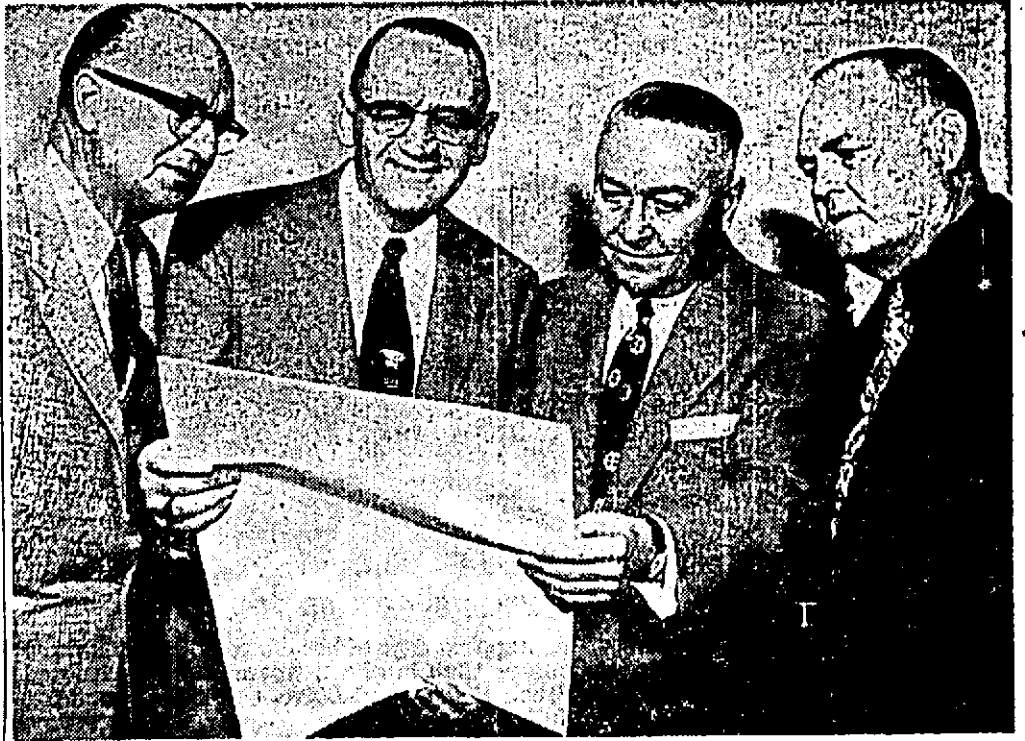

The game room, which will seat 40 people around specially designed tables, will have a beamed ceiling of white painted wood from which will hang fixtures of antique brass. Cork floors will set off walls of painted brick and plaid pine.

An early saloon style, long mahogany bar will be another feature of the building. The room will be lighted by three crystal and brass "gas" lamps. On one wall will be a prairie mural showing the oil industry in its infancy. For this room a color scheme of white, wheat color, mahogany and blue is used.

The three large banquet rooms can be made into one by sliding aside wall sections. Tweed carpeting will be used and a basic scheme of charcoal, pale greyed blue and fused oak will tie these banquet rooms into one unit.

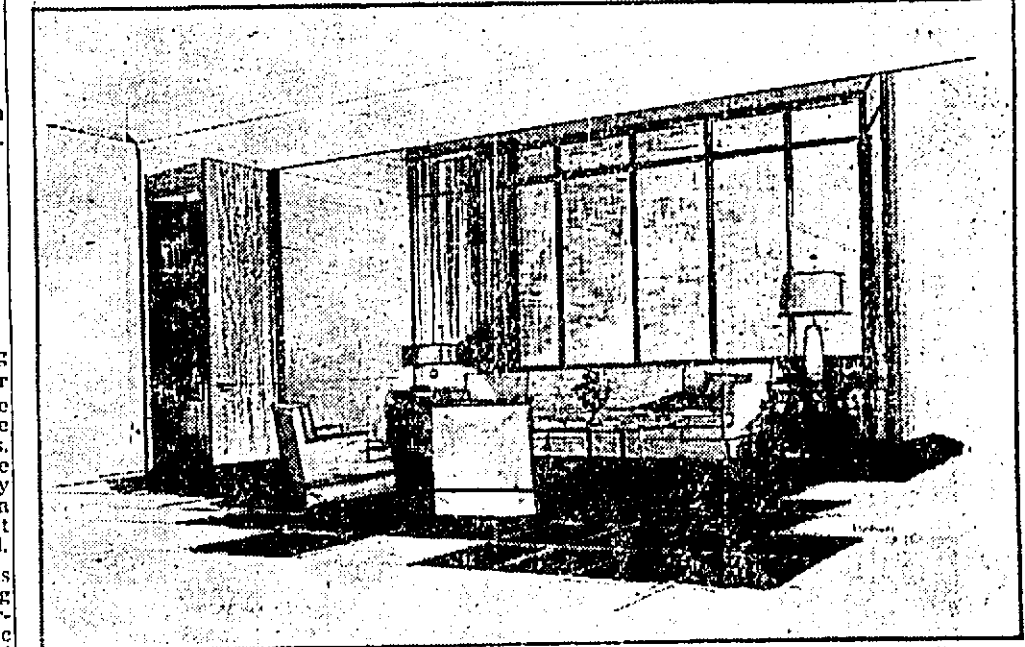

Morgan, who acquired sole ownership of Ricart's last month, said the Petroleum Club addition to the restaurant is designed capacity will be 400.

"Five years ahead of today's architectural trend," Total seat-day through Saturday—three Morgan said.

Industrial Mediator Sees Benefits in AFL-CIO Pact

From the Washington Bureau of The Independent, Press-Telegram

WASHINGTON — Cyrus S. Ching, former director of the Federal Mediation Service, predicted Saturday that business as well as labor will benefit from the merger of the AFL and CIO.

Ching said the unification should go a long way toward ending the bitter inter-union competition which has been one of management's biggest problems since the CIO came into being 20 years ago.

ment bargaining tables over which he presided.

Now a private industrial relations consultant, he has watched with keen interest the AFL-CIO progress toward the merger so long discussed and now about to become a reality.

Ching said a particularly healthy sign for American

'Congress' Name Sought in Combine

WASHINGTON—CIO leaders are fighting to get AFL chiefs to agree to call the new, unified labor movement "The American Congress of Labor."

As the older and larger of the two groups, the AFL wants to retain the name, "American Federation of Labor." But the CIO is determined to keep at least part of its old identity as the "Congress of Industrial Organizations."

business is the machinery for ending jurisdictional disputes the new, joint federation is trying to perfect.

But he had this warning for the union chiefs who will wield the unprecedented power residing in a monolithic, 15,000,000-man federated labor movement: and the labor chiefs are expected to be careful to keep it.

"This new combination places on them a great responsibility to the public and their members. If the power which comes from a group of this kind is used wisely it can be beneficial to the nation. But if it is used unwisely, it could bring about great damage to our country."

Ching declined to speculate precisely on the kind of harm that might result. Other veteran observers of the labor movement, however, say the union leaders will have to tread very softly because their activities will be watched more closely than ever by the public.

These observers think the union chiefs will be cautious beyond reproach in handling big labor's affairs. For the leaders are wise and realistic men, and they recognize that the first signs of abuse of their new power will invite loud public demand for more restrictive state and national labor laws.

Already there is increasing talk among businessmen of trying to rewrite the anti-trust laws so as to make them applicable to unions. Their present exemption is one of the unions' most important legal advantages pendent unions went all out in a concerted effort to beat the late Sen. Taft, who swept not only the state but also many big industrial cities.

Labor chiefs themselves admit openly now that no one can tell the American worker how to vote.

Labor consistently had demonstrated that its power at the polls isn't in the same league with its strength on the picket line. That there is no such thing as a "labor vote" was illustrated dramatically in Ohio in 1950, when the AFL and Inde-

Gesture of Faith in Downtown L.B.

THE GROWTH of suburbia as a prominent feature of American life was inevitable. But this development does not necessarily mean that the old, established business centers must shrivel and die on the vine.

Long Beach is seeing a demonstration of faith in the belief that both outlying and downtown business areas can thrive amid the changes wrought by population and economic expansion.

One of America's most progressive department store chains, an organization known for good business judgment, recently announced plans for establishing a new three-story enterprise in downtown Long Beach at a cost of more than $3,500,000.

It is the J. C. Penney Co., which also has launched construction of a $2½ million store in an outlying part of the city, Los Altos.

In announcing the downtown project a representative of the investors stated simply:

"The investors I represent voice the firm belief that downtown Long Beach today offers the best of sites for an investment."

Downtown Long Beach is, in the last analysis, the hub of community life. It is the site of municipal offices and the nearest large shopping center for many thousands of citizens.

With imaginative civic and business planning and promotion there is every reason to believe it can maintain its economic importance and continue to thrive along with other areas.

The prospect, as we say, is endorsed by such realistic testimonials as the J. C. Penney project, the largest downtown construction program since 1938.

That organization, like others with aggressive merchandising policies, are confident. They know the customers are here.

The big problem of the future is to provide adequate parking facilities for them. Parking is the one main advantage which the business centers of suburban areas now enjoy.

Tidelands Oil Definitely Not an Unmixed Blessing

DISSENTING Senators and Congressmen who have bewailed the alleged "giveaway" of the tidelands by the last Congress may not be fully aware that by that act the Federal Government escaped from a whole host of controversial problems that would have proved a large headache for those same lawmakers.

California's legislators are beginning to get the first pang of that headache. An imposing array of proposed bills, dealing in one way or another with tidelands oil development, have been tossed in the hopper at Sacramento. There is disagreement as to how the tidelands oil drilling should be carried on, if at all, and how the royalties should be divided. It is becoming painfully clear that while the state has been assured of untold oil riches by the Congressional act, it is certainly not an unmixed blessing.

A fair example of the troubles that lie ahead for state officials was presented at a meeting of the Orange County Coast Association held at Newport Beach Friday. Recently, the association got word that the State Lands Commission might authorize artificial islands off Huntington Beach for tidelands oil drilling, and Friday's meeting was devoted largely to planning ways to prevent any such action.

ISLANDS OPPOSED

The Orange Coast people feel that offshore drilling structures would impair the beauty of their shoreline and destroy or seriously damage recreational values. Some of the speakers had some unpleasant things to say about the State Lands Commission. The group voted solidly to present strong opposition arguments to the offshore structures, and no doubt those living along other sections of the coast will feel the same way.

Yet even as the discussion seemed to veer toward the idea of tidelands drilling from onshore drill sites, one speaker pointed out that those could be mighty untidy, too. This strongly implies the probability that the State Lands Commission will be faced with a "damned if you do and damned if you don't" situation as this controversy develops along sections of the coast where oil development is projected.

Keeping the people happy along the area of oil exploitation is just one of many tidelands oil development problems confronting the state. For instance, there's that matter of subsidence, that is not a little one, either. And if oil withdrawal causes subsidence (a much argued question) it could come regardless of whether drilling is done from the shore or from islands.

There's going to be a real tug of war in the Legislature over the division of tidelands funds. At present 70 per cent goes to beaches and parks and 30 per cent to the general fund. Several other formulas have been proposed. One that is getting a lot of attention was offered by Sen. Randolph Collier, Siskiyou County, who would give each county a basic grant of $50,000 with the balance to be split up among the 58 counties, one-third for area and one-third for population. Local boards would pick the projects to benefit. Beach and park enthusiasts are ready to fight for tidelands funds, and there's also a proposal to give a major share of the tidelands money to the "area of origin" along the coast. We'll be hearing a lot about all of this.

None of these questions, by the way, is directly related to the Long Beach tidelands, which by virtue of a state grant are owned by the city. Most of the submerged land strip along the coast is owned by the state, and these legislative proposals generally deal with state tidelands development and state tidelands. There is a proposal to give Long Beach's tidelands funds to the state, but that's another story.

Long Beach's own experience with its tidelands oil situation, however, gives a general idea of the problems confronting the state in the broader development. How to exploit the offshore oil riches without destroying other values, how to deal with subsidence, how to use the funds for the greatest good—these are old problems to Long Beach people. Now the state as a whole is getting a dose of the same medicine.

If It Were Left Up to Ike and Zhukov, There Could Be an Era of World Peace

WASHINGTON — If it were left to just two men—President Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov, the new Defense Minister in Moscow—there probably could be an era of peace and understanding in the world.

For there is an intensely human aspect to the friendship which developed in wartime between the Commander-in-Chief of the American and Allied forces in Europe and the Commander-in-Chief of the Soviet forces.

Long before Gen. Eisenhower became President he talked to intimate friends of his in Berlin in 1945 with Marshal Zhukov. From the statements he made this very week in Moscow to newspapermen by the new cabinet minister who will be in charge of all defense for Soviet Russia, it is evident that the friendship has not been forgotten by the Soviet leader.

Marshal Zhukov is a military hero in Soviet Russia and, if he alone were to decide on future policy, there would be much less to fear even though he is a military background. For, contrary to a rather curious impression that seems to have been fostered in pacifist quarters—where the word "militarism" is loosely used to describe a phobia to start fighting—the truth is military men usually do not want war and lean over backward to avoid it. Generals who have the responsibility of ordering young men to face death are keen the use of war as an instrument of national policy.

CAN THEY MEET?

If Marshal Zhukov could speak his own thoughts freely, he probably would say the same things that President Eisenhower has been saying against war. Actually, since Mr. Eisenhower has been in the White House, he has proved the very antithesis of the concept of a military man which has been so widely held. But could these two men—Zhukov and Eisenhower—get together and talk things over? This concrete question was raised at the President's press conference this week, and he answered guardedly that he would have to take up such a proposal with his advisers.

Meanwhile, Marshal Zhukov in Moscow in an interview earlier this week referred specifically to the two times he had been invited by Gen. Eisenhower to visit America and expressed the hope that his dream of coming here might some day be realized. He said that he didn't think relations at the moment made it "suitable" for him to come at this time, but he hoped relations would improve.

What does all this mean? Plainly the rise of Marshal Zhukov is a significant development. Today, of course, he is an official backer by the Communist party. He has to stick closely to their doctrine. If he came to the United States as an envoy of the present Communist regime, he would not get the same kind of reception as he might get if he were the elected representative of the Soviet people as a result of a free election.

Senator Soaper Says...

An expert says that to succeed in the poultry business you have to think like a chicken, which explains to the fellow at the next desk why his brother-in-law has been such a success handling potatoes, egg plant and Swiss chard.

The federal budget is a tremendous book, but probably won't be a best-seller until it is jazzed up with a cover picture of a taxpayer in a deep V-neck barrel.

Who is the big hero in the uranium-rich west these days? The two Geiger-counter man?

With everybody on the left thinking he's too far to the right and everybody on the right thinking he's too far to the left, the President would seem to be steering a pretty good course as long as he doesn't hit a safety island.

Hightower and Taillefer are big names in ballet and not, as you'd suppose, basketball.

Appointee Harlan in Two-Way Bind

WASHINGTON — Through no fault of his, John Marshall Harlan, Ike's new appointee to the Supreme Court, has got himself into an unpleasant two-way bind.

First he has southern senators holding up his appointment because of the school segregation issue.

Second he has some northern senators dubious about him because of ex-Gov. Tom Dewey and the merger of the Chase National Bank and the Bank of Manhattan.

Opposition on the first count is quite simple. The second is more complicated.

Harlan's grandfather, also named John M. Harlan, served on the Supreme Court shortly after the Civil War and although from Kentucky and a former slave owner, he was a vigorous dissenter when the court majority upheld segregation.

Therefore, it's considered certain he will express himself with the same vigor as his grandfather when the school issue comes before the Supreme Court again to decide upon the manner in which southern states should carry out the court's original non-segregation edict.

That is why certain senators are discreetly and quietly maneuvering to delay Harlan's confirmation. If his confirmation can be postponed long enough, the court may get no chance to pass upon the execution of its edict this year. For the court has said that it would wait to rule until after Harlan takes his seat.

DEWEY DEAL?

Meanwhile, a new and wholly different reason for scrutinizing Harlan's qualifications has arisen.

For it has now become known that it was Tom Dewey who sold Ike on appointing Harlan to U. S. Court of Appeals and later to the Supreme Court. And having arranged for Harlan's exit from the law firm of Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby, and Palmer, Dewey then stepped into the firm of Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby and Palmer.

In other words, the adroit Governor of New York persuaded Ike to appoint a distinguished member of a distinguished New York law firm first to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and six months later to the Supreme Court; then he, Dewey, stepped into the vacancy thus created.

This in itself would be criticized chiefly by anti-Dewey Republicans if it were not for a further recent factor.

BANK ATTORNEY

The biggest bank merger in the history of the United States, between the giant Chase National and Manhattan, indirectly involves the law firm of Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby, and Palmer from which Harlan is stepping out to make room for Tom Dewey.

There may come a time when some spokesman of a free government which has overturned—perhaps with a bloodless revolution—the clique who rule Soviet Russia today, can visit the United States and be welcomed with trust. Such an occasion could arise if the people of the Soviet Union ever recovered their lost liberties. Today even a military hero in Moscow is the prisoner of Communist intrigue and Communist-party supremacy.

But the new situation in Soviet Russia could mean the eventual ascendancy of Marshal Zhukov to the top place. Since the death of Stalin, he has become the outstanding military man of the country, and his popular following cannot be overlooked by the politicians.

As between the theory that the downfall of Malenkov portends a tougher Soviet policy, with a threat of war, and the prediction that an era with some sort of effort to reach an understanding with the West is about to begin, this correspondent inclines to the latter concept and would not be surprised if the man who now plays a prominent part in such a peace plan is Marshal Zhukov himself.

Child Care

TO THE EDITOR:

As legislative chairman for the Association for Nursery Education of the Long Beach area, I have been asked to express the appreciation of our membership for the re-print article concerning child care which appeared on the editorial page of your newspaper last Sunday.

Our association, with members from cooperative nurseries, pre-school groups, City College Child Development Center, private nurseries, and Child Care Centers, is very much concerned over the status of Child Care. We feel the Child Care program is providing a valuable and necessary service for young children and should be continued. Articles such as the one mentioned above, help the public to understand what the Child Care program means to every citizen.

We are very pleased that our two local assemblymen co-authored, with Mr. Geddes, the bill we are supporting, AB 980, which contains the State Department of Education recommendations concerning Child Care.

We look forward hopefully to other such articles in order that the public may be completely informed on this issue.

Knowland Right

TO THE EDITOR:

The articles written by Leon Dennen should awaken the general public to the tragic diplomatic blunders of the past decade.

As a diplomat FDR was, throughout all his negotiations with England and Russia, a total failure. He allowed Russia to become an ally for the defeat of Japan, a task which, to all intents and purposes, at the time of Yalta, was an accomplished fact. His entire appeasement attitude toward anything Russian, ably abetted by his successor, Harry Truman, has been the prime cause of our present diplomatic troubles.

It is high time the people of the United States realize that Sen. William K. Knowland in his statements regarding Red China is absolutely correct. A boycott of Red China and a blockade of their coast would starve them to death in less than a year. Russia, with all its so-called might, could not possibly furnish enough food and essential material through established transportation lines to assist in any way. The military leaders of this country know that. A blockade of the China coast would place Russia in a position of either "putting up or shutting up." That they would not do, they are having enough trouble in their own country.

Unless a tough voice and a strong hand is in evidence by the present administration World War III is in the offing.

Teachers

TO THE EDITOR:

In this materialistic age we are inclined to measure success and failure in terms of dollars and cents. One unfortunate result of this habit is that, because of their comparatively low salaries, many professions are shunned and don't receive their due recognition. Teaching is one of these professions.

Education is by far the most important single factor in a democracy's existence. In a world filled with hate, fear, and uncertainty we, the free peoples, must lead the way along the narrow and at times indistinguishable path to peace. The teachers of America have trained, are now training and will be training the children that must find this path to peace.

The teacher's task is a momentous one.

The shortage of teachers is real; and although salaries have increased slightly, the social status of the teacher in his community leaves much to be desired. Let us give the teacher a social position worthy of a person attempting to accomplish a vital mission. Since this is a materialistic age, we must face the problem realistically. Only if the teaching field is made more attractive can we hope to meet the increasing demands for qualified teachers.

Marriage

TO THE EDITOR:

Everyone who goes to high school ought to be required to take a course about marriage and homemaking.

Those who married later would be better prepared, and those who stayed single would understand other people better.

Some parents have not done well at their own marriage and can't teach their children. When a man or woman wants to be a teacher, preacher or lawyer they spend a lot of time and money trying to learn. But when they marry and rear children they often are not well prepared and leave it largely to guess work.

Red Leaders in Deadly Power Struggle

TO THE question: "What about Russia?" I turn for my answer to several foreign correspondents who have worked in Moscow and whose judgment I respect.

William H. Stoneman and William McGuffin of the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service believe that the Soviet Union's affairs are in a far more difficult state than outsiders had even imagined.

Stoneman thinks the Malenkov's dismissal means that Russia has reverted to the system that was in force during Stalin's heyday and under which the secretary of the Communist party—now Nikita Khrushchev—is the real boss of Soviet affairs.

William L. Ryan of the Associated Press takes the view that the Communist party has entered into a deal with leaders of the Soviet army. Ryan predicts a gradual evolution from the monolithic dictatorship under the Communist party to a sort of hybrid military dictatorship on which conservative army leaders will exert a great influence.

Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times agrees with Ryan and says that the selection of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin as Soviet premier was a compromise between the party forces of Khrushchev and the army group headed by Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

All see the removal of Malenkov as signalling a desperate struggle for power. The fate of the losers is liquidation, Russian style.

Following the elimination by Malenkov of Lavrenty Beria, deputy premier and minister of internal affairs, the secret police lost its place in the top hierarchy. That left three power groups, the government bureaucracy controlled by Malenkov, the Communist party directed by Khrushchev and the army, headed by Marshal Zhukov. With Malenkov gone, two power groups remain, the party and the army.

Like the song, "Ten Little Bottles," it is only a matter of time until "one little bottle" remains.

The surviving power group, it seems to me, will be the army, and for these reasons:

1. Since the death of Beria, the dread secret police can no longer challenge the army's authority.

2. The army possesses the only remaining weapons of power.

What does this mean for us and the peace of the world?

At the outset, lots of tough talk and boasts of superiority in weapons.

Foreign Minister Molotov's

recent belligerent speech indicated the immediate course. His truculent and insulting remarks were not, however, the words of a man confident of his nation's strength.

It would appear, therefore, that despite the big talk and arm waving, Russia will need time to unravel its tangled skein of intrigue.

Moreover, its leaders of the army group tend to be more conservative and cautious than their counterparts in the Communist party. It would be a fallacy, however, to assume that the wartime friendship between Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov carries any special significance.

Still, the chances are good that until such time as the great power struggle is resolved, Russia will not risk war.

No Women

Allowed

A FEW days ago the men's organization, the National Press Club, elected a Negro reporter, Louis Lautler, to membership. During the bitter pre-election argument some columnists condemned discrimination.

Now men wrote that all women reporters are barred from covering the National Press Club's noted speakers. In contrast, the Women's National Press Club permits all working reporters of both sexes and all races to cover club events.

One of the strangest situations condoned by press liberals is that women members of the White House Correspondents Association are prohibited from attending the annual dinner in honor of the President of the United States. This year the White House correspondents' dinner for President Eisenhower will be given on March 5 at the Hotel Statler—and again women members will be barred.

There is some talk that women reporters may be granted full citizenship and allowed to attend the dinner next year—always manana.

With straight faces, men reporters give some absurd reasons for discriminating against women writers.

1. Women are not allowed to hold important church offices. (For their information the National Presbyterian Church in Washington has just elected two women elders.)

2. If women reporters attended the dinner the wives of the men writers would insist on coming, too.

Well, why not? Each White House correspondent is allowed one guest. Why should wives be discriminated against?

$500 Prize Essay

(Editor's Note: The following essay by Jim Goss of San Pedro High School won the $500 grand prize in the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employees Assn. Essay Contest.)

By JIM GOSS
San Pedro High School

Modern miracles, taking place about us every day, are becoming so common that we often fail to appreciate their significance.

Founding and development of Long Beach Shipyard from mud flats of Cabrillo's time, more than 400 years ago, to its present position, easily belongs in this category.

Transformation to the present modern naval facility is the fulfillment of a need apparent since World War I.

Geographically, such a base is hundreds of miles closer to fleet activities than any western yard and provides a reconstruction base, which because of the mild climate, could function on a 24-hour per day basis.

Long before the war clouds of World War II had their beginning, Long Beach, then a lumbering, seaside resort, awakened to the needs of the fleet. Its personnel, which already had taken available accommodations in other areas, began an invasion of the community.

Assignment of additional units to the Pacific in 1933 increased these needs many times.

Discovery of oil and expansion of the harbor, caused the city to look toward the vast, unimproved tidelands on Terminal Island.

The Navy accepted an offer for a section of the area, first for use as an athletic field, and later for full development of the great wartime operating base.

In 1940 funds were allotted for the start of construction. Since that time, more than $25 billion have been expended in the development.

Value of this great establishment to the fleet never can be overshadowed. But its value to the city and surrounding communities is equally well known.

Long Beach Naval Shipyard provides employment for about 6,700 civilians. The annual payroll of $30,000,000 plus additional millions added by payrolls of transient vessels and local purchase of vast supplies has created a new economic standard.

To insure reserve personnel, well grounded in fundamentals of shipyard operations, an apprenticeship training program was founded. This not only provides personnel for shipyard needs, but also serves other and allied industries.

Contributions to community development by employees of Long Beach Naval Shipyard are legend. Leaders of the community, church and school are continually being drawn from among these workers.

Long Beach Naval Shipyard personnel are proud of that record. They are proud of the nation's highest tribute earned during World War II. They are proud of the community in which they live.

The community and Southern California are just as proud of Long Beach Naval Shipyard personnel.

Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, could be viewed the Southern California coastline today, doubtless would declare a miracle had happened.

Adm. Hugh Rodman, who headed the fleet to the west coast some 35 years ago, also could acclaim such a miracle. But neither of these esteemed gentlemen could be more amazed than would be the Navy Department officials who reluctantly paid the city of Long Beach one dollar for surface rights to the shipyard some 15 years ago.

land, Fantasyland, Frontierland and Adventureland.

Tomorrowland, a venture into the future, will be identified by a tall, stationary, pylon-like space rocket.

Jet-propelled monorail coaches will whiz visitors over buildings of advanced architectural design; young drivers will pilot miniature racing cars around a freeway of the future; streamlined speedboats will be guided by adults or children around a circular water run. At the Space Terminal of the Future, the adventurous-minded may board a passenger rocket and fly around the "moon."

Fantasyland, described by Walt Disney as "the world of imagination, hopes and dreams," will have as its entrance a shimmering, pastel-colored castle with towers and parapets 70 feet high. A melodious King Arthur carousel will whirl in the courtyard.

Visitors may take the Peter Pan Fly-Thru on which they will soar in a pirate galleon to Neverland, habitat of mermaids, buccaners, Indians and Lost Boys. Or they may enjoy the Snow White and Seven Dwarfs Ride-Thru, the Alice in Wonderland Walk-Thru or the Mr. Toad Drive-Thru.

Frontierland will bring back America's historical past with a log fort, leather-stockinged frontiersmen and Indians of many tribes; a shooting gallery supplying buffalo guns to be fired at wild animal targets and stores, buckboards, wagons and stages.

Paul Bunyan's "longest little bear" with the tallest glass of root beer" will face a river dock where passengers may board the 105-foot paddlewheeler for a cruise on the rivers of America. The excursion boat will pass replicas of colorful river towns—New Orleans, Natchez, Mobile—and such buildings of historical fame as Mount Vernon and West Point.

Adventureland will have as its threshold a Tahitian settlement. Intrepid travelers may take an explorers' boat on a five-acre voyage over tropical waters, past ports of call in Mexico, Central America, South America, Africa, Asia and Australia.

The journey will be adventure—some—like wild animals, reptiles and even human natives, all in detailed replica, will threaten the vessel at every river bend. As passengers cross the "equator" they will receive the traditional certificate from Neptune himself.

DR. CHAN SAYS: NO LONGER MUST YOU SUFFER FROM

ASTHMA-DIABETES HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

for the past two generations, the offices of Dr. Chan, D. C., located at 928 American Ave., have had outstanding results in treating chronic ailments such as ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, ARTERITIS, NEURITIS, RHEUMATISM, HIGH OR LOW BLOOD PRESSURE, HEART TROUBLE, STOMACH OR LIVER DISORDERS, KIDNEY OR BLADDER AFFECTIONS OR A GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION. Men and women of all walks of life come to take these treatments because other methods of healing have failed to help them. Many have spent a fortune in seeking cure before they try this simple, effective, natural method of Dr. Chan. Our patients tell us that they wish they had known of our wonderful treatments sooner so that their suffering could have been avoided.

READ THESE AMAZING TESTIMONIALS

Dear Dr. Chan: "The day I came to your office with my mother and brother I was about to give up hope of getting rid of my asthma attacks. I spent hundreds of dollars for shots and pills, but yet found no results. After reading your advertisement, I tried you for my last resort and was thrilled to find that I responded wonderfully. After the first treatment I was able to breathe normally and could sleep better than I had in months. Now I am feeling fine and hoping others will benefit from my experience with Dr. Chan's Natural Method."

Signed, Mrs. Vivian Murray.

To Whom It May Concern: "For over 30 years I have been suffering from one doctor's office to another hoping to find someone to help me with my asthma and stomach condition. No one knows how much I had suffered until I came to Dr. Chan. Night after night I had to sit up because I wasn't able to lie down to sleep. I was coughing and wheezing most of the night. Besides my stomach was full of gas. After taking Dr. Chan's Natural Method for one week, I began to improve. Now after five months of continuous treatment, my asthma and stomach troubles are just about over. I wish to recommend this treatment to anyone who is anxious to get well. I am sure that Dr. Chan will do all he can to help you as he has helped me."

ROBERT MALLETT
Lectures on Austria

Vienna Film Programmed Three Nights

"Vienna and Austria" will be presented in the all-color Film Forum opening in Jordan auditorium Tuesday at 8 p. m. and scheduled for Wilson and Poly High auditoriums Wednesday and Thursday evenings respectively. Tickets will be available at Poly and Jordan only.

Narrator for the film, produced by Burton Holmes Travelogues, will be Robert Mallett, commentator and former naval intelligence officer. A graduate of Stanford, Mallett served as a correspondent in Europe and South America and during World War II was attached to the Secretary of the Navy's office.

Both the romantic past and the troubled present of Vienna and Austria are presented in the film, which ranges from the Vienna Woods and the Tyrolean folk-dancers to a sequence showing the changing of the guard between Russian and American members of Vienna's International Patrol.

Another sequence in the film shows the white Lipizans, Austrian horses trained to perform intricate ballet steps in outdoor shows.

NEW RECORDS AT CITY LIBRARY

Appreciation of good music and literature, as well as rhythmic coordination, is stimulated by the use of the children's recordings found at Long Beach Public Library.

A new listing offers "Cinderella" and "Pied Piper of Hamelin" in literature; "The King's Trumpet" as introduction to a musical instrument; and "Billy Rings the Bell," "Drummer Boy," "Jump Back Little Toad" and "Night Time" to inspire creative activity.

Most of the recordings purchased for children's use are still 78 rpm and are of durable plastic. Even the smallest child, with a library card of his own, may borrow these records.

Hill was on the West staff at the annual classic two years ago but last New Year's Day was busy with his own team in the Rose Bowl. Casanova served this year under Lynn Waldorf of California. Ward is a newcomer to the West staff.

Lopez will meet lanky hurler Johnny Gray of the Kansas City Athletics and Dark will play pitcher Bubba Church of the Chicago Cubs in the semifinal round this morning. The final for $5,000 in prizes will be held in the afternoon.

Lopez ousted former Detroit manager Freddie Hutchinson, 1 and 2, in the quarterfinals. Dark, who was only three strokes over par for 16 holes, eliminated Cincinnati manager Birdie Tebbitt, 5 and 3.

Gray defeated Lou Kretlow of the Baltimore Orioles, 1 up, and Church beat Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees, 2 and 1. In the other quarterfinal matches Gray, who won medalist honors shot a 78 and Kretlow a 79.

Jack Russell, formerly of the St. Louis Cardinals; George Abrams and Jack Sewell, both formerly of the Cincinnati Reds and Johnny Dell, a Chicago Cubs scout, entered the semifinals. The inactive major league division.

NINE STRAIGHT WINS

The Council Everett Schynowski's team knocked off nine successful rivals in their tour of the East and Midwest, including two victories over the 1954 national champions—the Jersey Wheelers—before packed houses in New York.

The Wheelers scored 525 points during the tour to the 31st for their combined opposition, with Fritz Krauth taking top honors with 190 points.

An unofficial spokesman for the team hinted Saturday night that the Wheelers are anxious to obtain the 1955 national tourney for Long Beach if a sponsor can be obtained. The national event has been held under the sponsorship of the New York 52 club for the past two years, but the dates and site for '55 tourney are still not set.

Rev. Bob Richards of Long Beach, Calif., one of the most consistent performers in U. S. track history, cleared 15 feet, 10 inches for the 64th and 65th time, to win that event at 15 feet, 3 inches. Earl Poucher of the University of Florida was second and Don

SANTA ANITA—Joe W. Brown's Gigantic, carrying the light impost of 105 pounds, raced to an upset victory by a length Saturday in the $60,000 San Antonio Handicap, the second of a day's program for little Roy Lumm at Santa Anita before 47,000 fans.

Gigantic, winner of the Louisiana Derby last year, came from the middle of the pack to catch the pace-setting Imbros in the stretch run of the mile and a eighth race's last big trial for the Santa Anita Handicap.

Determine, the Kentucky Derby winner, raced wide all the way and finished sixth, but as a entry with Imbros and Alleged his backers got something for their money through Imbros' place finish. Correspondent, who had forced the pace, was third and Joe Jones was fourth while the Irish-bred Poona II, expected to fight it out with Determine Gigantic raced the mile and a furling in 1:48 2/5, just a fifth of a second off Young Blood track record.

Gigantic returned $85.50, 22¢ and 11.30¢. The Crevolin crew paid $2.80 and 2.40 for Imbro and second, and Correspond paid $14.60 for show.

BIG DOUBLE

Lumn had the biggest day of his life as he captured the secondary feature, the $29,500 Santa Luis Rey Handicap with Alldred for a return of $112.80 and he came back with Gigantic. Lumn had just graduated from the apprentice ranks and his win at Alldred was his first as a full fledged jockey.

Imbro went out in front under handling of Johnny London and cut out a blistering pace in 1:35 3/5. But time for the heels came Correspond, running his best race since he captured the Gold Cup last summer. It was those two all the way around the track, with Alldred moving in third place and Phil

Lummi kept Gigantic well in the middle of the pack of leaders until the final turn where from sixth place he moved up with a rush and took aim on the leaders.

Going into the stretch it was Imbros still in front with Cypriote second but Gigantic had moved into third place as was coming on under his light impost. And at the eighth pole he got his head up in front of Imbros and gradually increased his lead to a little better than length at the finish.

EQUAL TO TASK
Lumm joyously reported that he had to go around a spread of five horses on the turn for home but Gigante was equal to the task and he added, "He's the best I've ever ridden."

Ray York commented that Determine would not take him and run and that he was "pumping him" down the back stretch. Longden also felt that his mount did not respond with His win payoff was the second highest recorded in a stakes race. Santa Anita, exceeded only by the $118.40 paid by Bayview in winning the 1941 Santa Anita Handicap.

Aldon returned $33.40 a place and $15.50 for show.

His time for the mile and half was 2:26 2/5, just two-fifths of a second off the track record for the turf. The day's harvest was $3,183,242.

ARCADIA (ET) — The Santa Anita Board of Stewards has suspended jockey Robert Summers a five-day suspension Saturday for causing interference in the first race Friday.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A 57-foot pole three on the 550-yard 9th putt gave Bud Holscher of Santa Monica, Calif., the lead in the $10,000 Tucson Open golf tournament at the end of the third round Saturday.

The long putt nettled him and Stan's nose bent. Warm weather has loosened the Texan's sore shoulder and he is now rated one of the most dangerous men in the field.

Bob Rosburg of San Francisco blamed his slipping to third place with a 202 on "just about the worst round I've played in 10 years." Even so, he was one under par with 69.

Fred Wampler of Indianapolis is playing steady, unpectacular golf and holds fourth place to himself with a 69 Saturday and a 203 total.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UP)—Bear Bryant said Saturday he isn't happy at Texas A&M, won't be happy until the Aggies start winning football games, but that no other school has asked for his services.

	He doesn't expect any job offers as long as he's a losing coach, the Aggie athletic director and head coach said.
don	This statement was part of his testimony in the Austin (Tex.) American-Statesman that he might be offered the same jobs at Louisiana State.
the	Bryant issued this statement:
and	"I have not been contacted by LSU or any other institution and don't think anyone would be interested in a coach who didn't win any games last season."

"He feels he can lick Olsen," I'll tell you how he feels about the match. I made it on Saturday and on Sunday he was in camp."

Olsen agreed that it would be a "good, lively scrap."

"I don't know how I'll fight him, but if I have to I'll change my style," said Olsen. "That's something Jones can't do. He has short arms and has to come inside to be effective."

Olsen hopes to defend his title twice this year, then move up against Archie Moore for the light-heavyweight title.

IN THIS CORNER

with DICK ZEHRM

Avery Brundage is going to Paris in June to sell the International Olympic Committee a bill of goods to abolish all point scoring systems in the XVIII Olympiad in Melbourne, Australia, in 1956. His mission is to point out the obvious fact that the degrees of success of competing nations are not, he claims, in accord with Olympic concepts. They first came to life in this country in the 1932 Olympiad at Los Angeles and although they vary numerically in many instances they have been in use ever since.

There is no legislative course to pursue in Olympic operations which will guarantee elimination of this practice which Brundage believes is so evil and detrimental. He might call upon the IOC to deny working press facilities to wire services and correspondents, as well as radio and television men. If they insist upon using point systems to sensationalize their reports to the public.

If he does, he will meet with failure since there are always groups operating on the fringe of the Olympic scene which will serve the same purpose. Over these the IOC can exercise no control whatsoever.

Neither the correspondents nor this group of hangers-on are the purists Brundage is. While he, the president of the IOC, is sold lock, stock and barrel on the Olympic principles, the correspondents and hangers-on are likewise sold on the Olympic scene which is the ultimate in amateur athletic classic to the reading, listening and looking public. Point tables to them are indispensable.

Brundage's present attitude obviously is based on the U. S. Russia rivalry which dominated the 1932 Olympic scene in Helsinki. He was there to see for himself the propaganda fodder created by the Soviet successes in three years ago. And in view of present world conditions and the USSR's rapid rise to athletic superiority in Europe, he anticipates an even more bitter struggle between these two powers in Melbourne.

Avery, with the soul of a purist, would like to stem this inevitable tide.

From all sources come reports that the harvest to be reaped by Russian contestants in 1936 will far exceed the 69 medals the disciples of Communism won in 1932. While the Americans were gathering 76, therefore, it appears that Brundage has an ulterior motive—"saving face" for U. S. by outlawing the point tables.

Nothing, however, could be farther from the truth, Avery, who has spent a lifetime in amateur and Olympic athletic supervision, is above such tactics. He is dedicated to the Olympic cause above all else.

At Paris a terrific political battle is destined to take place June 13-17 when the IOC meets. Russia is fully aware of the propaganda value of Olympic achievement and will fight right down to the last "political" purge to gain its end—athletic superiority over the U. S. This is hardly the time anybody should expect Russia to play the role of the good sport, particularly on the eve of its greatest bloodless triumph.

In recent times, the Olympic games have degenerated into nothing more than a battle for international prestige. Avery abhors this very thought and holds that the sanctity of Olympic competition comes first. In this fight he will be virtually a lone wolf.

After the IOC president makes his recommendation, with the IOC committee men line up according to their political affiliations. Good sportsmanship will fly out the window. The influence of the hammer and sickle will be so strong that Brundage's proposal will be vigorously and decisively defeated.

Of this you can be certain. Avery Brundage will go down to defeat, but go down to defeat fighting he will. It is the misfortune of his age that U. S.—Russia rivalry in all phases of life transcends Olympic principles.

OPINION DEPT. Bill Sauer, University of Hawaii basketball coach, sabbatical leave, is high on the University of San Francisco Dons. Asked how he thought they would come out in a game with Kentucky's Wildcats on a neutral court with neutral officials, Bill observed: "If USF played as it did against California, I'd pick the Dons to whip the Wildcats. I've seen Kentucky and there is no question but what Adolph Rupp has a great team, but I'd be inclined to string along with the Dons."

Shades of UCLA vs. Ohio State!

GEM. Knute Rockne was famous for many original bon mots in football, but few people realize that he once put together some words which will live forever in college ice hockey circles. It was 1921 when the immortal coach was athletic director as well as head football coach at Notre Dame. During the off season, the muscular young Irish griddon giants developed a yearning for some kind of violent exercise. They commissioned Hartley (Hunk) Anderson, who became Notre Dame's head coach when Rockne was killed in a plane crash in Kansas, to seek out Rock and gain his permission for Notre Dame to have an ice hockey team. Rock's reply: "No, no, Hunk, I'll never be a fool to any game that puts a club in the hands of an Irishman."

To this day Notre Dame has never had a college ice hockey team.

'YOU'RE THE MANAGER'

Pinch-Hitters vs. Relievers

By BEN OLAN
(Editor of a Series)

NEW YORK (AP)—If every one of the big league baseball managers had a guy like Dusty Rhodes on the bench, they'd have no qualms about using pinch-hitters.

They're not all so fortunate as New York Giants manager Leo Durocher, however. The Detroit Tigers, for example, used 13 pinch-hitters at the start of last season before one came through. Later in the year, 11 and then 10 pinch-swingers in a row failed to produce a hit for the Tigers.

Good relief pitchers, too, are hard to find these days and a manager has to think twice (or more) before making a change. Here's another opportunity for grandstand managers to test their wits with the major league masterminds in a game of "You're the Manager."

Would you have used a pinch-hitter or a relief pitcher in any of the following five situations? Score one for yourself if the strategy you decided on would have worked to your advantage. A score of four or five indicates your ouija board is in good working order.

1. You're managing the Pittsburgh Pirates (at home). The game against the Milwaukee Braves is tied, 1-1, in the last of the 9th with Warren Spahn (L) pitching for the Braves.

There is one out when Sid Gorss singles and Luis Marquez runs for him. Jim Mangon flies out. Then Curt Roberts singles and Dick Hall walks, filling the bases. Vernon Law (R), the Pirates' starting pitcher, is the next batter.

WOULD YOU:
A. Put in a pinch-hitter for Law?
B. Let Law bat?
C. Gamble on a steal of home?

2. You're managing the Philadelphia Phillies (at home). John McCall (L) is pitching for the New York Giants and the score is tied, 1-1, in the last of the 10th. Bobby Morgan opens with a walk and is sacrificed to second by Willie Jones. Stan Lopata is intentionally walked. Curt Simmons (L), the Phil's starter, is the next hitter with Richie Ashburn (L) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Order Simmons to sacrifice?
B. Let Simmons swing away?
C. Pinch-hit for Simmons?

3. You're managing the Braves (away). The Braves are leading the Giants, 4-1, in the last of the 9th with Lew Burdette (R) on the mound. Ray Katt walks to open the inning. Pinch-hitters Dusty Rhodes and Bill Taylor are easy outs.

But Davey Williams' grounder is fumbled by shortstop Johnny Logan, putting New York runners on first and second. Alvin Dark doubles to left, scoring one run and advancing Williams to third. Don Mueller (L) is the next hitter with Hank Thompson (L) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Walk Mueller to get to Thompson?
B. Replace Burdette with a left-hander?
C. Leave Burdette in?

4. You're managing the Chicago White Sox (at home). Billy Pierce (L) is pitching for the Sox, who lead Cleveland, 4-2, in the top of the 8th. There is one out when Bobby Avila walks. Dave Philley grounds out, but Al Rosen and Larry Doby walk to fill the bases. Rudy Regalado (R) is the next batter with George Strickland (R) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Replace Pierce with a right-hander?
B. Leave him in?
C. You're managing the Giants (at home). Johnny Antonelli (L) is pitching for the Giants, who lead the Phils, 3-2, in the top of the 8th. Richie Ashburn and a sacrifice bunt by Stan Lopata moves the runners to second and third. Granny Hamner (R) is the next batter with Del Ennis (R) and Bobby Morgan (4) to follow.

WOULD YOU:
A. Replace Antonelli with a right-hander?
B. Walk Hamner intentionally?
C. Pitch to Hamner?

5. You're managing the Philadelphia Phillies (at home). Danney Schell (R) bats for Simmons and singles as Phillies win, 2-1 (Sept. 25).

6. Chet Nichols (L) replaces Burdette and strikes out Mueller as Braves win, 4-2 (Aug. 7).

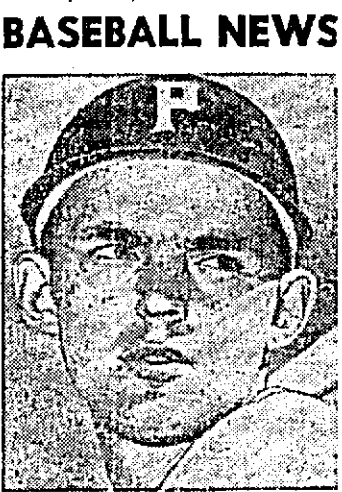

7. Virgil Trucks (R) replaces Pierce and gets Regalado to ground out, ending the rally. Chicago wins, 4-2 (May 25).

8. Hamner is intentionally passed, but Ennis singles to left for two runs and the Phils win, 4-3 (Sept. 17).

LOCAL BOY EYES REGULAR JOB

Wilson Signs A's Contract, Thomas Nixes Bucs' Offer

(Compiled from AP and UP)

Bill Wilson, former Jordan High athlete, was among seven Kansas City players whose signed contracts were received Saturday by the Athletics' front office. In addition to the long-hitting outfielder, pitchers Bill Oster, Sonny Dixon and Hal Raether, and infielders Hector Lopez, Pete Suder and Hal Bevan came to terms.

Wilson, who joined the A's last season after opening with the Chicago White Sox, is considered a good prospect for the starting centerfield job, the club's front office said.

Elsewhere on the baseball front Saturday the news was as follows:

PIRATES: General Manager Branch Rickey declared after a long conference with star outfielder Frank Thomas, "We could have one holdout." Thomas, who hit 28 homers last year, reportedly wants $18,000; Rickey is still in the neighborhood of $15,000.

YANKS: Outfielder Irv Noren, a pleasant surprise in an otherwise disappointing season, signed his 1938 contract for an estimated $20,000. Mickey Mantle's younger brother Ray will wear No. 7 at Yanks' training school which begins next Tuesday. Twin brother Ray will wear Andy Carey's No. 6.

RED SOX: Signed contracts have been received from pitcher Dick Brodowski and outfielder Faye Thorneberry, both back from two years military service, club announced Saturday.

PIES: Southpaw pitching star Warren Spahn agreed to terms via telephone conversation with general manager John Quinn. No figure was announced.

CARDINALS: Bill Sarni, who surprised one and all by hitting an even .300 and leading league's catchers with .986 fielding average, signed his 1938 contract. Also coming to terms were pinch hitter Joe Frazier, catcher Hal Smith and infielder Jerry Thomas.

PHILS: Right-handed pitcher James Owens, voted the International League's rookie of the year last season, has signed his 1938 contract, the Philadelphia club announced. Owens won 17, lost nine for Syracuse in 1937.

SEALS (PCL): Outfielder Clarence Maddern, traded during the winter from Seattle to San Francisco, returned his signed contract. Maddern hit .270 and hit 12 home runs in 141 games for the Suds last year.

Riley Putts Way to Win
PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Tournament veteran Polly Riley steadied her erratic putting when it counted despite the chilly winds Saturday to defeat young Joanne Goodwin of Plymouth, Mass., one up for the Women's Golf Championship of Palm Beach.

It was the Ft. Worth veteran's third Palm Beach title. She retired the Mrs. Flagger trophy for the first time since Maureen Orcutt captured the tournament for the third time in 1934.

Miss Goodwin, the daughter of a Plymouth, Mass., professional who winters here, took the first hole when Miss Riley missed a five-foot putt, but the Texan evened it up on the third and was never behind after that.

TITLE BOUT OFF

Italian Ring Champ Shot
ARIZZO, Italy (AP)—Mario d'Agata, 29-year-old dent man who is bantamweight champion of Italy, Saturday was gravely wounded in a shooting fray. He was to have fought in San Francisco March 9 against Raoul Macias in a world title match.

Police said d'Agata and his mother, Rosa, were shot during an argument with the manager of a laundry.

Taken to a hospital, d'Agata was pronounced in "very grave" condition with gunshot wounds in the stomach.

Giovanni Feylyo, 50-year-old manager of the laundry, was held on an assault charge. D'Agata returned only recently from a tour of Australia.

The HOT CORNER

Does playing golf affect a ballplayer's batting swing? That's a question that has caused many hot controversies down through the years.

There was a time, of course, when it was "verboten" for a ballplayer to play golf. Managers were afraid that they would carry their golf swing to the plate with them.

But now you'll find a good majority of the ballplayers getting in a lot of golf during the winter months between seasons. Not much golf is played during the regular season, though, and golf is confined to an occasional friendly game to ease the tension of the pennant race.

And the managers not only approve of golf now . . . but they play right along with the players.

Many fans undoubtedly hear of ballplayers being on the golf course almost every day during the winter months and playing in many tournaments and figure that's all they have to do.

But there is more to it than that. Golf has become a popular conditioner for baseball.

For one thing, you use the same muscles swinging a golf club as you do swinging a bat. You have a different grip with each one, but that does not form any bad habits. For instance, when I go to bat my golf grip or golf swing never enters my mind.

Golf not only is good to keep your back muscles in shape, but also your arms, wrists and hands and, of course, it is wonderful for the legs.

Thus, as far as most baseball men are concerned, there no longer is any controversy over golf. They think it's good for the players!

ANOTHER "HOT STOVE LEAGUE" TOPIC That apparently never will be settled is whether the ballplayers of today are superior or inferior to the oldtime stars.

While it is a question that never can be answered to everyone's satisfaction, I have some very definite ideas on the subject. First of all, the game today and that of yesteryear are much different in many ways.

Today, the playing fields, equipment, travel and playing conditions are much superior to that of say 35 to 50 years ago when such greats roamed the major leagues as Honus Wagner, Ty Cobb, Christy Mathewson, Cy Young, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, etc.

Instruction, techniques in all phases of play, I feel, makes for a much better game today. Then, too, there is the difference in the baseballs themselves. The oldtimers played with a dead ball . . . while we use the so-called "rabbit ball," which, of course, has changed much of baseball's strategy because it has produced an arm of long ball hitters who go for the fences.

Back of the old days, you were a tremendous hitter if you batted out as many as three or four homers a year.

I personally feel that a great number of our players today would have been outstanding stars in the old days.

For one thing, it is pretty safe to say that, except for a few outstanding performers, there were not nearly as many good players around in the old days as we have today.

I FEEL THAT SOME OF THE OLDTIMERS would not have been able to compile their fabulous records had they played ball the way we play it today.

This, I believe, would be particularly so in the case of the pitchers. Where the oldtimers had only two or three good hitters to worry about, nowadays a pitcher must bear down even against the bottom half of the batting order.

Because of this, starting pitchers are not always expected to go the route. They bear down hard all the way and go as far as possible and then give way to a "fireman" to finish up.

The "dead ball" and the lack of as many dangerous hitters plus the fact the oldtime pitchers were able to resort to all kinds of tricks to doctor a ball gave them a definite edge on the batters which pitchers today don't have.

Defensively, too, the oldtime fielders didn't have to worry about balls going over their heads because of the "dead ball" and could play in closer to the infield to cut off drives that now go for hits. But they wouldn't be able to do that now because of the "rabbit ball."

Then, too, quantity in most cases will breed a certain amount of quality. And with thousands upon thousands of kids playing ball today with the hopes of making baseball a career, we can't help but produce more good players than in the old days!

LAUGH OF THE WEEK: You often hear stories about dumb and glibbie rookies in baseball . . . and while fans get a chuckle out of them, it is hard to believe that anyone could really be that dumb.

But early in my baseball career, a bunch of us were having breakfast one morning during spring training and discussing a horse race won by the immortal Seabiscuit the day before.

As one of the new rookies from the back country walked up and sat down, one of the veterans happened to say "That Seabiscuit is sure good!"

Then, to the astonishment of all, the rookie waved aside the men, looked up at the waiter and "knowingly" ordered: "orange juice, cereal, ham and eggs . . . and a double order of Seabiscuit!"

RACING ROUNDUP

Hasty House, Adams Gain Hialeah Sweep

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Hasty House in the Abraham Lincoln Purse, and Prince Norr came from far back to win the $35,050 Everglades.

Jockey Johnny Adams, who arrived Friday night from Santa Anita, was aboard both winners. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's well-regarded Social Outcast, early favorite in the Abraham Lincoln, was a late scratch and Hasty House's entry of Hasty Road and Stan went postward the even money choice in the mile and a furlong event.

Montpelier's Saratoga, 6 to 5 choice in the Everglades, was left at the post and finished last. Saratoga, carrying 126 pounds with Joe Culmore riding, reared just as the gate was opened and then wheeled as the other speedy 3-year-olds swept past the stands.

Culmore straightened his mount but the black colt was never better than 12th in the field of 15.

Prince Norr ran the mile and a furlong in 1:51 over a fast track and paid $24.50, $13.80 and $6.30. Amber's Folly returned $7.30 and $4.70 for place. The show price on Ambient was $1.30.

Hasty Road ran the mile and a furlong in 1:49 4/5 and paid $4.00, $2.60 and $2.30. Cerise Reine in second returned $4.70 and $3.40 and the show price on Maharajah was $3.70.

At the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, N. Hal Bishop's Skeptical Kid won the two-year-old half-length victory over Judge Ray K. in the $7,475 Duncan Kenner Stakes.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

The Long Beach Sportsman's Club, now in its 18th year, passed another milestone Saturday night and a fresh crew of officers took the helm at the annual installation and dinner-dance.

Everett Van Winkle became president, succeeding J. C. Morse. Others installed were Harry DuBay, vice president;

EVERETT VAN WINKLE
Sportsman's Club Chief

Elmer Vance, secretary; Bill Oakley, treasurer; and Jack Bowman, sergeant-at-arms. Those officers and J. C. Morse, Ivan Bowman and Cecil Blumenstein will serve as directors.

Morse was appointed to act as the LBSC representative to the Southern Council of Conservation Clubs.

It was another "good" year for the LBSC. The club donated generous amounts of money to Ducks Unlimited and the Ocean Fish Protective Association. It also modernized the kitchen and its companion club of women, the Lady Anglers, donated a stainless-steel steam table.

The club meets at its own home, 3625 Santa Fe Ave., every Monday night and its purpose is to promote clean sportsmanship among lovers of the outdoors. The club, which was constructed by its own members, is a large building, with lounge and dining rooms, a big meeting room, kitchen and storage room. The members also built their outdoor patio and a casting pool, both of which are used extensively in the summer and early fall.

TROUT SEASON SET
You can set your sights on Saturday, April 30, for the opening of trout season in Southern California. Inyo and Mono Counties and other central Sierra Nevada areas are embraced in what we normally call Southern California.

The northern Sierra section will open May 14, two weeks ahead of last year's season, with Mariposa, Tuolumne, Calaveras and Amador Counties added to the present Inyo, Del Norte and Humboldt Counties and the Eel River drainage basin, will be opened May 28.

These changes are as good as law right now, even though the Fish and Game Commission won't deliver its final decision.

Rockets Eye '55 Opener
Idle while football grabbed the spotlight and the weatherman kept a ready eye on the tarpaulin, Bill Feistner's classy semipro nine, the Long Beach Rockets, returns to action here next Sunday.

The Rockets, annually one of the top semipro clubs in the state, are scheduled to open the 1955 season against St. Mary's of San Pedro at Recreation Park. It will be their first start since Nov. 14. On Sunday, Feb. 27, the Rockets meet the L. A. All-Stars here in a final tuneup before facing the Los Angeles Angels at Fullerton, March 6.

Feistner expects most of his regulars to return for this year's campaign. Last season the Rockets won 28 of 34 games en route to the Winter League championship.

Bud Daley, who posted a 13-8 mark for Sacramento in his rookie season last year, may pitch for the Rockets until he reports to the Solons' spring camp.

Other Rocket regulars include first baseman Jack Graham, former major league and PCL slugger; Bob Carter, a hard-hitting outfielder; defensive ace and centerfielder George Selfridge, and shortstop veteran Red Meairs.

NL Hockey Scores
New York 5, Boston 3 (tie).
Detroit 2, Toronto 1.

Poly-Jordan Tilt Heads Local Slate

Poly and Jordan clash head-on Thursday night at the Long Beach City College gym with the Coast League lead and the mythical city championship at stake in the feature game on this week's heavy basketball slate.

The Hares and Panthers have identical 7-1 records in league play and both have defeated Wilson High—so the Thursday night fray looms as one of the most important prep games of the year. A capacity crowd is expected for the tilt.

Long Beach City College will battle tough East L. A. Tuesday night in a Jaycee headliner, while Long Beach State has three games this week.

In addition to basketball, spring sports move into the local picture this week with a track meet, a golf match and a baseball game on tap. The week's schedule:

THURSDAY
Basketball—Long Beach City College at East Los Angeles, 8 p. m.; Long Beach State College at Long Beach, 7 p. m.; Lynwood at Wilson, 8 p. m.; Redondo at Long Beach, 8 p. m.; Long Beach JV at Long Beach, 8 p. m.; Long Beach JV at Long Beach, 8 p. m.

WEDNESDAY
Basketball—Black Foxes at Poly, 7:30 p. m.; St. Anthony's at Notre Dame, 7 p. m.; St. Anthony's at Notre Dame, 7 p. m.; St. Anthony's at Notre Dame, 7 p. m.

FRIDAY
Basketball—Poly vs. Jordan at LBCC gym, 8 p. m.; Redondo at Long Beach, 8 p. m.; Redondo at Long Beach, 8 p. m.

SATURDAY
Basketball—Long Beach State at Cal Poly of San Diego, 8 p. m.; Long Beach City College at El Camino, 8 p. m.; Wilson at Redondo, 8 p. m.; Wilson at Redondo, 8 p. m.; Wilson at Redondo, 8 p. m.

SUNDAY
Basketball—Castro at Long Beach State, 8 p. m.

AL Hockey Scores
Harvard 9, Providence 3.
Buffalo 9, Cleveland 5.
Pittsburgh 3, Springfield 0.

City Loop in Playoffs

City League basketball playoffs begin Tuesday night in the Franklin, Rogers and Washington Jr. High gymnasiums with the single elimination games in the "D" division.

The A, B and C division teams then go into action on Wednesday and competition in all directions will continue until the finals, March 7-8 at Wilson High.

Garner TV and the Franklin Cobras start the playoffs with a 7:15 p. m. game at Franklin Tuesday and two other games will follow in that gym. The same situation prevails at Rogers and Washington where 2nd Presbyterian meets 1st Church of Brethren Bees and U. P. Question Marks take on Garfield Baptist in 7:15 openers.

The first class A games on Wednesday pit Barnes & DeLaney against New Hope Baptist and Coast Guard vs. Bond Stove Works at Poly.

The class A division is the only double elimination portion of the playoffs. Oliver's Rose Room is defending champion.

Szabo Faces Great Bolo in 'Aud' Main

The Great Bolo, an unusually despoiled grappler, returns to Long Beach after a long "cooling off" period Thursday night when he headlines the professional wrestling production at the Municipal Auditorium against ever-popular Sandor Szabo.

This time around the circuit Bolo has added to his self-styled name and comes up with "Master Great Bolo," though all three are open to question. But that he is a rough rasser is not questioned in any quarters.

Tom Rice, formerly Bolo's partner in a tag team that had considerable success in the Southland, is back also. He goes against Alo Lellani in a two of three falls 45 minute semimain. The top bout has an hour limit.

Jungle Boy, substitute in a recent show here, comes back—with all his hair—to match holds with Vic Christy in the special event and Joe Blanchard opens action at 8:30 against Mike DeBlase.

Turpin Tries Comeback Monday

LONDON (AP)—A familiar figure who has known far better days comes down from the hills of North Wales Monday to put on boxing gloves again and try to recapture the cash and the fame that slipped away.

Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion and the man who whipped Ray Robinson when that was a tremendous feat, opens a comeback after one of the greatest comebacks in boxing.

The opposition is little known Ray Schmidt of Luxembourg, a durable, never-knocked out lightweight whose record includes too many defeats to stamp him as anything but an "opponent." The bout will be in the small 4,500-seat Embassy Sportsdrome in Birmingham.

Unattractive as the fight may sound, the fans of the boxing-starved English midlands already have made it a sellout.

Instead of ranking with Sir Winston Churchill, the Duke of Edinburgh and Sir Anthony Eden among the most talked about men in London, Turpin is now infrequently mentioned. They all say he has worked hard by his brief stories on Turpin's serious and settled now than he condition and his method of was just before losing to Bobo training. At 26, he is slower and Olson in a world title fight in heavier. He will weigh about 170. New York in the autumn of 1953.

NO BANANAS IN MOSCOW

Ideology Still Can't Alter Nature's Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The late Comrade Nikolai Ivanovich Vavilov can be pardoned a ghostly laugh.

A world-famous Russian agricultural scientist, Vavilov was driven from high office and to death by some of the men whose bumbling caused Georgi Malenkov to admit, last week, that there was serious trouble down on the collective farm.

And today, 16 years after Vavilov's last futile plea for scientific freedom, the new Soviet rulers seem to be inching toward it.

"There is a realization on top that without some freedom and controversy in science there can be no practical progress," Dr. Lazar Volin, a U. S. Agriculture Department specialist on Soviet agriculture, told the United Press.

Soviet development of improved crops and livestock has lagged far behind other countries largely because Vavilov and other scientists were purged. Their studies of genetics and the science of genetics were banned because they contradicted the Communist theory that environment can make basic changes in all living things.

Agricultural research was placed under direction of a Stalin favorite, Trofim Lysenko. But Lysenko's efforts to substitute party doctrines for scientific fact failed to produce higher-yielding wheat, and corn.

A practical plant breeder, Lysenko knew nothing about science. But Communist party officials, needing someone to spearhead their attack on genetics, began building him up in the 1930's.

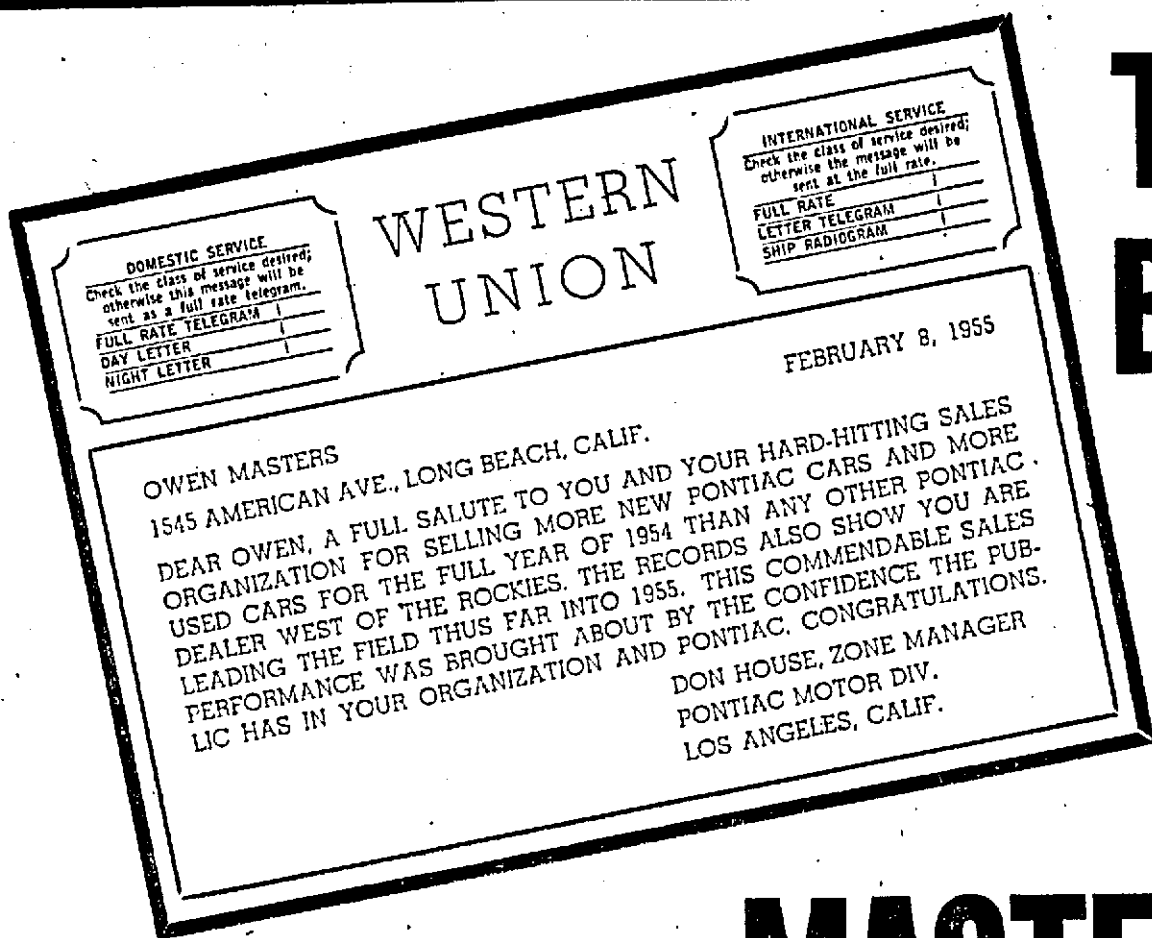

In 1935, Vavilov told a foreign visitor who was disgusted by Lysenko's ignorance, "He may find out how to grow bananas in Moscow. He does no harm, and some day may do some good."

Four years later, Lysenko denounced Vavilov. The famed scientist was accused first of promoting Nazi theories and then of being a British spy. He was sent to Siberia where he died as Lysenko replaced him at the head of the Academy of Agricultural Sciences.

No bananas grew in Moscow. And one agricultural failure piled on another. Lysenko's power began to fade after Stalin's death. Last year the one-time dictator of Soviet agricultural science came under attack from Nikita Khrushchev, now the top man in Moscow.

Lysenko still holds his post, but the regimented papers and magazines which blasted Vavilov at his direction 16 years ago criticize him.

433 PINE AVE. DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH

Van Dell's Announce Remodeling Program

Continuing the trend of improving downtown Long Beach retail establishments, Van Dell's, 400 American Ave., announce a $50,000 remodeling and modernization program already under way.

Voicing great faith in the future of downtown Long Beach the owners of the property and management of the store said when completed the building will be one of the most outstanding and modern in Southern California.

RE-ELECTED

Virgil B. Gillespie, vice president and manager of the Security-First National Bank, Long Beach branch, has been re-elected president of the Long Beach Clearinghouse. Other officers elected include: R. A. Reid, vice president of the California Bank, vice president; F. Karl Grassie, assistant cashier of Bank of America, 4th and Pine Ave., secretary and manager.

N. L. B. Realtors to Hear Officers

The North Long Beach Real Estate Club meeting will be held at the Cottage Grill, 5242 Atlantic Ave., Wednesday, Bill Meyers, director of public relations for Long Beach Police Department, will speak on "Traffic Safety," followed by a film on "Motorman." Program chairman of the day will be R. Vaughn McCray.

The exterior of the store will have an 8-foot marquee accented with Roman brick pillars with gleaming new plate glass windows.

The interior sales floor will be remodeled and modernized in every department in keeping with the modern motif of the exterior.

In May, 1944, Van Dell's opened here, specializing in draperies, curtains, linens, bedding and outstanding interior decorating. Through the years they have stressed quality merchandise at fair prices, with courteous and dependable service, reports R. R. Dudley, president and general manager, and this policy has brought big results with the store seeing continued success year after year.

A new long-term lease has been signed for the building with Fabe Blockman, realtor who specializes in downtown properties, representing the owners, Miss Beatrice L. Hughes and Victor B. Stewart, as well as Dudley in the leasing and remodeling program.

Party Monday Night at Ralphs Market

In celebration of their 82nd anniversary, Ralphs Grocery Co. is giving a series of birthday parties for entire communities where their markets are located.

The Long Beach store, 2024 E. 10th St., will hold the party from 7 to 9 p. m. Monday. Free refreshments will include birthday cake, ice cream, pie, coffee, soft drinks or milk, olives and potato chips. Some attractive prizes are to be awarded including TV sets, rotisseries, deep fryers and liquidizers. No purchases are required for those attending the party.

Builders to Dine

Members of the Builders Exchange of Long Beach will hold a dinner meeting Monday evening in the Lafayette Hotel Ballroom. It will be Bart Burgin's first meeting as president. Les Dahl is arranging the program.

VAN DELL'S GETS NEW LOOK

Building for the future, Van Dell's, 400 American Ave., is undergoing a $50,000 modernization program. This artist's conception shows how the store will appear when the program is completed.

Banker Sees Great Future in L. B. Area

Predicting a remarkably scheduled to appear at Town Hall in a series of Loan Forums, Frank H. Champlin, vice president of the Bank of America, sponsored for the benefit of local president of the Bank of America personnel by the Harbor and head of the bank's real estate chapter of the AIB, estate lending operations. About 125 bankers from the local throughout Southern California, banks were on hand to hear Champlin's discussion of Wednesday evening.

Introduced by Roland E. Rob- was Los Angeles County's second highest building year. Champlin, vice president and manager of the Bank of America's Fourth and Pine Ave. office, Champlin discussed some of the major problems of current real estate lending practices, and concluded his remarks with the prediction that 1955 would be a good year of less than boom proportions, and that values in real estate could be expected to remain high because we are running out of acreage to subdivide.

This "Loan Forum" series will be continued on Feb. 16 with a discussion by Forrest Peterson of the California Bank's Los Angeles office of the "Installment Loan Picture for 1955," and concluded on Feb. 23rd with a discussion of "The Work Out" by Russell T. Adams, vice president of the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles. All of these meetings will be held at Town Hall, Eighth St. and Locust Ave. in Long Beach.

REALTOR OF WEEK

J. L. Bentley Helps Build Much of North Long Beach

Virtually raised in a saw mill with some ranching experience in Canada, James L. Bentley, honored as this week's Realtor of the Week, has been dealing in the sale of land and properties since 1909. He has been actively engaged in realty in Long Beach since 1923.

Born in Michigan in the lumber country, Bentley learned to

"in preference to the cold, sooty winters and the sticky, humid summers which were enhanced by the smell of rubber reclaiming plants."

After high school and business college training, she embarked on a career at the age of 16 as a bookkeeper on the Scripps-Howard newspaper. From there she followed selling in department stores, managing restaurants and handled automotive contracts, all of which gave her valuable experience in meeting the public.

When she told her husband, Robert L. Stotler, that she planned to try real estate he doubted her success, saying, "you are too honest." She added that the realty profession here proved him that it was nothing like those he had known in former years and she became associated with Herschel Hart. "My husband soon ate his words," she added.

"I enjoy my work tremendously for each prospect is a challenge—to find the right house for the buyer or the right buyer for a house. My ambition is to specialize in quality built homes and my slogan is 'To thine own self be true and thou canst then be true to any man.'"

Sandra Glen Homes Offer Great Appeal

Non-vets and their families have accepted with enthusiasm Sandra Glen Homes in the heart of Garden Grove, where for $495 down, including costs and impounds, they are able to move into the home of their dreams.

Located on homesites with bearing orange trees, Sandra Glen Homes feature 2 bedrooms and a den that can easily be converted into a bedroom, separate dining space, genuine plaster walls, ceramic tile in both the kitchen and bath, sliding glass walls, pullman bath, mahogany cabinets, select oak floors, open beamed ceiling, forced air heat, fireproof roof, garbage disposals, concealed laundry room, and decorative planters in the living room.

Full price of a Sandra Glen Home is $10,495. Reasonable monthly payments are easily arranged.

Dedicated to better community living, Sandra Glen Homes are located on Sandra Place, a non-through street insuring safety for children. All the homes are within walking distance of the main business district of Garden Grove as well as schools, elementary through junior college.

These modified ranch homes, erected on spacious lots averaging 60x135 ft., feature 1064 sq. ft. of living space. Large backyards provide ample space for the construction of a patio at the home-buyer's discretion. Outstanding exterior highlights include reduced trim and overhanging eavestroughs.

Present popularity of Sandra Glen Homes is reflected by brisk sales since the tract opened a week ago. Bob Hauge, president of Robert Realty Co., Sandra Glen sales agents, reports.

Accessible to the metropolitan Los Angeles area via the Santa Ana Freeway and to all places in Southern California, Sandra Glen Homes are open for inspection seven days a week. To reach the tract, motorists take the Santa Ana Freeway to either Euclid or Harbor Blvd. Located half way between the two, the motorist then drives along Garden Grove Blvd. to Sandra Place and turns south to see the homes at the end of the street.

ONLY IMPOUNDS DOWN FOR VETS

After a successful preview last week, Jewett Bros. will hold the formal presentation of their latest development in East Anaheim today. The large homes, one of which is shown here, sell to vets for nothing down except impounds.

Big East Anaheim Homes in Formal Opening Today

Preview visitors at Executive Homes, 20x22, available homes in East Anaheim last week, and fully week end made several reservations. Landscaped front yards are more Executive Home qualities.

Buyers will find smart efficiency kitchens, according to Hart, planned for step-saving convenience, complete with Westinghouse garbage disposals, knotty pine or Philippine mahogany cabinets, colored tile drainboards and the walk-in pantries.

Floors throughout the homes are No. 1 selected oak, and painted walls over genuine lath and plaster are other features of construction. Forced air heating, double steel sash windows, wardrobes, closets, touch-plate wiring with a central control panel, and 50-gallon water tanks are more Model dwellings. In the preferred residential area of Anaheim, are on South St., just west of Placentia Ave. From Long Beach, visitors drive out Carson St. (Center St. in Anaheim) to Placentia Ave., turn south to South St. and west to the modern homes. From northern points, visitors may drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Center St., turn left to Placentia Ave. and to Executive Homes.

Report Buying Rush in Magnolia Estates

Rush of buying last week at Magnolia Estates has resulted in the sale of 66 of 99 three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes making up the first unit, it was announced by Louis A. Towne, president, and Richard H. Doremus, vice president, of Exhibit Homes, Inc.

As a result construction will be speeded at the new residential community in Anaheim, located on the west side of Magnolia Ave., between La Palma and Crescent Aves., just south of the Santa Ana Freeway, it was stated.

"Buyers tell us they wish to get away from the congested area and yet be near Anaheim's well-established community services, schools, churches, shopping centers and theaters, as well as having quick access to downtown Los Angeles and other key employment centers via the freeway and fast arterials," the developers reported.

Terms for veterans feature no cash down, not even for costs or impounds, with monthly payments from $81, including principal and interest, it was noted.

Priced from $11,950, the new homes offer such features as thermostat-controlled forced-air heating, all metal sliding glass doors, steel sash windows, decorator-planned color schemes, lath and plaster construction, custom lighting fixtures, picture windows, ceramic tile kitchen counters, all chrome bath accessories, stall showers with ceramic tile floors and large dining nooks in the kitchens.

Other features include 40 to 50-gallon water heaters, rock-wool insulation, large service areas, front and rear door chimneys, and in some models there are pantry closets.

The property is reached via the Santa Ana Freeway which is followed past Orangefield to Magnolia Ave., turning south on Magnolia to the model homes just south of La Palma on the west side of Magnolia.

work in sawmills at an early age and then after moving to Alberta for farming experience he ventured into real estate, selling Canadian farm land.

He came to Long Beach in July, 1923, and built a home at 27 E. 53th St., where he still resides. He was one of four partners who formed the Wheel Realty Co. in August, 1923, and now is the sole owner of that business at 5151 Long Beach Blvd., which he terms the oldest real estate office in North Long Beach.

"When we began business we were selling lots for $3 down and $3 a week and the price was low I won't mention it," recalls Bentley.

During the depression days, Bentley ventured into bookkeeping, notary, insurance and realty combined "to keep away the wolf," and he still offers those services.

He and his wife, Mabel, have three daughters, a son and 11 grandchildren, all living in Long Beach. He is a charter member of the Uptown Kiwanis Club, is secretary and collector for the North Long Beach Extension Water Co. and has been active in the building of North Long Beach.

BUENA PARK HOME

Families Move Into Buena Plaza Homes

First 67 families have moved into their new 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes at Aldon Construction Co.'s new $50,000,000 Buena Plaza residential community now rising at Miller St. and La Palma Ave., near Knott's Berry Farm, in Buena Park.

This was reported by an Aldon spokesman who said move-ins already scheduled for the next week will bring in an additional 35 families.

Meanwhile, construction is being accelerated as heavy sales were noted in the final section of 250 "Masterpiece Series" homes now rising in Buena Park Plaza's first unit.

Terms for veterans feature no cash down, even for costs and impounds. It was pointed out by E. (Billy) Hamburg, general sales agent, who reported many sales to non-vets on newly-arranged low terms.

"Both vets and non-vets continue to elect to have built-in Western Holly Deluxe ovens and ranges, with clock controls, installed in their homes as an optional feature," he stated.

Cost for both built-in oven and range, which is offered in five pastel colors as well as stainless steel and copper, is an additional $1.94 per month added to low vets' monthly terms of $71.49 for both principal and interest.

Large crowds were reported both weekends and weekdays at Aldon's display of six model homes, all fully furnished by Aaron Schultz. The homes, which typify 22 diversified designs from which buyers may choose, as well as a wide variety of floor plans and color schemes, are open daily from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Buyers have a choice of provincial, colonial, modern or farmhouse architectural stylings, all based on scientifically designed floor plans.

Buena Plaza is reached from Los Angeles via the Santa Ana Freeway, past Norwalk, to Valley View Ave., turning south to the property. From Long Beach, the route is Carson St., which becomes Lincoln Ave., to Miller St., then north to the six model homes.

Report Big Gain

Fred H. Massey, Orville Yearout, and Walter P. Redman, local representatives of Standard Insurance Company attended a company meeting in Fresno last week. The meeting was in recognition of Standard's outstanding sales record in 1932. Edwin A. Phillips, vice president and superintendent of Agencies for Standard, said that the company had a record year, with total sales showing a 40 per cent gain over 1931.

Banner Park Now Renting With Option to Purchase

A new "rent-with-option-to-buy" plan in Banner Park was announced today by Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents for the three-bedroom, two-bath subdivision in Garden Grove. Hart said the plan is aimed at persons who are uncertain about their future but desire a new home for their families until their status is determined. Thus, if the tenant chooses to buy the dwelling, a portion of the rent paid will be applied to the down payment on the home. This opportunity, coupled with the high quality of construction and appealing architecture of the homes, will hasten the occupancy of the homes, it was noted, which have maintained a rapid sales record since the opening. Priced from $11,500, the homes are available to veterans for no down payment. Non-veterans can buy with FHA financing, it was revealed. Monthly payments are approximately $67. Visitors may inspect models, open daily and evening to 9, by driving out Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) or Westminster to Harbor and turning south on Harbor to Hazard and Banner Park.

Brookhurst Plaza's Futura Homes Open

Preview this weekend of Brookhurst Plaza Futura Homes promises to be an event of high interest to families desiring a real home of the future, revealed Frank Hart, Sales Manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents. Finest points of contemporary and conventional stylings have been combined in these architecturally designed 3-and-4-bedroom homes, he stated. Veterans can buy the custom-styled dwellings, each with 2 bathrooms, for no down payment. New FHA financing, with 30-year terms, is also available, Hart explained.

The heart of one of Anaheim's most preferred residential districts is the location of Brookhurst Plaza Futura Homes, on Brookhurst Ave., between Orangewood Ave. and the Santa Ana Freeway.

The picturesque beauty of the tree-studded area is being preserved with fully matured trees remaining on every building site. P. & W. Construction Co., developers of the new neighborhood, planned the project for convenience as well as beauty. Hart said, with the new Broadway Department Store shopping center a short distance away. Also nearby is Disneyland, Walt Disney's widely publicized amusement development.

Preview visitors will inspect two completely furnished and landscaped models of the homes, featuring all of the many attractions which the developers expect will fully answer the needs of today's families for homes of tomorrow.

Brisk Sales Shown in Glen Dell Park

Brisk sales and thousands of visitors were reported Saturday at Glen Dell Park, where a new third unit of 131 large three-bedroom, two-bath homes has been placed on the market on West St., between Katella and Chapman Aves., in Garden Grove. The report was given by William P. Bowman, vice president in charge of sales for D. & E. Corp., developers. Bowman said buyers have come from all sections of Los Angeles and Orange Counties to find homes in the new $4,500,000 residential property. Veterans, he explained, are

SALES ARE SOARING

More than a million dollars of new homes have been sold at the Harmony Manor development, Magnolia Ave. and Ball Rd. in Garden Grove. Selling of the third and final unit is now in progress. No cash is required of vets to move into these three-bedroom, two-bath homes. High lighting is the unique "Jack and Jill Room," designed with two separate sleeping quarters and a play area incorporated in one room. To reach Harmony Manor, take the Santa Ana Freeway to Magnolia Ave., then turn right to sales office. From Long Beach, take 7th St. east (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) to Magnolia Ave. and turn north to sales office.

IN GARDEN GROVE

This attractive three-bedroom, two-bath exterior is typical of 131 large dwellings rising in Glen Dell Park on West St. between Katella and Chapman Ave. in Garden Grove. Vets' terms are no cash down, not even for costs and impounds.

able to qualify on earnings as low as $350 a month, with terms featuring no down payment and no cash for costs and impounds, while monthly payments spread over long-term loans. Focal point for visitors, he said, is the display of furnished model dwellings, open 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily and Sundays. It was noted by officials of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents for the property, that buyers have shown keen interest in the development's mortgage payment insurance plan, insuring monthly payments, and now offered without added costs.

"Buyers also have shown wide interest," another spokesman said, "in the proximity of their new homes to Disneyland, which actually is within easy walking distance of Glen Dell Park."

High on the list of favored features, he said, are 60-foot-wide separate service porch, natural redwood trimmed exteriors, finish kitchen cabinets with hambrick planters, pot shelves and miced copper hardware, garbage in some models, covered terraces, disposers, hood and exhaust fan. All the homes have oak floors, over range and breakfast bar.

NAVY FAMILY BUYS

Transferred to Long Beach last week, Lt. John E. Renn, USN, commanding officer of the USS Firm, his wife and their three children are welcomed into a new Los Altos Jr. Executive home by L. S. Whaley, developer, and Alfred Reinertson, president of the Long Beach National Bank. Under arrangements made by Whaley, men in active service may receive terms similar to the GI terms on the new homes.

New Navy Families Buying in Los Altos

Several families transferred to Long Beach by the Navy with the movement of many ships from the east coast to this port have purchased homes in Los Altos, Dave Davenport, general sales manager of the Los Altos Realty, Inc., announced.

L. S. Whaley, the Los Altos developer, has arranged special terms for men in service so that they may buy new homes on payments similar to those given GI buyers after ending their service. These terms have enabled many of the new Navy families to purchase the Junior Executive homes just east of Bellflower Blvd., north of Los Coyotes Diagonal.

Among the new Navy families to move into these luxury homes are Lt. and Mrs. John E. Renn and their three children.

A graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy in June, 1945, Lt. Renn was commissioned an ensign and served on destroyers until August, 1950, when he took a post-graduate course in communications at Annapolis.

He saw duty on the staff command of amphibious Group 2, Atlantic Fleet, and participated in the North Europe and the Mediterranean NATO amphibious operations.

His present assignment is commanding officer of the USS Firm, in a unit of mine forces commanded by Rear Adm. R. N. Smoot. Lt. Renn and his family are occupying their Junior Executive home at 2450 San Anselmo Ave.

Windsor Village Sales Climbing, Agents Report

Sales totaling more than $750,000 have been recorded at Windsor Village, Garden Grove subdivision, since opening of the popular development, reports George Petrow, spokesman for the McCarthy Co., sales agents. Petrow said that a choice selection of the dwellings are still available to prospective home-owners.

Ceramic tiling is a feature of the kitchens which have the new lowered windows and are equipped with garbage disposers. Cork tile floors are praised by visitors who appreciate their beauty, resiliency and durability, Petrow said.

Landscaping of the front and side yards of the oversize lots is a winning feature of the homes. Other attractions are walls of glass in the living rooms, added storage space found in the two-car garages, which also have work areas, television jacks and outlets, weatherstripping, rock-wool insulation, and 50-gallon hot-water tanks. Thermostatically-controlled heat assures even temperatures throughout the home.

Priced from $11,150 to $12,775.

PRICED FROM $11,150
Windsor Village homes in Garden Grove are selling rapidly, reports McCarthy Co. Landscaping is included and the prices start at $11,150 with no down payment for veterans.

Golden Key Features Are Appealing to Housewives

The modern woman scoffs at the old-fashioned philosophy, "woman's place is in the home." But a Brookhurst Golden Key home is said to reverse her whole trend of thinking. "And no wonder," say the visitors who have inspected the four excitingly furnished Golden Key model homes at Gilbert and Bixby, Garden Grove. These 3 and 4 bedroom homes, which all offer the convenience and luxury of two baths, start in price at $13,775. Terms are FHA for non-veterans, with no down payment (impounds only) for qualified veterans.

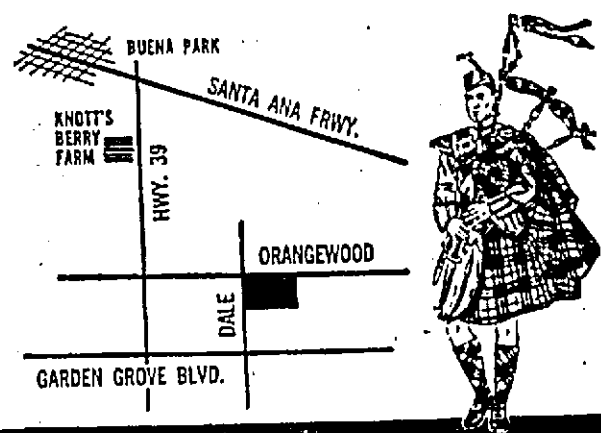

Women visitors have especially liked the carefully planned Golden Key kitchens that offer more leisure time through efficient operation. Fatigue is minimized by installing automatic Hotpoint electric ovens and ranges at a convenient height so there is no need for tiresome stooping. Eliminating an unpleasant task is the General Electric waste disposal. Built-in mahogany kitchen cabinets afford a wealth of storage space for convenience and easy maintenance. Electric exhaust fans keep these pleasant kitchens comfortable and free from cooking odors.

Brookhurst Golden Key Homes are designed for pleasant living with fireplaces, sliding glass walls that merge indoors and outdoors, and beautiful oak floors. Sites are unusually large and Golden Key homes offer many such ultra-modern features as touch-plate lighting. Aware also of the practical side of choosing a home, women visitors have expressed favorable comment on such features as forced air heat, insulated ceilings, Pullman lavatories, screened windows and public sewers already installed.

Wonderland Homes Sales Now Over $1 Million Mark

Large crowds this week sent sales over the $1,000,000 mark for the three-week period just ended, at Wonderland Homes, new community of 162 custom-styled 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes now rising at the south-east corner of Ball Rd. and Walnut St., Anaheim.

Priced to sell in the $12,486 to $13,870 range, the dwellings are offered to veterans for no cash down, not even for costs and impounds, on 30-year, 4½ per cent GI loans, and on low FHA terms to non-vets. It was announced by Pioneer Land Co., sales agents.

Feature today will be the showing of four model residences on the Walnut St. frontage of the new development. Like other homes in the new community, the exhibit dwellings are surrounded by full-bearing orange trees.

A WONDERLAND HOME

This attractive exterior reflects the kind of designing by AIA Architect William M. Bray which is going into Anaheim's newest development, Wonderland Homes, at Walnut St. and Ball Rd. The area was once an orange grove.

Magnolia Manor Nearing Sellout

Non-veterans who may move in for only $295 are buying fast at Magnolia Manor in Anaheim where the Dal-Mor Builders "Wonder Homes" are now over two-thirds sold out.

Big and ideally located, the Magnolia Manor homes offer 1,400 square feet of living space and are situated just off the Santa Ana Freeway on Magnolia Boulevard between Buena Park and Anaheim.

The "Wonder Homes" feature four bedrooms and two baths and are styled in the provincial manner with redwood trim and other exterior adornments.

Furnished models are on display at the site.

NO. 10 FOR HODGES REALTY

A new branch office has been opened at 2915 Bellflower Blvd. by the Rex L. Hodges Realty Co. to serve the Los Altos-Lakewood area. It is the 10th Long Beach office for the firm.

Rex Hodges Firm Opens Office for Los Altos Area

Rex L. Hodges Realty Co. announced the opening of a new branch office at 2915 Bellflower Blvd. This is the 10th office in Long Beach and it will concentrate on serving the Los Altos and South Lakewood area.

Bill Barbee, president and general manager of the Hodges Company, stated: "We must continue to grow as Long Beach grows and with the State College, Veterans Hospital and other attractions in the Los Altos area, it will continue to attract home owners."

Barbee also reported that the volume of business handled by the Hodges Company, during 1954, was $11,143,000.00 or approximately ten per cent greater than in '53. This volume of business is reflected in 1003 different real estate transactions.

Business for January 1955 was considerably ahead of the same period of last year and with the new Los Altos office serving that area, he predicted that 1955 would be a better year with transactions up at least ten per cent.

The new Los Altos office has been staffed with personnel who are living in and familiar with the area and they enter into their new tasks with lots of enthusiasm. The manager of the

Offering New Control Plan

Much interest is being shown by California home owners in a new termite control program announced by the Southern California Tract Termite Control, a leader in the field of pest control. Feature of the 20-year control plan is termite treating as a free service.

Roger A. Kander, president of the SCTTC said: "Effective termite control can only be accomplished through periodical and thorough inspections followed by immediate treating when necessary."

Under the termite control program instituted by the Southern California Tract Termite Control, regular property inspections are provided; followed by immediate treatment of termite infestation.

"Because of their natural swarming ability," Kander added, "Every home is a target for ravaging termites, constituting a threat even to new homes, regardless of how they are constructed."

Licensed by the state of California, the company has plenty of equipment available and men

THE T.I. WAY IS THE SURE WAY

Trying to protect your property with barrage balloons is pretty expensive—and so is trying to make your own title search!

The search would take you many, many weeks. You'd be doing nothing else but studying complicated land records that go back over a century. And when you finally did finish—you'd have absolutely no assurance at all that you hadn't made one small (but costly) mistake.

But how different it is when we do the job for you! We have the only complete title records in existence of every square inch of Los Angeles County since rancho days. We also have a very efficient staff. Thus we're able to finish your title search in days or hours... and at very small cost. And most important of all, you receive a Title Insurance policy from us which guarantees our accuracy, and your title.

There may be other ways to protect property... but for 62 years Californians have had the most confidence in the Title Insurance way. You'll find it's the best kind of protection for your property, too.

Plan April Opening for Dutch Village

Work on the latest $500,000 section of the Dutch Village Shopping Center, Woodruff Ave. at Orangeflora Ave., is 75 per cent complete, R. E. Ibbotson and Thornton Ibbotson, the developers, reported Saturday.

A grand opening is tentatively scheduled for April 21.

The stores under construction will have more than 60,000 square feet of floor space, surrounded by 120,000 square feet of parking space.

Trademark of the area is a huge windmill reaching 40 feet into the air.

Members of the Dutch Village Business Assn. are planning a plant celebration for the opening, with prizes and top-notch entertainment.

Fifteen stores and shops are already in operation at the center. In the adjacent area of northeast Lakewood and southeast Bellflower, more than 1,000 residences are under construction.

Stores which will be located in the latest addition to the shopping center include: Cole's Market; a restaurant, bakery, candy shop and ice cream store, operated by Charles L. Halsey; Marvin H. Crystal's children's shoe store; Child's and children's ready-to-wear operated by Louis Wilman; Western and 2-cent store operated by J. B. Kibben; Dutch Dry Cleaners, Jim Gibbons and Bob Jenkins, owners; a gift shop operated by Chet Stacey and Edith Myers; restaurant and cocktail lounge, etc.

Many Buying in Shamrock

"Apparently many Southern Californians are taking the advice of experts and are buying their homes now," states Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., exclusive sales agents for Shamrock Village, Unit No. 2, in Garden Grove. Hart revealed there has been no let down in the rapid sales pace set in the first unit of Shamrock Village, with buyers of the dwellings taking full advantage of the opportunity to include the cost of major home appliances in their loans.

This plan enables many families to equip their new homes with ranges, automatic washers, and refrigerators, thus reducing the initial expenses of moving into a new dwelling.

Other money-saving features of Shamrock Village homes are rockwool insulation, weatherstripping, thermostat-controlled heating, television jacks and outlets. Kitchens are equipped with garbage disposal units, and work surfaces in these rooms are in bright ceramic tile. Marble over the tubs, stall showers, and colored fixtures are features of the bathrooms, which are pullman-type, some with electric heaters.

From Long Beach, visitors may drive out Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) and turn left (south) to Harbor Blvd. to models of the home.

SELLS FOR $60,000

This property at 1112 E. Carson St. recently was sold for $60,000. It is an eight-unit apartment in Bixby Knolls. Steve Spindell of the Moore Realty represented Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Dahl, the sellers, and Harvey Miller of the Harvey Miller Co. represented the buyers, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Holter, in the co-operative deal.

Scholarship for Winner

Practical suggestions on how to improve traffic safety and reduce traffic accidents will help some high school senior win Pep Boys third annual four-year engineering scholarship to a California state college or university. It was announced by Murray Rosenfeld, general manager of the California auto supply store chain.

The annual scholarship provides the winner with tuition, books and supplies for a full four-year course in engineering. To qualify for the scholarship, interested students are required to write an essay answering the question, "What I would do to prevent traffic accidents and save lives."

Authors of the three best essays will be awarded trophies and $50 U. S. Savings Bonds. From these the final scholarship winner will be determined by Rosenfeld, general manager of the California auto supply store chain.

Reports Rush of Sales in Casas Lindas Estates

Popularity of Casas Lindas Estates is evidenced by the sales which have shown one-half of the subdivision sold out since opening of the most recent unit, reports a spokesman for the East-Builders Co., builders and developers of the three-and-four-bedroom Garden Grove dwellings.

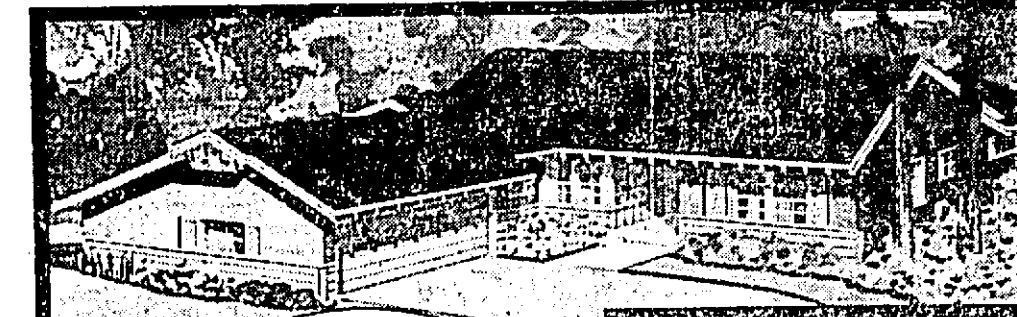

As in previous units of the development, the homes are decorated by Margaret Hargreaves, custom-color consultant, who planned the harmonizing interiors and exteriors. Floor plans and exterior elevations in a variety of treatments are available to buyers who may select their preference of front or rear double garages as well.

Luxury features mark the dwellings with touch-plate wiring and a master control panel, papered walls, forced air heat, and thermostat control, walk-in closets and efficiency kitchens found in all the plans. These extra attractions create custom variety, it was noted.

Lots are landscaped, all utilities are in, curbs and gutters and paved streets are in the development, it was noted. There are also hardwood floors throughout

ON THE ORDER OF THE DAY, MONDAY - FOR RESTORATION OF THE

Nevada Crew Sets Reunion Date in Reno

Any present or former Navy man who served aboard the battleship USS Nevada is invited to attend a reunion of the ship's crew March 11 and 12 in Reno, Nev., General Chairman Val Dage of Reno announced Saturday.

The Harry J. MacSherry Post 10, American Legion, of Reno is sponsoring the annual USS Nevada Day and the USS Nevada Veterans Reunion.

Capt. Joseph K. Taussig Jr., USN (Ret.), who was an officer of the famed ship at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked on Dec. 7, 1941, heads the list of guests expected.

Registration for the reunion will begin March 11, Dage said. Raymond H. Fogler, assistant secretary of the Navy, will speak at a dinner meeting March 11. The opening day's activities also will include a memorial service for deceased crew members and a visit to the state museum's USS Nevada Room at Carson City.

On Saturday, March 12, there will be a distinguished guest luncheon and the principal banquet. In the evening, Capt. Taussig will speak at the evening banquet.

Further information on the reunion can be obtained by writing the USS Nevada Veterans Reunion, P.O. Box 2109, Reno, Nev.

Two local men, Jack Haley of Seal Beach and Denver Jenkins of Long Beach, are serving on the time and place committee. Haley is chairman. A number of local men are expected to attend the reunion.

The Nevada was a familiar sight offshore of Long Beach for many years prior to World War II. After serving the war, the ship was sunk in the first atom bomb test at Bikini. The Nevada was "ground zero," or the aiming point, of the air-dropped bomb.

DO YOU KNOW ME?

I'm BRUCE KERR. I have been selling cars at Harbor Chevrolet for 7 years. In 1941 we, my wife and son (who's now in service), came out from Colorado by way of Texas and located at 132 Venice Drive, where we still live.

Right now Harbor Chevrolet is having a big contest with wonderful prizes to the top salesman. Harbor Chevrolet is giving up all the support they can by giving the most wonderful deal. It will pay you to come to our showroom today, where you can see and feel the difference in our policy for over 30 years. Let's get acquainted!

The NEW WAY to Buy a Quality Car Now You Can be Sure!

Fine Cars offered by Ridings are first inspected by the factory-approved Thoro-Check system

Exclusive service by Ridings Cadillac gives you a complete report on the car of your choice
at no extra cost.

GET THE FACTS

There's no longer any need for you to guess at the condition of a late model automobile. Effective immediately, Ridings Cadillac of Long Beach has established the THORO-CHECK system as an additional aid in helping you to select your next car. The THORO-CHECK system was developed by the Cadillac factory and is recommended by them as being the most thorough method of discovering the true condition of a Cadillac.

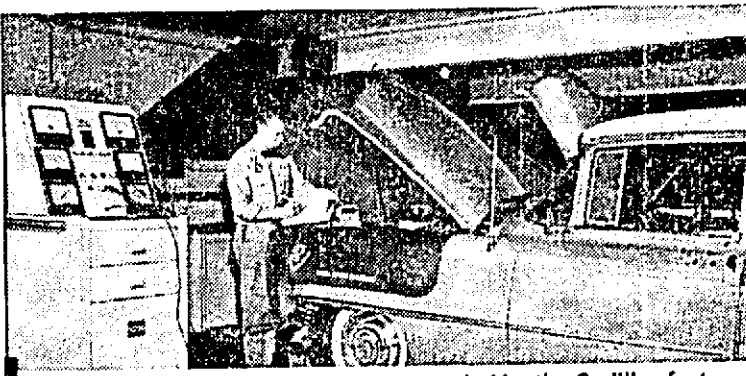

From bumper to bumper, from tires to top, Ridings' trained experts examine each and every Cadillac before it is offered for sale. No point of the car is overlooked. Only by this THORO-CHECK method will the car's true condition be recorded for you.

BLACK & WHITE PROOF

The comprehensive results of the THORO-CHECK become a part of each car's record, and are available for your inspection when you come to Ridings Motors. In fact, we urge you to look over these reports carefully. They will give you an absolutely accurate picture of the car of your choice before you buy it.

SAVE HUNDREDS in Repair Bills

By buying a THORO-CHECKED Cadillac you can assure yourself against unexpected repair bills, because the THORO-CHECK will tell you the exact condition of the car of your choice.

THORO-CHECK, perfected and recommended by the Cadillac factory, gives you a complete written report on all these points:

Exotic Spirit of Mardi Gras Awaits Dancers

ANNUAL BEAUX ARTS BALL, traditional costume party of the Long Beach Art Association, will take place Saturday at Pacific Coast Club, when members and their friends will dance from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. to the rhythms of Sharp's Orchestra. Pictured modeling the costumes they have chosen to wear to

La Homa Johnson, Ila Anthony Huff, president, and Ben Messick. Tickets are available from Mrs. Jones, 545 Linden Ave., or may be purchased at the door.

Sparkling Parties to Precede Dance

By RUTH REECE

Dashing colors and original costumes of Mardi Gras time will feature the annual Beaux Arts Ball to be presented Saturday by the Long Beach Art Assn. at Pacific Coast Club. Dancing to music by Sharp's Orchestra is scheduled from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. A point of interest between dances will be the table of hors d'oeuvres.

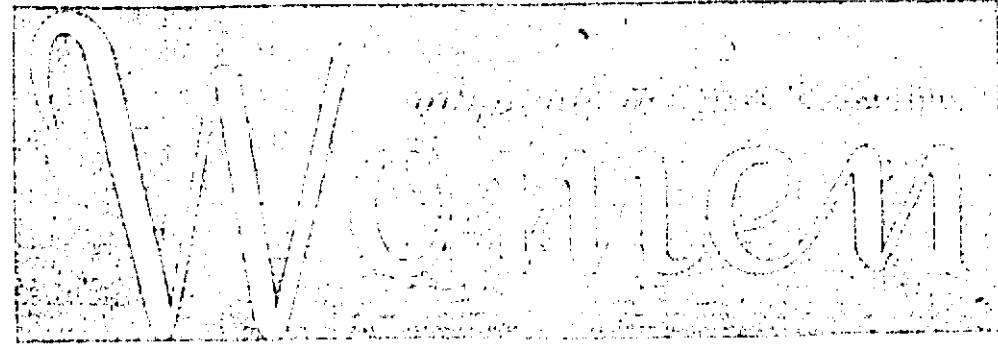

Costumes will vie for awards in the grand march to be led by the president, Ila Anthony Huff, with the marshals, E. J. Newbegin, Lee Allen Carnahan, H. O. Fox and the grand marshal, James Lang, officiating. Awards from the artist's brushes have been donated by the following members: Mrs. Pat Bartell, Virgil Bullock, Paul Connor, Mrs. Grace Dimmick, Ashton E. Overholzer, Mrs. Florence Gendron, Mrs. Marian Lewis, Miss Diane Elaine Daniel, Mrs. Beth Chandler, Angel Espoy and others.

Mrs. Bob Lovejoy, J. Ames Crawford, attorney of Los Angeles, Mrs. Sam Heavenrich, and George B. Allison, architect of Los Angeles, will judge and classify the costumes based on authenticity, beauty, dance and uniqueness. Attire will vary widely in theme and period, from the elegant formal to the roguish Puck. Mrs. Huff has chosen a seafaring green organdie with bouffant skirt reminiscent of gracious plantation life of pre-Civil War days. Mrs. Cynthia Alberta Ryan will appear in an elegant black velvet, heavily embroidered Chinese costume.

Mrs. Ben Paine will be in a black, brilliant-studded sheath as the 1920 flapper; Dr. Marcia Sneden as Lillian Russell in a black and white ensemble with huge, plummed hat; Ben Messick in brilliant clown outfit; Mrs. La Homa Johnson as a Japanese in lime-green satin exquisitely embroidered.

Mrs. J. Frank Jones, as a Godey girl following the dictates of the Godey Magazine,

Sophisticated Gilt Fan Motif for Gala Junior League Ball

By BETTY WENTWORTH
Independent Women's Editor

Glittering and lovely were the decorations embellishing the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel last eve when members of the Junior League and their black-tied escorts dined and danced at their festive annual closed ball. There wasn't a red heart in sight, but employed instead, and imparting an air of sophistication, were shining fans outlined in gold net based in bouquets of violets as table centerpieces. Metallic gold fans adorned the pillars as well, and the whole was wonderfully effective.

There were lots of cocktail parties beforehand, one being given at Barbara and Chester Moores' for all the League provisionals. Barbara greeted guests in a strapless gown of Alice blue with taffeta bodice and very bouffant skirt of lace tiers over upturned petticoats. Her jewelry was crystal. Chester robbed his verdant greenhouse of dozens of fragile orchids and carnations with which to decorate the rooms.

Margaret and Bob Sully entertained 20 couples in their home at 3908 Myrtle Ave. Margaret receiving in a short gown with white jeweled bodice and full black velvet skirt, and wearing her heirloom diamond pendant.

Lorain and Dr. John Lungren poured cocktails for a large group at their Chestnut Ave. abode, the attractive brunet Lorain in blue lace over layers of nylon net and taffeta with matching slippers and pearl jewelry.

Guests driving up to Pat and Jim Craig's home on Country Club Dr. were the Thomas Rowans, Volney McCutchans, Bill Edwardses, John Halberts, Jack Millers, Richard Grams, Ralph Sternbergs and Dale Deatherages. Petite, fair-haired Pat was garbed in white lace with an apron effect adorned in sequins and crystals.

At the other tip of the city Ellie and Frank Person greeted the Al Vignolas, "Van" Van de Waters, Bill Grams, Lauren Conleys, Llewellyn Bixbys Jr., Henry Clocks, George Reeveses from Pasadena, Rosemary and Capt. Ralph Wilson, USN, and Leah Davidson. Ellie's full length sheath gown was a Peggy Hunt design of black lace over pale blue silk crepe, and Betty Bixby chose a short champagne taffeta and white lace, its bodice jeweled with rhinestones and pearls.

Swinging back again to Bixby Knolls we find that Doris and Ed Richards had as their guests the Paul Dudleys, Manley Natlands, Oliver Roemers, Harry Ridingses Jr. and Georgia and Dr. Lorin Nelson. Doris wore a wonderful long gown of white mat jersey with a Grecian drape falling from one shoulder and with diagonal lines of crystal beads and rhinestones extending from the shoulder and from the hipline.

Before going on to dinner about 18 couples gathered at Rosemary and John Sadlers' at 4215 Pacific Ave. Rosemary was smart in satin-trimmed navy blue lace.

Another group bidden by Shirley and Chuck Planting was composed of Mrs. and Misses, Franklin Waters, Lee Wiltse, Harold Nebling, Robert Albright and the James Fletchers. A dashing red peau de soie Adele Simpson model was Shirley's choice, and particularly appropriate it was, with its heart-shaped neckline.

Assembling at Marian and Don Lockes' before going on to the Lafayette were Betsy and George Taubman, Sally and Dr. "Van" Van Dyle and Elaine and Dr. Mulford Smith.

A whole garlandful of violets should be presented to Janet (Mrs. George C.) Taubman, who was chairman for the marvelous party, with additional bouquets showered upon busy Barbara (Mrs. Thomas) Rowan who handled reservations and Nancy (Mrs. Lyle T.) Wilcox in charge of decor. Janet wore a frothy black bouffant organza with lace inserts nipped in with a pale blue cummerbund, and Barbara chose a short and bouffant champagne net with pink roses at its hipline.

Others noted whirling about the dance floor to the sweet music of Burrell Ubbens' orchestra were Norma Craig in a rich purple silk princess style creation and long wispy earrings of pearls and rhinestones, plus cute Barbara Uddike (have you ever seen that young lady's marvelous Charleston?) who was in a chic emerald green silk faille sheath with Empire lines. (See party pictures in Monday's Independent, Press-Telegram.)

Tomorrow at the Assistance League Clubhouse a quartet of hostesses are entertaining at a brunch at 11 a. m. followed by

Look at Them, Maw, They're Dancin'!

By IOLA MASTERSON

Wallflowers had better stay put or they'll lose their professional standing should they wander near the University Club next Saturday night. The club will be host once again to these rhythm rascals, The Todds Trio, at one of the most sparkling of 9 until-dancing-evening.

Already the reservation list is bulging with names of members who wish to trip the light fantastic. Two cocktail parties, at least, will precede festivities. Katie and La Verne Smith will greet a gang as will Evelyn and Don Sullivan. Bend an ear and we'll whisper a few of those who will be found at one home or the other. There will be Lois and Doug Benwell, Jean and Bill Lockett, Bev. and Ernie Lockwood, Suzanne and Vic Mingers, Florence and Ed Cliff (the Bill Burns), Gladie and Dick Shelley and Katherine and Charles Morgan.

Hold on a minute, we're not through. Also quaffing cool ones will be Barbara and Norb Dean (he's a president, you know), Carolyn and Dick Poole, Geneva and Stan Weiss, Ann and Earl Hershman, Bonnie and Kenny Brandenburg, Jackie and Ed Neushutz, Virginia and Bob Hall, Elaine and Don Will, Mary and Wendell Wilson, Mary Jane and Paul Hall, Gloria and Joe Flammang (down from San Fernando Valley for the party), Virginia and Tommy Russell, Leona and Leroy Pitman, Gerry and "Cec" Willis ("Cec" has been buzzin' like a rocket set for flight because he's chairman of the dance), Nancy and Bill Brooks and Gertrude and Hugh Gibbs.

Just about the time both the big crowd and the Todds are worn down to a stub, there'll be a king-size breakfast served. That should be about 1 o'clock.

That fabulous, Nomad Ball, one of the most brilliant parties of the Southern California year, occurred last evening in the Pacific Ballroom of the Hotel Statler in Los Angeles. The Nomads exclusive membership is composed entirely of men who have traveled outside the United States in the last five years. The oil industry and the list is full of those who intimately know such far away lands as Arabia, Iran, Iraq and Egypt, or wherever else black gold is found. Among those we know, members and guests, who looked forward to attending last night's party were Bobbie and Greer Thompson, Lynn and Claire Hossom, Bill and Betty Barber, Tish and Jack Reid, Ruby and Warren Johnson, Georgia and Frende Combs, Ruby and Les Callahan, Marilyn and Doug Graham, Barbara and Jack Miller, Alma and Elmer Decker, Donna Decker, Opal Mae and Ed Pellegrin and Dorothy and Dan Dunlap.

Uncle Sam makes like a Svengali sometimes. Take the case of Bob Kulp. Bob and sweet Beverly Kuster were married Saturday, Feb. 6. Sunday they both graduated from Redlands at still another momentous ceremony, the most radiant pair of kids you can imagine. Now come Uncle's clouds of gloom. Bob faces Army induction Feb. 18! Really, Sam!

Chomping at the bit for Easter vacation to roll around are several couples who plan to spend the week at the Tropical Palms in Desert Hot Springs. The caravan will include Carrie and Al Vignolo, Luella and Steve Pace, Jane and Phil Brewer, Verma and Bill Kelly, Floyd and "V" Violette and Emily and Roger Coleman. Last year's four-day spring trek was so successful they've decided to stretch it to a week in '33.

If you've noticed that Mildred and Garry Gardner, 5389 Riviera Wk., have had a tendency to fling you smug and happy smiles then you deserve an explanation. They're entertaining not only old and dear friends but very, very VIP ones, too. Home guests are Blanche and Bob Isaacs of Toronto, Ontario, and Bob is one of the finest consulting mining engineers in Canada—that land of blossoming, not to say gigantic, mining development. On Bay St. in Toronto—which is to Canada what Wall St. is to the U. S.—Bob is a familiar figure. They leave tomorrow, darn it, and we had a piece of rock we wanted Bob to see.

Remember the exasperating sensation produced during the last two weeks before vacation? Time is a stubborn mule and lies on its back. In even a greater sense, time is standing still for Esther Lawrence and two weeks seems forever. She's counting the minutes until the arrival home of her family, Lt. (j.g.) Don and Joan Lawrence and that important newcomer, Lynette Marie, born Dec. 13 in Kodiak, Alaska. Don has finished his stint for the Navy and they'll be home to stay about March 1 from leebow country duty.

Harry Hachmeister took his 40th the painless way. He celebrated in New York sans family and local friends. Therefore, there being no eyewitnesses, whose to say it happened? Harry flew to N. Y. last Sunday on a routine business trip (timed to perfection and with full approval from Jack Benny) returning Thursday. The Day was Tuesday.

With a smile that was positively electronic, George Irwin was installed president of the newly organized radio and TV dealer's club Wednesday night.

Some people are born with a rabbit's foot in their vest pocket. Take the case of Louise De Frece and her new Chevie.

Compliment Mrs. Hunter at Party

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Shawver of 3921 Locust Ave. will entertain today at a valentine tea to honor the birthday of Mrs. W. F. Hunter. This is a double celebration since Mrs. Hunter, who was critically injured last year in an automobile accident en route to her 90th birthday party, is able to attend today's festivities.

Bidden to the affair are 75 guests including some of Mrs. Hunter's former first grade pupils in Chetopa, Kan.

Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Hunter's daughter, Mrs. J. W. Graham, and her two granddaughters, Mrs. F. J. Rickman, and Mrs. C. R. O'Dell of Odessa, Tex. Mrs. J. W. Graham and Miss Jessie Edwards will be in the receiving line.

Mrs. Winfield Edson and Mrs. T. A. Galloway will pour at the tea table, and Mrs. Myron Rickman will preside at the guest book.

Bowling Party

A bowling party at Compton Bowl was enjoyed recently by members of Iota Rho chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, including their husbands and guests. Attending were Messrs. and Mrs. Hal Goddard, Jay Griebel, Bob Smith, Jack Webber, Bob Roberts, Kenneth Smith, Misses Dorothy Moulton and Geraldine Woodbury and Messrs. Ray Mueller and Tom Degler. Cups for men's and women's championships of the evening went to Bob Roberts and Lhyllis Smith.

Membership Party

Annual membership party of National Council of Jewish Women will be given Tuesday, at 8 p. m. in the Community Room of Bank of Belmont Shore. All members who have paid their dues before this date are eligible to attend.

Breakfast

Andie Laurie House, sponsored by Taoleon Club, will present "The Courage of the Commonplace," the second in a series of lectures on the art of living. A breakfast will precede the lecture, which will take place at the Hotel Lafayette, Sunday, Feb. 19, at 9 a. m. Naomi Smith will receive breakfast reservations.

She really hit the fender, dashboard and gas tank jackpot!

Let's hope the City of Brotherly Love gets through this week with reputation unblemished. It had to put up with a gang of the Club Managers of America and you can bet that was a gay and demanding gang! A couple of our own boys have been present (but they'd never hurt the spirit that runs Philadelphia) Dick Kimball and Frank Sherwood flew back last Monday and return tomorrow. Dick is a director of the Southern California chapter of CMA.

Petite, vivacious Ruth Miller will be taken "on the town" Tuesday night when date, Lt. (j.g.) Joe Verret and other friends host Ruth to cocktails, dinner and a Blitmore ringside seat at "The House of the August Moon" as a farewell present to the little vice president of Bachelorettes before she leaves for the Mardi Gras. Last year Ruth went and was elected Queen of the Fun Tour to the Mardi Gras. So on this trip, in reward, she's a guest of the Tour. While back there last year she was also chosen Queen of the West of the East-West Mardi Gras Ball. Ready for new worlds to conquer, Ruth leaves Wednesday.

Evelyn and Clarence Miller are hanging on the work of cement mixers like kids watching elephants being fed at a circus. And well they might because each ounce of cement being poured is part of their new house arising on the Peninsula's bay front. Now living in the last house within the city limits on that finger of fun drenched land, their new home will face the watery crook where the bay breaks from north south wanderings to cast west flow.

Still on the convalescent list but at the point where it begins to be luxurious fun is Frank Hill who had a seige of hospital life not so long ago.

Guess the Towne Club was a place of undisguised merriment Tuesday when gals of the Druggists' Auxiliary met for luncheon, cards and a hat and jewelry sale. The women brought barter and rummage hats and jewelry items, none of which could be sold for more nor less than 50 cents. The starting gun went off and it was like bargain day in Macy's basement. When the feverish activity was over there was Hazel Vermillion with a cute "new" gray hat, Marian Jenkins with a rhinestone necklace, Lucille Lower with three (she must be quick!) hats and Bess Wheeler with nothing. Bess couldn't make up her mind for an interlude of three seconds and that proved way too long to ponder!

You just don't get elected president for nothin' and we can tell you Betty Fackler has plenty of somethin' because she's the new proxy of the Chi Omega house on the Eugene campus of the U. of Oregon!

Jones Home Party Scene

The home of Mrs. Floyd Jones, 170 Quincy Ave., was the setting for a recent bridal shower honoring Miss Katherine Van Etten, bride-elect of James Edward Adams of Norwalk. Hostess was Mrs. Leo Deterding.

Bidden were Mrs. Glenn Peters, mother of the honoree; Mrs. James Adams, mother of the prospective bridegroom; Mrs. Donald Duffin, Charles Wieland, Jerry Hall, David Carroll, Jack Grien, Misses Judy Pavo, Valerie Fegg, Maurine Borchelle, Anne Carpenter, Diane Auther, Shirley Reeves, Daryl Evans, Lorraine Huber, Sandy Jones, Pat Miller, Loyce Rodeback, Helen Smith, Sandra Fox, Pat Hobbard, Barbara Canfield, Pauline Foley, Geraldine Derby, Joan Messano and Noreen Daugherty.

Relief Corps

Women's Relief Corps 93 will meet Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. in Veterans Memorial Bldg. Mary McDonald will preside.

Book Review Thursday Features Mary Lincoln

The second in a series of four dramatic book reviews by Gertrude (Mrs. Norbert R.) Murphy, sponsored by the Carmelite Nuns' Auxiliary, will be presented at 10 a. m. Thursday at Ebell Theater, 1100 E. Third St.

Mrs. Murphy will review, in costume, two books on Mary Todd Lincoln, the best-selling biographical novel "Love Is Eternal" by Irving Stone and Ruth Painter Randall's "Mary Lincoln... The Biography of a Marriage."

With her unusual grasp of the author's ideas, her rare style of interpretation, and her dramatic and literary talent, Mrs. Murphy's presentation is outstanding and educational entertainment.

Season tickets for the three remaining reviews, as well as individual tickets, may be secured at the box office on the morning of the review, or by contacting Mrs. Wayne P. Hanson or Mrs. James Hayes.

Fashionable Service Unites Popular Pair

A bouquet of French white hyacinths, miniature ivy and a white orchid accented the bridal attire of lovely Miss Beverly Arlene Kuster when she said her marriage vows Feb. 5 with Robert Franklin Kulp Jr. Four hundred fifty guests witnessed the impressive evening ceremony read by Rev. Emerson G. Hangan in First Congregational Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Kuster, of 4235 Chestnut Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Kulp of 2622 Gaviota Ave. are the parents of the bridegroom.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the blonde bride was attired in a waist-length, light-colored gown of candlelight nylon tulle. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with a Chantilly lace and caught with satin roses. Matching lace trimmed the off-the-shoulder neckline. Completing the bridal picture was a pearl encrusted Juliet cap of lace and tulle which caught her fingertip-length veil of illusion net.

In the entourage were Joanne Marshall, maid of honor; Marilyn Hansen, Patti Lewis, Lee Miner, Dorothy Stalen, and Martha Trotter, bridesmaids, and Cheryl Schoenbacher, junior bridesmaid; Terri Jane Coffey, bride's niece, flower girl; James Ellis, best man; Tom Moore, Keith Hilliard, Donald Long, Donald Lowry and Paul Jagger, ushers; and Billy Coffey, bride's nephew, ring bearer.

The bridal attendants were gowned in pale blue antique taffeta gowns. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of pale pink and American beauty double ranunculuses intertwined with miniature ivy. Miss Marshall carried pink hyacinths, a pale pink and American beauty double ranunculuses and ivy.

Assisting at the reception held at the church were the bride's sisters, Mrs. Patrick Coffey and Mrs. Gilbert Schoenbacher, and Gary Schoenbacher, nephew of the bride. The bride's sorority sisters sang their serenade to the couple while standing around the four-tiered cake.

The bride is a graduate of Poly High School, and her husband received his schooling at Wilson High School. Both young persons received their degrees from Redlands University the day after their wedding. She was affiliated with Delta Kappa Psi and he was a member of Phi Chi on the campus. The popular couple are honeymooning at Las Vegas, Nev., and Lake Arrowhead. The bridegroom will leave soon for service in the Army.

Mrs. Krythe to Sail on World Tour

Points of interest around the world dot the itinerary of Mrs. Gerard (Maymie) Krythe of 2618 E. Third St. The traveler will leave Feb. 18 from San Francisco after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Albert J. Kirschbaum and family in Livermore. She will embark on the S. S. Orsova, Orient Line, for Sydney, Australia, with short stops in Honolulu, Hawaii, Suva and Auckland, New Zealand.

After a few weeks' stay in Australia, she will leave Adelaide April 12 on the S. S. Oronsay via Fremantle, Colombo, Ceylon, through the Suez Canal, touching at Naples and finally leaving the ship at Marseilles on May 4. During her stay on the continent, she plans to visit Spain, Portugal, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, the Scandinavian countries and the British Isles, returning to New York July 15 on the Mauretania. En route back to Long Beach, Mrs. Krythe expects to make several stops in Ohio, Chicago, Ill., and Denver, Colo.

Durnins Announce Janet's Engagement

The traditional Stanford University ceremony of passing a lighted candle was chosen by Janet Caroline Durnin and Herbert D. Selter to announce their engagement to college friends.

The bride-elect, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Durnin of 5818 Bay Shore Wk., is a graduate of Chadwick School in Rolling Hills and a freshman at Stanford. She has been active in sailing events on Alamitos Bay.

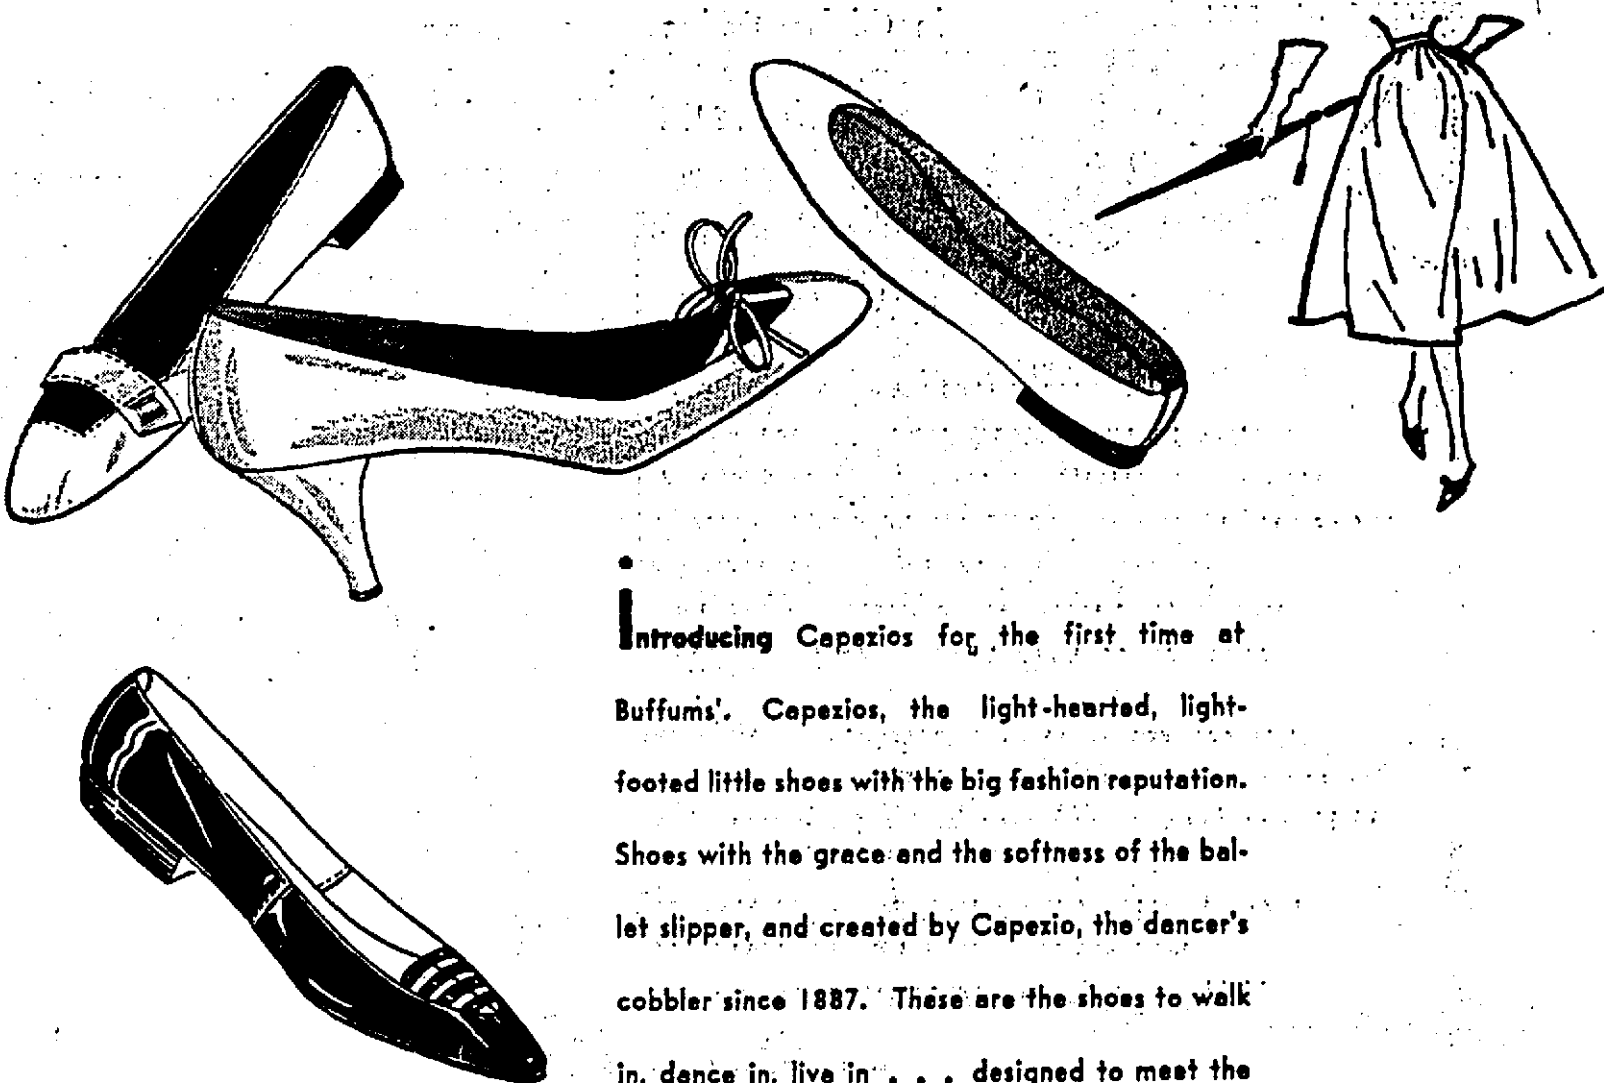

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Selter of Palo Alto, is doing graduate work in radio and television at Stanford. He completed his military training in Japan last fall. The popular young pair is planning a June wedding.

Vivid Motif for Party

A vivid Valentine motif was carried out at the party given last week by Long Beach Postal Supervisors Auxiliary. Eighty guests including husbands of members, and the Clerks and Carriers Auxiliary and husbands attended the affair held in Linden Hall.

Marion Darlington Pratt, whistler, and Don Pratt, trumpeter, accompanied by Eloise Ferguson, provided the program. Refreshments and cards followed.

In charge of the event was Mrs. Leo Lynes, president, assisted by Mmes. Cecil Arnold, Verg Brustkern, Edward Darby, Franklin Luke, John O'Connell and John Osler.

Germany's Role in Europe to Be Club Topic

By RUTH REED
Press-Telegram Club Editor

"Can Germany Become a Partner of the West?" is the intriguing subject of a talk to be given by Siegfried C. Ringwald, popular Long Beach lecturer, when he appears before the Long Beach Council of Republican Women at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the Pageant Room of the Wilton Hotel.

Preceding the 1 o'clock session will be a coffee hour at noon and a short business meeting at 12:45 p. m. Mrs. Cartwright Hunter will preside, and Mrs. Henry Christensen, program chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Ringwald traveled unchallenged behind the Iron Curtain in Berlin, where he acquired an insight into the four sectors that form an island of people 300 miles behind the curtain. As a college lecturer, he conducted the first seminar in American literature at the University of Kiel. Sponsored as a lecturer by the U. S. State Department, Ringwald spoke in all parts of Germany, and participated in a study tour of Italy with an international group of professors from the University of Hamburg.

Mrs. Hunter announces that the council's headquarters have been moved from 36 Locust Ave. to 618 Enloe Bldg., 115 Pine Ave.

The study group, under the leadership of Mrs. Paul Zensen, will meet at 11 a. m. Child care service is available. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. W. F. Curtis and her committee.

This meeting also will launch the 1935 membership drive under the direction of Mrs. Pryce Smith.

Toastmistress
Long Beach Naval Shipyard Toastmistress Club will conduct its second annual speech contest Monday evening at a dinner meeting at the Apple Valley Steak House. Members participating in the contest include Mmes. E. H. Peterson, Edwin Goodrich, J. Robert Hamaker and Miss Norma Glenn. Acting as judges for this event, the winner of which will represent the Shipyard Club at the Council No. 1, Harbor Area Speech Contest in March, will be Capt. M. H. Hine of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Toastmasters Club, Mrs. Ada Fohl of the Wilmington Toastmistress Club, Paul Clayton of Huntington Park, and Miss Margaret Bravell of the Real-Ettes Toastmistress Club of Long Beach.

Aerobettes to Meet
Aerobettes, a club composed of wives of the Long Beach Douglas Aircraft aerodynamic engineering group, will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. L. Bekkedahl, 4563 Knoxview St., Lakewood. Mrs. C. E. Blair will preside.

The president announces as her appointive chairman, Mrs. Bekkedahl, historian; Mrs. G. F. Lind, bridge committee; with Mrs. Ray Bates assisting; Mrs. W. N. Christensen, charity; Mrs. Howard Kenyon, mother's club, assisted by Mrs. George Morse.

Heading the art and music committee will be Mrs. T. P. Browne, and head of the sports committee will be Mrs. Stan Church. Mrs. Robert Kingsland was named chairman of the transportation and club information committee for the Anaheim area.

GOP Juniors
Cherry trees and hatches will adorn tables at a luncheon to be given by the GOP Juniors at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday at the Victor Hugo. Guest speaker will be Edward R. Valentine whose topic will be "The Need for Continuing a Republican Organization in Los Angeles County." Valentine is chairman of the United Republican Finance Committee of Los Angeles and president of J. W. Robinson's.

Mrs. Arnold Romeyn who heads the Juniors announced that reservations for the luncheon are to be made with Mrs. Raymond Chase, 2670 Faust St., or Mrs. Jerry Hollister, 1801 Marshall Pl.

Junior Matrons
A gala event is ahead for Junior Matrons Dept. of Ebell Club when members assemble at 12 o'clock Wednesday in the roof ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel for their annual birthday luncheon. Mrs. Charles Evett, chairman, will preside. Mrs. Harry S. Hull is general chairman in charge of this annual event, assisted by Mmes. C. W. Poole and Walter Yalili. The event will commemorate the 34th anniversary of the founding of Junior Matrons. Past chairmen of the department will be honored at a special ceremony, including Mrs. Clay White, organizer of the group. Surprise favors will mark each place, and bridge and canasta will follow the luncheon.

Final plans were made for the celebration when department officers met for luncheon at the home of Mrs. Sydney N. Elliott, 3814 Pacific Ave. Mmes. Charles Evett and Rupert McCook were hostesses.

Mayor to Speak

Mayor George M. Vermillion of Long Beach will be guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the North Long Beach Republican Women Federated at noon Feb. 21 in Houghton Park clubhouse. In charge of the luncheon will be Mrs. Joseph Meyer and her committee.

Press representatives from various newspapers in the area will be honor guests. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Victor B. Van Horne, Mrs. Thomas Corrigan, president, will be in charge.

Mrs. Hanania New Leader

Long Beach Police Wives Auxiliary met recently at the Long Beach Mounted Police Clubhouse, with Mrs. William T. Robertson presiding. Elected to serve for the coming year were Mrs. George Hanania, president; Mrs. Phillip Castillo, first vice president; Mrs. John Brogan, second vice president; Mrs. Eugent Stone, recording secretary; Mrs. Willis Platt, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James Klinz, treasurer; and Mrs. Willis Penhollow, historian.

Madeline Stacy Is Bride of John Reed Mansell

St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church was the setting Feb. 5 for the morning nuptials of Miss Madeline Mary Stacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stacy, 7093 E. Third St., and City Auditor John Reed Mansell.

After a reception for the 200 guests the couple left on a honeymoon in Northern California. They will reside at 5317 The Toledo.

The bride chose a Cahill ballerina-length gown fashioned with an eggshell satin bodice and a net skirt applied with lace and pearls caught her scalloped veil and she carried white orchids, carnations, lilies of the valley and Stephanotis.

Mrs. William Norr, groomed in emerald green velvet with matching hat and carrying pink carnations, attended the bride. William T. Mansell Jr. served as best man, while seating guests were William Norr and Harry Fulton.

Hostesses at the reception were Mmes. William T. Mansell, Jr., Edward Losey and Robert Potthoff. Mrs. Harry Fulton presided at the guest book.

The bride attended Poly High School and City College. Her husband, son of William T. Mansell of 36 Girlanda Way, received his education in Troy, Mo., and at LaSalle Institute in Chicago. He is affiliated with Elks 688, Downtown Lions Club and Municipal Finance Officers Association.

Morlene Pingle Now Mrs. W. R. Atkinson Jr.

Miss Morlene June Pingle of Arcadia and William (Bill) Robert Atkinson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Atkinson of 3523 Lemon Ave., recited their marriage vows Feb. 5 in Oneonta Congregational Church of Pasadena with Rev. Henry R. Gray officiating.

The double ring ceremony was witnessed by 350 friends of the popular Pomona College pair. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Morley Henry Fringle of Arcadia.

A Chantilly lace bodice over bridal satin and lace skirt and train over satin with sides of fluted nylon chiffon tiers, was chosen by the doll-like bride for her wedding attire. A head-dress of net and pearls held her illusion silk tiered veil and she carried a bouquet of carnations and bouvardia centered with a white orchid.

In the bridal entourage were Miss Ann McIntosh of Beverly Hills, maid of honor; Miss Donna Decker of Long Beach; Miss Julia Bagge of Santa Monica; Mrs. C. Robert Hall and Miss Rugeon Peters, Arcadia; Miss Ellen Pingle and Miss Julia Pingle, sister and cousin of the bride, respectively, bridesmaids. They wore white nylon chiffon gowns styled with draped neckband which tied in the back and floor length hoop skirts. They carried American Beauty roses.

Lt. (jg) John Thornton of Long Beach served as best man. The many guests from all over the Southland who attended this fashionable event, were seated prior to the service by Allen Pingle, brother of the bride; Lewis Silverberg, Lt. Norman Archibald, USA; Robert Ashcraft, all of Long Beach; William Fair of Claremont and Donald Hollar of San Marino.

Each pew in the historic church was marked by candelabra, and tiny bouquets of maldenhair fern tied with white ribbon. White stock and gladioli banked the altar.

A champagne reception took place immediately following the vow exchange at the Pingle home when Mrs. Pingle received guests in a gown of champagne taffeta with overskirt of embroidered lace and corsage of green cymbidiums. Mrs. Atkinson was in platinum nylon chiffon and wore a corsage of deep pink cymbidiums. Tiny cupid floats in the swimming pool surrounded by a ring of pink carnations. Other floral decor throughout the patio and gardens featured carnations.

Both Morlene and Bill will be graduated in June from Pomona College, where she is majoring in education and he is a business administration major. Bill, listed last year in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, is a member of Nu Alpha Phi. His bride is active in student body affairs on the campus and in the school's drama activities.

After honeymooning in Las Vegas, Nev., they are now residing at 192 El Camino Way, Claremont.

Diane Swanson Reveals Betrothal to D. M. Lowry

A parchment scroll attached to two pink tulle hearts atop a box of chocolates revealed Saturday night to her Delta Gamma sorority sisters the engagement of Miss Diane Swanson to Donald M. Lowry.

Miss Swanson, a past president of her sorority on the UCLA campus, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus E. Swanson, 744 Santiago Ave. She was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College where she was affiliated with Phi Gamma Chi and Emanons.

Upon her graduation this month from UCLA she will begin a teaching position in the Long Beach school system. After her marriage June 26 at Atlantic Avenue Methodist Church, she will relinquish her membership in Bachelorettes of Long Beach.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lowry, 3591 Rose Ave., was graduated from Polytechnic High School and the University of Redlands and is now doing graduate work in international relations at USC. He is also employed by the Department of Justice and holds membership in Pi Sigma Alpha, national honorary fraternity.

Valentine Buffet at Cannons

Tulips, heather and sweet peas in peach and white were used in attractive floral arrangements throughout the home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cannon, 3906 Olive Ave., Saturday evening when friends gathered for the Cannon's annual Valentine party.

After a buffet supper, the party of 37 guests went to the YMCA auditorium in North Long Beach for an evening of songs, a program and dance. The entire personnel of Veloz and Yolanda Dance Studio also were in attendance.

Guests enjoying the courtesy were Messrs. and Mrs. Paul Randall, Wallace Cortiz, Kenneth Moffet, Al Underwood, Alfred Spaeth, Claude Ryerson, Kenneth Wattes, Leon Ink, James Martin, Edward Brown, Col. and Mrs. Max Durham; Mrs. Irene Hardy, Messrs. Rodney Arvidson, Irene Hardy, Carl Drake, Robert Vandervep, William Ninellst, William Rhodes, and Misses Ruth O'Donnell, Patty Pryon, Linda Worth, Joan Jefferies, Arlene Jollo, Roselle Paul, Ann Hanks, Sharon Dawson and Eleanor Fleur.

Margaret Meikle

Miss Margaret Meikle Reveals Wedding Plans

Mrs. Hortense Gibbons Meikle of Oklahoma City, Okla., announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, 1909 E. Third St., to Taylor Reedy of Mexico City, son of the Rev. and Mrs. William P. Reedy of Los Angeles.

A native of Iowa, Miss Meikle was graduated from the State University of Iowa and later received a M. A. degree from Northwestern University. At the present time Miss Meikle is vice principal of the Wilson High School. Prior to that time she was head counselor at the Guidance Center of Long Beach City College.

During the time she has resided in Long Beach Miss Meikle has been very active in music and civic affairs. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi, Delta Kappa Gamma, Phi Beta Kappa, Chapter 1B of PEO and the Sorority Club of Long Beach.

Her fiance, a native of Southern California, was graduated from Oregon State with a BS degree. Reedy is general secretary for the International Committee of the YMCA in Mexico. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity and Rotary Club.

Mrs. Meikle arrives this week end from Oklahoma to be with her daughter. A spring wedding is planned.

Friends of Miss Meikle in Chapter 1B, PEO, learned of the news at a tea and reception given recently by Mrs. R. V. Mercer and Miss Mary Mercer, 1821 Olive Ave. Guests received a card bearing the names of the couple and a picture, a hand showing an engagement ring.

The table, covered with a point de venise cloth, was centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations flanked with silver candelabra holding white tapers. Mrs. G. B. Dolliver, president, and Miss Marjorie Walker of Claremont poured.

'Role Playing' Program Set

Mental Hygiene Society of Long Beach and Pi Lambda Theta educational honorary society are having a joint meeting Wednesday from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m., at the auditorium of John Burroughs Elementary School. The meeting, which will be open to the public, will have "Role Playing" as its theme.

Role playing, which has wide application in family life, teaching and adult education, counseling and social work, will be illustrated in two motion pictures, "Role Playing in Human Relations" and "Role Playing in Counseling." Following the films, the audience will participate in small group discussions, under the leadership of Mrs. Hazel Huston and Miss Evelyn Lofland of the Long Beach Public Schools; Dr. Arlene Roster and Dr. Earl Zwetschoke of Long Beach State College; Miss Louise Metcalf of the Long Beach Mental Hygiene Clinic; Miss Dorothy Elwell of Seal Beach Public Schools; and Mesdames Clara Hale and Mary Posner.

Ray Simpson, president of the Mental Hygiene Society, commented on the forthcoming program by saying, "Presenting role playing to Long Beach affords the community a genuine opportunity to acquire a graphic picture of human dynamics, thereby enabling us to better design a constructive program for the guidance of youth."

Collegians to Exhibit Works

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent Press-Telegram Art Editor
Long Beach art shows:
City College Gallery, Lakewood campus, 4901 E. Carson St.: Annual student show.
Pacific Coast Club, 850 E. Ocean Blvd.: Freda Marshall and Eugene (Buck) Luff show.
Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.: Latin-American paintings, sculpture, ceramics; Brian Connelly paintings; art mart.
Long Beach Branch, Los Angeles County Medical Assn., 814 Pine Ave.: Lois Cytron show.
Bank of Belmont Shore, E. 2nd St. and Santa Ana Ave.: Richard Arnold show.
Lafayette Hotel, Broadway and Linden Ave.: Spectrum Club show.

Next exhibit in the Lakewood campus gallery of Long Beach City College will be the annual student show opening Wednesday and featuring work of students in all City College art classes.

Included in the display will be oils and water colors, jewelry, pottery, three-dimensional structure and advertising designs. Visiting hours for the show, which will remain open through Mar. 11, will be 10-4 Monday through Thursday, 7-10 p. m. Thursdays and 10 to noon Fridays.

Next City College Art Forum, scheduled for Tuesday, Mar. 11, will feature three contemporary experimental movies, including "Communications Primer," latest production of Ray and Charles Eames. The Mar. 1 program will be introduced by Edwin Castagna, city librarian.

Sister Magdalen Mary, I. H.M., chairman of art Immaculate Heart College, Los Angeles, will give an illustrated lecture on mosaic art before the Long Beach Art Assn. at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

To Sister Magdalen is given much credit for the revival of religious art, of which a dynamic type is called "The Immaculate Heart style" of the West Coast. Founded seven years ago, Immaculate Heart College's art department has attracted attention from museums, critics and commercial firms. Sister Magdalen's grounding in the history of art gives substance to universal ideas and she has a fresh approach to the teaching of art. Awards have been showered on Immaculate artists by many major art societies.

Florence Gendron will have charge of a craft display following the lecture.

Spectrum Club members this morning will sketch the old barn and corals at 19th St. and Terrible Ave., Signal Hill, it is announced by President Bob Peck.

Harold Hemenway Jones, art chairman of Harbor Junior College in Wilmington, who through February has a one-man show in Security First National Bank, 7th at Pacific, San Pedro, considers print making and painting as hobbies. His profession is commercial art, including advertising design, lettering and illustration.

However, he combines with experience in this field a good deal of newspaper editing and magazine work, including illustrations and cartoons. While teaching adult art classes at one time he also included architectural drafting and film publicity work in his busy schedule. He usually has found time to handle two or three jobs at once.

Four years in the U. S. Army Air Force included supervision of a training aids program and development of the art section of a hospital therapy program.

Jones has an AB degree from Pomona College and an MA from Claremont College. Before going to Harbor, he was art chairman at Washington High School, Los Angeles.

All of the work in the current show, he says, was done "for fun or experience." Included are a number of water colors, two temperas and lithographs for which he does the entire process of printing and preparing the stone.

Paintings, drawings, water colors and sculpture by Jack McClain will be shown in Palos Verdes Public Library Gallery until next Saturday.

Sculpture and drawings by Oscar Mestechaninoff, leading contemporary French sculptor now living in America, will be shown in Los Angeles County Museum Exposition Park, Los Angeles, through Feb. 27.

The art department of Pomona College is showing sculpture and paintings by three members of the college faculty in Rembrandt Hall on the campus, Claremont, until Mar. 5. Charles B. Lawler, lecturer in sculpture, is exhibiting non-objective work in stone, cast iron and wood. James E. Grant, assistant professor of art, is showing recent oil and casein paintings, and Frederick H. Hammerley, lecturer in painting, is displaying non-objective work in oil.

Las Artistas, women's art group which emphasizes California's Spanish-American heritage in its paintings, will have its fifth annual Tower Gallery exhibition in Los Angeles City Hall Feb. 14-Mar. 4.

Miss Anna Bird Stewart of Peterborough, N. H., writer and lecturer, will speak on "Romance and Adventure of Research," describing interesting and amusing incidents experienced while gathering material for her books, at a get-acquainted tea under auspices of the Long Beach Branch of the National League of American Pen Women from 2 to 4 Friday in the Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

The tea will be open to all persons interested in writing or the other arts. Paintings, sketches, ceramics, books, magazine articles, etc. by local members will be displayed.

Mrs. Ellen Conaty, branch president, will preside, and Mrs. Elaine Malco will be chairman of the hostess committee.

Miss Stewart will speak Friday at a Burbank school assembly on "Reading and Writing For Fun."

Her books include "Enter David Garrick," "Young Miss Burney," "Two Young Americans," "Bibi, the Baker's Horse," "Three White Cats of Avignon," "Rex and Other Verses" and "A Small Bird Singing."

The author has Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from the University of Cincinnati, the city of her birth, with further study in England and France. She taught English in the high school in Paducah, Ky., where the public library named its division for children and teen-agers, "the Anna Bird Stewart Department for Young People." She was assistant professor of English and taught journalism at St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Ind. She has addressed schools in 40 states.

Mills Alumnae to Hear Distinguished Art Professor

Mills College alumnae in this area are looking forward with keen anticipation to the visit here on Feb. 27 and 28 of Dr. Alfred Neumeyer, professor of art at Mills and director of the campus art gallery, and Mrs. Neumeyer. They will be the guests of Mrs. Ruth Craig Merrell at her Los Cerritos home where on Feb. 28 Dr. Neumeyer will address alumnae and their guests.

Neumeyer has been affiliated with the Mills art faculty since 1935 and has lectured extensively before Pacific Coast museum groups. He received his doctorate from the U. of Berlin and for the past two summers has served as guest professor at the Free University of the Western Zone in Berlin which will provide the topic for his talk.

His special fields are history of the graphic arts, European and Latin American art. He also has taught at Harvard and Stanford Universities, and has completed a book on art criticism which is currently awaiting European publication.

Nautical Club Looks Ahead to Spring

By VIRGINIA NEWTON
Business plus pleasure is in store at the gay welcome to spring luncheon event for the popular Nautical Club. The affair will be given Thursday at 12 o'clock at the Officers Club, Allen Center, with Mrs. Robert Slach and Mrs. Raymond Jordon as hostesses. Officers will be nominated.

Another luncheon event scheduled for next week will be the gathering of the wives of officers attached to the Mine Forces, Pacific, Wednesday, at Allen Center. Mrs. R. Juarez and Mrs. W. F. Long-ton will be the hostesses.

Starring in the party spotlight last week was the simply mad, gay and funny "trude" party given by Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. R. D. Faubion. Invitations read: "Are you tired of being the perfect guest. Minding your manners and ignoring the pest. Come tease the hostess, look for dust. Round up the ice box and eat till you bust." At this unusual party, no food was served, no one was greeted at the door, and the guests were forced to play games. Needless to say every-one had a grand time raiding the over-stocked ice box!

Another feature attraction last week was a lovely valentine party given by charming Mrs. C. A. Murray honoring Mrs. Dell Cohen on her birthday and welcoming Mrs. May-belle Wasserman from Ogden, Utah. The tables were attractive with hearts and frilly valentines and red flowers. Mrs. Murray served one of her famous Spanish luncheons much to the delight of her guests who were: Mmes. L. Litherland, R. Hahan, M. Stel-tenkamp, L. Fink, Robert Bag-ley, Rita Keller, May Run-gren, E. W. Hermanson, Wayne Gamet, G. Carnes, E. Ottensen, L. Grand, Ruth Litch-er and Anna Marie O'Brien.

Capt. and Mrs. J. R. Clark of San Diego were here recently for the reunion class party of 1925. They were the house-keepers of Mrs. Edmund Kilder of Belmont Shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Brooks had as their house guest from Dover, Del., Mayor Lafayette French. They entertained at a potluck supper and bridge party. Among those present were Lt. Col. and Mrs. E. M. Garrett, Major and Mrs. Robert Nixon and Mrs. Walter Kuznak.

Back to everyday routine are Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Norman Shipley whose recent vacation sounds like a trip to Disneyland down Mexico way.

Mrs. M. H. Ivins was hostess last night at a bridge party at her home for wives of officers attached to the USS Helena.

Hostesses at the Valentine luncheon of the Long Beach Air Force Officers Wives Club were Mrs. Michael Ognisty and Mrs. Gus Kraft. The center of the speaker's table held a huge white heart shaped cake with gay red hearts and darts, and paper hearts and streamers decorated the tables. Guest speaker was Mrs. Gladys Morgan who, talked on grooming and charm. Her model was club member, Mrs. George Tid-well.

New members joining were Mmes Edward Goodrich, An-thony McCloskey and new bride Mrs. William Bryan.

Tuesday evening the wives of officers attached to the USS Helena will enjoy a dinner party at Lellani Hut in Belmont Shore. Hostesses will be Mrs. Roy Koester and Buft Adamson.

Wives of officers attached to Destroyer Squadron Three will gather Tuesday for a luncheon party at Manhattan Restaurant. Mrs. William A Morgan will be senior hostess assisted by the wives of officers attached to the USS George K. MacKanzle. Guest of honor will be Mrs. Roland N. Smoot.

Arriving today by train from Monterey (in fact their first train ride) are those two pretty little girls Neil and Edwin-a Lee Jr., with their mother Mrs. W. W. Lee Jr., who are celebrating their grandmother, Mrs. Edwin F. Gladden's birthday tonight with her here in Long Beach. Next week end Mrs. Gladden will drive the threesome home to Monterey where with Lt. Lee will honor Mrs. Lee on her birthday on the 23rd.

There were two lovely "ex-pectant" parties last week. On Tuesday night Mrs. Harry Meylert Brinser was a charm-ing hostess honoring Mrs. Wil-liam Palmer and Mrs. Paul Asthmus at a beautiful pink and blue baby shower. Attend-ing were the wives of officers of the USS Shea DM 3, com-manded by Comdr. Brinser.

Among those present were Mmes. Hal Hasselbach, James Dowell, Joseph Frosio, Frank Barrett, Richard Roby, Calvin Culp, Joseph McDonald, Mar-cia Shane, Pat Knowles and Anita Barker, who will wed Lt. (Jg) Randy Fox in April.

On Thursday night Mrs. J. D. Zinsner was honored by a baby shower at the home of Mrs. H. L. Hinkley. Co-host-esses with Mrs. Hinkley were Mmes. J. C. Potter, L. Ab-rosela and C. L. Barnard. At-tending were wives of officers attached to the USS Helena.

Seen dining at the Towne Club recently were new mem-bers, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Da-vid M. Tye.

And at another table were Lt. Comdr. Thomas and Comdr. R. E. Rifenburgh and their families having a happy reunion.

Gala Coffee-Fashion Show

Proceeds from a valentine day coffee-fashion show will go towards improvement and equipment of St. Anthony's High School when the Mothers Club of that school presents Walker's Dept. Store fashions from 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. Monday in St. Anthony's Catholic Center. Wilma Hastings will be com-mentator.

Mrs. Thomas W. Schilling is general chairman, assisted by Mmes. F. F. Perry, L. Dilworth, Paul J. Albright, Clifford E. Wavell, Frank J. Whitney, P. J. Canavan, Paul Schuster, and Alexander J. Synto.

Mrs. Steven Breitfelder will preside. Music will be provided by the following St. Anthony's students: Marilyn Spane, Jo-hanna Hanford, and Bert Peachy. A custom tea cart and a gift certificate from Walker's will be among gifts distributed, in addition to a bevy of handsome door awards and favors for each guest. Tickets may be purchased at the door or obtained from Mrs. F. F. Perry.

bridge for 140 guests. Beulah (Mrs. W. Scott) Jones, Alice (Mrs. Lorne) Middough, Ger-trude (Mrs. Walter) Killings-worth and Lola (Mrs. Lewis) Van Winkle are the four and they plan to use a pretty pink hearts and flowers theme, with peach blossoms on the large table.

Every Feb. 6 from now on Julie and Frank Fietsch of 47 60th Pl. will have another big family event to celebrate. The something new that has been added is the birth date of their small son, Mark, who weighed in at Seaside Hospital last weekend at six pounds, 11 ounces. Sharing in their light are two sets of brand new grandparents, Digur and Doug Weber and the Franklin Fietschs Sr. of Wilmette, Ill. Plus great-grandparents, the "Boots" Webbers of San Cle-mente (he formerly of Chi-cago Cubs fame).

Lois Marcia Gould

Abrams-Gould Betrothal Told at Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gould, 4613 Lakewood Blvd., announced the engagement of their daughter, Lois Marcia, to Herbert Irving Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Abrams of Los Angeles, at a dinner party last Sunday.

Miss Gould, now attending George Pepperdine College, where she is vice president of the sophomore class, is affiliated with Phi Beta, national fine arts fraternity, Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic fraternity; Alpha Gamma Women's Service Club, and Kappa Kappa Sorority. She was graduated from Wilson in 1953 when she won the coveted jeweled "W." She also won the All-City Lions speaking contest that year.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Whittier College and is presently teaching in the Compton city school, Ardella B. Tibby. He is also attending the University of Southern California.

Judy Lynn Baker

Judy Baker to Say Vows

Miss Judy Lynn Baker chose the candle ritual of Mahabharata Sorority at City College to reveal her betrothal to Richard Dean McMichael. The couple plan an early fall wedding.

The bride-to-be, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mihelich of 1033 Linden Ave., is a graduate of Poly High School and is attending City College.

Her fiancé, son of Mrs. W. Sutton of 2135 Fashion Ave., served two years in the Air Force.

Nona Jane Honaker

Set June Wedding Date

Wedding plans are being made for June 25 by Nina Jane Honaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Honaker of 473 W. 23rd St., and Thomas Howard Shannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Shannon of Whittier.

The bride will be graduated in June from Poly High School. Her fiancé, a graduate of Jordan High School, is serving in the Air Force stationed in San Antonio, Texas.

Barbara Jean Giffin

Miss Giffin to Be Wed

Of interest to their many friends in the Southland is the news of the engagement of Barbara Jean Giffin to Peter C. Swift.

The betrothal was revealed at a dinner party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson C. Giffin, 3860 Cedar Ave.

Miss Giffin is a graduate of Polytechnic High, City College and University of California, and was affiliated with Pi Sigma Phi, Mahabharata, and Zeta Tau Alpha. She is at present teaching in the Long Beach schools.

Swift, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Flngado, 5838 Applan Way, is a graduate of Polytechnic High and City College, and is a senior at State College, where he is majoring in industrial arts. He served overseas with the Signal Corps.

At the Tuesday meeting of Mahabharata alumnae at the home of Mrs. James O'Connor, Miss Giffin was complimented with a cake decorated with the names of the engaged couple.

Exchange Nuptial Lines in Candlelight Ceremony

In an impressive candlelight ceremony, Miss Donna Loreen Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Blanche L. Stevens of 1424 Peterson Ave., became the bride of William D. Livermore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Livermore, 4802 N. Ken Ave., Rev. Murray McNeill officiated in Los Altos Congregational Church.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her uncle, Howard Bever, was lovely in a Maurer original of candlelight tulle over satin. The bouffant skirt fell into a sweep train, and a pearl and rhinestone tiara held her veil. American Beauty roses formed the cascade bouquet.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were Mrs. Rita Marper, matron of honor, and Mrs. Theta Honaker and Miss Martha Lorenzen, bridesmaids. They wore American beauty tulle styled like the bridal gown and carried bouquets of white carnations. Carrying the rings were Rusty and Randy Livermore, nephews of the bridegroom.

Completing the wedding party were Duke Livermore, best man; Robert Wright and Johnny Manahan, ushers.

A reception followed for 225 guests in the church parlor. Mrs. Naomi Bever, Mrs. Gladys Livermore and Miss Eloise Brakefield were hostesses. The mother of the bride greeted guests in slate blue taffeta with pink accessories, and Mrs. Livermore was attired in toast colored lace over taffeta with mauve accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Poly High School and City College where she was a member of Theta Sorority. Her husband, a graduate of Jordan High School, served in the Air Force. The couple will reside at 3812 Canehill Ave. after a honeymoon to Palm Springs.

Udoff-Levin Recite Vows in Afternoon

When Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert Udoff (Barbara Ann Levin) return from a San Francisco honeymoon, they will reside at 1022 San Antonio Drive. The young couple recited their nuptials in an afternoon ceremony at Lafayette Hotel with a reception following in the Mirror Room.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Levin of 2702 Arbor Rd., Lakewood, was given in marriage by her father. She wore an attractive gown of imported ivory lace over sheer ivory nylon net tulle. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley on a white Bible.

In the entourage were Barbara Lewis, maid of honor; Roslyn Adelman and Arlene Bruner, bridesmaids; Robert Levin, best man; and Richard Bruner and Richard Stockton, ushers. The bridal attendants were attired in pastel lace and net gowns and carried heart-shaped bouquets of carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Jordan High School, and her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard D. Udoff of 3739 Arbor Rd., Lakewood, is a graduate of Compton High School and attended Compton Junior College.

Honeymoon at Resort

One of the pretty weddings of the winter season took place at St. Cyprian's Catholic Church when Dowell Anthony Kubicka, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kubicka of Plattsburgh, Neb., and Katherine Sue Milligan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Milligan, 6171 Cerritos Ave., were wed in a nuptial mass.

Accompanied to the altar by her father, the bride was exquisitely gowned in antique white satin trimmed in seed pearls with bouffant overskirt of nylon tulle paneled in Chantilly lace. A coronet of seed pearls held her fingertip-length veil and her bouquet was of white orchids and stephanotis on a white prayer book.

The mother of the bride wore a costume suit of tulle taffeta with accessories of dark brown alligator. Mrs. John Kubicka, who came from Nebraska with her family for the ceremony, was gowned in lavender-pink faille.

A reception for 200 followed the church ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Murphy, 4139 California Ave. Mrs. Murphy was assisted by Mrs. James L. Mills, Eldon D. Milligan and Lloyd M.

Hendricks, Joanne Lowers and Pat Awall, and Meriel Mills presided at the guest book.

Both young persons are students at Long Beach State College and attended Northwestern Missouri State College at Maryville, Mo. She is also a graduate of Jordan High School, and the bridegroom served four years in the Marine Corps, including duty in Korea. After a honeymoon at the Milligan family cabin at Sky Forest, they will be at home to friends at 4703 1/2 Clark Ave.

Smith, Lloyd Stamp, James Yount, Philip Vandenberg, Coy Walden, Delpha Keys, Toonsy Swafford and Boyd Sullivan.

A banquet was given at Assistance League clubhouse conducted by Mrs. Arthur Friebe, president of Southern California council. The sorority flower, violets, and colors, lavender and maroon, were carried out in the decor.

Welcomes were extended by Mrs. Dreyfus and Miss Barbara Friendson, president of the new chapter. Greeting to the new sorority members also were given by Mrs. L. E. Glines, representing Long Beach alumnae; Miss Joanne McCormick, president Alpha Omicron Chapter, UCLA; Mrs. Robert King, past president of Whittier Alumnae.

A silver tea service was presented to the new chapter by the alumnae group and five college chapters in the state. Representatives from these chapters attended the functions.

Installation of the chapter was held the following morning and a model meeting was conducted.

That afternoon a tea was held at the clubhouse when initiates, honor initiates, patrons and patronesses were presented to Panhellenic.

In the receiving line were Miss Friendson, Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Dreyfus, Mrs. Lols Swanson, dean of women, State College; Mrs. Greig, Mrs. Douglas Jr., Mrs. E. E. Blackie, state alumnae chairman.

Mrs. Darwin Kendall arranged the decor for the event. Presiding at the tea table were Mmes. John Dillard, Robert Kind, L. S. Statton, Homer Evans, Paul Cary Merrill and Darwin Kendall.

Patrons and patronesses introduced were Dr. and Mrs. O. K. Hoffman, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Wagner, Messrs. and Mmes. H. F. Burmeister, Sumi Swanson, Lorne Middough, Rolla Alford, Roger Enders, Harry S. ## Why Grow Old?

Health and Humor Bride's Best Dowry

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Marriage today seems to be much more a partnership than it was years ago, but it is more complex in many ways. Even frozen vegetables, electric washing machines and stoves, detergents and all of the fancy aids to housekeeping, do not make up for the accelerated pace at which we live. They only make it possible.

Then, too, in years gone by more women in the home had help in taking care of their houses and their children. Service was not so expensive and that was the day when grandmothers more often lived with their children, the day of larger houses.

Besides all this, while the fact that marriage is more a partnership gives us great benefits and compensations in happiness, it also brings us penalties.

A wife today is supposed to be efficient and clever in making the budget work. She shares in her husband's plans for the future and is a part of his sports and hobbies and leisure activities to some extent at least. Both she and her husband enter into the civic programs of their community. If her husband and children are to find her interesting she must be well informed about the world in which she lives as well as about nutrition and child psychology.

There are two aids which will make this possible—one, fine health, and the other, a sense of humor. With these two you will be able to succeed at several careers wrapped up as one, to be the emotional stabilizer, to smooth the rough edges of living for your family, with understanding, warmth and humor.

If a woman is handicapped by fatigue which means poor emotional balance and irritability she is beaten before she starts.

The chronically, though not seriously ill woman, places a great strain on the family budget, just when the young couple are fighting for a financial foothold.

The best dowry a bride can bring to her marriage is fine health and a good sense of humor. The latter will make daily hectic times which happen in every family, funny rather than irritating, and bubbling vitality breeds graciousness, tolerance and an easy going temperament.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Oswald Jacoby Need Both Skill and Luck

South didn't like what happened to him in today's hand, but he thought that he had been unlucky rather than unskillful. The fact was that he had brought his misfortune on himself.

There wasn't much to the play of the cards. West opened a heart, and East took three tricks in that suit. West discarded the deuce of clubs and then the four of clubs, so East shifted next to a diamond.

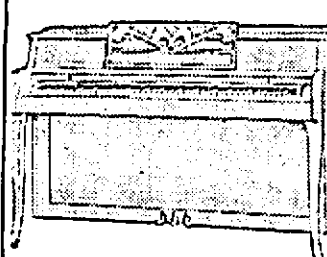

South unhappily played a low diamond, and West won with the king. West next laid down the ace of clubs, receding the encouraging nine from his partner. A club to the king was followed by a fourth heart from East. South ruffed with the nine of spades, but West refused to overruff and eventually got two trump tricks with the queen and the eight.

The defenders took eight tricks, therefore, and South had to pay a penalty of 800 points. This was a very poor result, of course, since even if

Need Expert Advice From Our Readers

Today the Women's Section of the Independent Press-Telegram gives you the opportunity of sharing in an unusual experiment.

The editors have received samples of a new column by bridge expert Easley Blackwood.

Here's the problem: Would you like Blackwood's column to be your regular bridge guide, or would you prefer to retain the advice of the long-time favorite, Oswald Jacoby?

You will note by Blackwood's column on this page that he writes in a breezy, informal style, personalizing the players with names and character, rather than designating them merely as East, West, North or South.

At the same time, as a life master, Blackwood has the highest rank given by the American Contract Bridge League and his standing as an expert is unquestioned.

Which would you prefer—Blackwood's or Jacoby's column? Talk it over with your bridge club. Then vote individually! Write a postcard or note saying simply, "I prefer the Blackwood bridge column," or "I prefer the Jacoby bridge column." Address your ballot to Bridge Editor, Independent Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, California. Sign your name and address and mail before midnight Feb. 23.

Your vote will be weighed carefully in any decision about the future bridge column which will be offered for your enjoyment.

The situation is quite different for your second overall. By then your partner's silence indicates that game is out of the question. At best, you can gain only a part score. You have already indicated the opening lead, so that the rebid does nothing further for you in that direction.

Hence you are risking a big loss as against only a small gain. A player who takes big risks for small profits may have an exciting life but he must expect to lose in the long run.

Merry Whirl of Parties Continues in Lakewood

By BERNICE AIRENDES

With the nip of spring in the air, Dan Cupid has been busy and soon-to-be brides are in the midst of preparations for the big day. Joan Ruston and Marilyn Valance collected for a wedding shower for Patti Woodson recently at the home of Joan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ruston, 6001 Premiere Ave. Miss Woodson has announced her engagement to Gene Winn.

Guests were Meses, Marion Woodson, Beverly Snell, Ethel Woodson, Blanche Carter, Dixie Manson, Marilyn Valance, Evelyn Ruston, Meses Charlene Pickrel, Marion Hammer, Nancy Porter, Jackie Rogers and Elaine Reed.

Conversational piece of a shower held Tuesday evening for Mrs. Jerry Bulger of 6761 Turnergrove Dr. was a blue and white umbrella where guests placed their gifts. Hostesses Mrs. Wayne Spence and Mrs. Homer Lemons also prepared nut cups to look like tiny sailing boats to match the invitations which were sent to Meses, Mary Ellen Serene, Evelyn Bean, Alice Malquist, Marilyn Johnson, Avis Olson, Jane Jorgenson, Peggy Ewell, Connie Turner, Mary Kniesly, Janet Barber, Eva Jenkins, Barbara Hatch, Beverly Dunlap, Ruth Porter, Virginia Dalton, J. Barry, Nellie Alkire, Estelle Jones, Mary Lou Shoualter, Doris Winn, Maybelle Larson, Pat Brooks, F. E. Stevenson of Mar Vista, Betty Stevenson of Hawthorne and Beth Stevenson of Venice.

A three-day trip to San Francisco was enjoyed by Mrs. Loren Daniels of 3502 Tulane Ave. There she met Mrs. Elwin (Maude) Theobald of Boise, Idaho, and together enjoyed the sights of our northern neighbor. They returned via air to Mrs. Daniels' home where Mrs. Theobald enjoyed seeing many of her former Lakewood acquaintances. On Monday Mr. Howard Lamb and Mrs. Theobald lunched together and took a tour of Los Angeles polo rehabilitation center while visiting with Mrs. Orin Wright, a patient in the hospital.

Cooperative nursery this past week. They are Ellen David, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric David of 5207 Adenmoore Ave., and Mark, 3, and Lynne Glatt, 4, children of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Glatt of 4931 Rachel Ave. Birthday wishes were extended by their teacher, Mrs. Della Mulder, and Larry Stern, Connie Mulder, Pat Barrett, Barbie Frome, Jay Morgan, Carl Crouch, Jimmy and David Samuels, Arlene Ahrends, Bobby Morris, Lee and Carol Reiner and David Mauk.

Visiting in town at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harold (Carol) Barrett, has been Martha Bliss of Healsberg. Miss Bliss has been on vacation from her studies at the University of California at Berkeley.

A party was held Saturday evening in the rumpus room at the Waldo Yearsley home. Dancing to popular records was enjoyed by Donna Gillispie, Dorothy Pinegar, Judy Musteen, Adele Larson, Luree Ahrends, Marie Price, Gail Yearsley, Jimmy Yearsley, Ronnie Towns, Ronnie Bremer, Jackie Hickey, Willie Moore, Gary Urton and Pfc. Norman Smith.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Henry Dixon was invited over to Mrs. William Aldridge's home for lunch. Following luncheon they were going to work on the P.T.A. yearly report, as Mrs. Dixon is the president of the Wilson

Hold-Up Play Excellent, but Calls for Judgment

Mrs. Keen lost this contract at the very first trick. The opening lead was the queen of hearts and she let it hold. Now the hold-up is an excellent play, designed to cut the communications between the defenders' hands. But sometimes you cannot afford to use it because it is overshadowed in importance by some other consideration.

Such was the case in today's deal. It was more important here to make sure of preserving the ace of hearts as an entry to dummy later in the play.

At trick two Mr. Meek led the four of hearts and dummy's ace had to be played. Mrs. Keen then made a fine play in the club suit. To avoid losing two club tricks if the opponent had four to the queen-ace, she led the ace first and followed with the deuce, intending to play her nine spot if Mr. Masters played low. But on the second club Mr. Masters went up with the ten.

Mrs. Keen played her king and returned the nine, feeling quite satisfied with the way she had handled the suit. Her elation was short-lived, however, when Mr. Masters let the nine win.

This good defensive play made it impossible for her to win any more clubs. She needed two entries to dummy—one to knock out the queen and one to get back to the fifth club. She had only one entry, the ace of diamonds.

The contract could have been made if the first trick had been won in the closed hand with the king of hearts. Mrs. Keen then could have played the clubs as she actually did, cashing the ace first and following with a small one toward her king-nine. If Mr. Masters had played small, the nine would have won. If the nine had lost to the queen or ten in Mr. Meek's hand, that would have been all right, too, as it would have meant that the clubs had broken 3-2 and that four tricks were readily available in the suit.

In any case the best play

Parent-Teacher Association. When Mrs. Dixon arrived many of her board members and friends had arrived previously and arranged for a surprise stork shower in her honor. She received many lovely gifts including a modern bathlinette. Responsible for the party were Meses, Clyde Sherrill, Ben Davis, R. K. Davis, Carl Webb, Robert Drake, John Galke and Aldridge.

Luncheon was served to Meses, Elizabeth Cahn, Herbie Butcher, Odus Hudson, Kenneth Heyl, Harry Koel, Frank Semus, Howard Priddy, A. A. Dixon, Henry Fahrenbruch, Gordon D. Gettys, Clyde Stuart, V. E. Goech, Don W. Smith, Douglas Dixon, Paul T. Groseclose, O. Earl Johnson, David Stricker Jr., Leon Savers, Joseph Grohowski, Duval Wilson, George Saunders, Howard Priddy, Jay Ackerman, and Mrs. Dixon's mother, Mrs. Ivy McKee of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Child Care

Dad Tries to Be Both Parents Now

By BEULAH FRANCE, R. N.

(Q) "My wife has left me with a son 8 years old. I shall have to be both parents. I have a good housekeeper but how, while home, can I come close to my boy?" J. M. A.

(A) Have you been close to him throughout his early years? Fathers who establish comradeship with children starting with their babies' birth experience joys unknown to those who postpone or ignore opportunities parenthood presents.

If there have been eight years of parental neglect and you're suddenly forced to play a double role, be prepared to accept rebuffs from your small son at first, for you'll have to win your way into his confidence. If he was deeply devoted to his mother he may resent your advances at first.

Develop some shared interest. A friend of mine has held his son's affection from early school years into the teens through the pleasures provided by a stamp collection. When the lad was eight, this father bought the boy a stamp album. From his office he brought home all odd and foreign stamps. Together they studied the countries they came from. They traced historical events represented.

With his allowance, augmented by gifts from friends and relatives, the boy bought single stamps and collections. His playmates became interested collectors, too. They began "swapping" stamps until today, after six or seven years, they're a group of close comrades who, with the main interest of the first father and additional fathers, all enjoy educational excitement through the limitless adventures stamp collecting affords.

Stamp collecting is never outgrown. Recently, at the United Nations, a stamp exhibit attracted thousands of adults and children.

For boys and girls under and over eight there are excellent groups of low-priced stamp books which provide endless hours of quiet, educational enjoyment. Choose them at your bookstore.

Ask Beulah France to help you with your child care problems. Write her in care of the Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope for her reply.

Parents Should Follow Ideas of Abraham Lincoln

By ANGELO PATRI

President Lincoln was a leader of men; one of the greatest. He said and wrote many fine things; among them, "I would hate to leave the world without having made it a little better than I found it." He could not know how much better he left it. Few people ever live to know the effect their lives had on those of others.

There is no living alone in this world. Each of us is dependent upon hosts of others and hosts of others are dependent on each of us. What we think and what we do spreads an influence about us that we cannot measure. This is especially important to our relationship with children and young people.

To keep in mind always that there are children and young people all about us watching and listening is to give us a strict discipline that we are not likely to take kindly, but rearing children is a lifetime job. A good job in that field is a demanding task. It takes time, devotion and sacrifice.

A drink before dinner seems such a comforting restful idea but what about the children? The Yale report tells us that the college men who drink have fathers who do so. Few fathers but deplore the habit. But how they hate the thought of giving it up.

Then there is smoking. It seems to have become a universal habit. A pack of cigarettes and a lighter is as much of an accessory as the pocket in a man's jacket or the handbag a lady carries. So we find school boys and girls smoking. They are following the pattern set by their parents and teachers who smoke late and early.

The Cancer Society has declared that there is a relationship between smoking and cancer. This is a responsible organization whose members view cancer as a terrible threat to human beings' health and happiness. Yet in the fact of this finding the smoking goes on merrily.

When you consider that what the elders do influences what the upcoming generation will do, the habits of the elders become a serious social power in the world of tomorrow. Our bad habits, carried into the future customs of the people do not assure that we, as Lincoln did, will leave the world the better for our being in it.

Here is something to think about this Lincoln's Day celebration.

Molly Mayfield

Young Love Has Obstacles

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I've been going steady with a fellow for ten months now but there are so many problems and obstacles in our way that he feels it would be best if we break up—even though he does love me.

You see, I'm almost a year older than he is. He is a senior high student and I'm new graduated and working as a secretary. He lives 13 miles from me, and doesn't have a car of his own, and very seldom gets his father's. Most of the time when I see him I have to use my parent's car and they don't like this. They feel a fellow should court a girl, not the girl a fellow. He realizes this and it upsets him.

Also, he feels I'm too good for him. He says I am popular, pretty and could get any fellow I want, so why pick on him? I don't feel that way. He is a handsome, intelligent young man whom any girl would be proud to go with. Please tell me what to do. I love him, and he loves me, only he doesn't want to fall more deeply in love because of all these things, and that is why he thinks we should break up.—BETTY JANE.

DEAR BETTY JANE: If your young man wants to break up, then believe me, it won't pay you to try and keep him against his will. I can't, of course, see that any of the obstacles you mention are serious enough to come between you if you honestly love each other.

Oh, of course, it would be better if you were the same age, in school together, and had facilities to see each other often. But you're not so much older than he is that it should matter terribly, nor are you long enough out of school to feel alien to his interests there. However, as long as he suggests not going steady, why don't you fall right in with his plans and see the young man less often. Why don't you go out with other boys? You might find that he has the right idea—that the obstacles aren't worth all the worry you count them now.—M. M.

To Honor Clubs at Reception

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crawford, 3401 E. Ocean Blvd. will be the scene this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock of a reception to be given by the board of the Long Beach Philharmonic Association. Representatives of Long Beach service clubs, who made the recent Youth Audition Contest possible by donating the cash awards, will be honored.

Charles Evett, president of the association, will greet the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Prichard and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ridenour, Rotary Club; Dr. Louise Benefield and Mrs. Gladys L. Potter, Soroptimist Club; Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Parker and Mrs. and Mrs. William Winston, Exchange Club; Mrs. Margaret Fenwick and Miss Ruth Fay, Pilot Club; Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Anfinson, Shrine Club; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bishop, Optimist Club; Dr. and Mrs. Reynolds B. Thompson, Masonic Club. Esther Scott Bly will introduce the first place winners of the contest, Joan George, soprano, Stephen Elliott, piano, and Arthur Lederman, violin. They will entertain during the afternoon. Other winning contestants attending with their parents will be Nancy Irwin, Doris Pridenoff, Lynn Kale, Alice Joann Folkner, Esther Lee Kaplan and Joan Christie. Robert Resta, conductor of the Long Beach Philharmonic Orchestra, will be congratulated on his 20th year with this musical group.

A pink motif will be carried out in the decor. Serving on hospitality committee will be Mmes. S. C. Conklin, Lewis Cox, Howary Coy, R. G. Kiers, Copeland Green, E. J. Wightman, George Van Dyke and Walter Crawford.

School Menus

Tasty Dishes at Cafeterias This Week

Sunday School Helps Child's Social Adjustment

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case N-348: Jimmy G., 5, starts to school next year. "Dr. Crane, Jimmy has never had much chance to play with other children of his own age," his 15-year-old sister informed me.

"Since I read your column every day, I know psychologists urge that children learn to play with others of their own age."

"So I have tried to get Mother to send Jimmy to Sunday School. But she objects. She gives all kinds of excuses not to let him go."

"If only she'd let me take him, I know he would learn how to make friends and play with little boys and girls."

"Will you please write about my case in your column so my mother can see what you have to say?"

Parents, please heed this case about Jimmy, for the art of getting along with other people is a learned reaction.

Play and laughter are also a result of wide experience with other people. A Robinson Crusoe existence is not a good background for a child who must enter school by the age of six.

Sheltered, inexperienced youngsters don't know how to laugh at the usual social situations which are deemed funny. Nor can they play in group games.

Jimmy is already a social misfit. And his entire future life may be ruined by his mother's failure to see that he is socially prepared for grammar school.

Sunday schools offer every family a wonderful opportunity not only to implant moral ideals and good music in their toddlers, but Sunday schools also prepare those youngsters for greater success in the public schools.

If a shy, inexperienced boy like Jimmy enters public school without previous opportunities of playing with other boys and girls during those preceding years, then he remains aloof and timid.

Or he may swing to the other extreme and try to browbeat others and domineer their play.

In either event, he is mal-adjusted. And his school grades often drop. Many of the children who fail in school marks are not to be blamed unduly, for if their parents don't help prepare the child for school success, then those parents deserve reproof.

It is just as vital nowadays to prepare your child in group play habits and other social experiences with those of his own age, as it is to see that his teeth are properly checked and that he is vaccinated against smallpox and diphtheria.

Yet many mothers forget this important fact. They lavish money on his medical care and on his clothes. They buy him encyclopedias and other educational books or games, which is a fine thing.

Then they ignore his social personality. So Jimmy's sister is far more understanding of Jimmy's needs than his mother.

Even if Jimmy's mother were not mindful of the moral and musical values which he will receive from Sunday school, she should be appreciative of the fact that Sunday school attendance is ideal preparation for public school attendance. It helps socialize little grandstanders!

Every child should be in Sunday school EVERY Sabbath day, harrumph!

And you parents who fail to realize this urgent need, are accessories to the crime of making your youngster the "dummy" in grammar school and even of putting him behind prison bars if he later gets into open conflict with the law.

Chef of the Week

Lorin Q. Martin Adds Beer to His Pancakes

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Does he have a Ton? That's your guess! Though born on the Kansas side of Kansas City, Mo., Chef of the Week Lorin Q. Martin ("Q" not for Quincy) headed west at the age of 4. Since then Long Beach has been his home.

Enlisting in Capt. Roland Swaffield's 23rd Company in World War I, he accompanied it as far as Ft. MacArthur. There he was transferred to the 55th Ammunition Train, and it was with that division that he toured France.

After his discharge and return to Long Beach, Martin spent the next few years getting some-so-called experience. For instance, it was he who plastered the cupola above the Wilton Skyroom. He was one of only two men who could match courage with elevation.

In 1927 he joined the police department. Those were the days when a patrolman walked his beat. When and if he rode, he herded a Model T.

Though Martin literally walked, he mentally climbed, and today he has the distinction of being the only Long Beach captain who has actually worked in each department. Known as a policeman's policeman, he's done everything from rescuing cats from trees to solving the most intricate of murders. He served as inspector of detectives, as lieutenant in charge of traffic, finally becoming captain of the Detective Bureau in 1944, the position which he now holds. His popularity with the homicide detail is certainly no secret.

"Our 'chef' has a potent yen for fishing on live bait boats, and if you ever accompany him on such a trip, just remember to provide your own lunch. He's equally 'hepped' on whipping up biscuit, pancakes and waffles and his most ardent boosters are his son, aged 13, and twin sons, aged 11. Today he has given us the recipe for which he's best known—it's Beer Pancakes. "Q" Martin, atop his shoulder, agrees.

BEER PANCAKES

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt

Among Career Women

R. N. Events in News; Clubs Keep Pace

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Two events concerning registered nurses take their place in the career women spotlight today. RN leaders from Long Beach assembled in San Francisco yesterday to consider problems affecting nurses and nursing, with special emphasis being placed on current legislation and legislative procedures, according to Miss Meta Smith, president of the Long Beach Nurses' Assn.

The occasion is the annual meeting of the Advisory Council of the California State Nurses' Assn. Attending from Long Beach are Miss Smith, Miss Blanche Bickel and Mrs. Edith Klein.

Private Duty Registered Nurses
The other news of nurses has to do with the election of officers of the Private Duty Registered Nurses Organization of Long Beach recently when the group met at the YWCA and chose Karina B. Neal to serve as chairman for the coming year.

Serving with her will be O. Reindler Kittleman, vice chairman, and Luella K. Scarsion, secretary-treasurer.

A committee on credentials and registry management was also selected. Grace K. Bawes was named chairman and serving with her will be Elizabeth White, Winifred De Graaf, Madge McGuire, Adele Nisbet, Mary Simmons, Mabel Oppil-ger, Lydia Erickson, Bernice Murray and Mary J. Roberts. The next meeting will be a dinner Feb. 22 at Jones Cafeteria.

Desk and Derrick
Wednesday the Lafayette Supper Room will be filled with a smart group of women—all members of the large and active Desk and Derrick Club. A social hour at 8:30 p. m. will precede the 7 o'clock dinner for the women of the oil industry.

Jean Kasper (Richfield Oil Co.) will preside for the first time since her installation. Lucille Swigert will serve as program chairman for the night.

Guest speaker will be H. Royce Greatwood of Hope Ranch Park, Santa Barbara and his subject will be "The History and Development of the Petroleum Industry in the Orient." The speaker joined Union Oil Co. in 1927 and in 1930 was sent to the Far East to open the first office of his company in China. In 1937 he was transferred to Southeast Asia and his territory covered Malaya, Burma, Siam and India. Following service in World War II he was in the Navy during both wars) he was again in the Far East for his company, this time in Japan until his retirement last year.

The timely talk by a man who knows the Orient exceedingly well should prove of great interest to members and their guests.

Medical Assistants
Valentine's Day—tomorrow will be regular dinner meeting date for Medical Assistants who will gather at Coast Inn, 1045 East Pacific Coast Highway at 6:30 p. m. Speaker of the evening will be Dr. Donald Malcolm.

Hostesses in charge of the evening are Pat Newhouse, Connie Feist, Lucille Minnle, Virginia Toner and Isa Gerry. Medical assistants in doctors' offices in this area are cordially invited to attend meetings of the group, however advance reservations are necessary.

Long Beach Credit Women
Long Beach Credit Women's Club showed appreciation of their bosses in one of the jolliest ways possible last Tuesday night when they were hostess at the annual "Bosses Night" celebration. A dinner party affair, it was given at Vivian Lairds. Informality was the keynote with a valentine theme used as decor. Lucille Drew was evening's chairman.

Convention Delegates
Long Beach Insurance Women have announced the delegates who will be their representatives at the national convention this spring in Phoenix. Selected to serve the club in this capacity were Jane Ann Campbell and her alternate, Marie Eckles, and Roberta Gordon, delegate, Sandra Smith, alternate.

Luncheon
Mrs. Charles Brantingham of 25 La Linda Dr. was hostess for a luncheon at Pacific Coast Club in compliment to Mrs. Norman Scott, who was showered with gifts. Others present were Mmes. William Lockett, John McCutcheon, Jack London, Don Sullivan, Wilbur Sells, Ray Green Jr., Leland Meenzhuber, Sidney Piezer, James Pino, William Guyser, and Philip Erdahl.

Patriotic Program

Americanism activities are being emphasized by the American Legion Auxiliary throughout the nation this month. Activities will center around the observance of the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington and will give prominence to the qualities of American citizenship exemplified in the lives of these two great men. Arrangements have been made by Olive Parker, Americanism chairman of Arthur L. Peterson Unit 27, for a special Americanism program Tuesday at 8 p. m. Speakers for the evening will be Mrs. Ruth Bach, member of the City Council, and two students from Jordan High School.

Emblem Club to Serve Dinner

Emblem Club No. 106 will entertain servicemen tonight at a ham dinner and dessert of home-made cakes baked by members, at the Armed Services YMCA. Mrs. William Engle, chairman, will be in charge, assisted by her committee, Mmes. Paul Symons, Rubie Berg, Clayton Smith, Ervin Schmitt, Roy Wilson, Lillian McGuire, and Fred Hesse. Chairmen of the club will meet at noon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Earl Rausch, 5836 Orange Ave., with Mrs. Lester Bothell as cohostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bourassa

Bourassa Family to Join Parents for Golden Fete

An aura of sentimental happiness will surround Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bourassa, 636 Line Ave., next Sunday when they celebrate their 50th Wedding Anniversary surrounded by their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and friends.

Members of the family will accompany the celebrants to early mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church to begin the day, then they will all breakfast together at the Lafayette Hotel. In the afternoon there will be a reception at St. Matthew's Social Hall from 2 to 5 p. m. at which time their many friends are invited to stop by to greet them.

The Bourassas' 11 children, 19 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren will be with them next Sunday. Their children are Vincent, Andrew, Martin and Jerome Bourassas and Mrs. Clayton Alsager, all of Long Beach; from Los Angeles will come their daughter, Mrs. Bernard Huguet, and from Sioux City, Ia. Mrs. Don Perry and Mrs. Thomas Bencom. Two other daughters who live far away, Mrs. Bert Stenbeck of Sioux Falls, S. D. and Mrs. Harold Shearon of Sycamore, Ill. plan to be here and another, Leo Bourassa, of Prairie, Mich. will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Bourassa were married in Jefferson, S. D. in 1905, moving to Long Beach from that city 12 years ago.

DBE to Meet
Lord Kitchener Chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, will meet Tuesday for luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. Rogers, 289 Redondo Ave. The regent, Mrs. Daisy Baldwin, will preside.

A Clock Chimes a Happy Marriage

● Blanche Thebom, mezzo-soprano star of New York's Metropolitan Opera, is in private life the wife of a businessman. And so she is familiar with the question: What happens to family life when you mix marriage and a career? Here is her answer.

by BLANCHE THEBOM

It would be hard to find two married people whose careers are more widely separated than ours. As a banker, my husband Richard Metz lives in a dollars-and-cents world of finance. As a singer, my world is that of opera and the concert stage. The two worlds don't speak the same language—or keep the same hours.

Yet we have found a way to combine our interests and enjoy life like any other married couple. The secret is, I think, in certain symbols of sentiment and romance which we have learned to cherish. Now there are those who say there's more to marriage than romance—as though that is something childish you put away in mothballs once you've assumed adult responsibilities. We don't agree. To us, romance is the keystone of marriage.

As to the symbols. We make a game, for example, of giving gifts—especially on St. Valentine's Day, when we hide them in unlikely places. I may put my offering in Richard's overcoat pocket, so that he finds it on the way to his office. He may place mine in the lunch box I usually take to opera rehearsals or hide it between the pages of a piece of music, where I'll find it when I start practicing.

Then again, when I'm not on tour, we try to keep the 9th of every month free for a "commemorative date." We meet at 5 p.m.—the hour we first saw each other about six years ago—for cocktails, dancing or afternoon tea.

But the real symbol of our marital romance is the tall 18th-century English-clock that stands in the foyer of our apartment. This clock was once in the lobby of New York's famous old Ritz Hotel, and I was standing beside it when I met Richard for the first time. He had heard me sing at the opera and had persuaded friends of mine to arrange a date. At exactly five o'clock, he walked up to me, introduced himself and said: "You are Miss Thebom, yes?" And there we were.

Later, when we heard the Ritz was to be demolished and its furnishings sold

An 18th-century timepiece that marked a rendezvous for a first "date" is a symbol of romance for opera star and her husband at auction, we made a sentimental pilgrimage to the hotel and bid for the clock. Happily for us, we won.

I must confess that during the musical season, when I spend many hours practicing at home, the clock is silenced. I find that its rhythmic ticking tends to throw me "off the beat" of the music I happen to be studying.

So, starting the clock after the season is over has become a sort of ritual for us. When we hear the familiar sounds—the steady ticking and the deep, solid boom of the chimes—we somehow feel that after the hectic rush of rehearsals and performances our married life has swung into its romantic tempo again.

These are little things, but they are part of the pattern. The gifts, the anniversary dates and the clock may well become a part of a family legend—because they are symbols of the things we treasure most.

MOST FAMILIES have a formula for happiness—a special activity, a favorite place, a saying handed down through generations, an unusual philosophy of life. What is yours? PARADE will pay $100 for each story of a family used in Parade Families. They must be true accounts from your own experience, submitted in typewritten form along with a photograph of the family. Length: 300 to 750 words. Manuscripts cannot be acknowledged or returned. Send to Parade Families, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

THE COVER

● Wee King Kong and his bright-eyed son are prize examples of vest-pocket dogdom. They are Chihuahuas, the world's smallest breed. To prove it, you need only put father and son on the scales. Together they weigh 58 ounces.

The 17-week-old youngster has the added distinction of being smooth-haired, like his mother. His shaggy father, familiarly known as "Chico," is 4 years old and full grown. The dogs were raised by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blaise of Huntington, N. Y., who have been breeding Chihuahuas as a hobby for several years.

Small as it is, the Chihuahua has a king-sized history. It is one of three breeds that originated in the Western Hemisphere (the others: Labrador and Chesapeake Bay retrievers; Boston terrier), and stems from a dog revered as a ceremonial animal by the Aztecs.

Today, the Chihuahua stoutly maintains the honor of its breed. It ranks fifth in popularity in the U.S. and if other dogs are bigger, so what?

Are Today's Pre-Teenagers Growing Up Too Fast?

Dating at 11, "formals" at 12. Parents in this town (and yours) are worried

Oak Park seventh-grader counts "1-2-3" as he and partner learn rumba at Miss Pocock's classes.

IN WESTPORT, CONN., a father shook his head as he talked to a friend. "Today," he said, "I have to go to a clothing store and price a tuxedo for my 12-year-old son. Twelve years old and he's going to a formal dance." He shook his head again. "Things have certainly changed since my day."

In Long Beach, Calif., a mother shook her head in the same bewildered way. She had just discovered that her 12-year-old daughter had been "going steady" for nearly a year.

In Detroit, a school principal asked his fifth- and sixth-grade students to list the personal problems that troubled them most. The question that outdistanced all others: "How do I go about making a date?"

No isolated incidents, these. In your town, too, the small fry of the 11-to-13 age group are busily trespassing on territory once reserved for the high-school set. Little boys' heads are filled with the tricks of the rumba. Little girls are preoccupied with whether dotted Swiss or organdie would be the nicest "first formal." PARADE spot-checked communities around the U.S., talked to teachers, recreation directors, ministers, psychologists, parents, children themselves. Whether the answer came back from Beaumont, Tex., or Macon, Ga., Long Beach or Detroit, it was always the same: dating, dancing and even a flurry of petting is not only commonplace among 11- and 12-year-olds, but practically universal.

A New Development

This junior social whirl is a new facet of American life. Parents and teachers alike agree that it has been creeping up gradually, but has reached full bloom only in the last few years. Possibly, they think, it reflects a lowering of traditional age levels in many aspects of American life—as in the trend, for example, toward earlier marriages.

How far do the kids go with their grown-up games? What lies behind this sudden epidemic of pre-teen dating? Do parents know about it? If they do, how do they react? Most important of all, how does it affect the pre-teens themselves?

To find the answers to these and other questions, PARADE reporters visited Oak Park, Ill., a Chicago suburb where the pre-teen social whirl, in its waist-high way, has reached a peak of development. This is not to focus a spotlight on Oak Park; the same picture might have been seen almost anywhere. Although above average in income, Oak Park seems typical as far as pre-teen dating goes.

In broad strokes, here is a sketch of Oak Park's bustling social swim:

It has its roots in school. In most of Oak Park's 11 schools, square dancing is taught right in the classroom; there is also some social dancing, to records. "Good, clean, wholesome fun," is the way one mother explains it. The kids seem to agree. Many who attend Washington Irving School also are "regulars" at its weekly recreation night (which includes dancing and handicrafts) for fifth-to-eighth-graders. Others, who live near Anderson Playground, look forward eagerly to round and square dancing there each Friday.

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

The real social whirl, however, centers around two dancing schools—Miss Jessie Pocock's school at the Oak Park Club and Miss Rose's school at the 19th Century Club. Probably half or more of Oak Park's 11-to-13-year-olds attend one of them. To those who remember the dancing classes of the Penrod novels, it should come as a jolt to know that boys who attend are not "sissies" to their fellows, but idols. Both sexes look forward to each semi-monthly lesson, regarding them more as "parties" than classes.

"Why do I like dances?" asks 12-year-old Jo Ann Gehrke. "Because there are boys there." The same seems to hold true for the escorts. Around Oak Park, there is a good deal of emphasis on clean white gloves (a must at both schools) and freshly starched blouses, as well as good-natured jockeying for partners. Although partners are chosen by chance and must stay together for the evening, each school has a "boy's choice" and "girl's choice" dance which sets off a scramble.

What every Oak Park sub-sub-sub-deb awaits most nervously, however, are the three-times-a-season special dances at each school, which drip with all the gingerbread of a college prom. Dates are required, and many a 12-year-old Oak Park girl spends anxious evenings by a silent telephone, much as an older sister might. Seventh-grade girls sparkle in their most dazzling party dresses; eighth-graders sport their greatest glory—"first formals." (But corsages are taboo; too many young swains—or their parents—were trying to outdo each other.) These are the social events of the season—but they often leave a trail of, broken pre-teen hearts behind.

A Pre-Teen Date

Also, there's quite a bit of "dating." This word, when used by a 13-year-old, cannot be translated too literally. Sometimes, after dancing class, a boy and a girl will wander down to Petersen's Ice Cream Parlor for a soda, where their parents pick them up. This is considered a "date" by some pre-teens.

But an honest-to-gosh date, in the pre-teen lexicon, involves a Saturday afternoon (more rarely, a Friday night) at the movies, a soda and no chaperone. Most of the kids dabble at this sort of "dating," and (or so it appeared to PARADE's reporters) those who didn't avidly wished they did.

Boy-girl frolics have a way of springing up everywhere. Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops are featuring more "mixed recreation," like hayrides. Even church youth groups are crowding into the act, with dances for pre-teens. And then there are the parties. "Post office" and lights-out games are enjoying quite a vogue. This does not sit too well with mothers, some of whom have been invited charmingly to make themselves scarce. ("The party at my house," says Mrs. Mary Lou McCollum, "was practically over my dead body.")

It also brings up a question that sounds a little odd on the lips of a 12-year-old girl: "Should I let a boy kiss me good night?" That this is a real-life problem is testified to not only by teachers and mothers, but by the children themselves, like 13-year-old Judy Woline: "A boy tried to kiss me good night after a party. What'd I do? I had to let him. He backed me into a corner. I guess I didn't exactly dislike it."

CHAPERONED to door, eighth-grade Oak Park girls arrive for dancing class. Boys and girls must arrive separately.

Then there's the question of "going steady." Like dating, this cannot be interpreted literally: it usually means simply an exchange of rings or pictures, and a date every month or so. For some, it is merely insurance against being frozen out during the "boy's choice" and "girl's choice" dances. Steadies have a rather short life span, lasting at most only a few months. The majority of the kids still prefer to run with the pack. Nonetheless, this further evidence of grown-up mimicry worries parents.

The big questions, many parents told PARADE, are "What's next?" and "Where do I draw the line?" "When the club dance becomes 'old stuff,'" says Harold R. Ward, youth director of the Oak Park YMCA, "will these kids look for new thrills, larger experiences?"

Why this speedup? Authorities blame movies, TV, the A-bomb, the 'cold war'—and the parents

SEVENTH-GRADE dancing class at Miss Pocock's learns fox-trot steps. Later, kids will choose own partners.

This is a question that gives pause to many—but by no means all—parents in Oak Park. PARADE found that parental opinion broke down into four major categories: 1) those who actually plunge their children into the social swim or, at least, applaud the idea; 2) those who feel "times have changed" and approve properly supervised boy-girl recreation at this level; 3) those who have misgivings but are badgered into saying yes by their children; 4) a small minority who are fighting to keep their children children, in the strict sense of the word.

In the last group is Mrs. Grace Pennie, whose nine children include 14-, 12-, and 11-year-old girls. "I don't like it," says Mrs. Pennie flatly. "Those 11-year-olds going to movie shows with boys—it's unthinkable to me. I think the parents are just going at such a pace that they want to get rid of their kids and push them into social activities before they're ready. I feel that if you have a nice family life, you're less apt to have these problems."

To some parents the dancing classes are an asset because of their dividends in poise and the social graces. "Frankly, I think it's a good idea," says Mrs. Esther Steed, a teacher at Hawthorne School and mother of a 13-year-old girl. "It gets them used to each other so they don't think they're such strange creatures." J. E. Howie, father of a 13-year-old boy, adds a fervent amen. "As far as my son is concerned," he says, "I know he has more aplomb on a dance floor than I had after two years of high school."

A minister with misgivings is Dr. Carl Winters of Oak Park's First Baptist Church. "I don't see how you can turn back the clock of time," he says. "Our whole society seems to be geared toward a stepped-up intelligence of this younger generation. I have an idea that maybe this is not too good unless we can get our whole educational system, the church and the home geared to it."

The consultant in pupil personnel services for the Oak Park Schools, Miss Viola Menzemer, sees nothing really new in the situation. "Children in the 11-to-13-year-old level, in my opinion, have been thinking these things for years, but the changes in society and the fact that the family is not so strong as it once was now make them look earlier for relationships outside the home. And the children are more challenging; they assert themselves more." Few argue that last point.

"In my day," says Mrs. Adah McMillan, "the girl waited for the boy to call. But my Ann doesn't hesitate to phone a boy. I think that, like a lot of girls, she's aggressive." Most Oak Park parents agree that the girls seem to be "pushing" the boy-girl parties. Some think the answer is that girls these days mature earlier than they once did. "A seventh- or eighth-grade girl today is the equivalent of a high-school junior in the old days," says Mrs. Anne Bartels. "They look older, and they try to look older yet."

Medical men, however, are not in complete agreement with this theory. All those PARADE consulted admit that pre-teens today are taller and heavier than those of 20 years ago. But there is disagreement on whether this indicates earlier maturity—physical or emotional. Such adult-level (or at least adolescent-level) problems as dating and goodnight kisses may still be somewhat beyond their realm.

Are TV and Movies Responsible?

Around Oak Park, TV and movies are a scapegoat for "giving these kids the ideas in the first place." To some authorities, that is wide of the mark. Admitting that modern mass communications have great power to mold ideas and shape thoughts, they consider these more a symptom than a cause.

The present pre-teen precocity, they suggest, stems from a shaky society, plagued by the uncertainties of the cold war and living with the specter of the A-bomb. Because of this instability, the emphasis has been on a speed-up of all social customs: quick social contacts, quick pleasures, a quick shove into escape from the realities of the world. On adults, with more experience to draw upon, the pressures are tremendous; but on pre-teens, already in the shakiest part of their lives, they can be almost shattering.

It is a problem which worries psychologists, sociologists, educators and medical men alike. Selma Fraiberg, a child therapist and instructor in psychiatry at Wayne University, recently warned: "These children are burdened with all the normal stresses of puberty plus the abnormal stresses imposed upon them by their community. At a point when a girl is most anxious about her femininity, her unripe femininity is put to a severe test. A boy, flooded with terrible doubts about his masculinity, is pressed to prove a masculinity of which he himself is quite unsure."

And an Oregon gynecologist, Dr. Goodrich Schaufliker, blasts U.S. "bosom-consciousness," which, he says, sometimes drives girls as young as 10 or 11 into severe mental crackups or attempted suicide when the much-desired curves fail to appear.

Educators and sociologists have pointed out that, by accenting "too early social sophistication," the U.S. may be laying up future trouble for itself and its children. Mrs. Newton Leonard, national president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, warns, "When orchids, corsages and formal parties have been part of your life from the age of 11 or 12, by the time you are 17, nothing is left!"

Warnings and predictions notwithstanding, pre-teens everywhere probably will go right on dancing, dating and flirting with an occasional kiss. Parents will continue to worry, and so will psychologists. Sooner or later, they probably will have to meet the question head-on, as Principal Lawrence Cox of Oak Park's Horace Mann School has done.

"Are these seventh- and eighth-graders—and some times fifth- and sixth-graders—too young for this?" he muses. "Actually, it doesn't matter what I say. Earlier socializing is here, and here to stay. Our problem is not to stop it, but to try to provide a wholesome atmosphere for it."

PRE-TEEN DATING: As Oak Park sees it

MRS. MARY LOU McCOLLUM: "I think they're awfully young to do all this. I never did it. But I can't feel justified in telling my little girl she can't go to a party when she tells me, 'Everyone else is going.' I just wonder: when they start this early, what happens next year? You can't seem to control these things. But I guess one of the difficulties is I'm a woman. I'd be more upset if she wasn't invited."

MARCIA McCOLLUM, 12: "I don't think I'm too young for this, not really. I'm interested in boys—in a way. I like parties and dances. It's a kind of entertainment that you don't get when you're younger. Mostly I like going out with some other people. Of course, there's one boy—I'd like to go out alone with him, maybe to the movies or an ice-cream parlor. I think it would be kind of nice."

HAROLD R. WARD, YMCA youth director: "Basically I think it's wrong. I have a 12-year-old daughter, and ordinarily I wouldn't let her stay out late on a school night. But you're keeping up with the Joneses; you don't want to be an old fogey. Maybe it's good; maybe it's making them grow up faster. But the way the trend is, by the time they're in high school, the thrill of a date is gone."

DR. CARL WINTERS, Baptist minister: "I've seen my 11-year-old daughter where you'd think life had ended for her; other girls were attracting the boys, and she wasn't. It was a crisis in her little life. Yet I don't want to be strict just because I'm a minister; I want her to have wholesome social relationships, the kind every child needs and is entitled to. At least she is getting an 'at-homeness' with other children."

MRS. JANE CHRISTIANSON: "Let them get used to each other. Let them learn to be at ease with the other sex. Later on, when they're in high school and begin to pair off, they'll be prepared for it."

Her daughter Lois, 13: "Why shouldn't I be interested in boys? I'm not too young. They're human beings—cute human beings. I've been interested in them since first grade."

DR. BERTRAND J. SMITH, superintendent of grade schools: "I have the feeling that the school, as a community agency, should help to establish normal boy-girl relationships, which begin in kindergarten and go right on to adulthood. There's nothing wrong with 'early' boy-girl relationships, provided that a community-wide program for them is properly planned and researched and carried out."

I'm Redoing It Myself

A home craftsman, caught up in the national craze, takes a long look at his work — and doesn't like what he sees

by DICK EMMONS

I don't know what makes people think the do-it-yourself trend is something new. Unable to afford somebody who knew how, I've been doing it myself for some time. In fact, I'm reaching the point where I'm redoing things myself—things I did once which have since proven something less than satisfactory.

A project I began the other day, for instance, involved raising the height of our kitchen table. About a year ago, goaded into action by a wife with a set smile and a short length of garden hose, I had undertaken the job of evening the table's legs so the table would stand level. In what seemed no time at all, we had a kitchen table which stood 12 inches off the floor.

Since then we have been sitting down to breakfast yogi-style. Our dog, who used to sit up and beg for morsels, just reaches out now and snaps at somebody's toast.

In raising the table to the proper level (redoing it myself), I'm experimenting with a design which could become high fashion in the furniture world. For want of a more appropriate name, I call it Orange Crate Modern.

Another major phase of the current nationwide craze to do-it-yourself involves finishing off that unfinished attic. Well, far ahead of the game as usual, I finished off my attic a few years ago. "Ended it" might be better.

I must have gotten hold of a batch of green wallboard or something. I'd get a piece tacked to the beams and turn to something else and sproing!—off it would come. Naturally I did my own electrical work, too. I didn't actually get all the wiring concealed and, what with one thing and another, the attic became a pretty ticklish place from a health and safety standpoint.

I decided to refinish the finishing job a few days after the man came about the fireplace backing smoke into the living room. He insisted on going up into the attic, so we took the names of his next of kin, strapped a first-aid kit to his back and shook hands all around.

The Fire Department finally got him out through a window and it wasn't long before he was discharged from the hospital. The experience shook me, along with our out-of-court settlement.

Shortly after I finished off the attic, I turned my talents to converting our television set from a standard model taking up usable floor space to a built-in type with only the picture tube showing from a wall. A fairly tricky piece of work, this took most of my evenings for several weeks while my wife grumbled about not being able to love Lucy or find out what somebody's line was.

I'll Do It Again

Her complaints took on a new and somewhat sharper pitch when I finished the transferral and flicked on the switch. I would have been grateful for a case of picture flopover or fuzzy images or even an unsynchronized sound track. But there was nothing, except a low humming sound. It's very restful to read by, but I suppose one of these days I'll be doing that job over again, too. Just before the World Series is televised, I should think.

Meanwhile, I'm planning to rebuild that set of shelves in the preserves closet, the ones I built for my wife just after she made 24 pints of currant jelly.

Naturally, I'll be redoing the carpentry work myself. I might, however, be interested if anyone knows where I can hire a jelly scraper at a reasonable rate.

A New Way to Reduce That SWELLING

By ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

Old drug offers new hope in a wide variety of ailments—from black eyes to phlebitis

The patient, a 45 year-old woman, squirmed uncomfortably in the doctor's office. For several years, she said, she had suffered from a form of phlebitis, a troublesome inflammation of the veins in her leg.

From time to time, her leg would swell up, become painful and tender. Nothing brought lasting relief, she said. Hers was not an unusual case. Phlebitis, an illness thought to result from sluggish blood circulation, or injury, strikes many adults in all age groups.

The doctor decided to try a drug, not a new one, but one that had been used in many illnesses, including cancer, without much luck. It had been considered dangerous. But the results in this woman's case made the doctor sit up and take notice.

In just three weeks, the pain and tenderness disappeared and the swelling was reduced to a large extent. After the fourth week, the patient was free of all symptoms. Weekly injections since then have prevented recurrence.

The drug that produced these striking results was prepared from a substance called trypsin. The dosage: as little as 1/11,000 of an ounce. Since this one case was reported, trypsin has shown value in treating a host of ailments which result in pain and swelling—among them, black eye, bursitis (an illness that usually causes great discomfort to back and shoulder muscles) and bronchitis. There is even evidence that this "anti-inflammatory" drug can help polio patients.

Enzymes At Work

Trypsin actually is an enzyme, in itself a fascinating part of the human body's complicated chemical machinery. Enzymes are the body's "chemical messengers": they start, stop and control chemical reactions without changing themselves.

One of the enzymes, pepsin, breaks much of the food you eat into the chemical components required by the body. Science has identified a great many enzymes, but there are far more as yet undiscovered. Exactly how they keep the body's chemical "chain reaction" going is not known.

Trypsin, at any rate, is manufactured in the pancreas. The trypsin now being used to treat increasing numbers of patients is extracted from the pancreas of cattle.

For some reason trypsin works dramatically on inflammation in certain cases. It seems to increase blood circulation in the swollen area and restore its chemical "balance." Apparently, it also speeds the rate at which fluid in a swollen area is taken up by body tissues. Thus, a group of Philadelphia doctors recently reported unusual results in treating black eyes.

A man with two black eyes, both swollen shut, was given trypsin. In just 24 hours there was "marked improvement." A short time later, one eye was fully open and the swelling reduced. Other similar cases confirmed this first finding.

From Herkimer, N. Y., comes more evidence of the drug's effect in reducing swelling and relieving pain. A researcher reported that there was "dramatic relief" in some bursitis cases less than one day after the patient got trypsin. Some patients who could not move their arms regained wide range of movement after a few injections.

The same doctor also reported that trypsin helped to reduce coughing and inflammation among some bronchitis sufferers.

All this, of course, is in addition to the drug's beneficial work on phlebitis.

Effect on Polio

But perhaps the most unexpected effect of the drug to date concerns polio patients. Researchers tread easily and very conservatively on the subject of trypsin and polio, because it is one with which they have had so little experience.

Trypsin, if it works at all, is not a substitute for the polio vaccine now being tested. That vaccine is a possible preventive measure. Trypsin has been tried on patients only after they get the disease.

However, based on a preliminary study of 50 polio patients in two Wilmington, Del., hospitals, here is what can now be reported:

- Paralysis, which usually continues for six or seven days after onset of the disease, appeared to be stopped after just two days among trypsin-treated patients.
- Muscle strength among the patients was increased over what would be considered normal during the period of recovery.
- Thus, patients were able to exercise and start rehabilitation work earlier.
- Trypsin itself did not relax patients' muscles, but "anti-stiffness" drugs given after trypsin worked better than usual.

Of course, many more polio cases have to be studied before doctors can make any conclusions. But this much they do say: whether or not trypsin helps in polio, its action in phlebitis and in other inflammatory illnesses means that another weapon has been added to medical science's arsenal.

BLACK EYE: One patient with an eye swollen "to the size of a lemon" was helped by trypsin. Now, doctors are testing drug against other eye disorders.

Willie Mays: Hero at the Crossroads

The Alabama boy now is in big-money circles. How will prosperity affect his ballplaying?

Hiding behind his cap in Puerto Rico, Willie Mays tries to avoid the telephoto lens of PARADE's photographer—and unintentionally provides an arresting picture.

Behind the cap at the left is a man with a problem. He is Willie Mays, an Alabama boy who grew up to become the dazzling outfielder of the New York Giants; this photo was taken in Puerto Rico, where he has been starring in winter baseball; and his problem is symbolized by the way that cap hides his face.

For Willie, at 23, has arrived at a crossroads in his career. He is on the threshold of the big money—off the playing field as well as on. The problem is: How will he behave as he cashes in?

Will he retain the unworried attitude of a Babe Ruth, keeping his baseball and his outside interests strictly separate? Or will he stumble into the mental turmoil of a Mickey Mantle, thereby making his basic skill—and welfare—suffer?

This is no new problem in baseball: more than one young athlete has been hamstrung by money trouble. The great Ted Williams went through it until he learned to tell all outside promoters, "Don't bother me during the baseball season."

Fred Corcoran, who handles Williams, Stan Musial and golfer Sam Snead, says, "The important thing for an athlete to realize is that his bread and butter comes from the game he plays. He should make that his first order of business."

Willie has done so—up to now. But last season he suddenly realized that he was making nearly as much money outside of baseball as inside. His salary, plus a World Series cut, came to around $27,000; television appearances, endorsements and the like totaled close to $23,000.

This year his base pay is reported at $25,000. Yet, if Willie maintains his blistering pace, the outside offers will keep piling up. This often causes complications and confuses Willie.

In Puerto Rico, recently, he appeared on a TV show, not realizing that it was sponsored by a rival of the dairy company whose products he endorses in the States. That upset Willie so much that, when magazine photographers wanted him to pose for pictures, he simply said,

4 Short Cuts to Better Sauces with Carnation Milk

Carnation's special blending qualities and double richness make them possible. No other form of milk will do!

CARNATION 1-2-3 FUDGE SAUCE

Easy to remember, easy to make! No constant stirring, tiresome "soft ball" tests or candy thermometer needed. Combine 1 large can (1½ cups) undiluted Carnation with 2 cups sugar and 3 squares (3 ounces) bitter chocolate over hot water or low heat. Cook 15-20 minutes, stirring just occasionally. Remove from heat; add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until smooth. Serve hot or cold over ice cream, cake or pudding.

CARNATION LUMP-FREE CREAM SAUCE

Sure to be cream-smooth every time with this better-blending milk. So much quicker to make, too—with double-rich Carnation only half as much flour and shortening are needed. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with 1 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan over low heat until smooth. Gradually add 1½ cups (large can) undiluted Carnation. Stir over low heat until thickened and smooth.

CARNATION 3-MINUTE CHEESE SAUCE

So smooth—because of Carnation's special blending qualities. So quick—no flour or shortening needed, because of Carnation's double richness. Simmer 1½ cups (large can) undiluted Carnation and ½ teaspoon salt over low heat to just below boiling (2 minutes). Add 1 cup grated processed American cheese. Heat until cheese melts (1 minute). Makes about 2½ cups. Also serve with vegetables.

CARNATION EVER-SMOOTH BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

Such an easy, sure way to make it. Never curdled or stringy. Always smooth because of Carnation's special blending qualities. Mix 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup undiluted Carnation, ¼ cup butter, 2 tablespoons corn syrup and ¼ teaspoon salt in saucepan over medium heat; cool slightly. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla and ½ cup more undiluted Carnation. Serve warm or cold.

FANS GO WILD in Puerto Rico, too, when Willie hits a homer. Hero-worship only complicates his problems.

MAYS CONTINUED

STILL HIDING from the camera, Willie here has draped a towel over his head. But the telephoto lens got what it went after: the portrait of a troubled man.

Willie now can match half his first year's pay in a few minutes on TV

OUT IN THE OPEN at last, Willie is fair game for a "sneak" shot. The fan he's signing the book for—and who has spotted the camera—is William Ramos, 9.

"See my agent"—and hid behind his cap, a towel (left) or anything else handy.

Eventually he cooled off, but the incident helps show why the Giants originally asked a gentleman named Art Flynn to act as Willie's agent.

Flynn handles Willie's business affairs outside of his baseball salary, taking the usual 10 per cent of all monies received. This sounds pleasant, and is, but it gives Flynn a problem of his own. Naturally, he wants Willie to make as much money as possible. But if there is too much stress on extracurricular gain, Willie is likely to be thinking of the wrong things when he comes to bat in the last of the ninth.

Something like that happened to Mickey Mantle, who came up to the Yankees ballyhooed as the greatest ball-player since Babe Ruth. He got an agent—and then three more, including a ghost-writer—and his life became so complex that his baseball suffered. Last year he still managed to hit .300 and 27 home runs, but no one now compares him to Babe Ruth.

Each Day, 20 New Offers

Willie Mays is getting the build-up treatment that once went to Mantle. "It's a new situation for him," says one Giant official, "and a new one for us." The club gives Willie the best possible care, but much responsibility still lies with Flynn.

Flynn must weed out the offers that now pour in on Willie at a 20-a-day rate. Some are scotched simply by quoting Willie's price ($1,000 an appearance, except for charity), others because they're not dignified. When an offer is accepted, it must meet Willie's and Flynn's standards. Cigarette ads, for instance, must not say that Willie actually smokes.

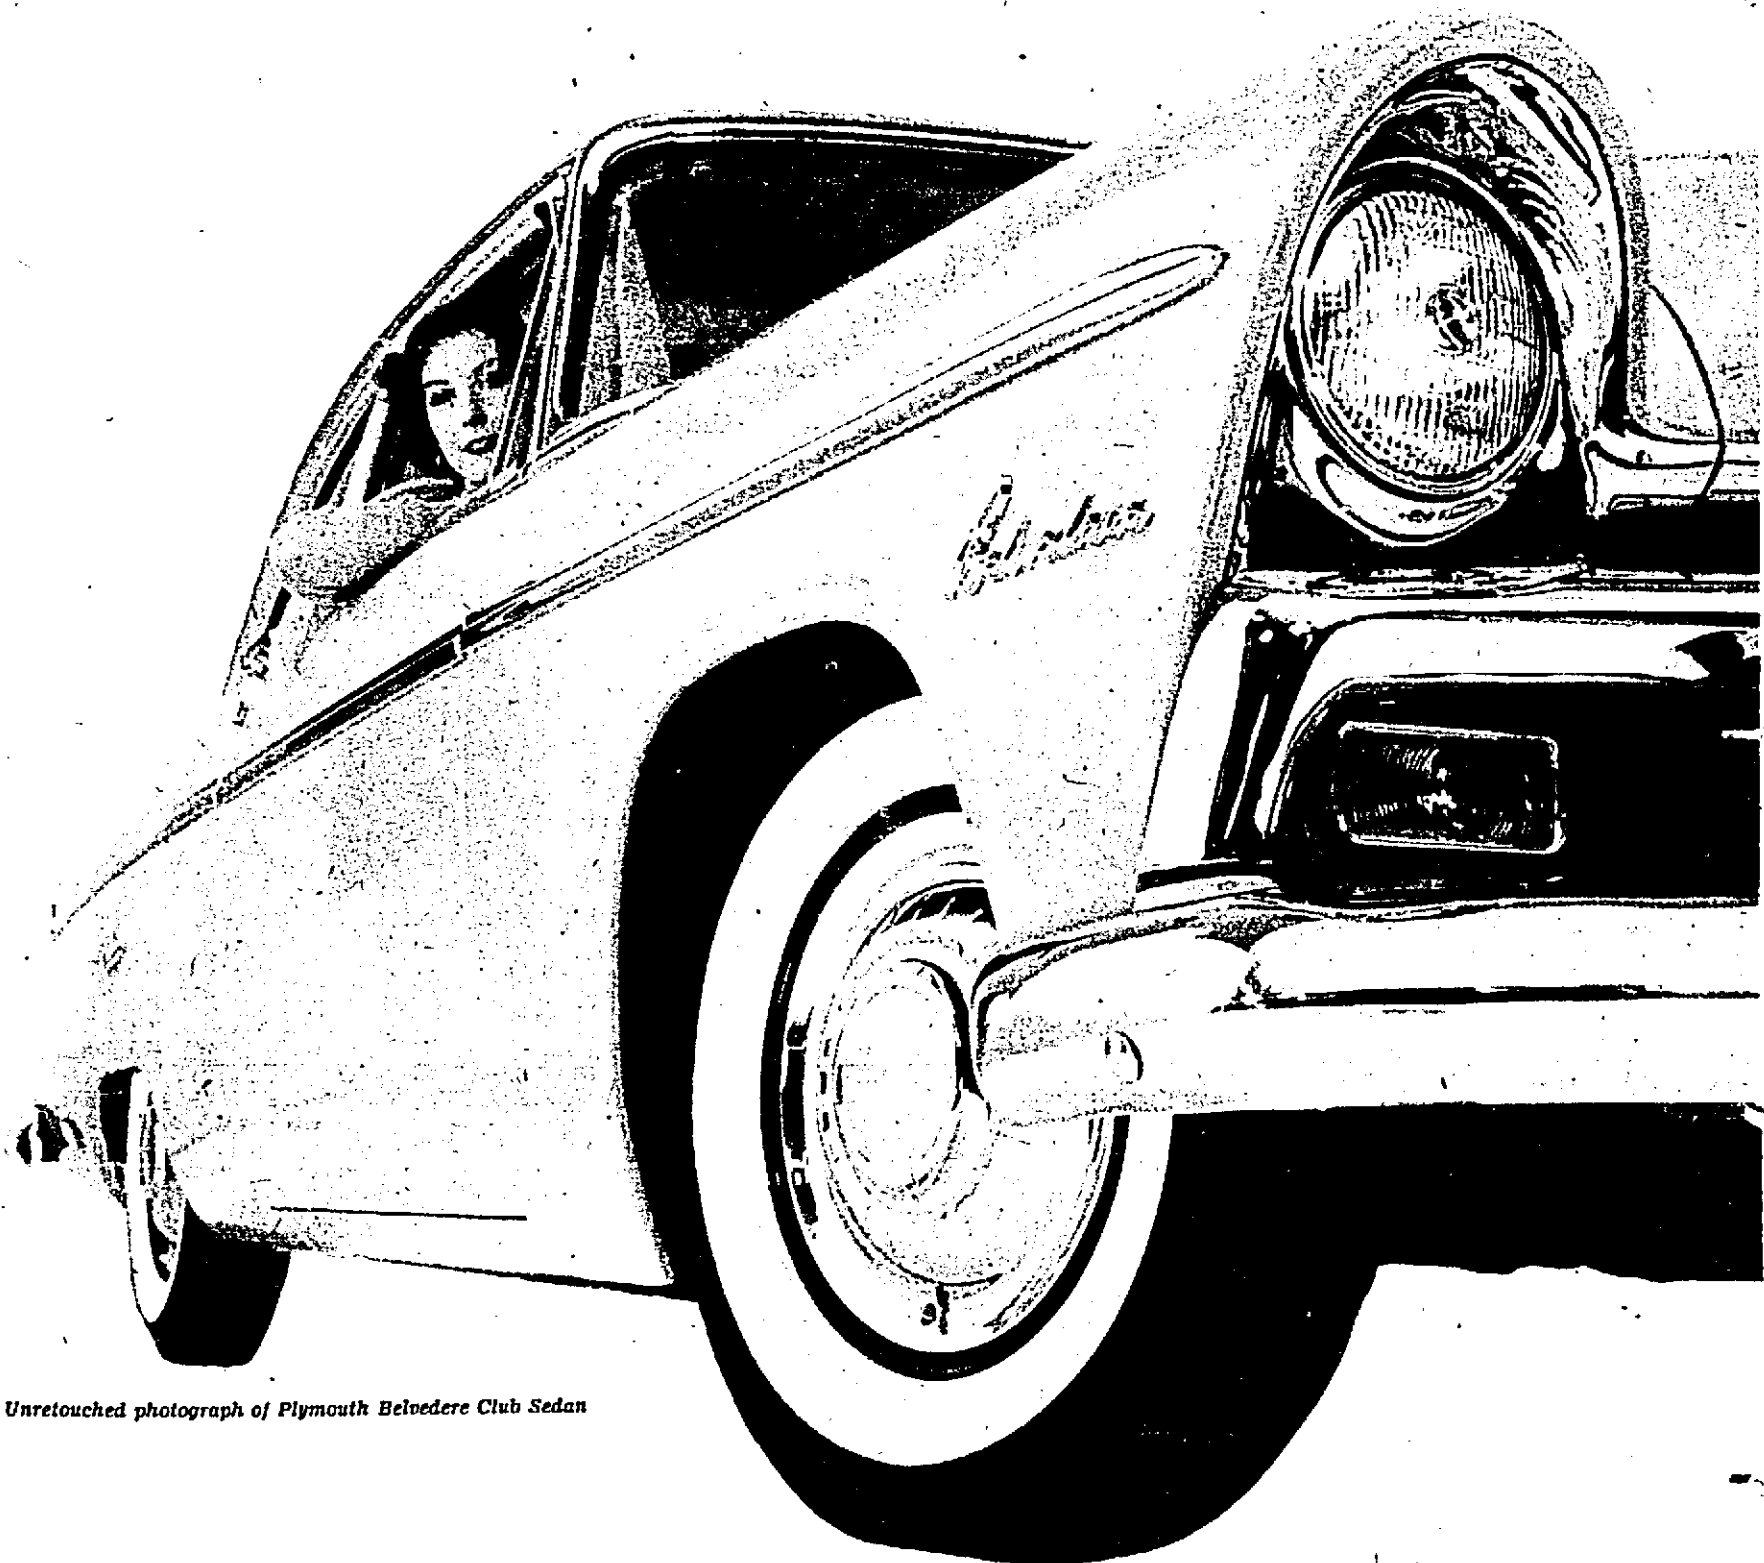

His popularity has not affected Willie deeply—yet. He still qualifies as the favorite player of his clubmates. They see no parallel with the case of one recent "Rookie of the Year." This player became so heady with success that he began asking to be paid for appearing at off-season banquets in his own honor. (Luckily, he later changed his attitude.)

Yet Willie is no longer just a happy kid playing a game. "When he came up in 1951," says one close friend, "you could just say to him, 'Willie, do this' or 'Willie, do that,' and Willie would do it. But now Willie knows he is a star, and he wants to be treated like a star." Knowing that he can earn half as much as his first-year salary by appearing for a few minutes on a TV show, Willie sometimes is inclined to ask, "What's in it for me?"

Recently, in Puerto Rico, Willie got into an argument with a batting-practice pitcher. When teammate Ruben Gomez tried to stop it, Willie misunderstood and knocked him flat. They shook hands later—but the old Willie would not have fought at all. Clearly, pressures were at work.

The answer to his problem would seem to be to pace him for the long haul rather than the immediate dollar. Willie's income will stay up if his batting average does; if he keeps catching long flies, he'll catch plenty of cash, too.

WAYS WITH A LOAF OF BREAD

A loaf of baker's bread can become rolls, breakfast or tea bread—or a main dish. All you need are a few added ingredients and a minimum of time

GARLIC BREAD ROLLS

- 1 loaf unsliced bread
- 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
- 2 slashed garlic cloves
- Poppy seed

Remove crusts from loaf; cut lengthwise, then crosswise four or five times (cutting almost through to bottom). Meanwhile add garlic cloves to melted butter or margarine and let stand 10 minutes over very low heat; remove garlic; spread butter or margarine on outside of bread and into all cuts. Sprinkle with poppy seed. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Serve hot.

HONEY PECAN LOAF

- 1 loaf unsliced bread
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 10 pecan halves

Cut loaf of bread in half lengthwise, cutting almost through to bottom; slice bread crosswise four times. Place loaf in well-greased bread pan (9" x 5" x 3"). Combine melted butter or margarine, honey and brown sugar. Pour over bread. Sprinkle chopped pecans between cuts. Arrange 10 pecan halves on top. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 25 minutes. Serve warm.

SOUFFLÉ LOAF

- 1 loaf unsliced bread
- 1/4 lb. sharp cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 2 eggs

Remove crusts from loaf. Cut lengthwise almost through to bottom, then crosswise four or five times. Melt two tablespoons of the butter; let rest soften in mixing bowl. Brush melted butter or margarine on outside of loaf. Place in shallow baking pan. Grate cheese into bowl with softened butter. Cream together until well blended. Separate eggs. Beat whites until stiff and yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Stir egg yolks into cheese mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread on loaf. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Serves five.

APPLE JAM CAKE

- 1 loaf thin-sliced bread
- 1/4 cup strawberry jam
- 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
- 2 apples
- Crumb Topping*

Cut crusts from 18 slices of bread. Spread each slice with butter or margarine and strawberry jam. Make six stacks of three slices each, ending with spread side up. Place stacks close together on baking sheet.

Peel apples; slice very thin. Arrange slices on top of bread stacks. Sprinkle with Crumb Topping.* Bake in hot oven (425°F.) about 10 minutes. Serve warm. Serves six. *Crumb Topping: Combine 1/4 cup sifted enriched flour, 1/4 cup brown sugar and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon. Cut in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; mix with finger tips until crumbly.

KITCHEN HINT: To give French Toast new flavor, add 1/4 cup molasses to 3 eggs; beat with 3/4 cup milk. Dip 8 bread slices; fry golden brown.

"Here's a honey of a sunny cake—and oh! so easy! You can make it in minutes with my fine Honey Spice Cake Mix. It's inspired by Fiesta Time in sunny California, where those big, golden Cling Peaches grow. And there couldn't be a happier blend of flavors than ripe, luscious peaches and my Honey Spice Cake.

"Serve this gay cake for dinner tonight, why don't you? Follow the simple recipe right on this page. You use only half the Honey Spice batter . . . so bake up the rest in another pan, serve it warm for breakfast tomorrow—and see if you don't win yourself an extra-special 'good-morning' kiss!"

"And I guarantee a perfect* cake every time you bake—cake . . . after cake . . . after cake!" Betty Crocker

*PERFECT! Yes, we DO mean perfect. If a cake you bake with Betty Crocker Cake Mix is less than perfect, send the top of the package to Betty Crocker, Box 200, Minneapolis, Minn., and General Mills will send your money back.

PREPARING for speed test in experimental Dodge "Firearrow," Betty Skelton changes from high top flat heels for easier driving. Johnny Moir, 11, of Detroit, wishes her luck.

FAIR, FAST AND 28

Speed flier Betty Skelton tries a new career: speed-testing cars

by KARL KOHRS

DETROIT.

The title of "world's fastest woman driver" conjures up a picture of a husky, deep-voiced Amazon in goggles, helmet and oil-stained racing togs. Men in the auto industry here know better.

The present holder of the title is a soft-spoken, petite young lady of 28, with dark-brown eyes and hair to match. Her name is Betty Skelton. Last June she drove an experimental car around a test track at 143.44 mph, setting the AAA speed record for women.

She is the first and only woman in the automotive industry to be licensed as a test pilot, and the only woman

"TESTING": In a skin-tight crash suit, Betty pilots specially built water scooler at fast low. She is an expert water skier and world's only woman "jump-boat" driver.

Girl who "can't stand standing still" gets a lot of things done

ever licensed by the AAA to drive racing cars.

Setting her record as the world's fastest woman driver was Betty's way of starting a new career. She'd already had one as an aerobatic and exhibition flier (PARADE, March 5, 1950), logging more than 5,000 hours of flying time and breaking records right and left. With no more room on her shelves for aerial trophies, she decided to "ground" herself to become a test driver and car-design consultant to the Dodge automobile company.

So now Betty has a two-way job: testing new cars to work out performance and safety problems (this includes traveling around the country to give safety talks and demonstrations), and dreaming up ways to put more feminine appeal into cars.

Tomorrow's cars, Betty believes, need more of the feminine touch—more chic in upholstery fabric and colors, better positioning of the front seats so Mrs. Driver won't wrinkle her skirts when she gets in and out, better mechanical design to eliminate her parking difficulties. Says Betty:

"It isn't that I'm trying to compete with men or invade their world. I've merely chosen the type of work I enjoy and seem qualified for.

"In test-driving I even wear the type of clothing a girl would wear on a shopping trip or on a date. There's one exception: I change to low-heeled shoes when I get into the car. The men razz me about it, but low heels make high-speed driving easier."

Airplanes, Not Dolls

That Betty has a way of getting things done her way is attested by her spectacular career up to now—Career No. 1, that is. She began it in Pensacola, Fla., at the age of 12, when she flew her first plane—solo. "This happened," she explains with a mischievous smile, "behind a hangar when nobody was looking."

She adds: "In those days I ate, slept and breathed aviation. While other little girls played with dolls, I tinkered with model airplanes. I spent most of my week ends building up flying time."

Local aerial barnstormers soon began to notice the freckle-faced kid who seemed to have been born with wings. One day she picked up a Tampa paper and read that Betty Skelton, famous girl flier, would appear in a forthcoming air show—and fly upside down.

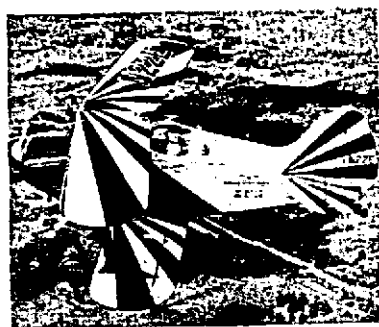

"That was news to me," says Betty, "because I'd never done it before, and the show was two weeks away. I called up the man who had booked me—a stunt flier with whom I had worked—and asked him what this was all about. 'Oh, you can do it,' he told me. 'I'll show you how.' He did, too."

That began Betty's aerobatic career, during which she won the aerobatic championship for women, set two world's altitude records for light planes and racked up an unofficial speed record (426.5 mph) for engine-powered planes. Still intact, she retired from exhibition flying in 1950.

On the ground, Betty managed to keep as busy as she had been aloft. She became personnel director for an aviation school and then an executive of an electronics corporation; wrote articles for aviation magazines; produced, wrote and emceed her own radio shows.

In her "spare time," she took up amateur theatricals as a hobby—and won the 1953 award for the outstanding amateur performance of the year in the famous Broadway hit, Bell, Book and Candle.

It was quite by chance, Betty says, that she became interested in cars. She was on a vacation at Daytona Beach and entered a stock-car speed competition "just for kicks." That did it.

"Now," she goes on, "I'm completely wrapped up in the car industry. It's a field that touches the lives of so many people—and I like people."

Just 5'3" and a seemingly fragile 94 pounds (4 pounds under her regular weight, she says), Betty is brimful of energy. This despite the fact that she can "take food or leave it alone."

"I like Spanish foods," she says, "but sweets best of all. I usually nibble on candy all day long. My main worry is keeping my weight up. I can't cook, but I do design my own clothes. If I had a family, I'm sure I wouldn't find housekeeping a bore."

Do her plans include marriage? Says Betty: "Definitely—if the right man comes along. I'd like to marry and have a family of three. But the man I marry will have to be as interested as I am in getting things done. I just can't stand standing still."

New! A greaseless anti-perspirant that lets your skin "breathe"

- Goes on dry • Underarms are absolutely dry in seconds—stay dry
- Ends danger of perspiration moisture and odor
- Unique new formula contains nothing to stop skin's natural "breathing"
- First and only greaseless, full-strength anti-perspirant stick

AT LAST! A deodorant and anti-perspirant that goes on dry . . . invisibly—without a trace of greasiness . . . without a drop of moisture! It's new Fresh Stick Deodorant.

No sticky fingers
No messy drip
No gummy feeling!

You can wear your dark dresses without a worry of whitish rings on the armholes.

You can wear wool dresses or even sweaters without their getting an offensive underarm odor (odor that even cleaning can't take out).

You can apply this deodorant just before you go out—even when you're in a hurry.

No waiting to dry
No risk of spoiling clothes

Unlike old-style deodorants, the new Fresh Stick Deodorant brings you a completely different anti-perspirant formula in a non-greasy, skin-ionic base. This unique new Fresh Stick formula is scientifically balanced to combine the maximum gentleness with the most possible protection against both underarm moisture and odor.

And the new Fresh Stick formula lets your skin "breathe."

New Fresh Stick has the first and only full-strength anti-perspirant formula that contains:

No messy greasiness
No corrosive acid salts (that ruin clothing)
Nothing to interfere with your skin's natural "breathing"

Glide new Fresh Stick gently under your arm. The warmth of your body will release just enough of this miraculous formula to give you day-long protection against odor and moisture. No danger of applying too much. No danger of residue that rubs off and ruins clothes.

Neatest—quickest, cleanest anti-perspirant to apply!

You'll never again go back to old-fashioned deodorants once you try new Fresh Stick. Unique plastic push-up tube holds the stick . . . your fingers never touch it. Kind to sensitive skin, too.

Use Fresh Stick every day for complete protection. It is the easiest, quickest way there is to keep your underarms dry and odorless! New Fresh Stick Deodorant is only 69¢ plus tax.

If you don't find new Fresh Stick Deodorant is far superior to any spray, cream or stick deodorant you've been using, send used stick to Fresh Stick Deodorant, Chrysler Building, N. Y., N. Y., and get your money back.

Questions on 'Family' Matters

Miss Vanderbilt writes of engagements—and sympathy cards

My mail reflects a great upsurge in interest concerning etiquette. Here are some recent questions:

Q. How does a father announce the engagement of his daughter to a gathering of relatives and friends at home? Is a toast in order?—C.B.C., St. Petersburg, Fla.

A. Yes. After all have assembled and the party is well under way, the father, first catching everyone's attention, proposes a toast. Sometimes, if champagne has not been served up to this point, it is brought out and ceremoniously poured. When everyone has been served, the father raises his glass and says something like this: "To my daughter Margaret and my future son-in-law, John. Let's drink to their happiness."

Q. Have we gotten clear away from the idea that greeting cards are merely to supplement when a personal greeting is not possible? I refer especially to the sending of printed "thank you" cards to guests who have been present at a shower and have already been thanked in person.—J.A., Albuquerque, N. M.

A. A verbal "thank you" is enough. "Thank you" cards should never be sent unless they include a written message.

Q. How do you address a sympathy card to the married daughters and sons when the mother dies? When is it proper to address an envelope, "Mr. and Mrs. and Family"?—T.L.M., Jamaica, L. I.

A. You address, not a sympathy card, but a personal letter to the eldest daughter, who is now technically the female head of the family. In the letter, you refer in some way to the others. If a married couple is extending its sympathy, it is the wife who writes, and in the body of the letter refers to the sympathy also extended by the husband. It is she who signs the letter.

It is never correct to write "Mr. and Mrs. and Family." "The Burke Family," however, is correct.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS will be answered in this column as space permits. Address: Amy Vanderbilt, c/o PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

THE GRAY SICKNESS

Never sick enough to stay in bed yet never really well. The GRAY SICKNESS keeps millions pale, tired and weak... never able to enjoy life to the full!

*Iron deficiency anemia has been aptly called the GRAY SICKNESS. Not only because its victims have lost their once healthy color, but also because life itself has become gray and drab for them. For you simply can't enjoy work or play when you have to drag through day after weary day feeling tired, weak and listless. And sleep doesn't seem to refresh you for you wake up tired.

The GRAY SICKNESS means your blood isn't getting enough iron. It becomes weak, thin, washed-out... just can't supply your body with the full supply of oxygen it needs for buoyant health and radiant color. Signs of the GRAY SICKNESS may be due to other causes so you should see your doctor regularly.

REBUILD STRENGTH FAST

Fortunately the GRAY SICKNESS responds quickly to proper treatment... and normal healthy color, strength and vigor return. In cases like this doctors usually prescribe an iron tonic containing many times your daily iron requirement. Each therapeutic dose, 6 tablets daily, of IRONIZED YEAST, contains 10 times your daily iron need... and this iron is fortified with vitamin B. Now this iron goes right to work... within 24 hours... to start building rich red blood... the kind of blood that soon brings back your normal strength and energy... fills you with your old-time pep... brings healthy color back to your cheeks again.

FEEL STRONGER IN 7 DAYS

Actually in just one week you'll start to feel your old self. You'll begin to enjoy doing a normal day's work again. So get IRONIZED YEAST tablets today. They are very economical to use even when taken in maximum dosage of 6 tablets daily. Just be sure you get genuine IRONIZED YEAST.

How to Shoot Ducks and Sway Politicians

Businessmen and senators are buddies in a Texas duck hunt that pays off for both

BEAUMONT, TEX.

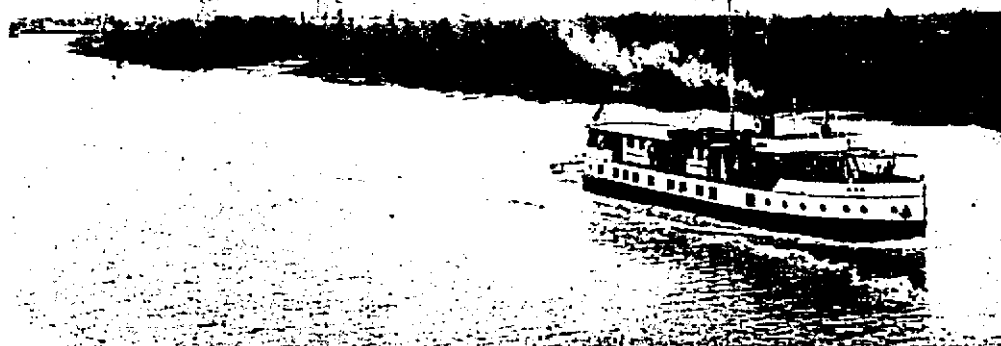

Businessmen in this oil-booming corner of southeast Texas decided seven years ago that, if you scratch a politician, you'll find a duck-hunter underneath. Trying to persuade the state to convert Lamar Junior College into a state technical school, they hit on a three-day duck shoot in the Gulf marshes west of here to win influential friends. The idea worked perfectly: within a year, Lamar State College of Technology was born.

The trip was such a success that it has been an annual event since. (It has continued to pay "dividends," too; a recent example is a highway construction program.) "We couldn't be inhospitable and quit when we got what we wanted," a businessman explains. Each year, the trip attracts the governor, the lieutenant governor and a quorum of state senators. The most recent trip also attracted PARADE's David P. Preston, who took the pictures on these pages.

The cost of the jaunt—about $1,500 a trip—is borne by Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange business. Texas Oil donates a boat and its crew; Gulf Oil the camp; the Port Arthur Hunting Club, the duck blinds. An informal organization of businessmen handles the planning and serves as guides.

It also enforces a rule that no politics may be discussed on the trip. Open season on politicians comes later; local leaders can drop in at the capitol and make the area's requests as one old hunting pal to another.

FIRST LEG of hunt is five-hour Sunday boat trip down Neches River from Beaumont

(background). Many businessmen take this part of trip, leave party when hunting starts.

BARBERSHOP quartet groups around piano player, T. T. Hunt of the Beaumont Enterprise.

TARGET practice occupies oilman Lee Wheat (l.), governor's assistant Jack Dillard.

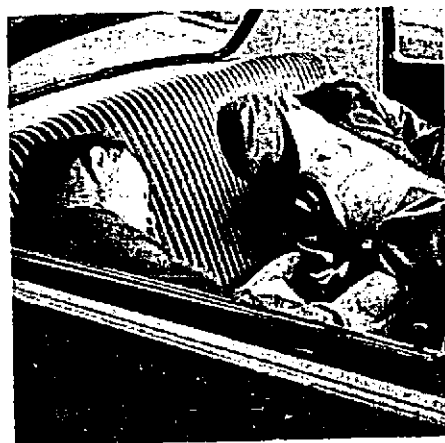

GOVERNOR Allan Shivers (r.) and Gulf Oil's R. C. Faulkner display day's bag of ducks.

Shivers says he's "old squirrel hunter," hasn't missed a hunt since election in 1949.

READY for chilling wait in duck blind, Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton dons boots.

END OF DAY finds Lamar Tech president (l.), state senator asleep in back seat of car.

LUNCH at camp in marsh signals end of day's hunting, start of card-playing, storyswapping. The idea has worked so well here that other cities are thinking of copying it.

Just picture them in your home—and imagine the world of pleasure they will open up to your family! The partial list that follows gives you only an inkling of the thrills that await you:

1. ROBBERS' ROOST. See description above.

2. RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE. Brave days of old Utah—drrenched with blood of men who gambled their lives for adventure, gold!

3. WILDFIRE. The tempestuous story of a great wild stallion, a fiery girl—and the man who was strong enough to tame them both!

4. ARIZONA AMES. His blazing six-shooter spread terror among the toughest badmen!

5. SHADOW ON THE TRAIL. Quick-shooting Wade Holden fights with rawhide-tough rustlers.

6. ROGUE RIVER FLOOD. Violence and death on Rogue River, where men stooped at nothing to win the high stakes of the rich salmon runs.

7. DESERT GOLD. Spine-tingling adventures of men and women crazed by the lure of riches.

8. WEST OF THE PICOS. Into this land of the lawless came a hard-riding, straight-shooting young man—who turned out to be a girl!

9. THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS. Mighty epic of warriors on the border, throbbing with rip-roaring excitement!

10. CALL OF THE CANYON. Smashing drama of death and danger—racing to a climax that leaves you breathless!

11. 30,000 ON THE HOOF. Pioneer Hustt battles screaming Indians and lawless rustlers in gun-bristling Arizona.

12. WILD HORSE MESA. Panquitch, the phantom stallion, was a symbol of adventure. A resolute party sets out to capture him, and runs head-on into a storm of intrigue.

The other great volumes, of which space does not permit description, include: 13. THE VANISHING AMERICAN; 14. FIGHTING CARAVANS; 15. THE HASH KNIFE OUTFIT; 16. THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER; 17. TWIN SOMBREROS; 18. THE HERITAGE OF THE DESERT; 19. WESTERN UNION; 20. UNDER THE TONTO RIM; 21. THE THUNDERING HERD; 22. SHEPHERD OF GUADALUPE; 23. THUNDER MOUNTAIN; 24. TO THE LAST MAN; 25. THE MAN OF THE FOREST. Every one is complete—not a thrilling word is cut!

Long Beach, I Love You!

By Carl Kohler

"DO YOU REALIZE," mourned my gorgeous wife the other night, "that the Season Of The Guest is almost upon us? Come spring and horde after horde of assorted friends and relatives will arrive."

"Bully for them!" I chirped. "The more, the merrier and all sorts of hospitable thoughts like that!"

She regarded me petulantly. "Are you off your rocker, Mac? I don't mind the extra cooking and cleaning. I can take long, detailed accounts of mileage and routes followed in stride; but how are we going to keep them entertained?"

I casually leaped to my feet and, racing to the window, drew the curtains shut with trembling hand. Nervously, I scrutinized the street, outside, through an old moth-hole. Except for an elderly gentleman tooling his electric hot-rod down the avenue . . . it was empty. We were safe. No one could possibly have heard her, I reasoned.

"What's with the fugitive-from-justice act, kiddo?" she asked with naive indifference.

"Never . . . Never . . . NEVER make a remark like that!" I whispered hoarsely. "Supposing a member of the Chamber of Commerce happened to overhear you?" I shuddered and fell into my chair, my face twitching fitfully . . . my forehead glistening coldly.

"WHAT DID I SAY?" she demanded querulously.

"Here we are, living in Long Beach—the city of a thousand delightful recreations and attractions—and you want to know how we're going to entertain our guests." I drew a quivering breath. "That's downright mutiny, Bunnyduck. Let loose talk like that start getting around to the city fathers and . . . well . . . you want me boiled in live orange juice?"

She tittered merrily.

"It's true, I tell you!" I said earnestly. Never so much as insinuate that Long Beach isn't fraught with places to go, things to do and countless other highlights."

"Yeh?" Her eyes gleamed with interest. "Well, just what countless highlights are you talking about?"

"Wait'll I find a pencil and paper," I said haughtily. "I'll draw you pictures."

"Okay, so get saccastic," she complained, "but I still say somebody like Uncle Otto . . . or Aunt Gertrude . . . or, worse yet, the Bradleys are darned hard to entertain."

"Pish, tosh and pouf!" I chuckled. Look, what is Uncle Otto's favorite subject?"

SHE THOUGHT a moment. "Boats."

"The Marine Stadium, no?" I said, grinning fatly. "Alamitos Bay . . . Pierpoint Landing . . . in fact, the whole blessed harbor area."

"How about Aunt Gertrude's passion for unusual cafes which serve delicious foods at bargain prices?" She countered craftily. "How about her cute little penchant for collecting expensive menus . . . hey, boy . . . how about that?"

"Have her write a fan letter to Tedd Thomey in care of the Independent, Press-Telegram," I replied instantly. "He not only puts on the feedbag in all the best restaurants; if Thomey can't steal her any menu her heart desires—it can't be stolen, borrowed or leased for advertising purposes."

With a tight-lipped smile she marched across the room and violently plucked the family album from the bookshelf. Determinedly, she opened to the first page.

"SOMEWHERE I'll find somebody within these pictorial pages whose recreational preferences can't possibly be satisfied in any of the tourist-baited nooks or crannies of dear old Long Beach. There must be one soul whose personal ideas of fun simply cannot be fulfilled hereabouts." She looked real grim.

"What an impossible thought!" I gloated cheerily.

For the better part of an hour we worked our way through one branch of the family to another until we had completely exhausted the matter in both sides of kinfolk. Once, tiring of this ridiculous game, I became a bit weary and she thought she finally had me tripped up.

" . . . and then there's little cousin Orville," she began thickly, strain beginning to appear in her voice. "How about that little stinker?"

I STALLED for time. Orville was a little stinker and harder to please or handle than an irate, undersized gorilla. Something stirred in my memory. Hadn't we entertained Orville and parents several years before? Frantically, I peered down memory's fuzzy lanes.

"He was about three on their last visit, wasn't he?" I held up a hand for pause. "That makes him about nine or thereabouts now . . . right?"

She nodded glumly, knowing she was losing another round.

"A real boy!" I stated with assumed fondness. "I don't doubt a bit he would enjoy trips down to the Pike Fun Zone with great relish!"

Her face crumpled in defeat again.

And so it went all the way down the line of relatives and friends and even mere casual acquaintances. For each one's particular interests (as far as we knew) there was some place or thing in Long Beach to offer them.

Fishing off Belmont Pier . . .

listening to band concerts . . . picnics in Bixby Park . . . evenings of drama by the Community Players . . . visits to the Municipal Art Center . . . parades and community festivities—there was some sort or other goings-on and places of activity for all tastes.

By now, I was smiling quite snidely.

SHE PLAYED her last card . . . right from the bottom of the deck. Ordinarily, she's a nice girl. I can only imagine pure desperation goaded her into it.

"And our good friend George Philipfinkle Throotfeister? Just how do you suggest we entertain good old Georgie Throotfeister, honeybun? Riddle me that!"

Nothing to do in Long Beach? Never let the Chamber of Commerce hear that! We can, too, entertain visitors!

Highways to the Stars

The lure of the film capital is universal. Here, two visitors view stars' footprints in foyer of Chinese.

THE DESIRE to see a movie star in person draws thousands to premieres and Hollywood functions. And almost as many want to see the homes where these stars live.

Popular in the cinema city is a tour planned by the All-Year Club of Southern California which takes sightseers past the homes of the stars. Residents, persons from out of the state, vacationists and those out for a Sunday jaunt enjoy the ride which allows them to get a good look at the homes of their favorites and perhaps an informal glimpse of the stars in person.

You can view the home of Groucho Marx — and discover that he actually comes out of his own driveway when operating his Firedome Eight as he films the commercial for his television show "You Bet Your Life." You will note the circular swimming pool belonging to Joan Davis whose lovely home is situated beside the exclusive Bel Air Country Club golf course.

You will see the massive gates leading to the Bing Crosby estate which now swing ajar and bear the signature of thousands — the only sign of defacement — or is it a tribute? — seen on the entire tour.

INTERESTING, too, is the home of Adrian and Janet Gaynor. You can observe that although it is not new the architecture has a distinctly modern trend testifying to the creative abilities of Adrian who designed the home and who for years has designed gowns for screen stars.

Aristocratic "Pickfair," once the home of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, is on the route as is the huge estate of Harold Lloyd which boasts an 18-hole golf course and a 100-foot man-made waterfall.

Last stop on the tour is the home of Will Rogers, which now is owned by the state and is open to visitors for a small fee from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

If you wish to make the tour you might like to include a map of the Beverly Hills-Hollywood area although the directions given by the All-Year Club are easily followed. You also might want to fortify yourself with a picnic lunch as the trip lasts several hours.

Going via Lakewood Boulevard thence turning onto the Santa Ana Freeway and finally the Hollywood Freeway is the quickest approach and will land you in the thick of Hollywood in about 40 minutes. A turn off the Hollywood Freeway to Sunset Boulevard which you travel until reaching Doheny Drive brings you to the starting point. The words "left" and "right" after the address indicate which way to turn your head to see the homes.

WHEN YOU REACH the intersection of Sunset and Doheny Drive continue briefly on Sunset turning left at Mountain Drive and angle back with a sharper turn into Maple.

Amateurs Do a Stained-Glass Job

The Rev. Milton Ellithorpe, pastor of a small church in Los Angeles, has completely dumbfounded and amazed the professional stained glass window makers of that city.

This mysterious art has no schools in this country to teach the secrets of the medieval glaziers. To learn the exacting trade one must serve years of apprenticeship and even an avid admirer of stained glass windows would never attempt to make one.

But, the Rev. Mr. Ellithorpe attempted it. In fact, he and his congregation have completed 64 windows that even the experts admit are excellent.

The small congregation, badly in need of a new building, knew its only hope in getting the type of church they wanted was to build it themselves.

No one in the group had the slightest idea of how to build a leaded window, the professionals were called in. The lowest bid received was more than $6,000.

Despite his absolute lack of knowledge, the Rev. Mr. Ellithorpe decided it was necessary to have the windows and, nothing daunted, started to build them.

Today, the windows are finished—total cost—under $500; or less than $8 each!

Not only were the church workmen able to speed up the work so that each of the 64 windows could be made in a fraction of the time ordinarily required, but they were able to reduce waste to practically nothing. And usually waste in making leaded windows runs very high.

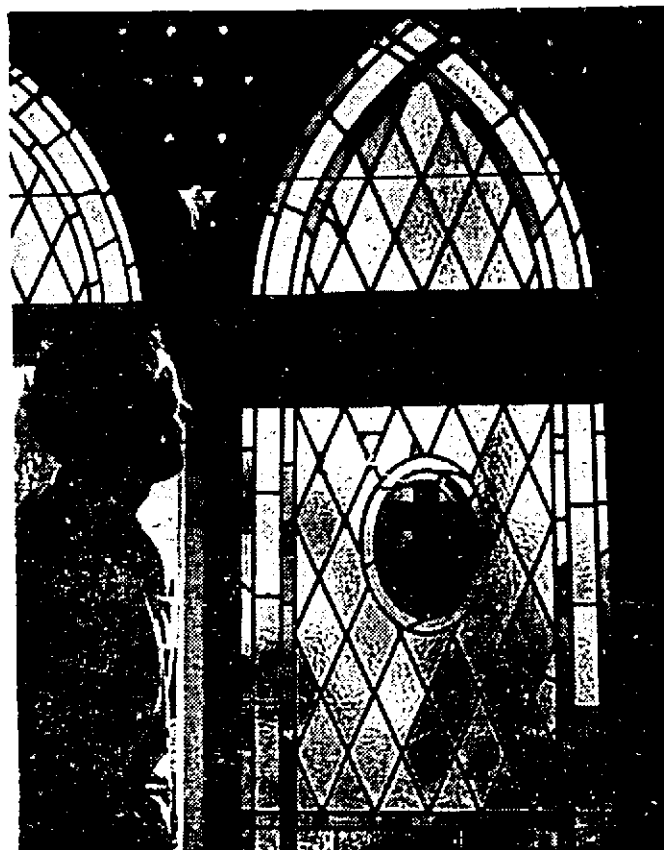

"I knew we could do it," explains the Rev. Mr. Ellithorpe. "With our limited income we had to."

"There must be thousands of small churches throughout the United States that would like to have stained glass windows but could never afford to buy them. Now they can profit from our example and make their own."

A completed center medallion is compared with pattern before it is placed on master pattern of entire window.

By Jack B. Kemmerer

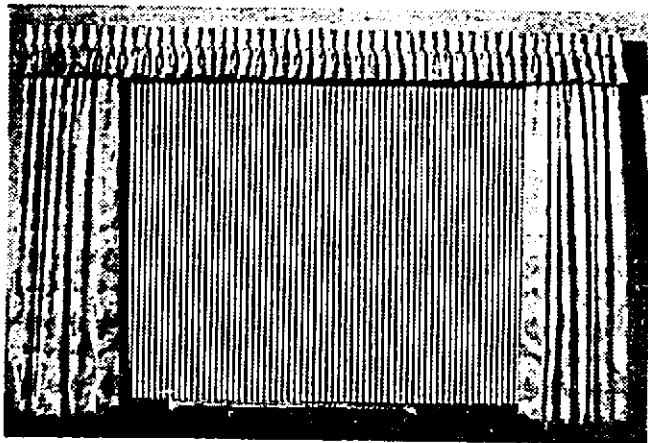

For centuries, windowmakers channeled lead with special knives—tedious, ticklish job. Ellithorpe rigged a jig, did it with power.

Assembling glass on slanting board prior to soldering was another departure established by the amateurs in making church windows.

A completed window is put in place to check for size. Rose, blue, purple, ruby red and three shades of amber glass were used. Window cost slightly less than $10.

Queen of the College Campus

By Vera Williams

SHE'S SWEETHEART QUEEN and Valentine Queen of City College.

Carol Cochran, 19, majoring in English, was chosen by the City College Student Body Council to preside over its Sweetheart Prom in the Deauville Club, Santa Monica, and the title automatically carries the title of Valentine Queen of the college.

Carol got a new coral crystal tone formal, in the smart new torso style, with pleats and plenty of fullness below the hips, to wear at the Sweetheart Prom. The Tango is her favorite dance. Her second favorite is the samba and her third favorite, swing. She has danced all of her life, she says.

She was born in Roseland, N. J., has lived in Long Beach 11 years, and was graduated in June 1953 from Poly High School. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Cochran, 329 Janice St., and she has a married sister, Beverly, who is Mrs. Nicholas Sidoti.

Carol is secretary of the City College Student Council and she was sent out of the room when the Council members balloted. "When I came back into the room, they all congratulated me," says Carol, "I was so surprised and so pleased."

The Sweetheart - Valentine queen is chosen on the basis of appearance, scholarship and activities.

AFTER SHE FINISHES City College, Carol expects to go to UCLA. She hopes to be a high school English and history teacher.

She likes historical novels, "You know," she says, "like 'Gone With the Wind'." She likes to cook, especially Mexican food, and she admits that she makes good tacos. She does not sew but she hopes to learn. She swims a little, she plays tennis. She likes to listen to classical music, "if it isn't too heavy. I like Viennese waltzes."

Carol is 5 feet 4, with brown hair worn in a long bob, and brown eyes. She usually wears red or blue, her favorite colors.

She has "several" boy friends, she admits, but has no marriage plans until after she finishes college.

Carol Cochran is Long Beach City College's Sweetheart Queen. Selection carries with it Valentine Queen title.

Photos by Bryan Hodgson

Carol finds time for boy friends but serious interest now is finishing school. Here, she types class paper.

She Makes Painting Look Easy

FORTY-SIX PRIZES in one year for original paintings should be a record to sit back and take pride in, but Rene Murphy, 802 California Ave., hopes to top it this year.

children and adults, table and bed linen, stage curtains and more than life-sized pictures for public buildings. Ten of her large paintings on velvet hang in U. S. churches. Two are in missions on the Gold Coast of Africa. She paints ties for her husband, Jack. Last October, Mrs. Murphy appeared on TV, Channel 2, Panorama Pacific program, with a chalk talk such as she frequently gives for churches, Sunday school and social groups. She made an oil painting on velvet in six minutes as she talked.

She says she most enjoys drawing picture-stories for children and family church gatherings.

my velvet painting with Winsor & Newton oils from London. I can get more sparkle and life-like qualities with them than any of the many others I have tried. I use either these oils or textile paints when decorating clothing and articles that will receive considerable wear. I set the colors so painted textiles can be washed. I put mine right in the machine. All I am careful about is the soap. Some detergents have chemicals that affect paint. This quilt on my bed has been in use 14 years. I'm making a new one now on nylon silk.

Painting on material with a nap like velvet is not difficult, she says. "It is one of my favorites. I use the best quality and fresh paint wipes off easily if I happen to change my mind."

"The new velvex paper is nice to work on and inexpensive enough for beginners to practice on. It's just paper with a velvet-like surface that makes a good background for either paints or pastel chalks."

"Costume painting is something that more women should try, too. It is easier and quicker to paint a decoration than embroider it." As an example, she lays out a pair of matched little sister dresses of pale blue silk, painted with wild roses, and mother-and-daughter costumes of light gold taffeta that have a rose vine climbing up the front panel, with smaller sprays on the skirt and short jacket. A white velvet stole boasts a huge, delicately shaded orchid.

Santa Clara Valley Abloom

THE MOST GORGEOUS array of fruit blossoms in the west will be seen by those who make the trip to Santa Clara Valley any time during the next six weeks.

The San Jose Chamber of Commerce is going all-out this

By Ray Hewitt
Resort Editor

year to make it easy and pleasurable for visitors to tour the vast orchards of the area and drink in the beauty of the blossom-laden groves of almond, apricot, prune, pear and cherry trees.

This sunny valley extends from

Mt. Hamilton on the east to the Santa Cruz Mountains on the west, and from Gilroy on the south to Palo Alto on the north, and the blossoming season of these trees seems to blend into a continuing procession of beauty with the apricots beginning about the third week in February and prunes, pears and cherries in mid-March.

Entering into the spirit of the event, Southwest Airways will again run special tours from Southern California, and for those who will use other means of transportation—train or driving their own car—special bus tours or guided tours are arranged. Further information may be obtained by writing to the Chamber of Commerce, San Jose, Calif., or by visiting any service station, restaurant or motel when you reach the area. Maps and other data are furnished without charge.

IT MAKES a wonderful trip up the old El Camino Real, which was the pathway of the padres when they first established their Missions almost two centuries ago.

Every mile of the Coast Route, officially U. S. Hwy. 101, is beautiful. Vast reaches of marine and mountain scenes embroider the highway. Historic old cities such as Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo and Monterey are visited and at the north end of the Mission Trails is fabulous San Francisco, still another city originally built around the old Franciscan Mission.

One should make it a point to visit some of the missions, most of which have been completely restored, particularly one at San Miguel which is the finest work of restoration of them all. Santa Barbara Mission is the best known of them all, but you will also thrill to the majesty of Santa Ines, San Juan Bautista and Carmel. The mission at Carmel was the headquarters of Fra Junipero Serra, father of the Missions, and is rich in historical and religious relics of that age.

Should you delay your trip until the latter part of the blossom season, say until early March, you will find the hills along Route 101 ablaze with golden California poppies. And you should take the time to take the side trip from King City around the loop to Mission San Antonio, you'll find the acres of lupin and poppies.

If you plan to drive up to see the blossoms in Santa Clara Valley, or if you plan a trip north at a later date, you may obtain, without charge, a copy of the Vacation Guide plus a beautifully illustrated brochure, in color, of this area as furnished by the California Missions Trails Association. Just address a card or letter to Ray Hewitt, care of Southland Magazine.

Harbor of Charlotte Amalie

The views of surrounding Virgin Island countryside from the tops of the hills are memorable. Shown here is the vista of St. Thomas' capital city and principal harbor, Charlotte Amalie. The light triangle in the center is a catchment, a concrete slide designed to hold rain water for use in dry periods.

DELAPLANE

LONDON is expensive but I'm inclined to think it is worth it. You can figure on New York prices in London but a little less outside. A few days in London is enough anyway and a trip out the great West Road to Winchester, Salisbury and swinging back through Stratford-on-Avon will repay you.

The English are terribly pained if you don't make reservations. You "book" your restaurant table, your hotel room, your hired car. The restaurant may be empty. There may be plenty of rooms in the house. But the proprietor is really upset if you haven't "booked."

If you want the morning papers, be sure to book them with the hall porter.

Be sure you leave your shoes outside your door each night. They are shined by morning.

If you ring for the maid or waiter, be dressed or ready to hide. In the European manner, they knock once and then unlock the door and walk in.

Breakfast is nearly always taken in the room. If you try to get it downstairs you eat among seven maids and seven mops. Also you are considered a little queer. English breakfasts are good and substantial. Not those Continental affairs of croissants and coffee.

The English tea is great and the coffee is terrible.

YOU TIP when you leave, not by each service except for the bellboys who are called pages here. The shilling is 14 cents U. S.

When you check in, find out if there is a service charge. Some hotels tack on 15 per cent for service. If they do, everybody tipped—maid, boots, porter and hall porter—get enough at the end of the stay to bring it up to about 20 per cent. If no service charge, then tip 15 to 20 per cent of the hotel bill, spilling it around.

Doormen who call cabs get sixpence to a shilling per call.

Ever wonder how the news correspondents make their air reservations, change their foreign money, work in other languages? A roving reporter whose beat covers the world will answer your questions when you plan to travel. Send a stamped envelope to Stan Delaplane, exclusive in Southland Magazine.

Ray Hewitt Recommends

MIRAMAR HOTEL—Santa Barbara

Winter rates from $4 for two. Breakfast 1.25, Lunch 1.40, Dinner 2.25. This is a most charming hotel with cottage type accommodations, a honeymooners delight. Right on the beach as you approach Montecito, easily recognized by the blue-roofed buildings. Wide lawns, private beach, swimming pool, spacious lobby, sunny dining room and cozy cocktail lounge. Many of the cottages have full housekeeping arrangements. You'll love this place.

★ ★ ★

DE ANZA MOTOR INN—Santa Barbara

Rates from 4.00.
Modern and comfortable in the most modern tradition. Right on the highway south of Santa Barbara with spacious grounds, flowers and trees. Close to fine restaurants and beach. Maxine and Col. Van Eyserud are most gracious hosts. Phone Woodland 9-2142.

TALK of the TOWN—Santa Barbara

Santa Barbara's smartest restaurant, 123 West Gutierrez. Something new and different in dining experience here. While the food is superb and the prices reasonable the atmosphere is a discreet blending of hominess and cosmopolitanism. Housed in an old-fashioned two-story home, there's a gay informality in all three dining areas. A unique 2nd floor cocktail lounge with adjoining supper room, reminds one of the famous Quind restaurant in Mexico City. Host Dick La Pine has gone all out to make this one of America's finest restaurants.

PASO ROBLES INN—Paso Robles

Rates $3.50 Single, $7.50 Double, Twins $8.50.
Coffee shop open from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m. Dining room for lunch and dinner. Picturesque terrace lounge. The forerunner of the modern highway hotel, the Paso Robles Inn has everything. Built on several acres of ground the buildings are situated among age-old oaks. Picturesque little bridges cross the small stream which wanders through the grounds in the center of which is the swimming pool. Most travelers become so entranced that they stay several days instead of just overnight.

17 MILE DRIVE COTTAGE COURT—Pacific Grove

Winter Rates from $1 for two. Coffee Shop and Store.
Individual cottages in a pine forest near the beach, a delightful overnight or vacation spot. Many of the cottages are completely equipped, as modern as your own kitchen, for housekeeping. All comfortable and attractively furnished. Close to golf courses and the scenic attractions of the Monterey Peninsula. A California tradition.

★ ★ ★

MISSION BELL AUTO COURT—San Francisco

Mail Address: 6513 Mission St., Daly City.
110 units from $4 to $12. Family style place with all types of accommodations ranging up to the most de luxe, all with garages. Many with kitchens. 15 minutes from Civic Center. Quiet, no train or truck noises. Right on El Camino Real or if you are on the Divisadero (Haystack Hwy.) turn left at San Bruno to El Camillo Real.

"Not a single cavity in over 2 years"

... thanks to ANTIZYME, the first continuous-action anti-enzyme tooth paste.

"MY NAME IS BILL CORRIGAN. THIS IS MY WIFE, JACKIE, AND TIMOTHY, WILLIAM, JR., AND PAMELA. WE'VE ALL BEEN USING ANTIZYME FOR THE PAST TWO YEARS AND NONE OF US HAVE HAD A SINGLE CAVITY IN THAT TIME. I USED TO HAVE A PARTICULARLY TOUGH TIME WITH CAVITIES, SO I'M VERY GRATEFUL TO ANTIZYME."

The William A. Corrigan Family
706 North Leanington Avenue
Chicago 44, Illinois

Actual, living proof!...

this new, completely different kind of tooth paste really stopped decay!

HERE'S WHY...

1. No other type of tooth paste—regular, ammoniated or chlorophyll—protects for more than ½ hour:
2. Each brushing protects 12-24 hours! Now, Antizyme, the first continuous-action anti-enzyme tooth paste, stops the major cause of tooth decay 12 to 24 hours with each brushing. This has been proved for 9 out of every 10 people tested:

... STOPS THE MAJOR CAUSE OF TOOTH DECAY EVERY MINUTE OF EVERY DAY

EVIDENCE like the Corrigan family's is coming in every day. People, young and old, from all parts of the country report "no cavities" since they first started using Listerine Antizyme Tooth Paste—6 months, 12 months, or 2 years ago! Antizyme is the great new scientific development you read about in Reader's Digest, The Saturday Evening Post, and other magazines.

Reducing bacteria is NOT the answer

Dentists have known for years that most tooth decay is started by a kind of chain reaction:

Bacteria (always present in everybody's mouth) produce enzymes that attack sugars and can form the decay acids that cause cavities:

No tooth paste can get rid of bacteria in your mouth for more than a few minutes at a time.

Only at the "enzyme" stage has it been proven that you can stop this chain reaction that so often leads to tooth decay.

'Blue Boy' With Jeans

By Vera Williams

But present-day boys don't go in much for knickers or capes or fancy buckles or plumes. They wear blue jeans. For that reason, William Sanson, Long Beach artist, painted what he calls "The Modern Blue Boy," a lad in Gainsborough's familiar pose, wearing a light blue shirt, dark blue jeans, blue shoes with crepe soles, holding a blue straw hat.

The oil painting attracts much attention at Sanson's studio, 551 Linden Ave.

Ronnie Bigelow, 16, of North Long Beach, posed.

A native of Edinburgh, Scotland, Sanson was graduated from the Herriot Watt College of Art and the Edinburgh College of Art. As a youth, he won a prize for his oil painting of Queen Alexandra. He studied under Toule Chamberlin in Pasadena and under Bernard Shepro, now of New York.

How to Make Fireplace Logs From Newspapers

By Anne Lacy

THINK OF IT! On rainy days as you stir the logs in your fireplace, enjoy and absorb the heat thrown out by the dancing flames, do you know that the same rain can help you make more logs for next year's cold weather?

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hutchins, 1245 Poppy St., have solved the problem of firelogs in an inexpensive and easy way by making their own rolled logs out of newspapers.

Mrs. Hutchins takes the Sunday Independent-Press-Telegram through to Wednesday's papers for one log and the Thursday to Saturday papers for another log.

She lays them out flat, rolling and tying them at each end with strong cord. Not too tightly as they will expand. She purchases a large ball of heavy twine for 49 cents and uses not over two of these a year. The tied, rolled papers are placed on a large, old barbecue table behind the Hutchins garage.

Then Mother Nature takes over. The rain goes to work soaking the papers through and through and making them swell up over half of their original size. They dry out slowly during the summer months and are then ready for dry storage and the approaching winter months.

Three logs plus a few sticks of kindling will last one entire evening and give plenty of heat.

The ingenious discoverer of this economical "firewood" confided she had adopted the idea from the Christmas Joy Logs which she burned for many years. The Joy Logs are rolled in the same manner but soaked in several solutions to make a colorful flame.

Read Mr. Warren's True Story!

Mr. Stanley E. Warren is an engineer on one of the country's crack trains. Here is what he has to say about Bantron:

"For many years I had known that I should stop smoking. Time and time again I tried. I just guess I didn't have the will power. Then a friend told me about Bantron. I can only say thank you, friend, thank you, Bantron, because Bantron did something for me that I never believed could happen."

"I took Bantron for just five days and like that, I stopped smoking!"

I stopped smoking because I had no more desire to smoke. I feel the wonderful release from a life-long habit that had me in chains.

"I don't know what great scientist formulated Bantron, but I have to say this! It has brought to mankind a great boon. I feel today so free, so happy, so well. I cannot find the words to describe it."

"I say to everybody who is a slave to smoking, try Bantron! The release is so easy—just as though at one magic blow you had cast off your chains."

"Stop Smoking? They Said I Couldn't, but I Did!"

—Says Stanley E. Warren

Amazing New Formula Helps Break Smoking Habit in 5 Days Easily and Pleasantly!

In a series of dramatic tests scientists proved that in 83% (4 out of 5) of the cases, Bantron helped men and women to stop smoking in 5 days. And here is the wonderful thing. Bantron is easy and pleasant to take. It has no unpleasant after-effects and is not habit forming.

Bantron was discovered in the research laboratories of a great American university. It comes in tablet form. You just take 1 tablet with water after each meal.

This new scientific formula does not work by making you dislike smoking. It does not interfere with your taste for smoking, or for anything else. Smoking establishes a craving in your body—Bantron helps relieve that craving. Because of this, many people use Bantron to help them cut down smoking.

We Guarantee Results

Hundreds of people who never before thought that they could give up smoking have used this new formula successfully. So sure are we that with the help of Bantron you can successfully conquer the smoking habit that we make you the following guarantee.

Purchase one box of Bantron and take as directed. If you feel Bantron has not helped you stop or cut down smoking within 5 days, just send us the empty box and we will refund your full purchase price.

Bantron is recommended to the thousands of men and women who can benefit from stopping or cutting down smoking. If your doctor advises you to stop smoking, try Bantron.

Read What Users Say About Bantron

- "After a few days of using BANTRON my desire to smoke was gone. I tried other ways, but BANTRON is the only way."
- "I took BANTRON as directed. It's been one month today since I've smoked."
- "My husband laughed every time I told him I'm giving up

- smoking. I just couldn't do it until I tried BANTRON."
- "Well, frankly say they do curb the desire for smoking as no other product will. You have something there in Bantron."
- "As one of those who stopped I heartily endorse BANTRON. I feel 100% better."

He Rides Right Into Kid's Hearts

By John Frederick

Press-Telegram Radio-Television Editor

BACK in the early days of TV there came along an old-time movie matinee idol all dressed in black and white cowboy garb and he rode into the hearts of millions of youngsters atop his white horse, Topper." The fact that William (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd and Topper are still riding the video trail indicates what a firm hold he has on our youngsters.

Hoppy is the first to admit this and he has taken time and trouble to prevent misguiding the children. Fact is, Hoppy has helped a lot of parents out with their home problems.

"One of the most humbling experiences of my life was my discovery of the considerable influence which Hopalong Cassidy yields on his small fans, and, indirectly, on their parents, who compose more than half the audience.

"I was riding in a parade in Toronto and it was a wet and rainy day. I was seated in a convertible and wore my full regalia — hat, shirt, pants, two matching guns, boots—the whole outfit, and was soaking wet. It suddenly occurred to me that hundreds of the youngsters lining the streets were taking off their raincoats. They just didn't want me to see them as sissies who had to wear raincoats when Hoppy didn't. I'd have given my right arm for a good raincoat at that moment."

A MIDWESTERN COLLEGE professor wrote Hoppy not long ago that he had a major problem with his son. Seems the boy had to have glasses to correct his vision but refused to wear them because "Hoppy didn't." He wondered if there was anything that could be done.

Bill Boyd is a man of action and he went right out to his car, had his wife take his picture wearing glasses, and sent it along to the worried dad. "You see, I do have to wear glasses when I drive."

At last reports the young man is perfectly content to wear his glasses because his idol has to wear them, too.

"We answer every individual parental complaint about raincoats, rubbers, galoshes, snowsuits, ear muffs, mittens or even long, red underwear. We point out to the youngsters that the Hoppy films are made on sunshiny days when it is warm and that therefore Hoppy doesn't have to wear such items. But, we also say that when Hoppy goes out in the snow, rain or just plain cold he really dresses warmly, just like everyone else."

In the current series of "Hopalong Cassidy" films being shown locally on KTTV (11) at 5 p. m. Sundays, you won't find any of the old-time Western movie stuff. Hoppy knows that kids can count so he gets only six shots out of his shooting iron, and seldom uses that many.

"HOPPY IS A DEAD-EYE shot to the children and there just isn't any reason why he has to fire his guns six times to knock a man off a horse. Shucks, Hoppy just shoots once."

Violence and bloodshed are played down in the series and in the fight scenes there are usually only two blows struck. Hoppy whacks the badman and the bandit hits the floor. After all, Hoppy is supposed to be invincible, isn't he?

You may also notice that "they done went that-a-way" is never heard in the Hoppy films. He has made a fetish out of keeping his shows strictly Western in character but never unwholesome.

"Your youngster is intelligent and probably is learning the correct grammatical terms and words in school or at home. It is certainly not the aim of Hopalong Cassidy to destroy the very thing that the English teachers and parents have tried to impart to the children. Anyway, it is historically inaccurate to speak like many of the Western stars do in movies. Frontiersmen were gentlemen, educated and intelligent, for the most part, and those few who were not generally wound up on the wrong end of a rope or in Boot Hill."

Perhaps the reason that "Hopalong Cassidy" is so popular and has made so much money for his portrayer is found in the above. And we are sure that as long as William Boyd can mount Topper and ride into the west he'll be riding into the hearts and homes of millions of his fans.

COOKING

Pheasant en Casserole

By Mildred K. Flanary
Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

HOW LONG has it been since you served pheasant? If it's been a long time, you've been missing something mighty tasty. No longer does Dad have to take a gun and set forth into the woods in search of pheasants because they are commercially grown now . . . and practically in your own back yard. And right on a par with increasing availability are the recipes for preparing pheasant. There's just one thing to remember — be sure to serve plenty, for after one glimpse at the finished product, appetites will become immediately accelerated.

Truly a connoisseur of pheasant is Mrs. H. S. Melvin, 14722 Van Buren St., Midway City. She not only raises them, but she cooks them to a turn. She really has no preference when it comes to her favored recipe, but her Pheasant en Casserole is different and extra special. The recipe is featured elsewhere on this page.

After you've tried the casserole you'll serve pheasant again, and real soon, for Roast Pheasant Ranch Style is equally delectable. With each dish, Mrs. Melvin serves mock wild rice — a treat that's fit for the gods. It's as delicious as wild rice, and far easier on the budget. These recipes follow:

Roast Pheasant Ranch Style
Rub inside and outside of pheasant with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover breast with fat bacon. Fill cavity of bird with seedless grapes (not necessary to sew).

Roast uncovered in hot oven (500 degrees) for 15 minutes. Baste with fat drippings, then finish roasting at moderate (350 degrees) for about one hour, basting with drippings every 15 minutes. Wrap legs in foil to keep them from drying or burning.

Remove bacon from breast of pheasant and pour a glass of sherry wine into roasting pan, together with a cup of grapes, and cook 15 minutes more. Add water if liquid cooks down too much. Serve the grapes with the pheasant.

Mock Wild Rice
1 cup brown rice
3 tablespoons oil or bacon fat
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon Beaumont seasoning

Pheasant en Casserole, as prepared by Mrs. H. S. Melvin, above, is a delight to eat. Pheasant is now commercially raised as well as hunted in season.

$\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon pepper
Pheasant giblets
4 cups water
1 4-ounce can chopped ripe olives
Boil giblets in the water about 30 minutes until tender. Remove from water and chop into small pieces.

Fry onions and pepper in the fat until golden brown and add giblets, olives and seasonings, the washed rice and water from the giblets (at least  $2\frac{1}{2}$  cups). Mix all together and pour into a deep casserole. Cover tightly and bake in oven, along with pheasant, stirring occasionally. Bake 500 degrees for 15 minutes, then 350 degrees for one hour or until done.

Hunter's Sauce
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup red currant jelly
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup California Port Wine
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup catsup
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Combine all ingredients in a small saucepan; stir over low heat until jelly and butter are completely melted and sauce is piping hot. Serve warm with wild duck, pheasant, venison chops, venison steak, roast venison, ham loaf or baked ham. Makes one cup.

Kitchen Tip:

Mrs. Melvin's Kitchen Tip: Currant jelly just seems to belong with game. One cock pheasant (about two pounds) serves three. One hen weighs about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pounds.

Pour  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sherry wine and one can sliced (browned in butter) mushrooms, liquid and all. Cover and bake about 2 hours in a slow oven (350°). Add more liquid as needed to make a gravy.

Plan Celebration

Fort Ticonderoga, the great restored stone bastion, which stands between Lake Champlain and Lake George in New York state, will celebrate its 200th anniversary in 1955. It was on Sept. 18, 1755 that the Marquis de Vaudreuil, governor general of New France and Louisiana, signed the necessary instructions, in Montreal, to Michel Chartier, afterwards Marquis de Lotbiniere, to select a site and start construction of what was to be known as Fort Carillon. Through two centuries the Fort has remained an eternal reminder of the valorous Canadians, Frenchmen, Scots, Britons, Indians and Americans who fought there with honor and glory for the principles in which they believed.

John H. G. Pell, director of Fort Ticonderoga, announces year-long commemorative festivities for the bicentennial year. Highlighting the various events planned for 1955 will be the annual Ethan Allen Day on May 8 and Bicentennial Day on Sept. 18. It has been customary to dedicate Ethan Allen Day each year to some community whose roots are intertwined with those of Fort Ticonderoga. Naturally, therefore, the 1955 celebration will be in honor of the City of Montreal. Officials, speakers, musical organizations and other patriotic groups from the great Canadian metropolis are being invited to participate. On Bicentennial Day the commemoration will be of an international nature, and high level officials of the Commonwealth of Canada are being asked to participate.

Taping Up the Doctor's Headache

CALIFORNIA DOCTORS and a bright young Los Angeles public relations man have come up with a cure to a baffling disease that has plagued the medical profession for years.

The ailment is called "journalitis," and almost every doctor suffers from a chronic case of it. It consists of a persistent headache from worrying about all those medical journals that he subscribes to—and never gets time to read.

Back in the days of the horse and buggy, the family doctor kept up with new medical developments by reading one or two publications. And he could read them as he clucked Old Dobbin along the road from the home of one patient to the next.

Medicine today has become so complex, and new developments occur so frequently that there are now 6,000 medical journals published throughout the world. No doctor could keep up with them, even if he saw no patients and just spent his entire time reading medical publications. And the doctor who tried to read while driving out on a house call would soon wind up in a six-way crash on the freeway.

What happens is that doctors subscribe to five or ten of the best journals, and then let them stack up unread while they struggle to keep up with their overcrowded appointment books.

The Audio Digest Foundation, with headquarters in Glendale, has come up with a simple solution for the doctors' ailment. It does the doctors' reading for them.

THE FOUNDATION maintains a staff of 16 people who check 1,200 medical journals every month for the most significant articles on new developments in medicine. The staff is assisted by an editorial board of 47 distinguished doctors, most of them specialists, from all over the nation. These doctors tip off Audio Digest on any "hot" articles that their colleagues should read. Between the staff and its 47 medical scouts, Audio Digest covers the vast, sprawling field of medical news with remarkable efficiency.

The staff of Audio Digest then sorts out the articles into five groups, those that would interest the general practitioner, the surgeon, pediatrician, internal medicine specialist and the obstetrician-gynecologist. It boils down the articles to their essentials and records the summary on tape, with one "edition" for each of the five groups of doctors. The doctor thus gets the equivalent of 200 hours of reading in his own field through one hour's listening to the tape.

The idea of digesting medical news into a convenient tape-recording originated with Jerry Pettis, public relations director of the Los Angeles County Medical Association. He started it as a private enterprise in April, 1953. In December, 1953, the service was taken over by the California Medical Association,

By means of tape-recorded digest, Dr. H. O. McCumber of Los Angeles keeps posted on articles in medical journals while driving his car on round of daily house calls.

By James H. Hinton

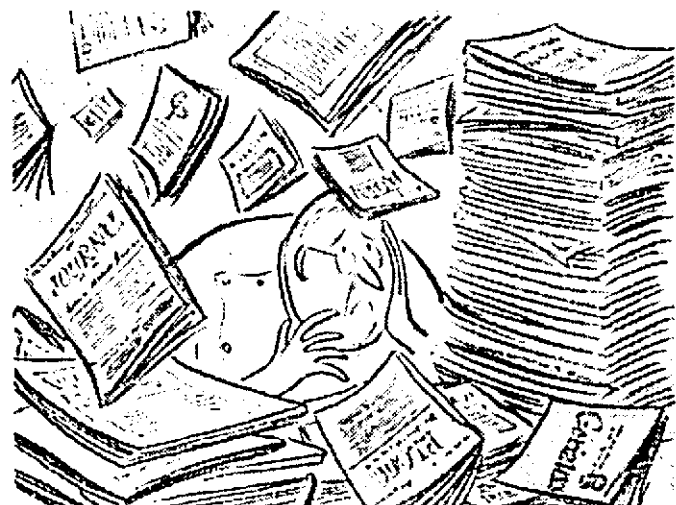

which operates it through a non-profit corporation. Surplus earnings of the service are donated to the nation's 79 medical schools.

ALREADY AUDIO DIGEST has 2,700 subscribers in all 48 of the states and a number of foreign countries. The U. S. Army recently joined the list of users. It sends the tape-recorded medical news to remote overseas posts so Army doctors can keep up with new developments. A number of medical missionaries in isolated parts of the world also use the service. The idea has been acclaimed by medical groups all over the U. S. "California maintains its reputation for doing things in a big way, high, wide and handsome," said the New England Journal of Medicine. "This will be a special boon to the doctor practicing in rural or isolated areas,"

the Delaware State Medical Journal commented.

The cost of the service is only $2.75 a week, less than the blank roll of tape costs at retail. The Audio Digest sends out 7,000 rolls each month and gets the tape at a big discount in wholesale lots. The edition for general practitioners is issued once a week; the "specialty" editions go out every other week. The doctors get to keep the tape and frequently three or four chip in for the service and pass the tape around.

The service has enabled many doctors to go back to the system that the family doctor used back in grandfather's day. They have a converter installed in their car, put a tape recorder on the seat beside them and "read the journal" by listening to Audio Digest as they roll along on their house calls.

Six thousand medical journals! If doctor subscribes to just a few, they shower down, stack up at alarming rate. Too busy doctor has little time to read many of them.

When GIs Go Ashore in Japan

Thousands of GIs who visited Japan on their tour of duty in the Far East—and quite a few other Americans who've never been closer to the Japanese coast than Catalina Island—will chuckle at "Babysan's World: The Hume'n Slant on Japan," a soft-cover book of cartoons by Bill Hume, and published by Charles E. Tuttle Co., Rutland, Vt. (SI). Hume says the cartoons are only an attempt to entertain the man in uniform in the Far East. He does not say that he observed the American serviceman's interest in Japanese femininity, or vice versa, but it may reasonably be assumed that he did while in Japan himself. Here are samples of his book.

"Hey, didja see this cute little mouse?"

"When I was a kid I always wanted a swing in my back yard!"

"You don't drink, smoke or gamble—How come you're always broke?"

"He needs not use a baby!"

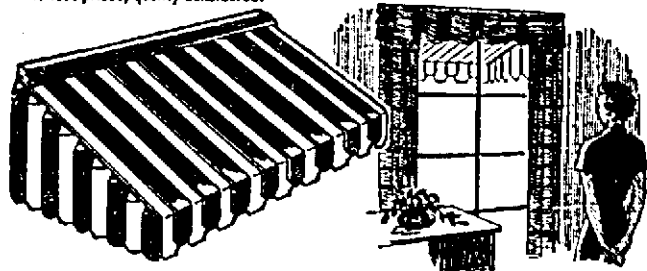

"You're leaving? So what? You always were a short timer!"

Putting Site Before the House

The back of this house was given the same careful consideration in designing as front. G. J. Youngs enhanced architectural balance and rhythm by plantings.

A cheery fireplace of used brick expresses a feeling of combined modern, provincial moods asked by Mrs. Young.

By Eileen Ball

THE HOUSE designed for Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Young, 5211 El Cedral St., exemplifies how planning can create harmony between structure and site, in this case taking full advantage of the peculiarities of the lot as well as the abundant natural beauty.

The lot was purchased before the architect, Thomas J. Russell, AIA, was commissioned. Mrs. Young said that after one look at this tree-shaded Park Estates lot, she and her husband hurried to buy it "before anyone could talk them out of it."

They suspected that, because the site sloped down and away from the street, they might run into stout arguments in favor of a more level lot. So they went ahead, fixed their signatures to the necessary dotted lines, and prepared to make a firm stand in favor of retaining the two large trees that promised to make their house plan as difficult as they made the site beautiful.

Just as the Youngs suspected, the greatest challenge faced by Russell was the planning of a house with adequate space for family life—limited, as it was, to the space left from trees-to-street. Nevertheless, the house was planned—and built. And it is a superb structure, beautifully suited to its setting, with a spaciousness and aura of seclusion that are truly enviable.

The sloping terrain influenced the decision to place the living room, which faces the garden, on a lower level. The remaining rooms are all on the same upper level, thus avoiding added steps.

THE DINING AREA, to the immediate right of the living room, is elevated two steps, an artistic as well as ingenious device for creating a feeling of separateness. To further enhance the division, Russell specified that a counter-height storage cabinet of natural birch be built between the two areas. In addition to adding its own good looks to the general decor, this cabinet serves a triple function. First, it divides. Second, it provides a wonderfully accessible place in which to store magazines, books and miscellaneous accessories from the living room side. Here, too, is housed the Youngs' Hi-Fi radio set as well as their concealed phonograph. Third, this cabinet, interjecting, as it does, into the room, provides for the display of dramatic floral arrangements. Mrs. Young's favorite hobby is that of flower arranging. She specified the desire for a focal point in the living room where such compositions might be set off to advantage. The cabinet serves admirably in this capacity.

It is interesting to note the manner in which Russell manages to provide an unusual amount of storage in such built-in furniture. A proponent of such items as built-in buffets, desks, bookcases and dressers, his designs result in many furniture dollars saved!

The low ceiling of the entry continues into the living room to create a sense of coziness. The ceiling extends out and over the fireplace, providing an ideal location for an indirect lighting trough. Thus diffused, the lights play up the coved ceiling with its gently sloping exposed beams. The living room ceiling, then, is in intriguing variance with the low, dropped ceiling as it comes in from the entry.

THE DECOR of the Young home relies, for interest, on texture rather than high color or varied pattern. Warm toasts, beiges, cocoas and tans have been artfully combined throughout as a warm compliment to the shaded garden with its verdant greenery that seems an integral part of the house.

From the corner of the elevated dining room, one of the trees stands but four feet away. With its 35-foot spread, it is easy to appreciate the fact that the house interior is quiet with diffused sunlight and relies on the mellow brown-to-beige tones and rough textures for balancing warmth.

It is interesting to note how two imminently differing tastes can bridge the gap with tactful treatment. For while Mrs. Young was once a lover of early American furnishings, her husband had a distinct yen for contemporary. Throughout the house, a compromise was reached. The result? A decor of far greater interest and versatility than could ever have been planned on one key alone.

The rough, homespun textures relate to Mrs. Young's love of informality and casualness. The lines of the sleek, uncluttered furnishings satisfy Mr. Young. And the house, with its subtle blend of trends, is the perfect setting for it all.

IMMEDIATELY BEYOND the cork-floored entry is the living room with its loopy carpet of cocoa and beige. The walls are painted a warm beige that compliments the dining area paper which is of an abstract botanical print in white and brown on rich beige.

The kitchen and nook, facing the front, were so placed to receive the morning sun. The view of the pepper tree-lined street provides a pleasing vista for Mrs. Young to view while busy in her attractive kitchen with its soft green formica counter-tops and its "seed packet" wallpaper.

The den, also facing the street, (Continued on Page 29)

CAMERA ANGLE

Snap the Family

By the Shutterbug

TOMORROW is definitely too late for picturing people as they are today. There are some varieties of family snapshots that you definitely shouldn't put off taking.

Among these are the family groups, the four-generation snapshots. Sometimes in our concentration on picturing the small fry and how they grow, we tend to forget about the grownups in the family. They belong in the family picture record, too.

Picturing the oldsters and the youngsters together is something that can be fun, and at the same time produce snapshots that will become family treasures.

Of course, when it comes to picturing a family group, it is always important to have a center of interest — something that all of your subjects can focus their attention on and not look at the camera.

In taking the three or four-generation pictures that should be a part of every family record, the representative of the youngest generation makes an excellent center of interest.

Group the adults in a comfortable manner and let them be admiring the baby. Nothing could be more natural — and because of that it ought to be a sure-fire means of getting good expressions on the faces.

When you have a group like that together, don't take just one picture — the subject is too important to take any chances. Shoot several and you are bound to have at least one exceptionally good picture, and you'll probably have a whole series.

LONG BEACH CAMERA GUILD will have a color slide competition at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Winners of the February black-and-white print competition were Virginia Callender, first and third; William H. Jordan, second; Murray Shaner, honorable mention. Judge was Mel Phegley, associate Photographic Society of America.

Members of the Camera Guild have been receiving recognition in other places. A print by Baby is an ideal center of attention for family group snaps. But don't delay; chance may not crop up again.

Christine Sandell was in the Los Angeles Times Midwinter Issue and Lowell Weeks sold some prints to National Geographic.

Southern California Council of Camera Clubs will have a snow outing all day Feb. 20 at Kratka Ridge. The area may be reached by following Angeles Crest Hwy. and turning on Waterman Rd.

A REVISED EDITION of Kodak's "Notes on Tropical Photography" has been published.

Punched to fit the Kodak Photographic Notebook, it is available from the sales service division, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester 4, N. Y. The pamphlet recommends simple precautions to help photographers living in or visiting tropical regions. Heat and humidity are the basic sources of trouble and the pamphlet includes recommendations for handling film and equipment under varying degrees of both of these tropical conditions.

Long Beach, I Love You

ter frat-brother, old confirmed bachelor, non-drinker, non-dancer, non-sportsman and allergic to sand, salt water or smoke-filled rooms. He disliked music, couldn't abide outdoor meals and was so intellectually inclined (or so he thought) as to actually loathe almost every pleasure, recreation and pastime known to the human race since we moved out of caves.

"That's a good one," I admitted ruefully. "Old George boy is mighty hard to please, alrighty."

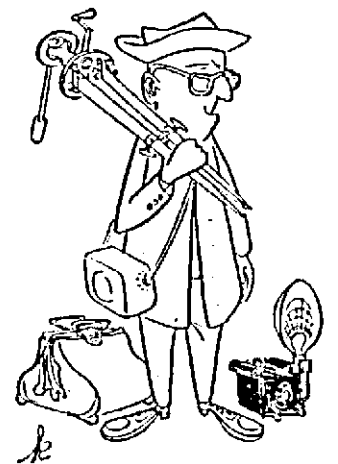

"Are you licked, alrighty?" she asked with unnecessarily vicious glee. "Surely, Long Beach must hold some scintillating treasure in store for old dead-head George."

A VISION of George's room at college flashed through my reeling brain. Those pin-ups on the walls. I distinctly remembered all the cute dishes he employed in his office and then... with a burst of high degree genius... I remembered George always carried a camera with him and a fiery gleam in his washed-blue eyes.

"It does, it does," I said blandly.

"It does?" she screeched. "What, for gosh sakes?"

"The Miss Universe Contest!" I crowed happily. "Old George is crazy about taking pictures of pretty girls. Stall his visit off till they start all the drums beating for Miss Universe — then bring on George Philipflingle Throatfeister and I'll show you a guest

Cotton Prints Say It's Spring

Gay and saucy cotton prints—and crisp as a stick of mint—are heralding the coming of spring. There are racy blues and reds, and the gamut of color extends to flashy hues of royal, rose, violet and brown, all in the very latest California modes as interpreted here by Southland stylist Alex Colman.

Skirt-blouse ensemble in coolie hat print in royal, brown, violet and rose.

Artful Alpine print, enlivened with yards of ric-rack; in red and blue.

"Country Cousins" print, trimly alluring, is edged with ric-rack. Skirt-and-blouse combination comes made up in colorful hues of rose, blue and violet.

Anybody Want a Used Trumpet?

—Drawing by Clyde Winslow

"There's a lot of loud radio-playing in the neighborhood when I start practicing on the trumpet."

By George Eres

IF THERE'S one thing this world doesn't need, it's another trumpet player—and I'm it.

The thing about a trumpet is nobody ever invites you over to his home and adds, "Don't forget to bring your trumpet." And the trumpet is not an instrument you carry around with you and say, "I just happened to have it with me."

People, as likely as not, will ask you to "blow."

Oh, there are ways of getting around their objections to your horn-blowing at night. You can practice up on such tunes as "God Bless America," or "America." But if your heart's in "Dixie" there's little solace and no defense since the south lost the War Between the States.

This all started with a xylophone—one of those one-octave affairs. I'd wrestled it away from my 4-year-old daughter and was picking out the notes of "Tenderly" when my wife suggested that I ought to take up music.

A short while later while on a lost week end in Las Vegas I ran across a fellow playing a trumpet with Mickey Katz's band in one of the hotel bars.

"Now, there is a man who really plays a trumpet like he's enjoying himself. He looks like a real happy man."

DISCOVERING a bit later that the trumpet player was Ziggy Elman, and flushed with the knowledge that I had the know-how to pick a good trumpet man, I decided that I had an affinity for the trumpet.

Having decided to cross the musical Rubicon it only required to lay hands on a trumpet before starting merrily on my tone, tone, semi-tone way.

My wife meanwhile has been viewing this entire business with a certain amount of aloofness.

"Don't you think you ought to take lessons?" she suggested.

"LESSONS?" I asked. "I can just see myself, trumpet in hand, going hoppity-skip to the trumpet teacher. Nothing doing. The trumpet's a simple instrument. Just three valves. I'll have this thing licked in no time. Besides, I just want to fool around with it. At my age, I don't expect to make it a career. I just want to learn to play 'Tenderly.'"

So, while I'm struggling with do, re, mi on the patio, my neighbor Ralph, who thinks (at this point) that the whole business is pretty cute, leans over the fence.

"I'll get my sweet potato and we'll have a session," he suggests.

"Pretty sad, eh," you suggest. "Well," he hesitated, "we expect you to get better."

Our relations with the neighbors, up to this point, have been so-so. They borrow from us; we borrow from them. But, after a week or so there's a change in the atmosphere.

ON THE WHOLE the neighbors have been big about the whole thing, but I couldn't help remarking to my wife the other night that there seems to be an awful lot of loud radio-playing and door-banging every time I start to practice.

Oh, some of them aren't saying anything, but it's pretty evident. Just the same, I notice that since I started in on "Sweet Georgia Brown" everybody around has taken to whistling the tune. Some of them have almost got it right now.

My own wife, you'd think she'd rather have us home instead of spending my time at community sings, has been talking to acting like a martyr about the whole thing. Oh, she doesn't tell me to stop practicing.

"I've just decided that I don't like the trumpet. I think maybe a clarinet . . ." she says.

Now, if there's anything a trumpet player in a belligerent sector needs, it's an understanding wife.

"Would you rather I took up going out nights?"

"What's the difference? You never talk to me. You just sit around and practice on the trumpet."

"Well, why don't you get a hobby? Take up the trombone or something. The trouble is a trumpet needs another instrument with it. According to Chip-Chip Combs, down at the office, chords are the thing," I explained.

"HOBBY? It's not a hobby with you. It's an obsession."

I turn to my 4-year-old daughter. Of late, I have been playing "Jingle Bells" and she sings along with me.

"I'm not doing so bad, am I?" I ask, hopefully.

"Jackie says your horn sounds awful," says Gloria. "But I told her Daddy's just learning and he'll get better."

Our daughter has all the faith in the world in me, but her friend, Jackie, 5, has started kindergarten and something tells me she has more faith in Jackie.

"Well," I suggest after dinner. "How about me playing 'Jingle Bells' and you can sing it."

"Wait until my supper goes down," said my wife's daughter.

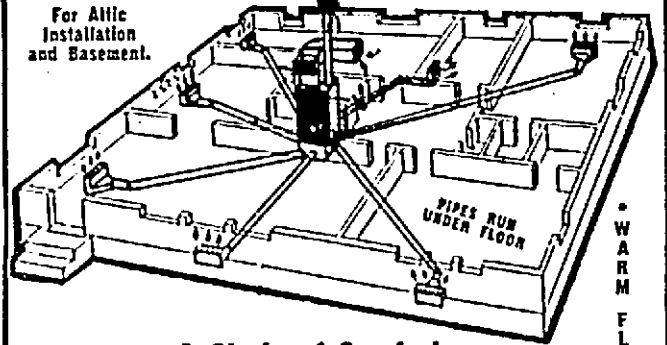

Oh, how sharper than a serpent's tooth is an ungrateful child.

And after all, the thought has occurred to me: After you learn to play a trumpet—what have you got, eh?

32 Days of Horror on a Raft

A TRUE TALE of horror is "Itaft of Despair" by Ensis Tiira (Dutton, $3). The author goes overboard from a transport on its way to Indo-China in an attempt to escape from the French Foreign Legion, taking a companion with him. Both think their stay on the small life raft will be only a matter of hours.

But the two drift out of the Straits of Malacca into the Indian Ocean, and what follows is pretty grim business. Thirty-two days it took for Tiira to be rescued, and back of him was a horrible ordeal of hunger, thirst, and the ever-present sharks who at last took the rotting body of Tiira's friend from the raft.

If you have a good strong stomach, this incredible and courageous story is for you.—G. L.

ANDES ADVENTURE: In the most part "In and Out of the Andes" by Sister Maria del Ray (Scribner's, $3.95) is a lively and good natured account of the trials and triumphs of the Maryknoll Sisters in some of the most primitive areas of Latin America. True, Sister Maria does find little admirable about the expanding big business throughout South and Central America. She feels that a knowledge of God might be preferable to an awareness of what is being produced for export to the South and Central Americans. The Maryknollers are dedicated to caring for both physical and spiritual needs and the reader will learn that this work is in good hands and hearts.

A LOOK AT MARS: "Exploring Mars" (McGraw-Hill, $4), provides a sharp look at the planet that is now swinging nearer the earth for its closest approach (35 billion miles in 1956) in 30 years. The author, Dr. Robert S. Richardson, is an astronomer at the Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories, and he writes with both sound scientific background and fascinating readability. He discusses the possibility of life on Mars, the baffling "canals" and gives a detailed analysis of the problems of a space-voyage to Mars, a trip that seems more feasible every year. The book contains a good biography of Tycho Brahe, the first man to study Mars seriously, and of other Mars "pioneers," and includes chapters on the other planets of our solar system. A "must" book for the science-fiction fan, and intriguing one for anyone. Sixteen pages of photographs.—J. P.

MOUNTAIN MAN — If Hugh Glass, a proper hero in the west of the mountain man, didn't really exist before, he certainly does now in "Lord Grizzly" (McGraw-Hill, $3.75). In this humdinger by Frederick F. Manfred, the bearded Glass is so bear-clawed and bear-bit in a hassle with a she-bear that, when he awakes, he sees his own grave dug beside him. Whoever had sewed up his wounds with crude stitches had left him for dead. Glass' rage at such treatment was such that it enabled him to crawl 200 miles to Fort Kiowa. A superbly done book.

WORDBOOK: Those who aspire to speak or write more clearly and forcefully will find practical guidance in "Concise Dictionary of American Grammar and Usage" (Philosophical Library, $1.50), a book of words, put down in alphabetical order, that often need clarification. Included, too, are words and phrases which in recent years have become current on the American scene, or have acquired new meanings; and there are examples of how these words may be put into sentences for proper use. The editors, R. C. Whitford, professor of English at Pratt Institute, and J. R. Foster, chairman of the English department of Long Island University, consulted best-recognized authorities in making up their word-book.

MEET THE FRENCH: Packed with authority and a delight to read, "Understanding the French" (Random House, $2.75) is just the ticket for those wanting to know more about Continental ways generally, and the French in particular. The author is Elliot Paul, a Californian who considers France his second homeland, knows France and Frenchmen better, perhaps, than the average American knows his next-door neighbors. —F. T. K.

OUTDOORS—New books outdoorsmen will want for their libraries are "The Complete Book of Guns" and "The Complete Book of Hunting," both by Larry Koller and published by Bobbs-Merrill ($2.75 each). Here is exhaustive material on every type of gun, ammunition, scopes and sights, and all kinds of hunting.

SLIMMING UP: If a person can be made beautiful — or at any rate improved materially in four weeks — is it worth trying, think readers — men and women — of Josephine Lowman's "Why Grow Old?" newspaper feature which appears daily in many newspapers, including the Press-Telegram.

One of Mrs. Lowman's tenets is that with determination and perseverance, personality and appearance may be greatly improved in four weeks.

Now comes her book, "Four Weeks to Beauty" (M. Barrows,

SITUATIONS LIKE THIS—in fact, a cartoon for every situation in marriage, and even for those romantic courtship days—make "Marital Blitz" (Dutton, $1.95) one of the most amusing books of the season. The cartoons and text are by Stanley and Janice Berenstein, whose work appear in some of the best magazines.

$2.50), which points up a "lover-lie, slimmer you."

In four weeks, says the writer, a person may lose 10 to 15 pounds, reduce two to three inches in the places that matter, improve make-up, discover a better hairdo, increase energy and look younger. She gives day-by-day diets and day-by-day exercises for the four weeks. Better slimming!

A LA OPPENHEIM: "Flamingo Feather" (Morrow, $3.95) by Laurence van de Post, is adventure, plots and derring-do, but set in the jungles on the plains of Africa. Pierre de Veauvilliers discovers, thwarts a great Red scheme. The plot's a la Oppenheim, but the story's unique.

Some descriptive passages are powerfully written.—G. C. F.

IN THE HALL OF POETRY: Associate editor of Dun's Review and Modern Industry, poetry's most generous friend in America, A. M. Sullivan offers a full, singing, ascendant volume of deep poems in "Psalms of the Prodigal" (P. J. Kennedy & Sons, $3), in which he sings with the pure voice of a child and rolls out widely and cleanly with the wisdom of the scholar. Irish humor also smiles from the Sullivan pages. But it is the serious work of spirituality that should win for the author the warm and serious applause of many an audience. If a better book of poems is to be found, Mr. Sullivan will be writing it.—J. J. K.

Sylvester Braun, Orange trick roper, will aid Troop 107, Boy Scouts, at fund-raising dog and horse show Feb. 20.

By Eleanor Avery Price

THIS MONTH is an important time for the Boy Scouts of America, for February is their birthday month, and many activities are taking place in celebration of their 45th anniversary. One of the biggest celebrations of them all will occur Feb. 20 at Saint Anthony's football field on Clark Ave., just north of Central St. And, in spite of the hugeness of this affair, which no one will want to miss if they like horses and dogs, the show is sponsored by one troop only—Troop 107 of Bellflower.

Troop 107 was a little ragged at the edges when George Harski, animal trainer, who lives at 5406 N. Hersholt Ave., became assistant, scout leader and with all the forcefulness of his personality began building up the morale, activities and equipment of his charges.

One of the many things Harski set out to do was to produce and direct this Feb. 20 show. He has obtained a number of splendid animal specialty acts. His famous German shepherd, Phantom, will be on hand to entertain, and there will be other trained dogs as well.

The Lakewood Obedience Club Dog Drill Team and the Orange Empire Dog Drill Team will give outstanding performances as will the sharply outfitted Lanciers, a drill team on horseback.

There will be at least one highly schooled horse and several fine trick horse riders and ropers to keep the audience on the edge of the bleachers. They include the professional horse trainer, Lee Dorr, and Vivian Dorr with her performing horse, Sugar; the amazing Howard Taylor, a youngster of 13 years; 18-year-old lovely Mary Ball; Sylvester and Barbara Braun, both of whom have performed at the world's largest fair at Syracuse, N. Y., and who have been guest TV stars on some of the best programs.

Added to the animal acts will be some excellent Boy Scout first aid demonstrations and a band to keep things lively. To add a humorous touch, there will be clowns and a collection of very old model cars.

There is no set admission charge, but it is hoped that most adults will donate $1 and children 50 cents, funds to go to Troop 107. The show starts at 1:30 p. m.

DOGS ARE EASILY POISONED by carbon monoxide in auto exhaust gases, so do not carry them in trailers or car trunks unless an extension has been added to the exhaust pipe to carry off the gases. A flexible hose is usually satisfactory. The extension in a trailer should run from the exhaust pipe to the upper rear part of the trailer. In auto trunks, the exhaust tube extension should run up the car's body so the gas escapes above the dog's nose. This is in accordance with the Motor Vehicle Research Department.

HOW TO Use Caulking Compound to Preserve Your Home

CRACKS AND CREVICES are an inevitable part of every house—no matter how new and well built. Each joint in its construction is an opening which is an invitation to moisture that causes rot, to drafts that boost heating bills, to insects that make room and board of your house, and to dust and dirt.

The answer? Calk—a stick-to-anything substance you squeeze from a gun or a tube, toothpaste-like. Caulking should be a once-a-year job, even if your house is only a few payments old.

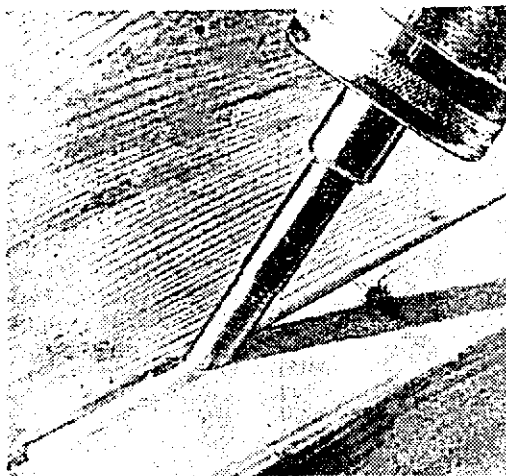

There are two kinds of caulking jobs:

1. Preventive caulking keeps a house new by sealing up potential cracks and crevices before they occur, thus circumventing future nuisance and maintenance costs.

2. Curative caulking is more difficult. It involves filling larger openings. Sometimes it means replacing rotted boards that earlier caulking would have saved.

Whichever kind of a calk job your house needs, you'll find it a money-saving job well suited to early-spring days.

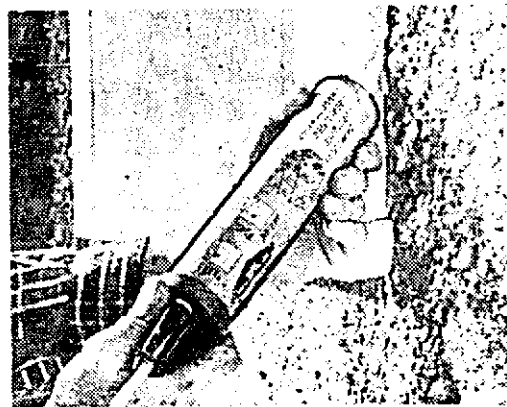

1. IN CORNER, bisect angle with gun, slanting 45 degrees in direction of movement. You'll get a smooth, coved fillet that seals a joint tight.

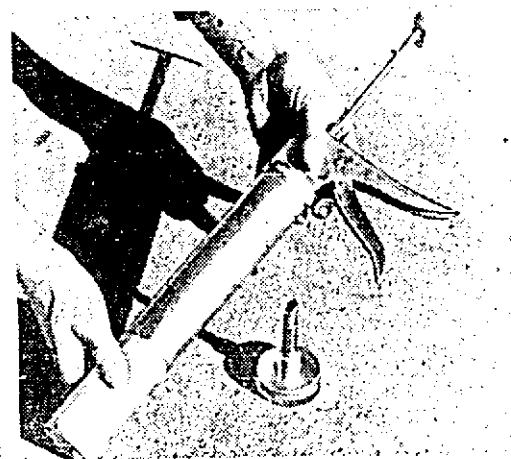

2. ON THE FLAT, maintain 45-degree angle with beveled tip straddling the crack. Use enough pressure to fill crack, not just to coat it.

3. LIKE TOOTHPASTE, you can buy caulking compound in a roll-up tube with built-in nozzle. The tube has a "key" to help you roll it up easily and without waste of material. Situation shown here is column where it rests on porch floor—a type of construction joint that must depend on caulking for the exclusion of damaging rot and decay.

4. CARTRIDGES OF CALK with their own nozzles can be slipped quickly into "side-loading" guns, and disposal of empty cartridges is as easy as getting rid of empty tomato cans. Check your house carefully where wood meets stucco or other masonry, for cracks open up in such situations just about every year, and need re-caulking often.

5. GUNS FOR BULK calk are made in a size that will accommodate cartridges as well as the calk you must load from big cans. Also, there's a heavier grade of calk, intended for application with a putty knife.

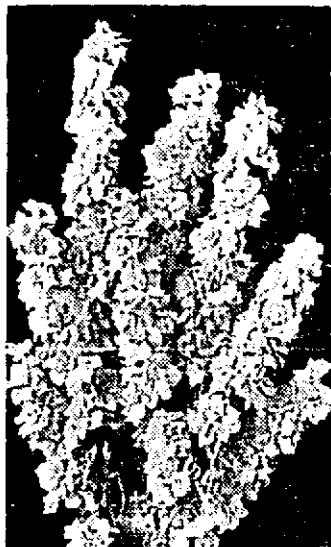

6. ROPE-FORM CALK comes in coiled-up strands, so you can unroll and use however much you need. This material is easy to handle with your fingers. It will stick well when formed into place.

Larkspur Can 'Take It'

Larkspur is a hardy garden specimen that does well in most any soil, given a sunny location.

By Walter Finch

AS A PUBLIC SERVICE, the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board has presented a series of articles publicizing various bedding plants available from commercial growers. Over the period of the past two years, these articles have been timed to the season during which the plants suggested are in prime condition and best suited to planting. At this season of the year the recommendations of the board shift from the large group of perennial plants to the various hardy annuals that will stand up under the cold weather snaps of January and February and still give a good accounting for themselves. The prime purpose of such plants is to give color in the garden when color is at a premium. This is the period before the acacias and other flowering trees, plus the many bulb flowers, make their gay appearance.

While quick color is the prime factor in the universal appeal of bedding plants there are a few plants that take a little longer than others to yield their floral display. Larkspur is one of these plants that is slower to color but is the choice for this period. It is one of the hardy annuals that withstand cold weather growing conditions. Planted now, its blooming period will vary from March through May, according to the growing conditions afforded by the weather. Because it is primarily a cool weather plant, the sooner planted the better the show of color from a planting of larkspur. Late plantings will go to flowers on short stems and harden and shatter quickly once they have come into bloom.

Larkspur has often been treated as an item to be sown directly into the area in which it is to be grown. According to the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board, this method is best discarded in favor of flat-grown transplants, with some of the finer strains of larkspur that are currently offered. In using transplants only the strong, healthy seedlings are grown, and they are in a uniform stage of growth to insure a uniform period of bloom. Where a mass color display is sought, this matter of uniform blooming period is of vital importance.

LARKSPUR is a tall growing plant. Most varieties grow to about two to three feet in height and rather thin. For this reason they can be set rather closely and do well. While available in solid colors, the full color mixture is delightful and runs through all the shades of blue and red plus the purest white. Often called the poor cousin of the regal delphinium, larkspur has little reason to be apologetic for this name. Indeed, colorwise, larkspur has much more to offer than delphinium, although it is true that in size of bloom and length of stem, the larkspur does take a back seat. Costwise, of course, larkspur is a sure winner, and it is also much easier to care for.

In the matter of soil, larkspur is an excellent item, for almost any soil will yield a good crop of this plant. This is especially true in poor soils that seem to fail with everything else.

Three Garden Charmers

By Murtha Hurley

THERE ARE a number of annual flowers that develop their important first growth better in cool weather. A trio of beloved favorites that fit this category are nicotiana, the flowering tobacco plant; nemesia and wallflower.

If you are eager for an early crop of flowers, sow the seeds now.

Sift some rather sandy soil through a fine mesh; fill a shallow box with the soil, smooth it and firm it with a block of wood, sprinkle it well, then sow the seed.

Cover the seed lightly with fine soil or granulated peat moss, not more than an eighth of an inch deep. Water carefully with a fine spray and set the seed box in a warm place but protected from the sun. Protect the seeds with a piece of gunny sacking. Water over sacking lightly. Do not let seedlings dry out. Remove sacking when seeds germinate.

All three of these flowers have distinctive characteristics. Nicotiana, sweet-scented flowering tobacco, grows three to four feet tall, is good for the back of the border. It really is a perennial but is usually treated as an annual. It has rather coarse, large, dark green leaves and long, narrow, tubular flowers that flare at the mouth. The flowers open at night and perfume the entire area where they grow with a rich, sweet jasmine-like scent.

NICOTIANA AFFINIS, white jasmine tobacco, is the most

When to Plant

It is important that gardeners know when to plant, and this is the purpose of the "Sunset Seasonal Garden Guide" (Lane Pub. Co., $1). This guide enumerates the month-by-month chores that must be done by those who want a lovelier, more fragrant garden, with space for the gardener to keep records of plantings, fertilizings and sprayings. There are blooming charts for each of the four seasons, and the back of the book contains lists of flowers "easiest to grow," "for fragrance," "for edgings," "for semi-shade," "for containers," and so on.

Garden Tips

GARDENING TIPS for the week ... Don't forget your vegetable garden. Raising fresh vegetables at home is fun, economical and ultimately a real treat in good eating. Visit your nurseryman and you will be amazed at the wide range of vegetable transplants now available.

Growing plants close together during the next few months will shade the ground, thus minimize evaporation. Use mulches extensively to conserve as much water as possible.

At dusk, when the flowers of the tobacco plant open, a sweet jasmine-like perfume scents the garden air.

popular variety. The flowers are large, waxen-white and star-like, intensely fragrant after dusk. Plants bloom all through summer and fall.

New hybrids produce pink, rose, lavender and dark red flowers. These new varieties are not quite so fragrant.

The plants like half-shade and a warm, sheltered location, out of the wind. They really do better in a dry atmosphere. Give them a fairly rich light soil.

Do not set small seedling plants in the garden until May. They will then bloom all summer and through fall and will reseed themselves generously. Once established, the plants continue on year after year.

Another charming, sweet-scented flower that likes a cool start and a partially shaded bed is the old favorite, the wallflower cheiranthus. It grows one to two feet high, bears long stems of fragrant flowers in rich, velvety-petaled cream, yellow, mahogany, plum and bronze.

At the beach, wallflowers do well set against a sunny wall. They like a rich, well fertilized soil. Set the small seedling plants in the garden in March for bloom this year. Cut back after flowering for a second blooming. The plants will reseed themselves for a number of years.

NEMESIA, a little charmer, is a most colorful border flower. When planted close together, they form a startlingly brilliant flowering carpet, six to 12 inches high, of white, pink, rose, red, purple, yellow and orange flowers that resemble small orchids.

The plants like a rich, well fertilized loam with plenty of leaf mold and prosper in cool locations, so give them half-shade and plenty of moisture.

In sowing seeds of nemesia, be careful to give the little seedlings plenty of moisture. Never let them dry out. Set seedlings in the garden in March.

Nemesia adds an exciting spot of color to a shady patio or terrace when planted in large pots.

For a particularly charming garden picture, interplant them with blue Dutch iris and coral bells.

Old-fashioned wallflower thrives in a sunny location near the coastline.

Nemesia makes a brilliantly colored border of flowers resembling orchids. Blooms grow on 6 to 12-in. stems.

Carpet Those Garden Bare Spots

Gazanias, with their yellow petals and black dotted centers, are among favored plants for ground covers.

By Bob Gilmore

YOU CAN CARPET your outdoor living room with a rug of living flowers. Select those varieties that possess brilliant blooms and a dwarf-like habit of growth. The plants should be hardy and willing to cope with an open exposure. They should also be aggressive and capable of springing back into shape when trampled.

It is not too late to start pansies. The plants prefer a rather moist environment and will prosper all summer if the soil is kept damp. Pansies are ideal as a ground cover as the plants flower for such a long period of time.

As the weather warms up petunias come into their own. Few summer-flowering varieties produce as much show as the petunia. If the plants are to be used for ground cover purposes be sure to select the low growing sorts.

Petunias make few demands on the care-taker. They love an open spot where they can bathe in the sun. Separate colors are available as well as excellent mixtures. In the hybrida nana compacta group you have your choice of the following: Blue Bedder, Rosy Morn, Silver Blue, Snow Queen, White Perfection and Peach Red.

THE GAZANIA is a native of South Africa and thrives throughout most of Southern California. Variety uniflora is perhaps the best known in this area. The flowers are yellow, set off by black spots in the center of the blooms. The foliage curls inwards at night, revealing a white underside.

Gazanias have an exceedingly dwarf-like habit of growth. They hug the soil, rarely ever growing taller than perhaps six or seven inches. The plants react favorably to fairly regular applications of plant food. The soil should be on the lighter side. Make certain that your gazanias receive plenty of direct sunshine. Overcast or grey skies will prevent the flowers from opening. The flowers appear from April through December.

The mesembryanthemum, often termed the ice plant, is the answer to a poor gardener's dream. It requires very little food, practically no care and an amazingly small amount of moisture. The leaves are succulent and capable of storing up tremendous quantities of water. Plants may be started from seed or by setting out divisions. The following colors are available: Crimson, copper, ruby-red, lavender, pink, yellow, buff and even white.

ALTHOUGH VERBENA is classified as a perennial it is usually grown in this district as an annual. The plants are quite colorful, including shades of red, pink, crimson, purple, lilac and white. The verbenas are not very particular as to its soil requirements; the plants seem to thrive in practically any garden location. Verbenas often require some pruning as they have a sloppy habit of growth. Cut the stems back from time to time and the plants will always present a neat appearance.

Other interesting varieties for ground cover purposes include alyssum, candytuft, Virginia stock, lobelia, nasturtium and variegated ivy.

Riot of Blossoms

Each day brings added blossoms to the early-blooming cannelias in the famous collection in the botanical gardens of the Huntington Library in San Marino. Hours for viewing the five acres of camellias as well as visiting the exhibitions of rare books and manuscripts and paintings are from 1 to 4:30 p. m. every day except Monday. Advance reservations no longer are necessary except for large groups.

Putting Site Before the House

is curtained in soft endive green boucle draperies identical to those used in the kitchen. Thus all windows on the street exposure are identically curtained.

The den, which doubles nicely for a guest room, has utilized obscure glass for the wall dividing it from the hallway. Wood beams in the manner of "egg crating" provide an artistic pattern against this glass. The effect on the room, furnished in a frankly early American vein, is desirable inasmuch as it helps stabilize the balance between the provincial and the contemporary. The hallway, itself, benefits, too, since the expanse of glass permits light to filter in from the den.

THE YOUNGS' SON has a room any young man might envy with its spacious wardrobe and built-in chests, its precisely tailored studio couch spreads and its rugged brown, coral and yellow color scheme.

Matching fabric and wallpaper was chosen for the master bedroom. The print, a provincial motif in sprightly brown and buckskin tones, helped set the soft beige and cocoa scheme. Here, again, the need was for a warm color plan. For the master bedroom has walls of glass that set up only the slightest hint of a demarcation between the inside and the cool, shadiness outside.

As in the case of the dining area, the master bedroom is related intimately to the garden with the close proximity of the second giant ash, this one only three feet distant.

It was most interesting to note that the oval-shaped patio-terrace extends around from the living room wall to the glass doors of the dining area and the bedroom. Consequently, both areas, as well as the living room, are, on an equal footing with this most attractive terrace of used brick.

Planting areas were planned around the skirts of this bricked terrace in such a way that a profusion of shade-loving flowers—begonias, azalas, camellias and columbine press their faces to the glass.

Dan Cupid stands before huge sign advertising city of Loveland, Colo., as Valentine center of the U. S.

Cupid's Home Town

By Rosella Mattmueller

IS SENTIMENT old-fashioned? Has it gone the way of Mom's high-buttoned shoes and Dad's mustache cup?

"Don't you believe it!" says genial Elmer M. Ivers, postmaster of Loveland, in northern Colorado, as he eyes—just a little apprehensively—Valentine's Day.

And who should know better than he? For here, each February, Dan Cupid sets up his headquarters, catering strictly to the young and the young in heart. Last year, with the help of the chamber of commerce and a group of young ESA girls (staff members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha international sorority) 65,000 valentines were stamped with the Loveland postmark and a special crimson cachet, then remailed on dates chosen by the senders, with no charge other than the postage required by Uncle Sam. Every state in the Union, and from 25 to 30 foreign countries are represented annually on this mammoth remailing list.

But Postmaster Ivers takes the deluge in his stride. He has even been known to go out and purchase valentines for workers in isolated places who could not get into town to buy their own. They send Ivers the money to cover the purchase and stamps, the names and addresses, and he does the rest.

THE DESIGN on the cachet is changed every year. Last year's showed a cowboy cupid—modeled somewhat reluctantly by 5-year-old David Brown—shooting an arrow in the direction of Loveland's "L" brand. The printed message read:

*The Rockies Echo This Toast Of Renown
"Valentine Greetings
From Sweetheart Town"
Loveland, Colorado.*

How did Loveland become the valentine center of the world? Even Lovelanders are not quite sure. The first thing Postmaster Ivers knew, he began receiving valentine cards with the request to remail. The note accompanying one might explain it. "I stopped for a few days last summer in Loveland," it read, "and thought it such a beautiful name. What other postmark, LOVE-Land could be more appropriate on a Valentine greeting?"

NORRIS BERNSTEIN

They Love That Schnitzel

FOR QUITE a while Bern-
stein's restaurant, 5232 E. 2nd
St. in Belmont Shore, served
Paprika Schnitzel and Sauerbra-ten only once a week.

"Gee whiz," complained the
restaurant's Paprika Schnitzel
lovers, "why don't you serve it more often?"

So, bowing to an unprecedented demand, Norris Bernstein
—co-owner and host at Bernstein's—has arranged to have Paprika Schnitzel and Sauerbra-ten served every night from now on at the restaurant, which specializes in delicious Bavarian
cuisine.

Paprika Schnitzel, in case
you're not familiar with this rare dish, is an ultra-tender veal cutlet served with a sauce created from sour cream, tomatoes and spices. The main spice employed is paprika. The Schnitzel
is accompanied by delicate, light
brown potato pancakes (which are exactly three inches in diameter) and these other items which are always included in the lavish complete dinner at Bernstein's: A great selection of chilled relishes; choice of soup, tomato juice, jellied consommé or cold horsesh; choice of different salads and different varieties of Bernstein's famed salad dressings and choice of beverage and dessert, including the res-taurant's excellent Bavarian cheesecake.

THE PRICE for all that beautiful food is only $2.10.

Bernstein's Sauerbraten dinner is the same price and is just as lavishly complete. The Sauer-braten (superb marinated beef)
is served with a special sweet and sour sauce. Potato pancakes
are included, too.

And, oh, yes, let's not neglect to mention that Bernstein's is the only place in town serving
Cheese Blintzes and Chicken
Blintzes. These unique items are but $1.85 on the big complete dinner.

First in SAFETY for tender skins--WONDERFUL for washing all fabrics!

Use White King Soap for washing baby's clothes. It floats out all dirt and stains. It leaves no residue to irritate tender skins.

Cotton diapers, rompers, dresses -- woolen blankets and sweaters are washed easily, swiftly, safely, hygienically clean with White King Soap.

Colors are left bright. Fabrics remain as soft as a caress to touch -- beautiful to look at -- and non-irritating to any skin.

Wonderful Together! Perfect combination for any washer -- conventional or automatic -- this "1-2" method gives you soft-water washing even in hardest water...saves up to half on soap. The way to do is use the 2.

1 Soften your wash water with White King Water Softener.

2 Add enough White King Soap to give you sufficient suds.

Exclusive White King offer!

GORGEOUS Golden Yellow ROSE BUSH

Just imagine this glorious field-grown hybrid tearose in your garden. The Eclipse Rose Bush gives you the same brilliant, golden yellow roses florists sell for up to $15.00 a doz. Every bush guaranteed to bloom.
